Italy Counting On Yugoslavia's Neutrality In Mediterranean War With France

ROME, Jan. 23 (AP)—Virginio Gayda, Fascist editor close to Mussolini, announced today that Yugoslavia would refuse to fight against Italy in any Mediterranean war.

The authoritative editor of Il Giornale D'Italia indicated Italy counted at least on Yugoslavia's benevolent neutrality in event of a conflict with France.

He raised the possibility however, of Yugoslavia's actual aid by saying Europe must take into consideration new relations between Italy and Yugoslavia which "bring together 65,000,000 of men in high national spirit and war efficiency."

(Count Galeazzo Ciano, Italian foreign minister, visited Belgrade last week and conferred at length with Yugoslav Premier Milan Stoyadinovich. Most concrete results of the visit were believed in Belgrade to be Italian financial aid to Yugoslavia and a friendship agreement between Yugoslavia and Hungary.)

Gayda said Rome and Belgrade shared the same views on the civil war in Spain, Communism and Italy's territorial claims against France.

Vision Of Son Stranded On Way To See Her Sends Mother To Death In Gale, With Gas

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 23 (AP).—A vision while reading the Bible sent 61year-old Mrs. I. P. Hueskins into a blinding snowstorm where she vanished while trying to take a jug full of gasoline to a son she believed marooned in a fuelless motor car.

Hope of finding her alive was abandoned today by friends and neighbors who have scoured the countryside about the Hueskins home at nearby Tarentum since the women disappeared 10 days ago. Hueskins feared his wife had been buried in a snow drift.

Deeply religious, Mrs. Hueskins was reading late at night when she visioned her son by a former marriage, Ronald Turner, stranded by lack of gasoline while enroute to visit her. Turner was safe at home.

Hueskins said his wife waived aside his efforts to dissuade her and set out with a half-gallon jug of gasoline in search of the son. She was several miles from home when last seen two hours later by two youths. They said she still carried the jug and was dressed warmly against the snowstorm.

Civilians Told To Flee Barcelona

Cabinet Holds On With Rebels Only 15 Miles Off

HENDAYE, France, Jan. 23 (AP)—The Spanish government today ordered evacuation of the civilian population of its capital, Barcelona, render the threat of insurgent armies a little more than 15 miles from the city gates.

Premier Juan Negrin's cabinet, after a long night meeting, announced the ministers would remain at the capital to fight to the bitter end.

The government proclaimed a "state of war" throughout the territory. The effect of this measure, taken after 2½ years of civil war, was not at once apparent, but border observers believed it meant full martial law.

General Franco's armies pressed persistently in the campaign to take the great coastal city, which became the capital after government moved first from Madrid and then from Valencia to escape the insurgent menace. Both Madrid and Valencia remain in government hands.

Insurgent planes bombed Barcelona three times this morning following repeated air raids yesterday which killed 49 and wounded 100 persons.

Meanwhile, the insurgent armies which yesterday captured Sitges, beach resort near Barcelona, pushed along the coast and inland columns converged on the capital.

Gerona Next Capital

PERPIGNAN, France, Jan. 23—(AP)—Reports reaching the French-Spanish border today said the Barcelona government was planning to move to Gerona if insurgent forces approached much nearer to the Spanish government capital.

Official Spanish sources declined to confirm the rumor. The establishment of the administration at Gerona, a provincial capital only about 35 miles from the French frontier, would permit the authorities to reach France quickly in an emergency.

(The government announced in Barcelona that it would remain there.)

Six additional squads of mobile guards were moved into the Perpignan area to reinforce border patrols against any concerted refugee movements.

Numerous deserters from the government forces in the Pyrenees were among the great numbers of refugees crossing into France.

Rushing To Berlin

Increasing diplomatic and economic rapprochement between Germany and Mexico was forecast when General Juan F. Azcarate, ABOVE, new minister appointed by the latter country to the Reich, rushed by 'plane from Mexico City to New York to catch a boat to Germany. "I must get to Berlin in a hurry," he told reporters. The two countries have recently been reported negotiating deals involving Mexico's expropriated oil in return for Nazi goods.

Plea Is Refused To Reconsider Plowmen's Grant

A plea that the County Council reconsider the question of a grant to the Peterborough County Plowmen's Association failed to change the minds of the majority of the members on Saturday and the report of the finance committee was adopted without change, leaving the Plowmen out in the cold for 1939.

Melville Johnston, deputy reeve of North Monaghan said the officials of the local organization had hopes of bringing the Provincial Plowing Match to Peterborough county and if for no other reason should get encouragement from the council, Reeve Shearer who was in the chair agreed on this point but Reeve Anderson of Otonabee interjected that bringing the Provincial Match to the County would cost the Council an additional sum of $1,000. He was definitely opposed.

LONDON, Jan. 23 — (AP).—SOS signals crackled from seven ships in the Atlantic to-day as mountainous seas, propelled by terrific gales, imperilled the lives of more than 300 seamen and passengers and killed 10 persons on the south-western coast of England.

The gale, which at times reached 94 miles an hour, struck the coast of England last night and continued to-day.

The St. Ives lifeboat, answering a distress rocket from a small disabled boat off the Cornwall shore, set out at 3 a.m. in a rescue attempt. The boat capsized, drowning seven of her eight members. The disabled ship finally crashed on the rocks, losing one of her crew.

Plane Goes Touring For 4 Miles Alone In Blizzard

North Bay, Jan. 23 (CP)

A RUNAWAY AEROPLANE, torn from its moorings by a high wind, was found four miles away on Lake Nipissing yesterday with only slight damage to its tail assembly. The machine was owned by Jack Richardson, North Bay.

Richardson found it missing early Sunday when he went to the dock to see how it had fared. Equipped with skis, the machine had been moored to a pile of rocks on the frozen surface of the lake. He followed its marks for two miles before severe weather forced him to turn back.

Cheese Men's Support

The committee will be encouraged by the following resolution of the Cheese Producers' Association here last week: "Moved by Fred Crowe and seconded by Gilbert McIlmoyle that we cheese producers favor the setting up of county executives composed of representatives of the commodity and other organized groups of farmers in every county for the purpose of discussing matters of mutual interest and on occasion presenting joint views to their respective members of Parliament, and that we authorize our president and secretary to consult with the heads of other farm organizations in Peterborough county with the object of forming such a committee in this county."

That resolution put promptly into effect the proposal of R. H. Mayberry of the Holstein Breeders' Association dinner here last week, a proposal that was directed toward the broad ideas of co-operative dairy effort as Mr. Mayberry had seen in accomplishment in Australia and New Zealand last year.

Warden Milby recalled the press report of speeches relating how over-lapping delivery of milk had been eliminated by a controlled zone system in Wellington, New Zealand, with a resulting gain of one or two cents a quart to the producer and a reduction of about the same amount to the consumer. The Warden declared himself in sympathy with the resolution, and Deputy-reeve Johnston said people were giving more thought to co-operation than ever, and opinion was finding support in the successful plans that have been carried out in various countries.

Two Chimney Fires At Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 23—As a cold northwest wind ushered in the second cold spell of the winter Campbellford's fire department received two calls as citizens began to add extra fuel to their fires. The first alarm summoned firemen at 9.30 Sunday morning to the residence of Ernest Wilkes on Queen street. No damage was done, the blaze being confined to the chimney. Over-heated pipes in the barber shop occupied by E. J. Abernethy, Front street, brought the department out for the second time and their prompt work avoided what may have developed into a serious blaze. The temperature dropped here from thirty-three above at eight o'clock Sunday morning to ten below at nine o'clock in the evening, a variation of forty-three degrees in less than twelve hours.

Germ-Laden Jap Shaving Brushes Hunted

OTTAWA, Jan. 23 (CP)—Public health authorities combed warehouses and drug stores across Canada today in search of Japanese-made shaving brushes infected with anthrax germs which already have caused one death in North Dakota.

Officials of the Department of Health telegraphed a warning to all provincial health bureaux Saturday, describing the brushes and suggesting their seizure. They are believed to have been sent into Canada by a United States distributor but it has not yet been possible to determine how many entered.

Dr. R. M. Bow, Alberta deputy minister of health, announced in Edmonton his department was checking a consignment of the brushes which may have been shipped to Ponoka, Alta. Other provincial health departments are continuing searches started Saturday but have not reported discovery of any.

It is believed here the brushes were made from the hair of animals suffering from anthrax, a splenic fever of sheep and cattle which causes a malignant pustule when humans are infected.

In Washington Dr. Thomas Parran, surgeon general of the United States said he had requested in effect "an embargo on all Japanese-made shaving brushes" as a result of the death in North Dakota.

None Sterilized

He said customs collectors had been asked to bar all such brushes until samples have been tested. Tests made from a large shipment of shaving brushes made in Japan disclosed that "not only were they not sterilized against anthrax but were not sterilized at all."

Officials of the department of national revenue here are also working on the case in an effort to trace shipments to Canada through customs offices.

In Halifax Dr. P. S. Campbell, chief Nova Scotia health officer, said he did not believe any of the brushes had reached his province but warned druggists and other distributors to check their stocks and turn over to him any brushes answering the description of the infected ones.

Dr. B. T. McGie, Ontario deputy minister of health, said he did not know whether any of the brushes had been shipped into Ontario as the telegram from Ottawa had been received too late Saturday to make a check.

Dr. F. W. Jackson, Manitoba deputy minister, and Dr. R. O. Davison, Saskatchewan deputy minister, also announced they had instituted searches.

We Noticed

....Whe-e-w! Who said that spring was just around the corner? Will we ever learn that blades of grass sprouting at the foot of the Nassau ski jump is not an indication of winter's passing, but merely that our brave Peterborough Ski Club has planned another project?

....It does seem a little ironical for such beautiful and fluffy flakes to commence falling the day after an exhibition of jumping by floodlight at Nassau had been called off —due to mild weather and lack of snow. However, it takes more than this little disappointment to daunt the spirits of the Ski Club members, and we hear they are deep in plans for another gala sports event.

....A party of homeward bound skaters were having a bit of extra fun in Victoria Park Saturday night—they'd found some squares of cardboard and were gaily careening down the hill atop bits of pasteboard that did very well as a substitute for toboggans.

Now's The Time To Come To Aid of Beauty

If you were one of the fortunate girls who was able to take an hour off from a rush of work and social engagements last week to relax while the skilful hands of a representative from one of the best-known beauty salons smoothed away your worries with a delicate touch that also erased the lines caused by them, and, quietly working with rich and luscious creams, masks, powders and lotions, transformed your weary self into the alive, glowing personality you should be, you will remember the slim, golden-haired girl whose clear, radiant skin is a striking advertisement for these scientific aids to beauty.

She explained to use the three distinct Beauty Ages in every woman's life. First is the Problem Age, or the adolescent period, when the whole future of a girl's beauty is at stake, second, the Danger Age, which occurs between 20 and 35, when too many women are lulled into a false sense of security by the unrevealed ageing of their skins, and last, the Critical Age, from 35 on, when reconstructive beauty care becomes vitally necessary.

The products produced by a renowned beauty scientist who has studied in the great universities of Europe, and conducted exhaustive experiments in laboratories sacred to science, are all created with the desire to give to every girl and woman the joy of self-confidence which comes with the possession of a healthy, radiant skin.

After a brief interview with this young lady whose wealth of beauty information startles us into realizing that we just can't afford to put off a definite routine of beauty if we are to possess for long what natural advantages our complexion now has, the temptation to tell you about it is so strong that we've mentioned just a few things—but enough, perhaps, to start you investigating for yourself. Try it, you'll be eternally thankful in later years for sensible skin care started right now.

Married Life Cannot Remain One Long Period Of Romance—After a Time It Settles Into a Friendship That Shoud Be Jealously Guarded.

A WOMAN asks this question: "Why can't we wives stay in love with our husbands? Now take me, for instance, and I am typical of the great majority of married women," she goes on to say. "I have been married ten years. When I was first married I was so much in love with my husband I could pass a perfectly thrilling evening just sitting looking at him while he read the newspaper. I enjoyed nothing more than spending hours preparing him the things he liked to eat. I got a kick out of being a valet to him and handing him his clothes as he dressed, no matter if he noticed what I was doing or not. And my blood boiled if he even so much as looked at another woman.

"Now whei I look at him as he sits opposite me of an evening I only notice how fat and bald he has got, and how tired I am of hearing him tell about what happened in the office. I don't bother to cook extra dishes for him. I have quit laying out his clothes for him, for I say to myself he knows where they are and is just as able to get them as I am. And as for jealousy of other women, why, he can hire 'Miss America' for his private secretary for all I care.

"Now my husband is no Don Juan or brute. Technically I have no fault to find with him. He has been good and kind in his way, but somehow I have just fallen out of love with him. Why is this? Why is it when I once wanted to be his slave, now I resent my chains?"

Probably most middle-aged married couples—husbands and wives alike—feel this way about marriage. Somehow it has gone flat and lost its savor for them. They think that they have ceased to care for each other and that they have lost their taste for bread-and-butter domesticity.

This state of mind is easily explained. It is the reaction from the high-pressure romance of courtship and the first exaltation of possession. But the husband and wife who find that they no longer have hectic chills and fevers at the sound of each other's footsteps, or feel like singing peans of thanksgiving when they face each other across the breakfast table every morning, need not think they have ceased to love each other. It is just because we can only live at a high emotional pitch for a limited length of time. We are bound to get over being surprised and hysterical. We are compelled to calm down and take even our greatest blessings in our stride.

Men don't bother so much about their emotions. They don't sit with their fingers on their pulses counting their heartbeats. Most of them get over being bridegrooms normally and, unless otherwise disturbed, never find out that they are no longer romantically in love. But it is the curse of women that they want to go on feeling like brides until they are 90, and it simply can't be done.

These deluded souls do not realize that romantic love does not last any longer than their wedding veil, nor will it any more stand the wear and tear of everyday use. Nor do they comprehend that it is no sign that they do not love their husbands because they have ceased to see them as Fairy Princes. It is only when love settles down into a glorified friendship after marriage that there is any peace and comfort in it.

That marriage should pall at times upon every husband and wife is also inevitable. We all go into every new enterprise with an enthusiasm that peters out a little as we encounter the difficulties and the drudgery and the disappointments. All of us at times wish we had chosen some other way of life than the one we are following. All of us are tempted to throw up our hands and quit. All of us feel that no job could be as dull and monotonous and hard as the one we have undertaken.

But these are momentary moods with most of us. They pass, and we know that the work to which we have set our hand is our work; that in it we find a happiness and a satisfaction that we could find nowhere else. That is the way with marriage with the great majority of men and women. Their mates may not come up to all of their ideals; they may not be the glamorous figures they thought they were marrying, but they are a part of their lives just the same.

No one will deny that there are husbands and wives who do fall out of love with each other, but I think most of them who think they have ceased to care for each other have diagnosed their symptoms wrong. Because they have ceased to thrill is no sign they have ceased to love.

Apsley Church Has Fine Year

(Examiner Correspondence.)

APSLEY, Jan. 23.— The annual congregational meeting of the Apsley United church was held on Wednesday evening in the church and was well attended.

The treasurer's report was very encouraging. Satisfactory reports were given by Sunday school, choir and Women's Association. Mr. Sam Carr and Mr. Will Parks were reappointed to the board of management. The vacancies made on the trustee board by the removal of J. W. Hales and the recent death of Mr. Albert Mace, were filled by the appointment of Mr. Joe Tucker and Mr. N. Wilson.

Mrs. (Rev.) McMullen called upon the past, present and assistant organists, Mrs. Lean, past, Mrs. Newell, present, and Miss Margaret Tucker, assistant, to come to the front and an appropriate address, including all three, was read by Mrs. McMullen. Presentations were made by Mr. Norman Wilson. The two organists were given a pair of beautiful, all-wool, bainlow-bordered blankets, and the assistant oganist a lovely Venetian style mirror. They were all taken completely by surprise, and each expressed their thanks in a few well chosen words.

Lunch was served by the ladies nd a very enjoyable time spent.

Note.—Boil long spaghetti without breaking—stand it against the side of the pot and puss it down into the water as it softens. There should be plenty of water and salted. Make the sauce by sauteing 2 large chopped onions in salad oil until they wilt, then add ½ lb. chopped steak (hamburger or ground leftover cooked meat will do—some spaghetti lovers prefer ham chopped) and No. 2 can of tomatoes. Add salt and pepper and if you like it and have it on hand pass a nubbin of cut garlic through the mix once. Let simmer until all ingredents are nicely blended. Serve large portions of spaghetti on each plate, put two or three spoonfuls of sauce over it, and sprinkle grated cheese over this.

Nail In His Neck

DELRAY BEACH, Fla., Jan. 23—(AP).—T. M. O'Neal is wondering just what to do about an eight-penny nail in his neck. It has been imbedded there for nearly 50 years, he said. A surgeon recently declined to extract it because of possible injury to important nerves. Its discovery was made during a physical examination. O'Neal doesn't remember when it became imbedded in his body.

Front Seat Now

After having flown 200,000 miles as an air line stewardess, pretty Agnes Hermansen of Boston, Mass., decided she wanted to do a little flying on her own account. So she took a few lessons and then took her test for a private pilot's license. She got it, so henceforth Miss Hermansen won't do all her driving from the back seat.

Cavan Institute Plans Suppers

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAVAN, Jan. 23.—A well attended meeting of Cavan Women's Institute was held at Mrs. J. C. Swain's home on Thursday afternoon. The president, Mrs. D. Tinney, was in the chair and sixteen members answered the roll with the recipe of a "hot dish" for supper.

During the business session the resignation of the librarian of the Institute library, was received and a committee appointed to find another suitable location for the well-filled book shelves belonging to the Institute.

A proposition form the McCormick and Deering Co. concerning putting on lantern slides under the auspices of the Institute was discussed and the matter left over.

It was decided that the different grounds put on pot luck suppers to augment the funds of the Institute.

A committee was appointed to interview the C.G.I.T. girls concerning a play which they are preparing with the idea that it might be arranged for the girls to present the play and the Institute put on a supper.

Mrs. J. H. Snider was in charge of the program of whch the first feature was community singing. Mrs. J. Braithwaite read a humorous article, "How to Tell a Woman's Age." Mrs. Snider read a group of interesting current events. Mrs. Melville Carr gave a continuation of the demonstration on "Buymanship," which has proved very interesting and informative.

Luch was served by Mrs. Snider's group and the usual period of visiting enjoyed.

The presence of several visiting ladies added to the socialibility of the occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Fallis, Mr. and Mrs. W. Larmer and Mr. and Mrs. W. Seymour attended the Holstein and Milk Producers' banquet at Mark St. church, Peterborough, at noon on Thursday.

Firing An Able Man

Something has happened in Germany which most experts in Europe would have said a few days ago could not come to pass. Dr. Hjalmar Schacht has been dismissed as president of the Reischbank. There was no intimation that such a change was coming. If one had considered such a possibility then the conclusion would have been that Dr. Schacht would have done his own resigning.

The Reischbank has never before been swept fully into line with the Nazi idea, but that is where it will land now. Dr. Schacht has been Germany's banker, and he has done things which few men in the world have accomplished. He it was who undertook to rebuild the shattered German financial structure following the war. There were plenty of fairly sound financial men who said it could not be done, but Dr. Schacht did it. He provided the financing for all the German military expansion and he did it without a gold reserve. It was the same Dr. Schacht who evolved the plan for extending German foreign trade by the use of blocked marks. By that method when Germany imported goods or raw materials payment was made in part of blocked marks, meaning that these marks had to be used for the purchase of goods which would be made in and exported from Germany.

It woud cause no surprise were it stated that the dismissal of Dr. Schacht came about because he was the one man who talked frankly to Hitler and told him plainly what could or could not be done. It may even indicate that some new plan is under way in Germany for the confiscation of Catholic or foreign property, and it is quite possible that Dr. Schacht would have nothing to do with such a program. He was the one German financier who was able to come to London and receive a hearing. As to what it actually means no one seems to know at the moment. But it comes as the greatest surprise in this surprising year.

Toronto Complains

Toronto has sent its Welfare Commissioner to see government officials at Ottawa, the reason being that too many unemployed men are landing in the provincial capital. It is estimated the increase is at the rate of at least 15 per day, and Toronto seems certain that since mid-December the total is 500 greater than before. It is intimated too that certain other municipalities have been aiding unemployed men to get to Toronto in order to be rid of them. So Toronto desires the federal government to do something about it. The government of Toronto admits it can do nothing, but seems to entertain the hope that the larger one at Ottawa can meet the situation by putting these men at work or finding some other way of taking them out of circulation as far as Toronto is concerned.

Just how many unemployed Toronto would be entitled to have on a basis of population is something which we do not know, but we are inclined to doubt that other municipalities are deliberately planning to send their unemployed to that city. The tendency is to drift toward the cities particularly in the winter season. The small place can often enough throw up its own defence works against too great an invasion by using the woodpile or other methods as the price of municipal hospitality. In a large centre they can do no such thing, and there are so many streets with so many people on them that the business of panhandling is more easily carried on.

We doubt if there is a city in the province which has not a more serious relief problem at the moment than it had a year ago. Undoubtedly there will be an improvement with the opening of spring, but for the moment the load is heavy. There is no way by which one man or a dozen together can be stopped from going to Toronto, and that city by having a large number of unemployed is paying the price for having grown into the largest centre in the province. If Toronto and its suburbs have one-quarter of the population of the province then it would seem right that one-quarter of the unemployed should also be in Toronto.

No Surprise In It

Things are not going well in the United Automobile Workers' Union, one of the C.I.O. groups. Homer Martin claims he is president, but the executive says that is not so. It appears the board members had been engaged in taking away all the power of office from the president, and he in turn fired 15 of the 24 members of the directorate.

At the moment there are two secretary-treasurers; there are two executive boards holding forth at different places while the central office is closed. There are two sets of bosses trying to dictate the policy of the trade union paper issued by the U.A.W., and calls have gone forth for two conventions to elect officers, and these conventions have been called for different cities.

One need not be surprised at the present situation because the C.I.O. through its meteoric rise was growing too rapidly. It was taking in too many members who knew nothing at all about what it meant to be a member of a union. Those who joined listened to fluent speakers who caused them to believe that membership in the union was going to place power in their hands, and that power meant higher wages and better working conditions. The strike was the weapons favored for frequent or short-notice protest.

Plainly many people who became associated with this form of unionism made a mistake in the affiliation they selected. It is going through a rough time today because too many people and too many factions want to be in the leadership group. The rights of the rank and file of the membership have been forgotten entirely, and they have to stand by at the moment and watch the strength on which they depended being taken away from them.

Members of the Peterborough County Plowmen's Association probably expected to receive the grant of $100 from the County Council but found they had been left off this year. It is not a large amount for the county to pay and the object is one which is of interest to a great many farmers, young and old.

Good plowing is the basis of good agriculture and it is likely to remain that way. The means of securing money to carry on the annual plowing match are not many or varied and that is why the $100 from the County Council would have served a useful purpose.

The annual plowing match always had attracted a crowd of interested people, and now that tractor plowing is offered by way of comparison to that done by the team of horses the field of interest had been widened. Perhaps the officers of the Plowmen's Association can yet talk the matter over with the members of Council and see what can be done about that hundred dollars.

That Goebbels Affair

Reports which come from Germany speak in a veiled way or not at all about the standing of Dr. Joseph Goebbels, Minister of Propaganda for the Nazi party. Several weeks ago the case was reviewed in these columns because the information concerning Goebbels had come from sources which we have learned to regard as careful and authentic.

Berlin's only reference has been the official statement that Goebbels had been confined to a clinic in that city recovering from an attack of the flu. That has been repeated several times with the unconvincing monotony of parrot talk. The report appears correct enough that Goebbels had been given a hard beating because he was invading the apartment of Lida Baarova, whose husband Goebbels had placed in a detention camp.

Despatches from Paris now claim that Goebbels has been called to appear before a court of honor to "answer to certain charges regarding his private life." It is intimated that Goebbels will have to step down and out. Hitler himself has been fond of the Goebbels family, and being a bachelor, Frau Goebbels has acted as official hostess on state occasions. It is significant too that nothing has been said about the prosecution of those who attacked Dr. Goebbels. Official Germany would prefer to hush up a matter of that kind, and it blocked all usual sources of publication, but news of that character is something which cannot be successfully suppressed. It can be taken for granted that Hitler would have no room for a play-boy in the inner circle of the Nazi party.

When Farmers Retired

A farmer who is 62 years old was in the Examiner office and for a time he talked about his own business, and it started with a remark about the few farmers who are retiring now. This particular farmer was not thinking of retiring himself; he appears to be a strong and vigorous man, but his feeling was that with all the changes and improvements which have been made in farming there was not the same prospect of a farmer being able to retire when he came to the point where he found the business too hard for him.

There is a good deal of new equipment for the production of milk. There are mechanical milkers in many barns today; there is equipment for removing the cream at once and for determining the individual performance of each cow. With the introduction of the silo the business of feeding has been made easier, nor is it as difficult to keep the barn clean, and with the coming of the electric light early morning or evening work in the barn is more agreeable. Our farmer informant listed all these things and agreed that they were steps in advance.

He mentioned too that much more is known about the proper way to breed bacon hogs. When he first started farming on his own the style or type of a hog was not much questioned and it was killed often enough on the premises and dressed there, although there had always been some live-weight shipping done. He believed there was more known about the hog industry and if one followed all the rules carefully then the losses in young pigs could be kept down to very little. The farmer was satisfied too that his herd of cattle was in better condition today than ever before; he know his milch cows were in good health and we are satisfied that he was getting more return per cow than he used to years ago.

A number of farm implements were mentioned also, and there has been close study given to the important matter of good seed. The farmer also admitted it was possible now to have a knowledge of land such as had been hidden some years ago. One could have a sample from a field tested and be told quite accurately what it needed to bring it up to the point where production would be greater.

After reviewing all these changes and advancements in what we considered was a rather intelligent manner, the farm visitor continued: "And yet with all these changes and with all the increased investment they call for, we find that very few of our farmers are doing what was common enough forty years ago when they used to retire to some nearby village and have a rest in their advanced years. It was possible then to sell a farm, and if a mortgage were taken for part payment then it was considered a sound investment. It is not in that class today. There used to be a sale of stock and implements and there was a brisk demand, and if a farmer gave what they called approved joint notes the banks would accept them and were glad to get them. They do not want them now. Apart from that the farmer had actually saved some money during the years when he was working, and when all his assets were put together he knew he had enough to keep him."

"I am not a complainer" concluded our visitor, "and I have no desire to quit the farm for some time, if at all. But it is strange that with all the improvements in farm methods, with our better equipment and our greater knowledge we are not making the same substantial progress as the farmer of forty years ago. When farmers are able to retire again in their old age you will know this industry is getting back on its feet." There is no need to offer comment on the views of this farmer; he stated the case well and reasonably.

NOTE AND COMMENT

The United Farmers of Alberta decided to go out of politics, but the records seem to indicate that politics had first gone out of the United Farmers.

The bombings in England are serious when arms are issued to the police. That is the first time since the strike of 1926 that such a thing has been done.

Toronto police entered an apartment and found two fully-loaded revolvers there. They also found the man who owned them. And that is what we regard as a good day's work.

About the first thing Premier Hepburn did after arriving in Wellington, N.Z., was to address a luncheon meeting. One might have guessed that without reading about it in the newspapers.

There is some talk of a strike of radio performers in New York and our idea is that life would be more pleasant if some of them did go on strike and find the struggle lasting a long time.

Toronto man who has crossed the Atlantic 100 times says he has never been sick and has never missed a meal. Perhaps living in Toronto has rendered him immune to shock of any sort.

When it takes a half column of newspaper space to tell that Jackie Coogan's wife still loves him, although living apart from him, then we are approaching the ultimate in what people refer to as applesauce.

WEE ANGUS

(By A.R.K.)

¶ Wee Angus takes his lessons now, he'll play piano pieces soon, and then I know I will be glad to hear each happy little tune.

¶ He tinkles now like how he should, he's learning notes and what they mean, I guess it takes a while for that to get them clear inside his bean.

¶ There's black notes with some dots around, there's hollow notes he has to know, and then he's got to count the time and know just how the thing should go.

¶ He always watches at the clock to see how long he's been in there, at times he says the things ain't right and not a thing he calls quite fair.

¶ For Pete and Dan and Joe they come, they gather by the window there, they call to Angus to come on when he is pounding out sweet air.

¶ But Angus plays quite fair I know, he hits them notes with poise and power, although I never seen him yet go past his space of half an hour.

¶ I know it must be kind of tough, it don't seem altogether fair, when he looks out the window now and sees them playing hockey there.

¶ Perhaps it's then he hits the notes that have not music in their ring, for I am sure as I can be that ain't the way they wrote the thing.

When It's Time To Call It A Day

(From Parliamentary Debates)

Mr. MASSEY: I think the minister picks that word "twenty" out of the hat rather glibly. When he makes his speech I am going to count carefully how many other "Sir Edward Beatty's" he has in it. I will guess nineteen.

I was relieved when the Prime Minister, speaking in this house last Monday, stated that a committee would be set up this session to review the activities of the broadcasting corporation. I need not take time to quote his words, but the remarks of the Prime Minister in that connection may be found at page 64 of Hansard. So much to the good, but let me urge the Prime Minister, and in his absence the Minister of Transport, that in setting up this new committee they keep clear of such terms of reference as were given the committee that sat last year, which terms were so cramped and restricted that, as the result of their interpretation by the chairman of the committee, no witnesses other than officers of the corporation could be called. In protest against this decision two members of that committee withdrew and sat no more.

Mr. McNEVIN: The two members referred to, withdrew for political purposes.

Mr. MASSEY: What is that? Who is speaking?

Mr. McNEVIN: I said the two members referred to, withdrew for political purposes.

Mr. MASSEY: I think it was exactly for political purposes; that is exactly why witnesses were not called, and I thank the hon. member for Victoria, Ontario, for putting the words in my mouth.

Mr. McNEVIN: I said the members withdrew for political purposes.

Mr. MASSEY: So I say. Let the terms of reference to the committee this year be sufficiently broad that any witnesses desired, whether or not they be attached to the corporation, may be called. As a test case let Mr. McCullagh appear before that committee and state his position, along with the officers of the corporation, so that the committee may weigh his matter and determine to their own satisfaction whether there has been any discrimination against Mr. McCullagh. Public opinion has been aroused, particularly in certain sections of the country, by this high-handed action on the part of the corporation, and that public demands satisfaction at once.

Mr. LAPOINTE (Quebec East): Might I suggest to my hon. friend that he move the adjournment of the debate? We are already ten minutes past the time for adjournment.

Mr. MASSEY: I am glad to move the adjournment of the debate.

Mr. SPEAKER: I think the hon. member has exhausted his time to speak, so he should not move the adjournment of the debate.

Mr. MASSEY: I move the adjournment of the debate.

Mr. SPEAKER: The hon. member has exhausted his time to speak.

Mr. MASSEY: I think I moved the adjournment of the debate before you, Mr. Speaker, informed me of that.

Mr. LAPOINTE (Quebec East): My hon. friend cannot move the adjournment of a debate in which he is no longer able to take part.

Mr. MASSEY: I cannot quite see that. I had one further statement to make, and I would have been glad to make that statement, but the right hon. Minister of Justice (Mr. Lapointe) asked me not to make it tonight but to move the adjournment of the debate, which I did. Now I find myself faced with the ruling that I am through. If I had asked for one moment more I am sure the right hon. gentleman with his great courtesy, which I and all members of this house recognize, would have assented readily.

Mr. LAPOINTE (Quebec East): If my hon. friend has only one or two more sentences, all right; but it is ten minutes after eleven, and I think many hon. members would like to see the house adjourn.

Mr. MASSEY: To oblige the Minister of Justice I said I would be glad to move the adjournment of the debate; otherwise I ask for the privilege of making my closing statement.

Some hon. MEMBERS: Go ahead.

Mr. SPEAKER: I understand that when the Minister of Justice suggested that the hon. member might adjourn the debate, the right hon. gentleman was of the opinion that the hon. member had a few minutes left to speak. I find from the clerk of the house that the hon. member for Greenwood (Mr. Massey), when he said he would move the adjournment of the debate, had exhausted his time to speak.

Mr. LAPOINTE: (Quebec East): Go ahead, if it is going to be short.

Mr. MANION: Mr. Speaker, if there could be unanimous consent of the house, and if the Minister of Justice (Mr. Lapointe) pleases, the hon. member would require only a few more minutes.

SHOULD ASSIST POLICE.

It was rather enlightening to read in the Toronto papers a disclaimer of all responsibility by the Bell Telephone Company in connection with the raid on a suburban betting house which had some twenty or more telephones installed in a small apartment.

"None of our business", was the attitude of this great corporation. It was probably the same attitude that the average man on the street would take.

There is no reasonable ground for presuming that such a telephone, set-up as that found on the premises was installed for any ordinary, commercial business. In any case, what harm would come from a suggestion of the police that the matter be looked into? We suggest that the Bell Telephone Company be asked by the authorities to revise its rule book in keeping with common sense and reasonable co-operation with the forces of law and order.—(Oshawa Times)

BUSINESS FIRST

—London Opinion.

• An Auction Sale In Paris

IN A JEWELRY SALE I have watched, for instance, a collection of real pearls being auctioned one by one, while a current of excitement swept the room like an electrical storm. The auctioneer's excitement was presumably a well- feigned show says Sydney Clark in Christian Science Monitor but every buyer must have hoped to pick up treasure for half of its value. I remember seeing one pearl go for 4,500 francs while the auctioneer all but wept with carefully rehearsed emotion. The pearl, he insisted, was worth 11,000 francs.

Since most of the jewel buyers who frequent these auction rooms are professionals and know what they are doing this may well have been in reality a very good bargain but hardly that good. Even 11,000 francs would not have been an especially large sum to change hands on a single transaction. Checking over yesterday's sales as reported in today's paper I note that a thirteenth century copper plaque "champleve et emaille de Limoges" fetched 22,000 francs and an engraved silver cup of the sixteenth century brought 41,000.

The junk that Paris buys in Hotel Drouot is even more exciting than the jewelry and the work of medieval craftsmen for there is deep mystery in it. Who wants it? Who on earth? Yet somebody wants—at some price—every single article offered. I have seen three baskets of assorted kitchen ware knocked down for five francs all told, this being the equivalent of thirteen cents.

I have seen a lot of hardware, including one lamp chimney and a broken alarm clock, go for ten francs. A large box of very stiff and high collars, more or less of the type worn by Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, went under the hammer for eighteen francs. They had been knocking around in someone's attic for years and were thick with dust. A crate of tall silk opera hats fetched forty francs, which might have seemed like something of a bargain except that every hat was hopelessly dilapidated, with crown or brim broken.

The most pathetic item I ever saw auctioned here was a little plaster cupid which lay on its "tummy" naked and unashamed, during a long afternoon. Two fingers were gone from its right hand, and a part of one bare heel was chipped off, which reminds me of a Scripture quotation about "two legs and a piece of an ear."

The forlorn figure lay on a pile of mattresses until at last the auctioneer got around to it. His assistant grasped the bambino in his gnarled hands and held it aloft. Neither he nor his chief displayed the faintest emotion. The plaster child was a "lot" like any other.

"Let's start the bidding at fifty francs," suggested the auctioneer, but nobody did. In fact there was no bid whatever. Nobody wanted the baby.

He went through his repertoire from coaxing to mild scolding but still there was no bid. Finally an old man timidly offered three francs. Almost immediately the hammer fell. He had bought the baby and I am sure a tremendous story lies hidden in that eight-cent purchase.

• Problems Come In Boatloads

(Trinidad Guardian, Port of Spain)

THE DECISION (to resume sending criminals to Devil's Island) is purely an internal affair of the French Republic, except that its long-range effects will inevitably be felt in Trindad.

There was considerable relief in this Colony at the Blum decision last year, because it predicted the end of a troublesome problem—that of the so-called liberes who periodically land on our shores.

The reversal of this decision means goodbye to our hopes of relief. Under the libere system, originally intended as a means of colonizing French Guiana, convicts whose prison terms have expired must remain in Cayenne for a further period, sometimes of considerable length; and this has produced the frequent escapes with which we are familiar.

As we have said on previous occasions, though it is no business of ours how Britain's continental ally runs her prisons, we have a right to take notice when the arrangements result in sending us periodical boatloads of problems.

The fugitives' problem demands a final settlement and we hope the Government will once more take it up with the Colonial Office.

The only satisfactory way to send these men away is by steamer under full legal authority. They are definitely not wanted in Trinidad, and the presence of several of them here at this moment give emphasis to the need for writing a proper finis to the long story of difficulty and delay.

• Better Care For War Veterans

THERE will be wide approval and little criticism throughout the Dominion for the expansion of the Government's assistance for indigent war veterans says, Kingston Whig-Standard. The new policy of the Department of Pensions, announced by Hon. C. G. Power, will extend free hospital care and medical treatment to indigent veterans whose ailments cannot be attributed to war service. In the past, care of this kind has been limited to men in receipt of pensions.

For a number of years it has been generally recognized that the injuries received by those who participate in the war were by no means confined to physical wounds or to the results of illnesses contracted under conditions of active service. Scarcely anyone, who went overseas and served in the front line, returned to Canada with a nervous system that was as good as it was originally. In a few of these cases it was possible to show eligibility for pension, but in the vast majority of them there was no chance whatever of proving war injury. Nevertheless, any sympathetic person who has seen a number of veterans in a group could scarcely have failed to realize that their faces were those of men old before their time.

In the course of the years since the war, these injuries which were not of an obvious physical nature, have taken their toll. Nobody knows how many of the veterans who are now indigent might have made normal economic successes of their lives if it were not for nervous injuries received in war time. Nobody knows how many subsequent cases of actual physical illness among veterans would never have occurred if no nervous injuries had been received. Medical science is, however, much more aware than it was two decades ago of the connection between an individual's nervous equipment and both his economic capacity and his physical illnesses. The new policy of the Department of Pensions and National Health is a recognition of this advance in medical knowledge.

FARMER FACES CRISIS.

NORMAN MARTIN, of St. Thomas in a short address at the annual Fair Board meeting on Saturday, pointed out that the farmer never faced a more serious crisis than today. With every nation trying to live within itself, there is no buying from the other fellow. There is consequently a surplus of all farm products and markets are weak. Mr. Martin urged that Fair Boards do more than stage an annual exhibition. He urged that they be a real Agricultural Society and give leadership in their own community to every problem the farmers as a group must face.—(Aylmer Express)

DOCTRINE FAILED.

THE DOCTRINE, preached so consistently by Mr. King, that increased world trade would bring unemployment's solution, has broken down. It has crashed on the fact, shown conclusively and all too tragically during these years, that a nation which depends for its economics well-being upon what it can export to other nations necessarily leaves its prosperity and general economic well-being on the shifting sands of racial and nationalist turbulence in other lands; surrenders the determination of the measure of its prosperity to external events and forces it is powerless to control.—(Ottawa Journal)

SACRIFICE PARTY.

I go further and say this, that in this Dominion of ours where sections abound, a Dominion of races, of classes and of creeds, of many languages and many origins, no Prime Minister can be true to his trust, to the nation he has sworn to serve, save at the sacrifice of the party he is appointed to lead. Loyalty to the ballot box is not necessarily loyalty to the nation. It is not even loyalty to the multitude. Democracy has failed and fallen in many lands and political captains in Canada must have the courage to lead rather than the servility to follow if our institutions are going to survive. There must be something better than the ambition to be re-elected.—(Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen)

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

Let not your heart be troubled: ye believe in God, believe also in me. In my Father's house are many mansions: if it were not so, I would have told you. I go to prepare a place for you. And if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again, and receive you unto myself; that where I am, there ye may be also. . . .

Believest thou not that I am in the Father, and the Father in me? the words that I speak unto you I speak not of myself: but the Father that dwelleth in me, he doeth the works. Believe me that I am in the Father, and the Father in me: or else believe me for the very works' sake. Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that believeth in me, the works that I do shall he do also; and greater works than these shall he do; because I go unto my Father. . . .

SUEZ TOLLS.

SINCE the Abyssinian campaign began Italy has become second only to Britain as a customer of the Suez Canal authorities, and the "hateful tolls" that she has been compelled to pay become doubly hateful when they help to swell the profits of a company in which she has no direct interest. Italy is not likely to have overlooked the fact that the dividend paid in 1937 was appreciably higher than in the previous year. Perhaps, of course, if Abyssinia were showing some return for the millions of lire Italy has spent there, there would be less heartburning in Rome, and it may be a measure of the Fascist failure, first to subdue the "rebel" tribes and then to exploit their territory, that the present claims are being put forward with such violent persistence. There is, however, some shrewdness in the demand for lower rates for transit through the Canal, for this is a matter in which Rome and Berlin can make common cause. German ships use the Canal more than those of any other nation, apart from Britain and Italy, and Germany's reluctance to pay cash for any kind of service is sufficiently well known. —(Glasgow Herald)

"Read" Too Much

The "thought-reader" placed his hand on the man's head, and then struck him a fearful blow on the nose.

When the man got out from under the chair and asked the thought reader what he had hit him for, he replied:

"Just as I placed my hand on your head you thought I was a confounded fool, and I don't allow any man to think that."

The Winner

In the corner of the club the three men were discussing the question of names.

"Mine," said the first man, "is" Henry Edward Patrick Richard Fortescue. I'm sure none of you chaps can beat that for length."

"I can," retorted the second. "My names is James Clifford Percival Ronald Albert Michael Marshall."

"I beat you both," murmured the third.

"Eh?" they exclaimed. "What's your name?"

" Miles Long," he replied, simply.

New President Of Board Is James Waters

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 23.—Jas. Waters was elected president of the Seymour Agricultural Society for the year 1939 at the annual meeting of the society when the reports of the year were presented. At a meeting of the directors which preceded the annual meeting the finacial report was presented by Treasurer G. G. Stephens, and in a brief address the retiring president, E. A. McCook expressed his appreciation for the cooperation of all the members during the year.

J. J. Lewis Hay, secretary for the Ontario Fairs Association, suggested to the meeting that he be given any instructions relative to fair dates and other items which should be presented at the Belleville meeting on January 27th. The meeting held in Belleville in 1938 had been better attended than those previously held according to John Locke, who felt that more interest was being taken in the fall fairs. W. J. Duncan expressed the feeling that the fairs should cling more to their original purpose, giving less emphasis to sports as opposed to the present tendency towards greater variety of entertainment.

Horkins Thanked.

On motion of A. Hume and W. J. Duncan, a vote of thanks was passed to Mr. T. J. Horkins for his enthusiastic interest and excellent work on the sports committee in 1938. Reports from the superintendents of several of the departments were presented by V. Irwin for the heavy horse class; J. Locke, sheep; M. Curle, hogs; John Muray, grain; and T. J. Horkins, chairman of the sports committee.

It was on the motio nof W. J. Duncan and T. J. Horkins that Mr. Jas. Waters was elected president for 1939. Garnet Curle was elected vice-president and 2nd vice-president elected was J. R. Battisby. Directors: Robert Innes, F. F. Long, J. J. Lewis Hay, E. A. McCook, John Murray, Robert McCulloch, W. W. Archer, V. Irwin, T. J. Horkins, F. W. Barnum, Earl Bell, G. Kerr, P. Morgan, E. Irwin, D. Rutherford, C. H. Calver, P. H. Macmillan, William Ross, Ian McLeod, John Kelly, Robert Bateson, Craig Nelson, Albert Stephens, Wesley Stephens and M. H. West were appointed auditors.

At the anual directors' meeting for which the newly elected president, James Waters, presided, the chairmen of the various committees were appointed. Mr. Waters thanked the members for the honor they had bestowed on him in making him president and urged members to accord him the same cooperation as had been given in the past.

On motion of E. A. McCook and Garnet Curle, the secretary-treasurer, G. G. Stephens, was re-elected, and a further motion authorized the payment of three dollars to each of the auditors. Messrs. John Locke and W. J. Duncan were appointed delegates to attend the meeting of the Central Ontario Association of Agricultural Societies in Belleville on Jan. 27th and J. J. Waters and G. G. Stephens were elected delegates to the Toronto convention of the Ontario Association of Agricultural Societies on eFb. 23rd and 24th.

Chairmen Appointed.

The chairmen of the various committees were appointed as follows: Finance, C. H. Calver; Grounds, Douglas Rutherford; Sports, T. J. Horkins; Police, W. J. Ross; Property, John Locke; Publicity, E. A. McCook. A committee was appointed to attend the meetings of both the town and township councils soliciting a grant for the 1939 fair.

Stephens, presented the following financial statement: Receipts: Balance from 1937, $90.82; memberships, $90.00; retained members, $88.00; Specials, $191.22; Sports day receipts, $204.45; Street dance, $112.25; Concessions, $12.00; Dance receipts, $44.05; Grants, $1,191.92; Gate receipts, $740.95; Concessions, $139.35; Dance, $34.75; School tickets, $37.75; Poultry entries, $7.00; Note, $275.00; Rent from stalls, $13.00. Britain's New 50-Mile-An-Hour Torpedo Boats Pass Tests

Possessing what is claimed to be the smallest "target silhouette" of any fighting ship afloat, one of Britain's new 50-mile-an-hour torpedo boats is seen being put through tests off the Isle of Wight. These boats are designed to carry either two 21-inch torpedo tubes or four 18-inch torpedo tubes and have a range of approximately 1,000 nautical miles. They are 70 feet long and powered by three 1,000 horsepower motors. Discarding mast and funnels the "target silhouette" is kept to a minimum and following the tests, which were successful, more of the boats are being built.

Goodnight Story

By MAX TRELL

Now Knarf and Hanid, the shadows, had a very strange adventure the other evening. I'll tell you about it.

The children had just gone off to bed. Then Knarf said to Hanid: "Let's go and meet Aladdin — you know, Aladdin and the magic lamp? I know where to find him."

"Where?"

"Inside this book."

The name of the book was Arabian Nights Tales. It was lying half open on the little table where the children had left it. Shadows have no trouble at all getting inside of books. They just make themselves small and squeeze in.

The moment they were inside the book they found themselves in a strange city. The streets were narrow and full of curious people wearing very odd hats (like towels wound round and round their heads). And there were buildings with great round roofs like upside-down bowls, and other buildings which were thin and tall like towers.

Knarf Asks.

Knarf stopped one of the men and asked him: "Can you please tell us where Aladdin lives?"

"He lives in that great palace over there," the man answered, pointing to a beautiful building all set with precious stones.

The two shadows rapped on the door and a servant brought them to Aladdin. He was sitting on a cushion on the floor with his legs crossed under him, polishing his magic lamp. "We've read all about you," Knarf said.

"Ah, thank you," Aladdin answerer. "I am pleased."

"And we've read all about your magic lamp, too—" Hanid started to say. Knarf interrupted her. "Would you lend us your lamp for a little while, please."

"Oh, I couldn't do that. But you may make any wish you please right now and the genii of the lamp will bring you whatever your heart desires. What do you wish?"

"Ah, thank you," Aladdin answered.

have as much pie as he could possibly eat. So he said: "Tell the genii to bring me all the pie in the world."

"You're sure that is your wish?" said Aladdin in surprise. "All the pie in the world is a great deal of pie."

But Knarf insisted that that was just what he wanted. So Aladdin rubbed the lamp and the genii appeared and Aladdin commanded him to bring Knarf "all the pie in the world."

Dear me—do you know what happened the next moment? The whole room began to get full of pies: Big pies, little pies, apple pies, pumpkin pies—all kinds and shapes of pies. They fell from everywhere. Soon the room was full of them. Then the whole palace became full. Then the whole city. There was no room for anything else. Knarf and Hanid had to spring out of the book as fast as they could before they became smothered in pies! The last thing they heard as they jumped was Aladdon saying: "Genii of the lamp—take those pies away! A very greedy boy asked for them."

Knarf felt bad. "I guess too many pies are worse than not enough," he sighed.

DEATH AT THE MANOR

By M. E. CORNE

READ THIS FIRST:

Elsie Ritter, a beauty shop operator, taking the place of her friend, Kitty, for a week in the private salon of Mrs. Horace Witherspoon, Sr., is disturbed by queer things she finds and odd people she meets at the Manor, the luxurious Witherspoon home. She finds her employer is an eccentric old woman with sadly misplaced vanity. She meets her granddaughter, Daphne; her daughter-in-law; Della Craig, an actress, who is a house guest, and the various servants of the house hold. Elsie overhears a violent argument between Daphne and her mother, during which the girl criticizes her grandmother. After meeeting some of the other house guests, Elsie gives a manicure to old Mrs. Witherspoon's sister, who converses in riddles. (NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

AT FIVE O'CLOCK I closed the salon. Mrs. Horace had not returned for her appointment, but I did not feel that it was my place to remind her of it. Doubtless her maid would groom her for the evening's affair. I therefore was free until eight.

The intervening time I occupied with food and bathing. This night I felt no shame at lolling in the hot, scented waters of the sunken tub. I was entitled to some sort of compensation after what I had been through. Finishing my bath, I donned a fresh uniform and debated the desirability of dining above or below stairs.

After debate, I went below for my dinner. Dinner was served in the housekeeper's dining room, a step above the general servants' dining room. Mrs. Greely was with me. The others whose rank entitled them to places at this superior board, I was informed, had dined earlier so that they might perform the hundred and one tasks required of them before the opening of the ball.

Chicken a la Newburg, tomato aspic and black coffee considerably brightened my outlook, and it was with a decided uplifted morale that I returned to the salon.

Promptly at eight Eliza wheeled Mrs. Witherspoon through the connecting door. The head of the Witherspoon family was brilliantly arrayed in a red and green kimono with huge flowing sleeves and a great red pompon at the throat. On her lap she held a black lacquered box which she opened and extended for my inspection. The box was filled with jewels. These, however, seemed to give the old lady no pleasure whatsoever. She frowned repeatedly as she held first one and then another aloft.

"Baubles!" she sniffed. "Baubles!" She dangled an emerald pendant carelessly from one finger. "Come, Miss Ritter! What shall I wear tonight?"

"The pendant is beautiful!" I exclaimed, unable to take my eyes from the green, glittering thing.

"Well"—she lifted it to the light—"well, perhaps it will do with the earrings and bracelet to match. My gown," she added importantly, "is cloth of gold. I ordered it directly from New York."

"Really?"

"Didn't I say so? Eliza, leave the emeralds and lock the rest of this trash in the wall safe."

"Leave the emeralds—here!"

"Do as you are bid!" snapped her mistress. "Go along and eat your dinner."

For a moment I thought Eliza would refuse to obey this command. She lingered uncertainly, her eyes never leaving my face. She did not trust me a litti bit! That much was certain. She left, and I was alone with Mrs. Witherspoon.

"I'll have the shampoo first," Mrs. Witherpsoon said when Eliza had gone. "After you set the wave, you can do my face and the mask will harden while I'm under the drier. And then you can start on my nails."

"You want the mask?" I was dismayed and must have showed it. Fooling around with beauty packs is such a messy business.

"The mask, certainly," she said curtly. "Hurry, please, we have a lot to do."

A lot to do! I almost laughed in her face. Where did she get that "we" stuff, anyway?

"Well!" she said, and I shook myself mentally and tied the rubber apron about her skinny neck. About a gallon of dirty henna dye ran down the drain as I soaked her head and rubbed it hardily.

I set the wave and wrapped a towel about her forehead while I plastered on the mask. The stuff was surely mean to work with! The odor, which I finally recognized as bitter almond, tickled my nose and made my eyes water. It was all I could do to keep from sneezing.

"Ready for the drier?" I asked at last and heaved a sigh of relief. The worst part of the job was completed.

'Lift me out of here!" she said, and I picked her up in my arms—she weighed about as much as a peck of feathers—and set her beneath the foremost drier.

I threw the switch.

"Why!" I exclaimed, annoyed. "Something's wrong! There's no air coming through!"

"Try the next one!" she advised crossly. "We have four, you know."

I repeated the operation on the second drier. Instantly it hummed and blew its blast of hot air full in my face.

"All right," I said and lifted her into the second chair and lowered the hood to cover her face. When I had tied her securely into the helmet, I went for the manicure kit and returned to sit on a stool at her feet.

As I recall, looking back, I was trimming the cuticle of the third finger of the left hand when the outer door opened and closed with a bang. The noise startled me so that I jerked the scissors held between my thumb and forefinger and accidently gouged a neat square of flesh from the old lady's finger. Fearfully I glanced to the helmet's window, but Mrs. Witherspoon's gaze was fixed blankly upon the wall beyond and she seemed not to have noticed my painful error.

"Who is there, please?" I said, and poked my head through the crack in the curtain. A little man in evening dress was crossing the lobby.

"Good evening." He bowed. "Is Mrs. Witherspoon, Sr., in the salon?"

I nodded. "She is under the drier at present. Shall I raise the hood?"

He smiled vaguely. "It isn't necessary. I merely wished to ask my mother a question. Since she is incapable of speech at the moment, I will return later."

Incapable of speech! What did he mean?

"I can easily raise the hood," I persisted, anxious to please. The little man was, of course, Mr. Horace Witherspoon, he of the womanish mouth and the receding chin. He had not changed much since I had last seen him, unless, perhaps, he was a bit more shrunken and insignificant looking.

"It isn't necessary," he repeated, and I got the impression that he really did not see me at all, his expression was so blank and his eyes so lifeless and far away. For some reason or other he reminded me of a little boy who had always had everything he wanted, except the one thing he wanted. I felt terribly sorry for him without knowing why.

"Good evening," he said and went away quietly as he had come.

I returned to the business at hand. The place where my scissors had slipped was slashed deeper than I had thought. I dabbed the finger liberally with iodine and completed the manicure.

I had no more than finished when the phone in the lobby rang and I went out to answer it. A masculine voice bawled my name—it was Phil calling! My knees began to shake so that I had to sit down, and it was all I could do to keep my vocal cords under control.

"I'm down in the kitchen, he shouted as if he were at the North Pole. "Come on down!"

"I can't," I wailed, mentally cursing the Manor and everyone in it. "I have an appointment."

"Appointments, my girl, are made to be broken."

"Well"—I did a bit of rapid adding and subtracting: Mrs. Witherspoon would be cooped under the drier for another 10 minutes at the least, and she would never miss me—"all right, I'll come."

Smarty, I thought, and hung up. But I really did not mean it. I liked Phil plenty—I still do!

I smoothed my hair and powdered my nose and took a peek at my old lady. She had not moved or changed expression, so I tiptoed into the corridor and ran like lightning to the back stairs. Phil was waiting for me below. I piloted him into the large pantry and what we did there is nobody's business but our own. Needless to say, however, with my head on Phil's shoulder, I forgot to be in any great hurry, and before I realized the time,

Centralizing Police Authority Endorsed By County Council

Expressing general dissatisfaction with the existing police system, particularly as rural districts are affected, the County Council, in the final session of the January sitting on Saturday endorsed Attorney-General Gordon Conant's idea of centralizing police authority. The question introduced, by Warden Milby, drew instant and vigorous expressions of approval from several reeves.

The Council was in favor of abolishing the present system of policing the county with county constables and of having the number of provincial constables increased, so that properly trained full time men would be on the job at all times, in small urban and rural sections. It was the opinion of the Council that policemen who would not be subservient to reeves or mayors but directed by a provincial commissioner or divisional inspector would do the greatest amount of good work.

A resolution will be sent to the Attorney-General voicing the approval of the local County Council.

Support Resolution.

County Council members lined up with the Middlesex County in opposing any change in the Lord's Day Act.

Deputy-reeve Melville Johnston of North Monaghan introduced a motion to this efect with Reeve Allan B. Mann voicing accord, but Miss Batten told the council she had a communication from the Middlesex County Council in the form of a resolution for which the western county council was seeking support.

The resolution was: That whereas we view with great anxiety the report that there is a possibility of the Lord's Day being thrown open to legalized public amusements; and whereas we are convieed of the value of the Lord's Day as a divine institution, ministering to the economic, social and spiritual well being of mankind, and it is our conviction that the fundamental need in these days is the protection and proper use of the Lord's Day. Therefore be it resolved that we, the members of the County Council of Peterborough, record our disapproval of any change in the Lord's Day Act which would tend toward on "open" Sunday, and that copies of this resolution be sent to Attorney-General Conant."

The members registered unanimous approval.

MILLBROOK

Mrs. S. E. Eakins Is Re-elected Head Of W.M.S.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Jan. 23.—Mrs. S. E. Eakins was hostess for the January meeting of the W.M.S. of Grace Presbyterian church, which met in annual session at her home, Anne street, on Wednesday with a large attendance.

The chair was taken by Mrs. Eakins. Mrs. A. Coyte read the lesson, and Miss Agnes Johnson offered prayer. Mrs. Eakins had a helpful message on "A Calendar for 1939, with suitable meditation for each month," and for the roll call those present were divided into two groups, when Mrs. J. R. Thompson conducted a Bible contest.

44th Annual Report

A reading, "Think Right," by Mrs. Z. Seaton, was followed by Mrs. Thompson's solo, "Sometime," Miss Ruth Thorndyke presiding at the piano. The forty-fourth annual report of the Auxiliary was read by the secretary, and the election slate submitted in November, was confirmed, the list including: Mrs. S. E. Eakins as again president for 1939, Mrs. J. R. Thompson, secretary, and Miss Agnes Johnston, treasurer. In presenting her report Miss Johnston told that the allocation of $125 had been reached, that $10 had been used to purchase certificates for the girls' junior auxiliary, and if they continue to buy these until $25 has been spent, the girls will become members of the W.M.S. of Canada. The two chosen for this year's certificates were Mary Eakins and Ada Peers, who have been active members since the organization of the juniors three years ago; the ten dollars will be credited on their year's total.

Leaving Charge

Mrs. Eakins mentioned, with sincere regret, the fact that Mrs. Williams, wife of the minister, was attending the meeting for the last time, as removal is soon to be made to a western Ontario charge, wishing her every blessing, and her family, in their new home. In reply, Mrs. Williams said they would always look upon Millbrook as "home" since their only daughter had been born here, and here also the children had received their public school education; immediately following all sang "God Be With You Till We Meet Again."

The hostess, assisted by her daughter, Mary, and by Mrs. J. R. Thompson, served dainty refreshments during the closing socal hour, the vote of thanks being sponsored by Miss Ruth Thorndyke and Mrs. A. Coyte.

FIREMEN TO RESCUE

CHARLOTTETOWN — (CP). — City firemen came to the rescue when a woman resident of an apartment over the Charlottetown branch of the Bank of Canada locked herself out. Firemen were called, ladders raised and the door opened from the inside.

and newspapermen were ready to steam down the channel and take the survivors—clad in borrowed sea togs—off the tanker.

Motor cars were waiting at the pier to speed them to a hospital for medical examination.

Mountainous waves had prevented the transfer of a doctor from the United States navy gunboat Erie to the tanker after the rescue and the numberd passengers and crew members received first aid from seamen and a pharmacist's mate.

The Missing.

Those Rescued.

Passengers—Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Noakes; Mrs. George Ingham, Mrs. Watson, and Miss Nellie Tucker Smith, Bermuda, and Charles Talbot of Brookline, Mass.

Crew—Capt. M. R. Alderson; Neil Richardson, first officer, Patrick Chapman, radio officer, and David Williams, the other steward.

Seamen regarded it as a miracle that the Esso Baytown, with no clue to the survivors' whereabouts except the reports the plane gave of its position before landing had heard their cries above the storm. The small, bobbing figures in the water were hidden by the night.

Captain Frank Spurr of the Baytown, a native of Deep Brook, N.S., told in a routine report of the heroism of his crew in braving the dangerous seas in a lifeboat to pick up the survivors one by one.

Captain Spurr is the son of a sea captain and has been going to sea since he was 16.

The huge flying boat, built in 1935, had covered less than half of the 793 miles from Port Washington, Long Island, to Bermuda when icy conditions—apparently in the carburetors—caused its motors to fail.

The plane flashed an "S.O.S." but reported it was "Okay" after landing on the storm-tossed waves at 1.12 p.m. Then, within 10 minutes, came the one-word message—"Sinking"—followed by silence.

Waves Smash Hull.

The stout metal hull, built to stay afloat for many hours, had been pounded to pieces by angry waters. Noakes, a veteran of 100,000 hours in the air, and Spence, the steward, were injured.

Mrs. Noakes, who never before had been in a plane, told rescuers of watching her exhausted husband struggle futilely.

"I saw him and he looked very weak; he let go the life belt soon after we fell into the water," she said. "I called to him to hold on but he let go and I did not see him again. It was horrible."

Mrs. Miller said she, too, saw her husband go down and that he appeared too weak to hold on longer. None could aid.

Most heroic struggle of any was that made by Talbot, a former Harvard University athlete flying to Bermuda to recuperate from a skiing accident. Although one arm was in a cast, he clung to a lifeboat through five hours of daylight and five of darkness until help arrived.

A Modest Report

Captain Spurr's brief report said: "While proceeding to one of the positions given by radio of lost plane at 10.30 p.m. voices of survivors were heard calling.

"No. 1 lifeboat, in charge of Chief Officer O. Andersen, found survivors floating in rubber life belts and took them into life boat, bringing them alongside where they were safely taken on board.

"All survivors are able to travel by motor car."

Over the spot where the Cavalier sank the Pan American flying boat "Bermuda Clipper" circled three times yesterday enroute to Port Washington from Bermuda. No sign of the plane was seen on the still-stormy seas. A coast guard vessel, however, reported sighting a green life preserver or cushion near the scene.

Among the 10 passengers aboard the "Bermuda Clipper" on its flight were the wives of two Cavalier crew survivors—Mrs. Elizabeth M. Richardson, 26, and Mrs. Elsie Chapman, 33 — and Capt. Griffith J. Powell, trans-Atlantic flier and manager of the Bermuda line of the British Imperial Airways.

Capt. Powell described the rescue by the Baytown's crew as 'miraculous." And he said he would "probe technical aspects of the accident" here but that the formal investigation probably would be made at Hamilton, Bermuda.

Plea Is Refused

Committee's report and Reeve McColl of Asphodel seconded it. At this point Reeve Coughlin of Douro said he had given the question more thought and moved an amendment that the grant to the Salvation Army for Women's Rescue Work of $25 be deleted and the Plowmen be given $50.

Deputy Reeve Johnston said there were many other organizations in this county who were doing just as good work and were not getting grants. He seconded the amendment.

"Do you think the Plowmen's Association are doing as much as the Salvation Army", asked Reeve Thompson of Norwood.

Reeve Coughlin to whom the question was directed said. "No. I certainly do not, but it is a new grant this year. I realize the Salvation Army does a great deal of good work, but this grant will be expected to increase every year until we are on a par with the Western Ontario counties, that's why I am opposed to it."

After much discussion Reeves Gifford and McColl agreed to withdraw their motion but when the amendment was put as a motion only three voted for it, as follows Coughlin, Gifford and Johnston. Thus the motion was lost, and the Salvation Army get $25 and the Plowmen get nothing.

House of Refuge Report.

Harry Read of Otonabee, chairman of the House of Refuge Board read a report of the receipts and disbusements for the year which was one of the best in the institution's history. He said the average weekly cost for upkeep of each inmate was $3.30.

Reeve Anderson of Otonabee said another effort should be made to have the House of Refuge rules approved by the Dept. of Public Welfare. He pointed out incidents during the year including the interesting activities of Hattie Williams, now Mrs. John Deremo proved the members of the Board were acting at a disadvantage because the rules were not approved.

Have No Authority To Commit

Under Provincial legislation no person but the Warden of a county have the power to commit a person to the House of Refuge although the Reeves have been under the impression that they had this power, Reeve Anderson said. "This is general procedure throughout the province yet it is contrary to law, because the heads of municipalities have no authority to commit persons." He further stated that changes to the act were contemplated and would probably be brought into effect this winter. A motion was passed that the House of Refuge committee take steps to have the rules approved, and at the same time the Council voiced approval of the existing legislation giving only the warden the power to commit a person to the institution.

Th steamship American Merchant picked up an SOS from the Greek steamship Stamos which reported she was about 200 miles off the north-western tip of Spain.

The British vessel Terlings, en route to Bordeaux from Barry Roads, drifted helplessly in the Bay of Biscay, her steering gear useless.

Seven Lifeboat Men Drown.

ST. IVES, Cornwall, Jan. 23—(CP-Havas).—Seven of the eight crew members of the St. Ives lifeboat which set out in a raging storm to help a ship in distress were drowned early to-day when the boat capsized.

The sole survivor, W. Freeman, suffered cuts and bruises. The small vessel in distress also sank, three members of its crew being saved. A fourth was washed overboard and drowned.

The disaster occurred almost exactly a year after the same lifeboat capsized in carrying out the rescue of seven men from a vessel named the Alba. All members of the crew were saved at that time.

Police, ambulances and voluntary helpers were rushed to the shore to watch for bodies of the last lifesavers, nearly all of whom were married men with families. The lifeboat was washed ashore soon after the tragedy.

"The lifeboat was called out to a steamer believed to be in distress two miles north north-east of Cape Cornwall," reporters were told at the St. Ives station.

"The launching was carried out perfectly, but as the lifeboat was leaving the shelter of St. Ives Bay she met the full force of a terrific storm.

"Although the accident happened in the dark, we believe the lifeboat did not actually turn over, but shipped a big sea which washed the seven men overboard. Freeman, the survivor, was able to cling to the boat."

Prime Minister's Son Unhurt

A bomb exposion outside the hotel in which Frank Chamberlain, son of Mr. Neville Chamberlain, was staying at Tralee, Eire (former Irish Free State), was interpreted in London as a direct attempt around the life of the son of Britain's Prime Minister, perhaps by Irish republican extremists. The blast tore an eight-foot hole in a wall near the hotel and shattered scores of windows. Mr. Chamberlain refused to be perturbed by the incident and continued his duck-hunting holiday. He is shown here, LEFT, walking with his distinguished father. Detectives are guarding him.

there was accommodation, and were given treatment by Dr. Taft of Marmora, who quietened both with sedatives, and gave further attention to the burns received by Mrs. Johnston.

The full horror of the awful tragedy struck the rescue workers as four empty packing boxes were placed alongside the house foundation to receive the remains of the children as soon as they were found. Provincial Constable David Hatch and Constable Percy Grey of Marmora recovered three bodies shortly after one o'clock this morning, and it was noticed all were lying face down in the beds they had been occupying.

A short distance from one of the beds was found the remains of "Lucky" a mongrel dog which slept every night with Wallace, the 8-year-old boy. The dog had remained faithful even in the face of death quite evidently refusing to leave the side of his little pal.

All four children attend the public school in the village. Melbourne, the oldest was the Examiner carrier boy in the village, and both he and his sister Dorothy were in grade six, with the others in the junior room. The Johnston family moved to Cordova from Queensboro about two and a half years ago, and before that had lived at Flinton and Cooper. Mrs. Johnston is only 33 years of age.

Went To Bed Early

So far as could be learned last night the Johnston family had gone to bed at 8.30 and it was an hour later when the fire was discovered. The construction of the house is entirely of wood, and villagers believed the fire had been burning for some time before Mrs. Johnston was awakened. The interior burned like matchwood turning the whole structure into a flaming mass within a very short time.

Shortly after midnight Provincial Constables Carruthers and Smith of Belleville arrived and started an investigation into the disaster, which will be continued today, and Provincial Constable Hatch and Constable Grey gave up hope of locating the other body until the ruins had cooled. At two-thirty both houses were piles of blazing embers and tangle wreckage.

The tragedy is the worst within the memory of Cordova Village residents, and perhaps the entire county.

The half century old village has a population of about 300 people and most of the men are employed in the gold mine operated by the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company about a mile south of the settlement.

Coroner Dr. J. Holdcroft investigated the fire to-day and decided that an inquest was not necessary. The fourth body was also recovered by searchers, and the charred remains of the four children were taken to Havelock to await burial.

Refugee Head

Pursuing his mission of seeking re-establishment of Jewish and political refugees in lands offering freedom to them, George Rublee, American director of the inter-governmental committee on political refugees arrives in Berlin on what may seem a hopeless task. Rublee is reported so pessimistic over chances for success of his mission that he is ready to resign. He is said to have advised Washington executives that he will return home "very soon."

Jubilee Point

summers of three decades and more ago.

Until local option made South Monaghan a dry belt, the Jubilee Point Hotel was licensed and the beverage room was located in a small wooden building at the rear of the hotel proper. There was a fine grove available for picnic parties with tables and benches provided and there was open space enough for picnic ball games and foot races. At the western side of the property were several summer cottages owned by the Calcutts and by Harry Neill, but these structures have also disappeared, having been torn down some time ago and now there is not a building left on the place that was once so popular as a summer resort.

Passed With Steamer.

The arrival of the automobile as the favorite form of transportation and the inaccessibility of Jubilee Point to motor traffic wes responsible largely for its dropping off the map. The Salvation Army rented the hotel one season, after it had been abandoned as a commercial proposition, and used it for camp purposes but for a long period the main portion of the building had not been used and it had fallen into a serious state of disrepair.

The name Jubilee Point means nothing to the present generation, but old timers who remember the past glory of the place and their own happy visits to the beautiful property at the mouth of the Otonabee will feel that another link with the past has defintely snapped with the burning of the old hotel.

The word "Jubilee" recalls to the old guard the Whistlewing and the Golden Eye, the Otonabee and the City of Peterborough, the Sovereign, and the Geneva and the Water Lily and the Rainbow and those other steamers that used to chugchug down the placid waters of the Otonabee to the picnic grounds at the river's mouth on beautiful summer mornings in the days when the world was younger and people were not in so much haste about going places.

IT'S THE GRANDEST SOAP I EVER USED—A LITTLE GIVES OODLES OF LONGER-LASTING SUDS. A 10-MINUTE SOAKING LOOSENS ALL DIRT—SAVES HARD SCRUBBING. CLOTHES COME OUT THE WHITEST WHITE

ALL over the country women are discovering that, cup for cup, the New Rinso gives over 25% more suds than the old. Even in hard water, these richer suds last nearly a third longer than ordinary suds.

Most important of all, these active suds soak clothes at least 5 shades whiter than ordinary soaps do — and get colours much brighter with perfect safety.

Clothes last longer

In tub washing, Rinso's energetic suds soak out dirt in as little as 10 minutes. Yet you can soak your clothes in Rinso suds for an hour—or overnight, if you wish—and be certain that everything is safe. This gentle "no-scrub" way to wash clothes makes them last 2 or 3 times longer.

Rinso is recommended by the makers of 26 famous Canadian washers. It's grand for dishes and all cleaning. Its creamy suds soak off grease in a twinkle. Dishes, pots and pans come sparkling clean without a trace of greasy film on them. The New Rinso is kind as ever to hands. Try it!

U.F.O. MEETING

Herbert H. Hannan, secertary of the U.F.O., will talk to the Peterborough county branch in Paragon Hall, Wednesday night.

FAIR BOARD MEETING

The Peterborough Exhibition Board will meet Tuesday evening at 7.30 o'clock in the office of Frank C. Paterson.

GETS TWENTY DAYS.

Pleading guilty to the theft of a pound of shortening and a tin of peas from the A. and P. Store on Saturday, John King was sentenced by Magistrate Langley this morning to twenty days in jail. "I was drunk at the time, Your Worship," was King's explanation of the affair.

A LITTLE CHEAPER.

Pleading guilty to a drunk charge, after a week's adjournment, a local man was fined $10, and $3 costs, in Police Court this morning, after a plea for leniency. His request resulted in the cost of arrest being deducted, and saved the accused $1.50.

ADDRESS ON POULTRY

J. F. Francis of the Ontario Agricultural College will give a special lecture on poultry at the Keene short course on Wednesday. The time allotted to Mr. Francis is from 11 to 12 a.m. and from 1.30 to 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

INTERSECTION COLLISION.

Cars owned by Harry Northrop, 498 Charlotte Street, and Cloy Taylor, 214 Almer Street, collided at Charlotte and Aylmer Streets on Sunday morning, and were damaged to some extent, the drivers escaping unhurt.

CASES REMANDED.

Charged with stealing a case of matches and 100 pounds of flour from the Dominion Stores and 200 pounds of sugar from E. F. Mason, Joseph Johnston and Ivan Bolton were remanded until to-morrow morning. They had been remanded a week ago with the understanding then that there would be another hand to-day.

HE GOT IT ANYWAY.

The first man called in Police Court this morning on a drunk charge promptly pleaded not guilty, and asked for a week's adjournment. "I thought so," said the Magistrate, as he declared the case must go on. However, the police were not ready to proceed anyway, so the adjournment had to be ordered. "I am warning the police, too, that henceforth in these cases they must be ready to proceed," Magistrate Langley declared.

CARELESS AGAIN

The brisk northwest wind brought on an epidemic of chimney fires over the week-end, and on Sunday alone, the department responded to twelve calls from flaming chimneys and red hot pipes. Chief George Gimblett warns that all householders who have been burning wood or burning coal along with wood since the beginning of the Winter should clean both pipes and chimney at once as the pipes are most likely to be well filled and a definite fire hazard.

ONE OF THE BEST

Officials of the Circulation department of the Peterborough Examiner were shocked today when they heard of the tragic death of Melbourne Johnston, 14 year son of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Johnston of Cordova Mines. He had been carrier boy for the Examiner in the Cordova Mines district for some time and was held in high esteem by the department. The members join with the district in extending sympathy to his parents in their sorrow.

NUMERAL OMITTED.

Omission of a numeral in the report of Friday's session of the Northumberland - Durham council meeting at Cobourg may have given a wrong impression of the amount of money that was saved to the counties last year by the Ontario Government assuming full cost of old age pensions and mothers' allowances. The amount in the heading was correct, $56,310, but the figure "5" was inadvertently left out in the body of the story. Old age pensions, mothers' allowances and pensions for the blind paid in the united counties last year by the government totalled $330,427.38, as reported by the secretary of the Counties' Old Age Pensions Board, Percy Stinson of Millbrook. He called attention to the fact that the counties had been saved $56,310 by the government's action.

"TRUTH"

"Truth" was the subject of the lesson-sermon for First Church of Christ, Scientist, Peterborough on Sunday. The golden text was, "Ascribe ye greatness unto our God. He is the Rock, his work is perfect: for all his ways are judgment: a God of truth and without iniquity, just and right is he." (Deut. 32: 3, 4) Selections from the Bible included the following from Psalms 40: 6, 11, "Sacrifice and offering thou didst not desire; mine eyes hast thou opened: burnt offering and sin offering hast thou not required. Withhold not thou thy tender mercies from me, O Lord: let thy lovingkindness and thy truth continually preserve me." Correlative citations from the Christian Science textbook, included the following: "It is essential to understand, instead of believe, what relates most nearly to the happiness of being. To seek Truth through belief in a human doctrine is not to understand the infinite. We must not seek the immutable and immortal through the finite, mutable, and mortal, and so depend upon belief instead of demonstration, for this is fatal to a knowledge of science."

Flaming death came to four children as they slept in their home at Cordova Mines Sunday night, while a mother and the remaining one of her five children escaped in their nightclothes. The fire was the worst in the history of the tiny hamlet, one of the most gruesome in the annals of Peterborough County. The four victims, children of Mr. and Mrs. David Johnston, and whose bodies were recovered later, are seen in the insets at the TOP of these pictures. From LEFT to RIGHT they are Melbourne, 14; Wallace, 8; Jackie, 10, and Dorothy, 12. At the EXTREME RIGHT is their father, who was working in the mine at the time of the calamity. Three men, neighbors, attempted to rescue the children from the blazing home but were driven back by the intense heat and flames. They were: James Barrons, TOP LEFT; Harry Bowen, shown at TOP CENTRE, as he told Provincial Constable Everett Smith of Belleville how he had first observed the fire (beside them is Provincial Constable Don Carruthers of Belleville); and Lorne Bowen, shown at TOP RIGHT. Mute evidence of the age of the youngsters, of their helplessness, is seen in the picture at LOWER LEFT in which Provincial Constable Hatch from Marmora is pointing to the remains of a doll, that had apparently been taken to bed by one of them. In front of it is all that remains of the beds of two of the youngsters. In the picture at LOWER RIGHT police are at work probing the embers for trace of the victims. Holding the shovel is Provincial Constable Hatch of Marmora and with him are Provincial Constable Carruthers of Belleville and Chief Constable Percy Grey of Marmora.

Turn Victoria Park Into County Market

Prospect of Victoria Park being transformed into a public market and parking space was reflected in the discussion with which the county council closed their week's business at noon Saturday.

It may have been only a boo-man gesture, but it had all the accompaniment of seriousness, especially in Deputy-reeve Melville H. Johnston's complain of being chivvied around the market by officious authority, and the further indignity of "not being allowed to walk on Victoria Park and it our own property."

The North Monaghan Deputy opened the question of market accommodation saying that Saturday morning there was a crowd around the main entrance to the market building "and you could hardly get near it. To go on the market you are tabbed for ten cents. When we stopped there a policeman yelled this morning 'eGt out of there.' I told him I had paid ten cents, and I had a right to stay there. He said something about not allowing it if he had his way. Conditions are getting worse all the time. The city doesn't feel like doing anything about it, although there has been some talk last year.

We have our own property in the park down here, and it might make a good market place. We wouldn't have people dictating to us all the time. There has been more scrapping around the market this year than usual, I don't think it is due to any one reason. The city sells the right to collect tolls and you can't blame the man for getting what he can out of it. I feel that the city just doesn't want us. Getting knocked about makes one hot under the collar, and when you get treated like that you feel you might as well stay at home.

If we start a creamery we might start a market, too."

Mr. Johnston also referred to the difficulty of finding parking space around the city, and suggested that as the county owns Victoria Park they could convert it into a market with the additional utility of a public parking lot.

"Some call it a sparking space, now," Mr. Johnston remarked, "but it would be more use to us if we cut the 's' off and made it a parking space."

Warden Milby said he did not know how far the city had gone with its discussion of the market problem.

"Whatever they do," commented Reeve W. A. Anderson, "it will be a city scheme. Producers should have a producers' scheme."

"We can investigate all these projects when our committee gets together, and report back to the council possibly before the June sessions," Reeve Gifford said. "I feel this council has every right to take a lead in any matter pertaining to agriculture. With the approval this council has expressed, and with the committee we have taking up these questions, I think we may have some definite action develop from it."

Deputy-reeve Johnston flung another barb in the direction of the city council with the suggestion "if they have any more trees to cut in Victoria Park they send for the Warden. He knows more about it than those who cut down the last one and destroyed a couple of others."

Reeve W. A. Anderson's motion, seconded by Reeve Robt. Martin, instructed the agricultural committee to obtain all necessary information relating to the Park, its ownership, the agreement with the city to the end that we may decide to take it over ourselves.

Utilities Men At Funeral Of Old Laborer

The manly measure of sentiment that binds together the employees of the city's Utilities Commission was noticed again this morning at the funeral of Joseph Morrelli, an employee of quite a number of years who died rather suddenly last week. Five of the pallbearers were fellow employees, Edward Perks, Edward Drumm, J. Scott, J. Delasaro and Al Spencely, and Edward McNee. Altogether at least twelve of the Utilities staff including R. L. Dobbin, manager, and Harry Beatty, attended the funeral to St. Peter's Cathedral and cemetery.

Those who knew Giuseppe Morelli as he was christened in his native Italy, realized that there was something different about him. Engaged as a laborer with the commission he generally managed to look presentable, even in his working clothes, but especially after work, at week end and so on. He liked to be dressed neatly, and he took the pains to look trim. In every respect he was a good citizen. They liked him down at the Utilities' headquarters. During the last two years he had been complaining of some vague heart trouble, and whenever it was possible to turn lighter work his way, the foreman did so. Probably Mr. Morrelli did not know many persons in Peterborough, but he had made real friends among the Utilities' employees, and their respect for this elderly laborer as shown at the funeral this morning was a fine sentiment which came to the notice of the Examiner only by chance.

Riverman Passes

OTTAWA, Jan. 23— (C.P.).—John Joseph Boyd, for nearly half a century well known in Upper St. Lawrence River navigation circles, died here yesterday.

Native of White Hall, N.Y., Mr. Boyd was a resident of Prescott, Ont., for nearly 75 years. He joined the Brescott-Odgensburg, N.Y., Ferry Company in the early 80's, and was in its employ until his retirement eight years ago.

Not a Robbery

Unusual activity around the local premises of the Bank of Nova Scotia and the presence of a number of city and provincial police early Sunday afternoon aroused considerable curiosity. The excitement was caused by the fact that the portable vault from the burned bank at Bancroft was brought here by truck and with its contents placed in the Bank of Nova Scotia. Provincial Constable Palmatier of Bancroft escorted the valuable load to Peterborough.

Anchor Ice Is Causing Power Trouble

A series of minor mishaps occurred at the Canadian General Electric Company's plant over the weekend. Sunday afternoon's high wind ripped off a section of the roof of the carpenter shop. Men were called out immediately to begin repairs and otherwise to prevent the sprinkler system from freezing.

Anchor ice above the Nassau dam shut off the electric power early this morning. The big steam turbine at the factory had to be put into use to turn the wheels when the plant began the week at eight o'clock. Men were engaged in clearing away the anchor ice from the wheels at the power house.

Soldiers' Graves Are Unmarked

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Jan. 23—The ex-service men met in annual session at the Armouries on Wednesday at 8 p.m., with the president, F. K. Edworthy occupying the chair. Reports were encouroging, and the treasurer, E. H. Barnes, reported a small balance on the right side of the books for 1939.

Particular interest centred round the report of receipts from Poppy Day, and dances, which had been used to provide Christmas comforts for some veterans' families which had need, and also to purchase two stones for unmarked gaves—that of Q.M.S. John Abbott, in St. Paul's cemetery, and Corporal Fickling, at Zion cemetery.

The election of officers resulted as follows: President, F. L. Edworthy; vice-president, Herbert Trick; secretary, Jack Deyell; treasurer, E. H. Barnes.

A pleasant social hour completed the gathering.

RIVER FROZEN OVER

Ole Man River came out of the sub-zero week-end with a complete surface of ice south of the C.P.R. bridge. Little Lake was frozen around to the C.N.R. Bridge.

Plan Highway Fund

The number 7 Highway Association, recently formed, is assessing constituent municipalities along the route two cents a head of population for a fund to promote its aims and purposes. Kichener is to be asked tonight to contribute $615 on that basis, and other proposed assessments include Peterborough $446, Guelph $421, Stratford $354, Lindsay $150, and Perth $81. Municipalities of less than 1,250 population are to be asked to contribute $25. The Association plans to use the money to advertise No. 7 highway as a main tourist artery across Ontario. Peterborough council two weeks ago decided not to join the Association.

Man Pleads Guilty To Assaulting Wife

Pleading guilty to assaulting his wife, a young married man was remanded for a week on his own bail when he was arraigned before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in the Police Court this morning.

"This man was in a beverage room on Saturday evening," Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., explained to the court, "and his wife telephoned to him to come home. That apparently caused trouble, and he went home and hit her. She has a black eye."

The Crown Attorney stated that this was the third time the wife had been struck since October.

Magistrate Langley pointed out the necessity of protecting wives against that sort of thing.

Mr. McElderry suggested that under the circumstances a suspended sentence might be better than a jail sentence for the latter would mean the accused would lose his job.

A remand was finally decided upon and the husband will report regularly to the police during the week.

PUSSY-WILLOWS BUDDING

Marion Quinn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Quinn, who lives four miles east of the city brought a bouquet of pussy-willows home last week that were out in bloom. The willows had shot out much the same as they would be in April, and the girl took the unusual exhibit to school to show the class.

S. Waterman Is Found Dead In His Chair

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BAILIEBORO, Jan. 23.—Sidney Waterman, 70, was found dead sitting on a chair in his home, the last house on the Cavan side of the village, about 7 p.m. Saturday.

Robert Cruickshanks, a baker's delivery man acquainted with Mr. Waterman's habits, noticed when he called that the house was in darkness. He went in casually to see whether Mr. Waterman was at home, and made the shocking discovery that death had preceded him some time during the day.

Dr. A. L. Russell was called and ascertained that death was due to natural causes and the debility of age. Mr. Waterman had not been well from Wednesday of last week. When Mr. Cruickshanks entered the house about 7 p.m. his first impression on seeing Mr. Waterman was that he had fallen asleep. He spoke to him and tried to arouse him, and it suddenly became evident that the elderly man was dead. He was a brother of Fred Waterman of South Monaghan, former Warden of Northumberland and Durham. The funeral will be held Tuesday afternoon.

Farmers Succeed In Fighting Fire

(Examiner Correspondence.)

KEENE, January 23. — Only the heroic efforts of the family and scores of neighbors who answered the alarm saved the farm home of Herbert J. Miller, Lot 18, Concession 5, three and a half miles from Keene, on Sunday night, when a bad chimney fire broke out and the roof of the southern part of the building burst int oflames.

The family had been in bed some time when Mr. Miller got up to fix the fire and found the house full of smoke. Telephone calls for assistance brought neighbors hurrying to the scene and a bucket brigade was formed and did splendid work in getting the fire under control after part of the roof and wall had been damaged.

Returning Officers

Appointment of returning officers in 236 of the 243 federal constituencies is reported in the Canada Gazette today. Those in the Peterborough area are Vincent Eastwood for Peterborough West; H. W. Sabine, Marmora, for Hastings-Peterborough; Thomas F. Hall, K.C., Cobourg, for Northumberland; A. J. Campbell, Lindsay, for Victoria; Lawrence C. Mason, Bowmanville, for Durham; J. P. Mangan, Oshawa, for Ontario county; and W. R. Rierdon, Belleville, for Hastings South.

Two Cars Collide; Driver Arrested

Gil Sanders of Lindsay pleaded not guilty when charged before Magistrate Langley, K.C., in police court this morning with drunken driving on McDonnel street on Saturday night and was remanded for a week at his own request, bail being fixed at $500.

A companion who was charged with being drunk also pleaded not guilty and his case was also adjourned for a week.

The two men were arrested following an accident on McDonnel stret at 10.40 o'clock Saturday night. Cyril Agnew, 51 River Road, was driving east on McDonnel street and between Bethune and Stewart streets, another car which Agnew told the police was on the wrong side of the road, travelling west, collided with his machine. The driver of the other car backed away after the crash and then drove off, acording to Agnew.

Agnew promptly reported the accident to the police, stating that the machine that collided with his was apparently considerably damaged. He had been able to get the number of the hit-and-run vehicle and as it was a Lindsay number the officers decided that the driver would make for home and would perhaps have difficulty because of the damaged condition of his car. Sergeant John Thompson and Constable Archie Menzies took up the chase and near the intersection of Bennett street and the Lindsay highway they found the sought-for car in the ditch. The two men were arrested.

Both automobiles that had figured in the accident were damaged but the brunt of the crash was taken by Sanders' machine, the grill, radiator, fenders and bumper all showing the effect of the impact.

England Wins Third Match

DURBAN, South Africa, Jan. 23—(CP Cable).—England took the lead in the test cricket matches with South Africa today, winning third of the five-game series by an innings and 13 runs. The first two contests were drawn.

After collapsing for 103 runs in their first-innings reply to England's big total of 469 for four wickets, declared, the Springboks made a spirited recovery, but the second-innings total of 353 fell just short of the number required to avoid the innings' defeat. Bruce Mitchell led the South Africans comeback, scoring 109 runs.

The victory was the 20th for England since Anglo-South African tests were inaugurated in 1888. The Springboks have won 12 times and 21 matches ended in stalemates.

Born in Dundas, he attended Wesleyan Boys' College when it was located here. He became associated with the company 80 years ago and during his presidency it grew until it had branches at Owen Sound, London, Woodstock, Peterborough, Hamilton and Brantford. His father founded the company.

LAKEFIELD LEGIONNAIRES DEFEAT NEWMARKET PUCKISTS 4 TO 2

Come From Rear To Gain Nod In Hot Tussle

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 23.—A lively battle marked by 13 penalties and several injuries was the return struggle between Lakefield and Newmarket Intermediate 'B' O.H.A. teams, played in the Lakefield rink on Saturday evening. Lakefield gave Newmarket a clean-cut 7-3 trimming in Newmarket on Jan. 13, and the visitors arrived on Saturday thirsting for revenge. But the Lakefield Legionnaires held the score to a tie in the first and second periods, and then turned on the power in the third to bring the final reckoning to Lakefield 4, Newmarket 2, placing the Legionnaires third in the district with three wins and two losses to their credit.

Lakefield launched a vigorous offensive early in the game, but the Newmarket defence beat off their attacks consistently and the period ended with a scoreless tie. Chappell was boarded and knocked unconscious early. He had to be carried from the ice and did not return. Rumors that Chappell had broken a hip were later denied but it is feared the bruises he sustained may keep him out of the game for a time. Six penalties were handed out in this canto, five of which went to Newmarket. O'Leary took the rap for Lakefield.

In the second, Lakefield was on the offensive again, but it looked for a while as though the local lads would never get around the Newmarket defence. Blewett made a couple of lovely tries on passes from Chittick and Chittick made a nice attempt with a long shot from centre, but Peters in goal for Newmarket and a veteran of the Dominion championships kept everything out of the net.

Then Gibney for Newmarket broke through Lakefield's defence and counted the first one of the evening on the visitors' side. Lakefield tried to retaliate with a concerted drive, but though they kept hammering at the net, the Legionnaires couldn't seem to find a hole anywhere in the defence. The fans were beginning to think that Peters would finish with a shut-out to his credit, when the Legionnaires' persistence was rewarded and Deeth broke the spell. He tallied to tie up the game.

Newmarket took the lead for the second time when Gibney scored again. The visitors' nearly counted a third time when they broke away during a Lakefield offensive and passed a weakened Lakefield defence to shoot for a goal which was narrowly averted by Loyst. Then Blewett tied the score when he pushed in a counter around Goalie Peters on the ice.

In the third stanza the play smartened up considerably and Loyst made several nice saves when the Newmarket forwards launched a hot attack and the net result was two goals for Lakefield, both by Jewell, shoved in on each occasion during a mass attack on Peters.

Jewell, Blewett and Chittick showed some good work on Lakefield's forward line. Whitton, perhaps the most popular player with the fans gave everyone a fright when he was knocked down in the third period. However the injuries were not serious and play was resumed. The lineups:

Lakefield — Loyst, goal; Whitton and Burton, defence; Chittick, center; Blewett, left wing; Jewell, right wing; Deeth, Chappell, Morin, Creighton, O'Leary, subs.

First Period

No score.

Penalties — Lakefield, O'Leary; Newmarket, Frightman, Peal (2), Brammar, May.

Second Period

Newmarket—Gibney 4.00
Newmarket—Gibney 7.00
Lakefield—Deeth 12.00
Lakefield—Blewett 16.00

Penalties—Newmarket, May; Lakefield, Morin, Whitton, Creighton.

Third Period

Lakefield—Jewell 9.00
Lakefield—Jewell 14.00

Penalties — Lakefield, Whitton, Chittick; Newmarket, Gibney.

Referee—L. LeBarr.

Petes' Goalie Suffers Injury

Earl McNabb, one of the Petes' two senior goaltenders, was injured at the Brock St. rink on Saturday afternoon while playing in a C.G.E. Shop Hockey League contest. He was hit on the throat by a puck in a close-is scramble while tending the net for Switchgears against the Machine Shop. It happened in the first period, and McNabb was assisted off the ice—failing to return. He was taken to the hospital for an X-ray.

Dr. W. J. Gordon attended the injured player and kept him under observation over the weekend. He stated this morning that McNabb, just out of junior ranks, was coming along satisfactorily and would probably be discharged today. Dr. Gordon explained that injuries around what is commonly known as "the adam's apple" are sometimes serious, but that in this case McNabb appeared to have escaped a real injury—though the accident was quite painful. "He will not play hockey for a few days yet," said the doctor.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

There will be an O.H.A. junior joust here tonight (Monday) at 8.30 o'clock in the Brock St. rink when the local Colts and Monarchs meet—and it ought to be a nice number. These teams tangled before and the Colts won, but here's the point: The Colts since haven't been exactly setting the world on fire, having dropped a pair to Lindsay, while the younger Monarchs are clicking in pretty fair style. They're stepping along good, and some of 'em figure they can take the Colts this time. Whereas the latter gang laugh at the idea. It will be quite a battle, as they have plenty of rivalry between them and don't play any parlor games. The tussle rates a crowd and the fans can bank on a right nifty scrap with the Colts out to prove they have class—on ice as well as on paper—and the Monarchs out for revenge for their last loss. It'll be a real puck tilt, folks.

* * * * * *

And the Petes journey back to Belleville again tonight, this time to tackle the Redmen in a senior "B" fray. The locals are tucked in second place now, just back of the Fliers and a nose ahead of the Thomas team. While the locals feel they can take the Quinte crowd fairly handily, they're just liable to get the shock of their young lives—and anything is apt to occur in this senior setup this semester. It's only a three-team group, with two making playoffs, so the Petes have only to rub out the Redmen to wiggle into the three-in-five playoff series. After the last clash of these outfits on local ice, there will be hard feelings and plenty of high-sticking, we imagine. But somehow we have the hunch that the Petes can take the boys of Bella Villa in puckery or pugilism. So there!

He Bought The Rink

While down in Peeney Mills' town on Friday, we learned that Sandy Burrows had bought the Belleville arena from the Hume estate, at a most reasonable price. He and a partner. Sandy is the O.H.A. representative down there, and a good fellow—insurance business, we believe. He plans to have artificial ice there next winter. The arena, built not so long ago, cost in the neighborhood of a hundred grand—or $100,000, if ya like to see it spelled out—and is a fine structure. Good ice surface and will pack in some 3,500 fans. Was an artificial arena at the start, but some trouble arose and they took out the artificial plant and sold it.

* * * * * *

Now, the thought occurs to us that, if Belleville puts in artificial ice next winter and we dont have it, Peterborough will be left right out in the cold for a senior "B" grouping. Fliers and Belleville will then most likely go senior "A" along with Kingston and Oshawa—and the Petes can go back to intermediate "B" with Port Hope and Cobourg, if these towns will have 'em! Whereas, if the Petes too had artificial ice a fine six-team senior "A" setup would follow with Kingston, Belleville, Fliers, Oshawa, Toronto and the Petes. An ideal situation. Even if only four of these clubs went senior "A", wouldn't that be six city blocks ahead of the present three-team senior "B" circuit, with ice when the weather is right?

Three Lively Tilts

Three C.G.E. shop puck frays at the Brock on Saturday, and everyone an okay battle. Fractionals nudged out a 2-1 nod over Wiremen, Switchgears and Machinists went to a 3-all deadlock, and Cabinets corralled a 2-1 verdict over the Test crew. Good games on good ice, with quite a few fans whooping it up. Lotta O.H.A. players on the teams in this loop and the hockey doesn't smell to the high heavens, by any manner of means! Earl McNabb got hit on the throat with a puck and may be laid up for a time, he being one of the Petes' goalies.

Church hockey tonight at All Saints' rink: St. John's Bantams vs. George St. at six, Park St. vs. Knox Juveniles at seven, Mark St. vs. All Saints Juniors at eight, and Murray St. Seniors vs. All Saints at nine. Rumors have been drifting around among teams in this circuit that Clint Curtis of Mark St. had been rather severely injured last Thursday. But instead of 17 stitches and possible eye injuries, the youth required but four or five stitches on a cut over the eye—we are informed. He stayed overnight in hospital because of the anaesthetic, which was not administered until about 10.30 that night. Incidentally, Dr. W. J. Gordon, who had Earl McNabb, Petes' goalie, X-rayed for a possible throat injury Saturday, is discharging him from hospital today—says McNabb is coming along okay but won't play hockey for a couple of more days.

Legionnaires Cop It

Lakefield Legionnaires are coming along very well these days, and thank ya so much for awsking! They took a 4-2 win over Newmarket on Saturday before a goodly gathering, and did it the hard way. Had to come from behind in a lively squabble, which saw a bunch of penalties and a few injuries. Chappell may be out of the lineup a time, being bruised up, and Buster Whitton was downed hard on at least one occasion. Jewell dented the hemp twice for the Legros Legionnaires, as Blewett and Deeth did it once apiece. A nice one to watch and a neat number to win. Dunno when their next home setto will be, but it'll be pronto.

Quakers took a 33-19 Senior City Cage Loop triumph over the Dominions Saturday eve in the "Y", as St. John's squeezed out a 23-22 nod o'er Hecla, and St. Paul's did a 51-22 chore on C.G.E. The latter gang, on top last year, now nestle in the cellar in this topsy-turvy league. Quakers climbed out in front and it's developing into a hectic race. A jammed gallery and heaps of action for the triple-header as the week wound up. Jim Thorburn is well out in front of the scoring race, while Joe Jakafby is next—being a potent point-getter. These two baseballers are stars in the hoop sport, too.

Hither and yawn: Millbrook and Lindsay meet in Omemee tonight for a hockey match....Jack Mowers, Falls' goalie who helped trim the Petes last year in hockey, has declined a pro offer with a Detroit farm club....On account of he has a good job and his club is in a contending spot for senior playoffs....McNabb was hit on the adam's apple and suffered a lot of pain after his accident Sat'day aft....Joe Smith will handle the locals' game in Belleville tonight; dunno who will look after the juniors here....Frank Buckland will not use Gray this eve, and Nicholls will be working, but otherwise the squad will be at top strength....Whitby is at Oakwood, while Lakefield goes to Beaverton in intermediate "B" this p.m., as Cobourg juniors tangle with Bowmanville....We don't explain when some of the minor local puck squads are short-handed, and excuse their loss on that, as it's up to the team to be at full strength; why blame their rivals?....After tonight, next O.H.A. tilt here is Wednesday with Port Hope playing Monarchs; Belleville Redmen come here Friday....O.J.H.A. frays this eve: Lakefield at Campbellford, and Lindsay vs. St. Peter's in Lakefield....And this takes care of Blue Monday.

Holdout No. 1

Baseball contracts haven't been out very long but already some of the diamond luminaries have found the figures after the dollar signs highly unsatisfactory. Chief among the early season holdouts is Van Lingle Mungo, ABOVE, the Brooklyn Dodger pitcher who appears to have so many possibilities as a star and fails to produce so regularly.

MONTREAL, Jan. 23—(CP).—Nels Crutchfield, deprived of a professional hockey career by an automobile accident, has returned to the game, after four years absence, as an amateur.

"Crutch," hailed as a coming star when he played with Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey league in 1934-35, suffered a fractured skull in a collision a few months after completing his first year as a professional.

Doctors told Crutch he was through with hockey for good but the tall, good-looking blond boy from Shawinigan Falls, Que., didn't believe them. For two years he kept out of the game altogether; last winter he played a few games with his home team in the Eastern Provincial league.

Then, a couple of weeks ago, he turned up at the Forum "to get some exercise" with Victorias of the Quebec Senior league, when Vics met the Senators in Ottawa Saturday night Crutch was on the lineup.

He played again in the Vics-Ottawa game here yesterday—not for long and not very impressively. But enough to get the feel of competition. It takes more than two games to make up for four years of inactivity and Crutch is not impatient.

CURLING

By HERB MARTIN

We are indebted to Miss H. Munro, president of the ladies' club, for the following piece of poetry. Miss Munro has many more and maybe we will be able to print them from time to time. This one is entitled "Coming With the Rye."

(Tune: Coming Thru' the Rye, Key of F).

We're here for fun right from the start,
Pray drop your dignity,
Just laugh and sing with all your heart
And show your loyalty.
May other meetings be forgot,
Let this one be the best,
Join in the song we sin gto-night,
Be happy with the rest!
If a curler meet a curler
With a crock of rye,
Would a curler ask a curler
If his thirst was high?
Every curler has his lassie,
Plump, or tall or shy,
All he wants to know is whether
He will bring her rye?

During the time we have been mixed up in making draws and in drawing up schedules of one kind and another we have seen various combinations and have seen and expected to see many different and peculiar results, but what happened down at the rink Saturday afternoon was a new one and one we doubt we will lever see again. Here's what happened. We had 14 rinks entered in the bonspiel, all we could take, and we were playing 3 5-end games. Now before we go any further we wan to point out the draw was made (complete) before the players went out on the ice for the first game. It is only natural to expect that at the end of the first game there would be seven winners and seven losers. There's nothing unusual about that, but by the 'luck" of the draw at the end of the second game we still had seven two game winners and seven two game losers. Now that is very very odd and in itself is worthy of note, but here comes the real outstanding peculiarity. Looking over the boon at the beginning of the 3rd game we find the seven two-game winners are drawn against the seven two game losers, something we have never seen before or even heard of, so it was quite possible that we could finish up the contest with 7 3-game winners, the highest number of 3-game winners that could possibly be in this contest, but it turned out that we have 5 3-game winners, thereby spoiling what we believe would have been a record that would have stood for many years. If anybody interested in curling can produce a draw such as the one we have tried to describe we wish they would let us know.

Local Juniors Here Tonight

Tonight (Monday) at 8.30 o'clock in the Brock St. rink, the Peterborough Monarchs and the Colts will clash in an all-local O. H. A. junior scheduled fixture. It is the second meeting of these teams this year, the Colts having copped the first one. They feel they can do a repeat act, while the Monarchs believe they have improved sufficiently now to take their city rivals. It ought to be a good game, with plenty of heated rivalry apparent between the young squads, and lots of speedy, exciting hockey on tap. A good-sized crowd of puck followers are expected to take in the tussle tonight.

While the Colts are heavier, and should be more experienced, they have not been clicking in top form the last week or so. And the younger Monarchs have been playing fine hockey their last several starts. They have speed, color and lots of potent puck ability. Both teams will be at full strength and, as the season advances, should show more and more the effects of their coaching and conditioning. It promises to be a real lively fray from start to finish, on a fast sheet of ice.

Settlement Eagerly Looked Forward To East-West Football Animosity

Regina, Jan. 23 — (CP). — The Western Interprovincial Football Union, a longer schedule adopted, plans to send a delegation to the Canadian Rugby Union meeting in Toronto next month with instructions to go "more than half way" toward ironing out matters of contention between east and west.

Frank Hannibal of Winnipeg, re-elected president, and Joe Ryan, executive member and manager of Winnipeg Blue Bombers, were appointed at the Western Union's annual meeting here yesterday to attend the C.R.U. as delegates.

The union approved a plan introduced by Ryan for presentation at the Toronto meeting. Details will not be disclosed until then but it was indicated the western union believes the plan will be acceptable to eastern officials and will settle the "East-West animosity."

Residence Rule

Main differences between East and West are in residence and interference rules. The C.R.U. demands players be continuous residents of Canada from Oct. 1 of the year preceding the playing season. The Western Union requires residence only from Sept. 1 of the current year.

Interference is permitted 10 yards ahead of the line of scrimmage under western rules. The C.R.U. limit is three yards.

The W.I.F.U. rules were clarified to define an "import" as anyone who has played football in the United States except for bonafide Canadians who have attended school in United States and turned to Canada. Previously an "import" was defined as a former U.S. college player.

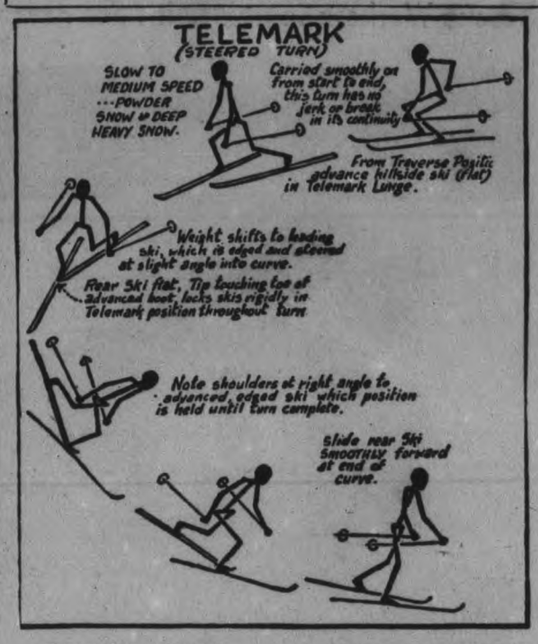
Each of the four western clubs is permitted to have eight "imports" but to use no more than seven in any one game.

The Union decided players must carry numbers on the front and back of their sweaters and made it mandatory for all teams to travel by bus "until such time as the railways establish rates for football teams commensurate with the vast amount of new traffic developed by the union in recent years and additional travel to be created by the bigger schedule this season."

A resolution was passed urging the C.R.U. attempt to revive the Dominion junior rugby final with outstanding eastern teams grouped in a special playoff to make possible a Dominion final no later than the last Saturday in November.

HOW TO SKI

By FRITZ LOOSLI
Instructor Toronto Ski Club



DEEP SNOW RUNNING

Much of the skiing done in Canada is on hard, packed snow and the skier used to that type of skiing feels at a loss when running in deep snow. The telemark turn has been the favored turn for the average skier in powder snow, but with a diagonal downpull this turn is hard to execute and the expert prefers the open Christiania.

Telemark

The telemark, oldest ski turn known, is one of the hardest to execute. Before attempting to turn in the telemark position, run straight downhill in a split position, sliding the left and right ski alternately forward. The forward foot should reach the tip of the back ski. Once you have gained confidence running in that position you can attempt to make the turn.

For a telemark to the right, slide the left ski forward and when the front foot has reached the tip of he right ski, edge the left ski inward and transfer your weight entirely to the forward ski. The right ski will follow in the turn, being guided by the left foot. When the turn is almost completed bring the right ski forward and finish the turn with skis parallel, weight distributed equally on both.

The telemark position gives the impression of tight rope walking, making it difficult to keep one's balance. Therefore, make the first attempt turning in a long radius turn rather than short fast swing, because the resistance of the snow will throw you outward.

Advanced skiers prefer to use the open christiania for deep powder snow turning, the main reason for this being because they are using a downpull binding which keep the heel almost silod to the ski. This binding makes it very difficult to take the split position required for the telemark turn.

Open Christiania Wider

The open christiania in deep snow has to be done in a far wider position than on hard snow in order to get a steered turn rather than a sliding turn, because of the resistance of the snow. The body motion must also be done with great care. Jerking usually leads to a fall.

While in hard, packed snow the skis are edged to the extent of holding the turn, in deep snow the skis are pressed in the snow to bank the turn and give riding surface for the skis, simiar to the bank of a bicycle race track.

In straight running, to counteract the resistance of the snow, the forward pressure of the knees should be more marked than when running on hard surface. At great speed a marked forward lean will give an uplift to the body which will raise the skis almost to the surface of the soft snow, greatly increasing the speed, while an erect position will decrease the speed, because of the wind resistance.

Mistake All Around

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 23 — (AP). — A case of mistaken identity put Paul Bush, 24, in the hospital. Bush mistook the house of his neighbor, John Quagliata, for his own, and attempted to enter. Quagliata, 60, mistook his neighbor for a burglar and shot three times through the door, wounding Bush in the leg.

Place For Keller With Yanks Says Selkirk

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Jan. 23.—(AP).—There's a place on the New York bench awaiting Charlie Keller, the hard-hitting rookie outfielder, of George (Twinkletoes) Selkirk has sized up the situation correctly.

'He'll be fighting for a place along with Joe DiMaggio, Tom Henrich and me; he have to do some fighting,'" promised Selkirk, the Huntsville, Ont., boy who made good and had to fill Babe Ruth's shoes when he became a Yankee regular.

"I'm looking for an unusually good year myself. I had a tough break last year when Frank Crosetti and I collided. That slowed me up a bit but I'm back in top shape now and I'll stay that way.'"

Playing in 99 games, the outfielder had a batting average of .254. He hit 10 homers.

As for the American League race, "I can't see anything but another pennant for the Yankees because we'll be better and stronger than ever," Selkirk said.

"Joe Gordon will be better with a year in the majors under his b[elt]. Wes Ferrell will be an added as[set] to our mound staff. Lou Gehrig undoubtedly will go better this year than last year. Lefty Gomez can be counted on for another good season and of course old Red Ruffing will come along with his usual 18 or 20 victories.

"We'll have Buddy Rosar and Kellar, the two Newark flashes, up this year, but I don't think we'll need them.

Commenting on the death of Colonel Jacob Ruppert, owner of the Yankees, Selkirk said: "We'll all miss the kinly influence of Col. Ruppert but that will only make us carry on a little harder for him."

This will be Selkirk's sixth year with New York.

Cabinets Win Over Testmen

Cabinets copped a 2-1 thriller over Test in a classy CG..E. Shop Hockey League game at the Brock on Saturday. It was a fast, tight tussle with no penalties drawn. Test scored their only goal in the third as they fought hard to overcome a two-goal margin for Cabinets in the middle chukker. Tommy Miller returned to the net wars and showed flashes of his oldtime skill. Krug, Archibald and Tollington for the Test; and E. Spencely, Nicholls and Brown for the winners looked best. E. Spencely notched both goals for his team, with Archibald the Test sniper. The teams:

Cabinets: Goal, Flint; defence, Spencely, F. Spencely; centre, Nicholls; wings, Heard, B. MacDougall; subs, Griffin, Brown, Earle.

QUAKERS GAIN LEAD OF SENIOR CAGE LOOP WITH NEAT WIN

St. John's Win As St. Paul's Cop A Decision

Led by Joe Jakafby, Quakers ran wild in the last half to beat Dominions 33-19 and go into the league leadership, while St. John's gained their first victory 23-22 over Hecla, and St. Paul's had a field day to trim C.G.E. 51-22, in Saturday night's Senior City League cage games in the Y.M.C.A. gym before a crowded gallery.

The records after this week-end's games show Quakers out in front with three wins and no losses, St. Paul's and Dominions tied with two and one, St. John's and Hecla next with one and two, and C.G.E. in the cellar with three straight reverses.

Scoring figures show Jim Thorburn of St. Paul's who was high scorer this week,away out in front with 51 points, 27 ahead of his nearest rival. Joe Jackafby of the league-leading Quakers, who has 24.

Dominions fought on almost even terms with Quakers in the opening half of the night's important battle, the struggle for first place, but Quakers out-played and out-scored the losers 17-7 in the last half to earn the win. Jakafby kept his team in the running in the opening half making 14 of Quaker's 16 points and in the last stanza Kingdon, Thomas and Patterson added to this to keep the winners well ahead. Jakafby, Gunsolus, Thomas and Kingdon were best for Quakers and Grose and Holmes looked good in a losing Dominions cause. The teams:

Dominions (19)—Centre, Dundas; forwards, Holmes (5), Hammel (2); guards, Wolstenholme (2), Grose (1); subs, Rennie. (3), Hunter, Weese, Csumrick (4).

Tight Tilt

A free throw gave St. John's a one point lead with seconds to go and broke a 22-all deadlock with Hecla to give the Anglicans their first win. The winners had a 12-11 edge at the half, but Hecla took the lead early in the last period and were still leading 22-20 with minutes to play, but St. John's scored a basket and a free throw. The shooting of both teams was bad, having numerous scoring chances in close, and play was rough and fast throughout with three players being expelled with four fouls. Ascott and Dyer were the winners stars and White, Sedgewick and Turner were best for Heclas. The teams:

St. John's (23)—Centre, Craig (6); forwards, Amys (3), Marshall (3); guards, Ascott (5), Dyer (3); subs, Clarke (3).

Start Strong

St. Paul's had a big margin in the first half of their game with C.G.E. having a 28-6 lead at the half and coasted in to a 51-22 run-away win. St. Paul's clearly had an edge in the play but not as big a one as the score would indicate, the losers being careless under the basket and the game was perhaps the fastest of the night. St. Paul's made most of their points breaking away after recovering C.G.E. rebounds, while the losers were shooting from beyond the defence rather than working the ball in. Thorburn, McIntyre and Pulkinghorn lead the Playmors and Holmes and Cameron stood out for C.G.E. The teams:

C.G.E. (22).—Centre, Cadd (2); forwards, Holmes (6), Edmonson; guards, Archibald (4); Cameron (4); subs, Broadley (6).

St. Paul's (51)—Centre, McArthur (6); forwards, Thorburn (21), Pulkinghorn (10); guards, Marsh (6), McIntyre (3); subs, Gemmel (5), Sedgewick.

Referee—Walter Ferris.
Umpire—Curly Krug.

Wire Dept. Lose To Fractionals

Fractionals pulled out a 2-1 C.G.E. Shop League puck verdict Saturday in the Brock over Wire Dept., is being the third game of a C.G.E. triple-header before a fair crowd of fans. The game was a rugged, heavy-checking session on good ice, with Clarke in the winners' cage being exceptionally hot this tussle. Fractionals notched two in the second and Wiremen got one back in a lively third. McDougall and Johnson scored for the victors, with Pammett tallying for Wire. Clarke, Crowe, Johnson, Harding, Heal and Pammett went best in this fixture. The losers drew but two penalties and the winners three, but there was plenty of stiff bumping. The teams:

Fractionals — Goal, Clarke; defence, Crowe, Houghton; center, McDougall; wings, Johnson, Coursey; subs, Brady, Easton, Clifford.

Referee—Red Creighton.

Benedicts Win From Bachelors

In a lively exhibition game Saturday at All Saints' rink, the Married Men of Outboard Marine Co. chastised the Single Men for their superior attitude by a 7-1 score. The lone counter for the Bachelors came when the Benedicts—probably out of pity or fond recollection!—put the puck in their own net. There were 18 highspots in the game, which will be listed some other time, some other place. The teams:

Married Men: Goal, Snowball Watkins, More-in Moore; defence, Moon Miller, Brickwall Fuller, Butt-end Irwin; forwards, Slash Hefferman, Newlywed Mesley, Creep Simmons, Torpedo Collins, Clam Woods.

Officials, Snapper Clapham, Speed Murphy.

Not Going To Run From Joe Says John Henry

SUMMIT, N.J., Jan. 23 — (AP).—Next to wanting the heavyweight championship, John Henry Lewis for a long time has wanted a chance at it. So next Wednesday night he's going to get what he wants no matter what goes on when he steps into the ring at Madison Square Garden, New York, for his scheduled 15-round wrangle with Joe Louis.

As a matter of cold analysis, Lewis is not a lamb being led to the slaughter, although he may be led there anyway. He is a strapping negro physical specimen who at 25 has had 99 professional fights and held the world's light-heavyweight title three years. That's about how long he has been looking toward the heavyweight goal, too, because he soon found the only thing harder than making the 175-pound limit was making some money out of his championship.

"I sure have waited a long while for this chance," he mused after yesterday's workout. "I'm in great shape. I'll weigh around 183 and I don't think the big pull (about 20 pounds) Joe will have ought to make any difference. I've been boxing heavyweights mostly for a couple of years.

"I know what I'm up against. I don't know, though, just how I'll work in there against him. Naturally, I'm not going to try any slugging.

"But I'm not going to run, either. I think it's possible to beat Joe with experience, speed and boxing ability. I think these are in my favor. Of course, if I see a chance to throw a finishing punch, I'll try that."

Albert College Trims Marmora

MADOC, Jan. 23.—Marmora High school lost to Albert College in an exhibition game at the Madoc Arena on Friday by a score of 7-5.

During the first two periods, play was on very even terms, but the heavier Belleville team came into their own in the third frame to step ahead of Marmora and keep their lead.

At the end of the first period, Brown, who was in the nets for Belleville, was changed, Stewart taking his place.

For Belleville, Campbell, Lougheed and Partridge were best, while the Leonard brothers and Reynolds were the pick of the Marmora squad.

This game was a tryout for the Marmora team before they enter into their interscholastic schedule.

The teams:

Albert College—Goal, Brown and Stewart; defence, Campbell, Lougheed; centre, Partridge; wings, Moulden, Finley; alternates, Harrison, Warrell, Woolley, White, Freeman.

Marmora — Goal, Prentice; defence, McInroy and Gale; centre, G. Leonard; wings, E. Reynolds and E. Leonard; alternates, Gazely, D. Prentice, Fleming, Shannon, Gray.

Bethany Trounced 3-2 By Janetville

(Examiner Correspondence.)

JANETVILLE, Jan. 23.—An exciting game of hockey was played in the local rink on Thursday evening between Bethany and Janetville, the latter winning by 3 to 2.

Despite the fact that it was a friendly game between neighbouring localities several casualities resulted.

During the last period Harry Latham of the local team suffered a nasty cut above his eye and was rushed to Dr. Henderson of Lindsay by Leonard McNeil, principal of the continuation school. Cecil Bradburn, also a local player sustained a bat on the nose that took him to a doctor the following day, who discovered the injured member to be broken.

Janetville visited the Bethany rink a week ago where they were also the winners. It is expected several games will be played during the winter as Bethany is doing splendidly considering this is their first year to have a rink.

Staff Prepares For Opening Of Baseball School

Baseball schools, a fairly recent innovation in the world of sport, are beginning to show signs of life in United States these days, and here's a scene from the one conducted annually in Orlando, Florida, by Joe Stripp, who spends his summers playing for Brooklyn Dodgers. Professor Stripp in person hands out diplomas to his teachers so they'll be able to tell their pupils they're fully qualified to show them a thing or two. As if they'd need diplomas to prove it! LEFT to RIGHT, receiving the "sheepskins" are Van Lingle Mungo, another Dodger; Johnny Cooney, Boston Bees; Joe Medwick, Don Padgett and Bob Weiland, all of St. Louis Cards.

C.G.E. Puckists Battle To Draw

Switchgears and Machine Shop of the C.G.E. Shop Hockey League battled to a 3-3 draw Saturday in the Brock St. rink. It was a fast, exciting fray, with no overtime. McNabb was hurt when hit on the throat on a close-in shot and had to leave the game, Agnew ably replacing him. McNabb went to the hospital for an X-ray. Machine Shop got three in the first, Curtin banging in Langton's rebound. Seabrooke getting another and then Charlton countnig. MacDonald got one back in the second, and Mowry and Leggitt tied it up in the third. There were no individual stars in this lively and even match. The teams:

Switchgear —Goal, McNabb, Agnew; defence, Ashmore, Mowry; centre, MacDonald; wings, Jobe, Leggitt; sub, Mackey.

Referee—Red Creighton.

Remember When—

Gene Tunney, who retired undefeated after taking the heavyweight boxing crown from Jack Dempsey in 1926, gained his first championship 17 years ago to-to-night by outpointing Battling Levinsky in 12 rounds for the United States' light-heavyweight title. Tunney los it to Harry Greb four months later, regained it in the following year and soon after entered heavyweight ranks.

Drillon And Apps Pace Leafs' Win Of 7-3 Over Americans; Bruins Blank Red Wings By 5 to 0

One by one the victims of one of the worst injury waves in National Hockey League annals are returning to the ice, with the stretch race coming on fast.

Boston Bruins and New York Rangers, running first and second, have regained full strength. Accordingly, they're showing greater reserve and finish than the clubs whose managers have to keep one eye on the active troops and the other on the hospital charts.

For two periods last night the Bruins and Rangers were held pretty well in check by opposing teams. Then superior man-power told and the top teams sprinted to one-sided victories.

The Rangers regained the services of Lynn Patrick after a month's absence, and he played a prominent part in their 7-3 win over the Canadiens at Montreal. The Bruins, who got back Bill Cowley last week after a long rest for the blond centre, punched 5 third-period goals to defeat the Red Wings 5-0 at Detroit. Canadiens and Wings, seventh and sixth respectively, showed the effects of injury jinxes which have cut their endurance.

Lynn Patrick

It has taken Toronto Maple Leafs most of the season to get over a string of injuries that robbed them in succession of Buzz Boll, Gordon Drillon, Bingo Kampman, and Gus Marker. But now that Drillon and Kampman are back the Leafs are firmly established in fourth position and flying for higher levels.

The rapidly improving Leafs whipped New York Americans 7-2 at Toronto on Saturday, with Drillon and his linemate, Syl Apps, sharing nine scoring points. The Americans, not what they were before Al Murray was hurt, went on to Chicago and played a 1-1 overtime tie with the weakening Black Hawks last night.

Rangers Take Canadiens

Rangers scored three times in the third period to whip Canadiens, who had beaten Boston 2-0 on Montreal ice Thursday night. For half the game the teams were level. Then Mac Colville scored twice, while his brother Neil of Rangers and Babe Siebert of the Habitants were serving penalties, and the New Yorkers stayed ahead.

Playing without George Mantha and Jimmy Ward, Canadiens matched early goals by Neil Colville and Alex Shibicky with scores by Paul Haynes and Armand Mondou. They made one more bid, when Louis Trudel beat Davie Kerr near the end of the second period, but in the third they were back on their heels and Rangers were swinging from the floor. George Allen, Lynn Patrick and Clint Smith completed the Ranger total.

The Red Wings fought doggedly until Bostons power exerted itself in the final period. Then, after Milt Schmidt opened the Bruin firing, Charlie Sands popped in two goals, Porky Dumart sank a penalty shot and Roy Conacher ended the volley. The penalty shot, awarded when Charlie Conacher of the Wings tripped his brother Roy at the goalmouth, was the first successful one of the season. Frank Brimsek's shutout was the Boston goalie's seventh.

Porky Dumart

Drillon, the league's leading scorer last winter, bagged two goals and three assists and Apps, who led in assists in 1937-38, contributed a goal and three assists in the Leaf triumph. Toronto went ahead to stay on early goals by George Parsons and Drillon, Americans getting their only scores in the first period as Doc Romnes added another for the Leafs. Nels Stewart and Lorne Carr counted for New York.

After a scoreless second chapter, Drillon made the Leaf margin 4-2 and he and Apps aided Bob Davidson in another goal. Apps scored with Drillon's aid and Pep Kelly rounded out the rout.

Stewart became the league's leading goal-scorer at Chicago when he levelled the count in the second period after Mush March's goal for the Hawks in the first. Earl Seibert was serving a penalty when Americans' great veteran tied the game.

Toolroom Squad Wins 5-3 Tilt

In a second division C.G.E. shop hockey loop game Friday at the Sacred Heart rink, Tool Room took a 5-3 win over Dip and Buff. It was a hard-fought nifty scrap between well-matched squads. The winners had a 3-1 edge in the first heat and neither team tallied in the second. Williams got three for Tool Room with Barry and Conroy counting one each. Heal, Maudsley and Padgett counted for the other side. Williams, Shaughnessy, Maudsley and Agnew were outstanding. The teams:

Dip and Buff: Goal, Agnew; defence, Riel, Peel; centre, Maudsley; wings, Heal, Padgett; subs, Bowen, Reed, McClellan.

Referee, Bill Bennett.

Canada's Jeff Heath and Fiancee

Canada's king of clout and outstanding representative in major league baseball, handsome Jeff Heath, is pictured here with Miss Althea Callan, who, in the not too distant future will be Mrs. Heath. Jeff, a Fort William boy, spends his summers gathering in fly balls in the outfield for Cleveland Indians, while whacking out base hits regularly when he gets a turn at the plate. Last year he finished in second place among American League batters, his .343 average putting him six points behind champion Jimmy Foxx. Mrs. Heath-to-be is 19 years old and met Jeff when he was playing for the Yakima, Washington club, four years ago.

Mercury Skids In Blizzard

Low temperatures prevailed in most of Ontario today as the winter's most severe cold snap swept across the province. Southwestern Ontario, where a blizzard raged in the van of the cold wave, experienced the worst week-end of the season.

A gale reached 40-mile-an-hour velocity near London Sunday night, piling two feet of snow on highways and making travelling dangerous. At Crumlin, five miles east of London, nearly 300 persons were marooned when the road became blocked. They resumed travel five hours later, after the road had been cleared.

Sunday evening church services were cancelled in rural communities. At Ottawa the temperature dropped 41 degrees in 12 hours, reaching its mean at seven below. At North Bay it fell from 34 above early Sunday to 12 below zero Sunday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Willis Hotson of London were seriously injured in a collison at Elginfield, 18 miles north of London, as snow swept the district and reduced visibility to a minimum. Several other accidents were reported Sunday.

Out of the storm came two freak accidents. At Penetanguishene the gale set off the town's fire alarm, while at North Bay an airplane was torn from its mooring on frozen Lake Nipissing and blown four miles out on the ice. It was recovered, unharmed except for minor damages to the tail assembly.

"The Authority on Authorities"

GET MORE DISCARDS

WHEN YOU HAVE a safe fit for either of two suits bid by your partner, it is usually better to favor the one which is more evenly divided between the two hands. Besides contributing more pliability to the problem, enabling your partner the better choice between a cross-ruffing and a suit-establishing procedure, you give him an opportunity to obtain more discards of losers if the unbalanced suit is on (Dealer: East. East-West vulnerable.)

Here was a case in which North had his choice between having his partner play with a nine-card trump suit divided on a basis of five cards in one hand and four in the other, and having nine trumps divided on a basis of six and three. North made the wrong choice, though his partner clearly disclosed his distribution.

East opened the bidding with 1-Spade, South overcalled with 2-Clubs, West passed, North made a bad pass when he should have bid 2-No trump, East bid 2-Spades, South 3-Diamonds and North 3-No trump. After East's pass, South called 4-Diamonds, making it clear from the rebid that the suit was of at least five cards, also letting North know that the clubs were a card longer because they had been named first.

On the unsound reasoning that the club suit must be better because it was shown before the diamonds, North went from 4-Diamonds to 5-Clubs. West led the spade 8 in answer to his partner's bid. When the play was over North got a lesson from his partner, who made an overtrick because a heart was discarded from the dummy on the diamonds. South showed him that, with diamonds as trumps, two hearts could have been discarded on the clubs because the suit was more unbalanced than the diamonds.

Tomorrow's Problem

(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.)

With the spade 2 led against his 2-No trump contract, which was doubled by West, what card should South play from dummy on the first trick, and why?

Hogs Only Stock Likely to Increase Survey For 1939 Reveals Cattle Stocks Seriously Depleted

OTTAWA, Jan. 22.—(CP).—Canada's livestock population — lowest in eight years—has little prospect of increasing before the latter part of 1939 and the change then will be chiefly in hogs, Dominion government agricultural experts predicted to-day in a statement on the agricultural outlook for 1939.

Cattle numbers, seriously depleted in the last three years, will continue downward throughout the year while sheep and horses will remain about the same numerically, the survey said. Hogs would show some increase in the first six months, a further rise in the following quarter and a substantial increase in the last three months of the year.

Feed grain supplies now were the highest per animal unit for the past eight years. The biggest reductions had been in grain-consuming stock and the increases would similarly occur chiefly among hogs and cattle.

In their survey, designed to assist the farmers to adjust production and marketing to prospective demand, the experts listed the factors determining whether next year's world wheat crop would increase or reduce the critical world wheat surplus. While acreage reduction was in prospect, especially in the United States, an even more important factor would be the world average yields per acre.

More Exports?

Larger supplies of wheat and other farm products, under the stimulation of new trade agreements, would probably result in large agricultural exports in 1939, the experts said. Prices of farm products generally would improve somewhat as business conditions continued an upward trend, even though restoration of 1937 levels could not be expected.

The experts foresaw further decline in cattle marketings during 1939 and 1940. "The relative abundance of cheap feed in the prairie provinces indicates a volume of grain-fed cattle marketed from that area in the early part of 1939, in excess of the volume of any year since 1935.

"Any increase in marketings of grain-fed cattle in the prairie provinces during the early months of 1939 may, however, be offset in part by a reduction in marketings in Eastern Canada, since the movement of feeder cattle to farms in Eastern Canada during the autumn of 1938 was the smallest in four years.

"Some improvement in price levels during 1939 may be expected owing partly to improvement in domestic industrial conditions, prospective reduction in net marketings of Canadian cattle and the reduced duty on cattle entering the United tates.

Prospects of export movement of calves and live cattle during 1939 are "much improved" by terms of the Canada-United States trade agreement, though extent of the movement will depend on relative prices of beef cattle in Canada, the United States and the United Kingdom.

Output of hogs would show "an appreciable increase" in 1939. "There is some indication that exports of hogs and hog products in 1939 may exceed those of 1939 by considerable volume. Hog prices are expected to average about the same in 1939 as in 1938, improved consumer demand and a possible increase in exports tending to offset the larger supplies."

Lambs To Be Firm.

Feedlot lamb prices will be firm in 1939 since eastward movement of feedlot lambs was light in the autumn. A steady increase in the sheep population is noted, however, especially in Manitoba and Alberta. Abundance of suitable feed makes likely a considerable increase in the spring lamb crop.

The horse census will reverse its long decline this year, even though no considerable increase will occur during the next few years, according to the statement. Reduction in horse numbers since 1921 has released about 1,0000,00 acres of grain land for production of cash grain and other feed, it added.

There will be fewer cows on farms than in 1938 but milk production per cow should increase because of large feed supplies. Low butter-fat prices may have an adverse effect on dairy production later in the year.

"Domestic demand for dairy products should be somewhat better than in 1938 but competition from other countries is expected to retard any marked improvement in the export trade."

Low butter prices will continue because of heavy stock holdings, but the heavy carry-over of butter and concentrated milk products and consequent low prices early in the year may cause some diversion of milk from creameries and condenseries to cheese factories.

Eats Self Out Of Home So Seeks Spot At Jail Feast Board

Detroit, Jan. 23 (CP)

JOE LOUIS, JR., a champion in his own right but no relative to the world heavyweight champion boxer, was in police custody today waiting a psychopathic clinic report on his enormous appetite.

The small colored man told police yesterday he realized the hopelessness of his battle against the great hunger when he had four breakfasts in the homes of four friends and still felt famished.

Joe said he could eat a ham at one sitting with half a gallon of beans as a side dish. Usually, he said, he ate 50 slices of bread at the same sitting. He said his friends couldn't keep him so he wanted to go to jail for six months. Court officials ordered the sychopathic examination before granting his wish.

Famed Choir Rehearses For Canadian Tour

Miss Elsie Harrop is pictured conducting rehearsal of the Ladybrook (England) Women's Choir at Stockport, just before the group sailed for a tour which will include several Canadian and United States' cities. The choir, one of the most famous groups of female voices in England, has 27 bers and grew from a singing class at a local school. It has won many prominent awards in competition, including a first award in a Welsh festival when opposed by leading Welsh choirs.

Eggs Plentiful On Market Price Declines

The farmers produce market on Saturday was set in the familiar pattern of midwinter with moderate weather that was just twenty-four hours ahead of the sub-zero drop. Business was fairly brisk, and prices generally were attractive.

Eggs were plentiful. Everywhere you looked you saw baskets of eggs, and under the impact of that supply it was not surprising that prices weakened towards the noon hour. The earlier quotations were from 20 to 25 cents but later they receded to around 18 cents.

Chickens sold at 20 cents a pound all over the market until midday when they, too, backed up to 18 cents. The quantity of poultry seemed ample for the demand, and it seemed that the morning's stock would be entirely sold.

Butter was steady at 23 cents, and moving in the range from 22 to 25 cents with a comparatively light supply on the boards.

Potatoes Move Up.

Potatoes moved up to $1.50 a bag with only a light offering on hand. Alvin Olan of Bailieboro quoted $1.40 for Dooleys, and James Johnston of the same neighborhood had his White Stars labelled at $1.50.

The supply of fresh meat seemed to be all the market required. George Mullen's prices were 13 and 15 cents for pork and 10 cents for beef; and at H. R. Gill's stand the figures were 9 and 11 cents for beef with some at 10 and 12 cents, and for pork 14 and 16 cents.

Fruit a Feature.

Apple growers of the district were well represented, with most of the regulars of the fall months on hand, and apparently they had an active session.

Orono Fruit Farms quoted 30 cents for Greenings; Starks 25 cents; McIntosh Reds 45 cents; Snows 40 cents; Spies 25 to 40 cents.

Some of Norman Moncrief's prices were: McIntoshes 45 cents; Baxters 35 cents; Talman Swteets 40 cents; Spies 25 to 45 cents; Snows 40 cents; ond Delicious, grown in the Moncrief orchard 40 cents.

Three or four cider cases were noticed. Russets were $1.25 a bushel.

J. D. Manley's vegetable prices included Onions $1 a bushel with a second grade at 20 cents the six quart basket; turnips three for ten cents or a six quart basket for 15 cents; carrots 20 cents a peck; parsnips, 20 cents for six quart basket.

And one of the best of all foods that should be in every cupboard, honey at two pounds for 25 cents for the light amber kind, and five pounds of the dark for 45 cents.

R. R. Dixon of Otonabee reported the market fairly busy, and roads in all directions last week were never better. Even the side roads afforded good motoring and also sleighing.

Defences Give Barcelona About To Fall

Rebels Say Capture Matter Of Hours, Ministries Flee

LERIDA, Spain, Jan. 24—(AP).—Insurgent leaders declared today their forces had achieved "a complete break" in government defences directly before Barcelona and that the fall of the government capital was regarded as a matter of hours.

Insurgent officers insisted that the "entire line" of enemy defences along the Llobregat and Cardona Rivers, described as the last line on which the government had tried to organize strong resistance, was in the hands of General Franco's troops this morning.

Navarese and Moorish troops carrying the red and gold banners of insurgent Spain were reported in sight of the city, into which Franco's big guns began hurling shells.

On the Llobregat front, dispatches said, thousands of big shells, tank attacks and air bombardments blasted government defenders from their entrenchments.

The capture of Manresa, 30 miles northwest of Barcelona, was announced by the insurgents.

Ministries Leave.

BARCELONA, Jan. 24.—(AP).—Many government ministries left Barcelona for the north this morning while the beleagured capital, pounded by enemy bombs and with its public services failing, became a military camp.

With an icy wind blowing, refugees crowded the streets leading out of the city. Bombs crashed from the skies at brief intervals as the insurgent air force attacked the city for the fourth successive day.

(Dispatches to the French foreign office said the new capital would be established at Gerona or Figueras, 50 and 70 miles respectively north-east of Barcelona).

Newspaper headlines screamed "Barcelona in danger."

"Soldiers, military cars and ambulances rushed through the streets.

Electricity, water and telephone service became erratic although not yet completely shut off.

Barcelona residents had little sleep during the night. Many were preparing luggage for departure. Others reported to assist in building fortifications.

Grant A Godsend Mayors Claim

TORONTO, Jan. 24 — (CP). — Mayors of leading Ontario cities today praised the new Dominion government scheme of unemployment relief grants-in-aid and estimated large saving would be affected by their municipalities.

Mayor R. J. Waterous of Brantford termed the new scheme "one of the greatest Godsends that could be given municipalities." Toronto's estimated saving in 1939 is $858,410 and welfare commissioner Albert Laver said the new plan is "very, very nice."

Other centres:

Hamilton—Mayor William Morrison exclaimed: "If it is true, I could kiss Hon. Norman Rogers. If it isn't, I could kill somebody." He estimated Hamilton's saving at $375,000.

London—"A step in the right direction," said Mayor Allan Johnston who estimated the saving would be $55,000.

Fort William—Mayor C. M. Ross said that city's taxes would be cut one mill

Timmins—"I am delighted," said Mayor J. P. Bartleman, who added: "We shouldn't have such a thing as relief in the north country. There is so much that can be done and so much to be achieved."

Kitchener — Mayor George W. Gordon said the news was "the most encouraging municipalities have had in some time."

Peterborough — Mayor James Hamilton forecast a $75,000 saving and termed the announcement "the best news I have heard yet."

40 Grandmas Zip Scandals Of '39 So Much Grandchildren Have The Nerve To Protest

CHICAGO, Jan. 24 (AP)—Forty grandmothers and great-grandmothers, age 33 to an admitted 85, have answered the call of the footlights.

These grannies were kicking up their heels today rehearsing for their black-face production of "Grandma's Scandals of 1939" next Sunday at a hotel ball room.

There are 16 specialties—cake walks, comedy skits, yes, and French songs — in this coming demonstration that there's plenty of life to grandma. It is the maiden effort of the Chicago chapter of the newly organized National Grandmothers' Club, started by a small group of business and professional women who gathered together to brag about their grandchildren.

"It's got zip—so much zip that several grandchildren have had the nerve to protest," confided Mrs. John Wesley Gray, prominent club woman. Chicago grandma president and national grandma secretary.

"The idea is to show the world that anyone who thinks grandmotherhood puts the modern woman on the shelf—well, he's invited to come watch us swing," Mrs. Gray said.

Employees Give Day's Pay To Aid Family

(By Staff Reporter)

CORDOVA MINES, Jan. 24. — Employees of the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company at Cordova voted on Monday to contribute one day's pay this week to their fellow worker, Dave Johnston who lost his four children and all of his worldly goods in a disastrous fire on Sunday night. There are about seventy employees in the mine, office and smelter and the men average four dollars a day.

Villagers are also planning to hold a shower at one of the houses in Cordova Mines so that furniture, bedding, dishes and clothing may be obtained. Mrs. Johnston escaped from the fire clad only in a night dress, and five-year-old Donald who was carried to safety by the mother was clad only in pyjamas. They lost everything including furniture, their sawing machine and all clothes and personal effects.

Neighbors provided Mrs. Johnston and the child with clothing and today, more clothing was purchased by the husband. The mother suffered burns on the body and hands and this coupled with the shock and sorrow of losing her four children made medical attention necessary. She is reported, however, to be making progress towards recovery and was able to be out of bed today according to a report from the village.

Four Victims Buried

At ten-thirty this morning the remains of the four little children who met death in the fire were laid to rest in Marmora Cemetery. Friends of the family attended a brief funeral service at Marett's Funeral Home in Marmora which was conducted by Rural Dean A. B. Caldwell. The children were Melbourne age 14, Dorothy, 12, Jackie, 10 and Wallace 8. Donald, the youngest of the family was the only child who escaped.

It was reliably reported today that Dave Johnston, the father of the children carried no insurance on the furniture, and it will be necessary to start again from scratch as everything went up in smoke. The house was owned by the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company.

Double Breakin

HAMILTON, Jan. 24.—(CP)—Storerooms of two factory premises were broken into during the night and in each case two men narrowly escaped capture at the scene, cruiser squads informed Thomas A. Brown, chief constable. Two men were picked up as suspects and were held by police for investigation.

Constables William Manson and Stanley Edge responded to a call from James Arnold, watchman at the Proctor - Gamble Company's plant, after he had vainly tried to capture two men whom he surprised in the storeroom shortly before one o'clock.

Rogers Enlarges Work Program For Jobless But Warns Private Industry It Must Bear Share Or Disaster To Follow

OTTAWA, Jan. 24 (CP). — Private industry must do its share in providing employment for Canadian workers or governments may have to undertake burdens they are not equipped to bear.

This warning was given the House of Commons last night by Labor Minister Rogers as he outlined an enlarged program for combatting unemployment during the coming year, spoke with pride of the government's accomplishments so far in this direction and voiced confidence that further progress could be made.

The Minister's speech, partly an answer to Opposition attacks on the government's unemployment policy, was one of two indications of weighty debates yet in store for this session of parliament.

The other was the introduction of a bill by Hon. C. H. Cahan (Con., St. Lawrence-St. George) to abolish appeals to the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council.

The veteran Montreal lawyer would go further in the measure introduced yesterday than in one he sponsored last session. The latter applied to appeals on matters falling within the competence of the Parliament of Canada. His present measure would abolish all appeals from any judgment of any court in Canada to the tribunal at Westminster.

More Federal Relief

Under the new unemployment policy outlined by Mr. Rogers, the Dominion Government will assume a larger share of the cost of direct relief. Grants for the fiscal year 1939-40 will be on the basis of a 40-40-20 division of costs as between the Dominion, the provinces and the municipalities.

This will be the basis of agreements to be negotiated shortly with the provincial governments. During the past year the Dominion has contributed up to 30 per cent of the cost in most provinces and up to 35 per cent in a few. Payments have been made monthly. In addition the Dominion will go 50-50 with the provinces in meeting the relief needs of transients.

Dominion assistance to civic improvements, designed to provide useful work in place of direct relief, will be on the basis of a 50 per cent contribution to the labor cost. They will be conditional on the provincial government approving the projects and making a like contribution, the municipalities providing the cost of materials and supervision.

To ensure that such works which may include, parks, playgrounds, bathing beaches and swimming pools, effect the maximum reduction in relief rolls they will be supervised by the committees representing the three contributing authorities.

6,000,000 Britons To Join Dungaree Army

By J. F. Sanderson
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

LONDON, Jan. 24.—(CP Cable.)—The British government to-day established a "dungaree army" of 6,000,000 or 7,000,000 men between the ages of 18 and 64 whose wartime work would be to keep the wheels of industry moving at top speed.

As part of the national service scheme for which Prime Minister Chamberlain made a broadcast appeal last night, the Ministry of Labor issued a list of "reserved occupations" which would be exempted from regular military service in the time of war.

The list takes in about half the male working population of the country. Of the total, 3,000,000 men are above the age of 45. The proportion of men affected rises sharply with age. For example only about one in five of men aged 16 to 25 are on the exempted list.

The other half of the working population which is not affected by the list is eligible for military service either because their occupations are not included, or because the individuals are below the age of reservation for their particular occupation. For instance, accountants over the age of 30 are on the exempted list; those under that age are eligible for military duty.

Some Restrictions.

"The occupations listed in this schedule are those in respect to which, in the general national interests, restrictions will be placed in peace time on the acceptance of volunteers for certain forms of enlistment, or enrolment for service in time of war.

"The restrictions apply to acceptance for service (otherwise than in the volunteer's trade capacity or, in case of women, in nursing or first-aid services) which will be wholetime in war but not in peace.

"Nothing in the schedule restricts:

"1—Acceptance for service which is whole time in peace (for example service in the regular armed forces, regular police forces, or regular fire brigades).

"2—Re-engagement for the same period of a person already engaged in a service.

"3—Acceptance for whole time service in war in the volunteer's trade or professional capacity.

"4—Acceptance for air raid precautions service at the volunteer's place of employment.

"5—Acceptance for service which will be only part time in war, subject to a clear understanding that in the case of persons covered by the schedule, the work in the occupation listed will have first claim on them in wartime.

Snow Goes Slippery; Driving Perilous

(By the Canadian Press.)

Milder weather, accompanied about two inches of soft snow that today was melting into slush, was general over southeastern and eastern Ontario. The cold of the weekend had definitely gone and some prophets were heralding another January thaw this week.

Kitchener with a temperature of 30 this morning was looking for continued snowfall—or rain. Other Southern Ontario points also were watching the mercury climb.

Snow continued to fall in Eastern Ontario. Kingston reported the wind shifted to the south during the night and drifting snow was causing trouble on sideroads.

Sudbury reported the temperature up to 25 and prospects of it going higher. Light snow was falling. All main roads in the Sudbury area were open and the wind had cleared away much snow, leaving the gravel surfaces open. Graders were busy levelling the snow on the road to Sault Ste. Marie.

Damp, murky, uncomfortable weather prevailed in and around Toronto. Much snow fell during the night and the flakes were drifting down haphazardly today. On busy streets it was slushy underfoot.

Cheer Chamberlain

Living births in 1938 were 10,566. In 1930 there were 13,697 living births but every year after that until 1938 showed a decrease.

Monaghan Man Turns In Shaving Brush

A shaving brush of Japanese manufacture and stamped "332" was turned in to the Provincial laboratory for examination by a North Monaghan township farmer this morning. The brush is the same type as one which has been found to be infected with the dreaded anthrax germ in the United States and which caused the death of one person.

The man purchased the brush in Orillia last summer but did not use it because another member of his family had already purchased another. When he heard of the search

Songs Of Drifting Plane Survivors Lead Tanker To Spot In Dark; Woman Plays Hero Saving Captain

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—(CP). — Reason for the crash at sea of the luxurious airliner Cavalier—a tragedy in which a Canadian woman and a Nova Scotia-born sea captain played heroic roles — remained a mystery to-day as 10 survivors described how they sang to keep up their courage after three of their fellow travellers had died.

They told the story of an 11-hour ordeal spent clinging to life belts in the Atlantic waters after receiving a hero's welcome on their arrival here yesterday.

The ice-crusted tanker Esso Baytown, which rescued the survivors from the water, was surrounded by whistling tugs as it ploughed up the channel. Airplanes dipped in salute and a crowd of 2,000 cheering persons waited at the pier.

Of the five men and five women survivors only the widows of two of the victims — Mrs. Donald Miller of Lincoln, Neb., and Mrs. John Gordon Noakes of New York —showed evidence of strain. Mrs. Noakes fainted and was taken to hospital. The others declined medical treatment.

Heroine of the Night.

Among the calmest was Mrs. Edna Watson of Bermuda, former resident of Montreal, who was returning to her home after a visit to her parents in Canada when the plane crashed.

It was Mrs. Watson who chatted with the others aid kept up their spirits until the tanker Baytown, in comand of Captain Frank Spurr, of Deep Rock, N.S., found the group and brought them aboard his ship.

She was credited, too, with saving the life of Captain R. M. Alderson, of the Cavalier by supporting him in the water after he had lost consciousness.

Mrs. Watson minimized her own

Furnace Draws Air —And $10 Bills Bettor Learns Sadly

Berne, Ind., Jan. 24 (AP)

IT COST Elmer Winteregg $10 to learn that a furnace draws air. He told fellow workers in a furniture factory he'd learned in school that there was no inward air current in front of a furnace. To prove his theory, Winteregg put a $10 bill on the boiler room floor near the furnace. A draft carried it inside.

Atlantic Howler Takes 14 Lives; Bomber Is Lost

LONDON, Jan. 24—(AP).—Warships and Royal Air Force planes today searched the English channel for a bomber with six airmen aboard. It has been missing since yesterday's violent storm, which took a known toll of 14 dead and caused widespread damage to Atlantic shipping.

Lloyd's which received SOS signals from 15 ships yesterday, reported three of them making for home today. There were no reports from the others including the Chilean passenger ship Aconcagua, but there was no anxiety, since the weather had moderated.

Shrugs Off Idea She Played Heroine's Role But Affirms Her Next Trip To Bermuda Will Be Made On Board A Ship

MONTREAL, Jan. 24 (CP).—The crack-up of the flying boat Cavalier turned Mrs. Edna Watson into a heroine, but her next trip over the New York-Bermuda route will be by ship, the Montreal widow disclosed today as she returned here after the rescue of the Cavalier's 10 survivors.

MRS. EDNA WATSON

"I wouldn't mind flying down but the family might object," Mrs. Watson said when she arrived to spend a few days with her parents before starting back for her home in Bermuda. She had been holidaying with them before she left Saturday on the ill-starred flight.

Though she's been credited with saving the life of Captain R. M. Alderson of the Cavalier by keeping him afloat for hours while they waited rescue, Mrs. Watson just shrugged off the idea that she played a heroine's role.

"Nonsense" she laughed. "Why he gave me his life preserver."

How about the sharks? Oh, we didn't mind them," she said, though other members of the rescued group declared their fear of prowling sharks was almost as great as that of drowning.

The rescue of those who survived, according to Mrs. Watson, was made possible by the fact that there was a heavy sea running during the hours of Saturday when the airliner's passengers and crew drifted about the Gulf Stream.

"The waves weren't large," she said. "There was just a long swell. We didn't have much trouble keeping together, though some of us did drift off now and then."

Mrs. Watson has been credited by the other survivors with keeping conversation going to buoy up their spirits, but she said today she thought that was "rather exaggerated."

Detective Four Years On The Trail Nabs Suspect In Torso Slaying

CLEVELAND, Jan. 24 — (AP).—Detective Peter Merylo took into custody to-day a middle-aged salesman for questioning concerning Cleveland's 12 baffling "torso slayings." Merylo has spent the last four years seeking solution of the unsolved slayings.

The man claimed to be a former New York doctor who was barred from practice and became a salesman of medical supplies, Merylo said.

Detective-Lieutenant Alfred Jones said the man "boasted to acquaintances that he had a place here to dissect bodies."

Jones said Merylo found the man in a rooming-house on the city's east side, where he had lived for 15 years.

"There was an old human skull in his room," said Jones, "but that may not be significant."

City Benefits On New Scale Relief Costs

New Allocation Is Described As Fine Arrangement

The allocation of relief costs in the proportion of 40-40-20 per cent, as announced by Hon. Norman McLeod Rogers, Minister of Labor, in the House of Commons yesterday was regarded to-day by Alderman Dutton, chairman of the city's Relief Committee, as "a very fine arrangement."

The Federal Government proposes that the Dominion's contribution for 1939 will be 40 per cent, the Provincial Government 40 per cent., and local municipalities 20 per cent.

"It was the reasonable and fair thing to do," Alderman Dutton said. "The distribution of the cost of relief for 1938 placed an additional burden on the municipalities. Peterborough's amounted to about 34 per cent., and compared with 20 per cent. this year the improvement can be readily appreciated.

Might Have Had to Cut Schedule.

If the extra cost to the municipalities had been persisted in this year, we were afraid that our relief schedules would have to be cut down, and we certainly did not wish to do that. We have no quarrel with the ratios of relief, and speaking for the City Council, I feel sure I am expressing the opinion of the members in saying that they will be quite happy in the new outlook that the schedules will not have to be disturbed."

Alderman Dutton said he could not estimate in dollars and cents how much the improvement would mean to the city for 1939.

The Council may have to budget for relief on the basis of $70,000 as the city's share this year. To the end of December, 1938, Peterborough's total relief bill was $134,949.99, of which the Government paid, approximately $66,582.23, leaving $68,367.76 to be paid by the city. But the Council had set its appropriation for the year at only $47,500 on the strength of the improvement in employment and the amelioration of the relief problem during 1937. That left an expected overdraft of $20,867.76, but the Council has been appealing to the Provincial Department of Public Welfare for a readjustment, which may possibly be granted, giving Peterborough a further allowance for 1938.

Monthly Estimates.

Alderman Dutton explained that the Department last year asked for monthly estimates of relief disbursements in the city, and their contribution was based on the estimated relief, not on the actual expenditure.

"We budgeted on the basis of 30 per cent. for the entire year, and it worked out about 34 per cent. We are asking the Minister now for readjustment of relief during the last three months on the basis of 70 per cent. of our actual payments during that period . The fiscal year does not end until March 31, and for that reason we may have to budget for the first quarter on a somewhat different basis than the 20 per cent, announced by Hon. Mr. Rogers," Ald. Dutton stated.

Jap Brush Tests Not Completed

TORONTO, Jan. 24.—(CP).—Laboratory tests being conducted by the Ontario Department of Health on 18 dozen shaving brushes seized yesterday by the Ontario provincial police on the suspicion that they might harbor anthrax germs, have not yet been completed it was learned to-day.

It is not definitely known whether the brushes seized yesterday are part of the shipment which resulted in at least one fatality in the United States.

Cost Of Bren Probe?

Chamberlain Calls Volunteers

Old Security Gone Says Premier In Urgent Warning

LONDON, Jan. 24—(CP).—Prime Minister Chamberlain and his former foreign secretary, Anthony Eden, issued a common warning Monday night of dangers to Great Britain at home and abroad.

Mr. Chamberlain, in an Empire-wide broadcast opening a recruiting drive for a huge volunteer defence force, said his remarks did not mean he thought war was coming.

"But," he said, "we might be forced to take part in a war begun by others, or we might be attacked ourselves if the government of some other country were to thing we could not defend ourselves effectively." His address was in connection with issuance tomorrow of the "National Service Guide" which outlines precise means of wartime service for all.

Mr. Eden, addressing his constituents at Coventry in a speech not connected with the Chamberlain plea, said that if the insurgents should win the Spanish civil war it would be a "foreign victory."

Arms Source Known

Discussing powerful armaments of the insurgents, Mr. Eden said: "Everyone knows who provides this armament."

Without mentioning Italy or Germany, who have given aid to the insurgents, Mr. Eden asked: "How can any of us deny that if General Franco wins, his victory is a foreign victory."

"The political independence and territorial integrity of Spain should be respected," he said. "No foreign power or powers should be allowed to establish themselves in Spain or Spanish possessions, and Spain should be truly free to determine her destiny.

"The truth is that certain states, although pledged to non-intervention, are intervening on a scale they deem sufficient to ensure victory for General Franco, and what do they they tell us?"

"That if France dares to do even a fraction of what they are doing they will reconsider the situation—whatever that may mean. How can dictation of that kind provide the basis for true friendship?"

Mr. Chamberlain, in discussing the plan of the national service guide said "its scheme is to make us ready for war."

"The better we are prepared to defend ourselves and to resist attack," he said, "the less likely it is that any aggressor will try an adventure in which chances of success would be so unpromising."

Wrong On Beatty Howe Admits

OTTAWA, Jan. 24.—(CP)—Transport Minister Howe yesterday told the House of Commons he had incorrectly but inadvertently stated Sir Edward Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, had applied for and been refused the use of a network by the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation. He made the statement today in reply to Hon. C. H. Cahan (Con. St. Lawrence-St. George).

The statement about Sir Edward Beatty was made in a newspaper interview following the refusal of use of a network to George McCullagh, Toronto publisher. He said he had been asked for an instance of the application of the same rules and recalled a discussion concerning a broadcast by Sir Edward Beatty.

He had since learned this discussion related to a broadcast which had been given and no application had been refused.

"I tender a public apology to Sir Edward Beatty for having brought his name into that situation," said Mr. Howe.

Norman McLarty Named Postal Head

OTTAWA, Jan. 24—(CP).—Prime Minister Mackenzie King yesterday announced in the House of Commons the first two appointments to the cabinet since his administration came to power in 1936.

The prime minister named Norman A. McLarty, Windsor, Ont., lawyer and member for Essex West, as Postmaster General succeeding Hon. J. C. Elliott, who resigned his cabinet duties because of continued ill health.

At the same times James a MacKinnon, M.P., for Edmonton West and sole Liberal member from Alberta, was appointed minister without portfolio. Both new ministers were first elected to the House of Commons in the 1935 general election.

Announcement of the appointments was made immediately after tabling of the correspondence between Mr. Mackenzie King and Mr. Elliott covering Mr. Elliott's resignation from his cabinet portfolio. The formal resignation and reply were dated Dec. 31 last.

Elliott to Retain Seat

The Prime Minister expressed regret at the withdrawal of Mr. Elliott because of ill health which had continued for more than a year. He was glad to state, however, that Mr. Elliott would continue in the House of Commons with the less onerous responsibility of representing Middlesex West.

Conservative leader Manion joined the Prime Minister in his regrets at Mr. Elliott's retirement and extended his own felicitations to the newly named ministers.

Mr. Elliott's resignation at the age of 66 came after more than 13 years in the House of Commons. Elected first in 1925, Mr. Elliott successfully occupied the posts of minister of labor, health and soldiers' civil re-establishment and public works before the Liberal government went out of power in 1930. When the party returned to power in October, 1935, Mr. Elliott was made postmaster General.

A Man Of Common Sense

The new postmaster-general is 49. He was born Feb. 18, 1889, at St. Thomas, Ont. He married Dorothy McCall of Toronto in 1914 and has two daughters.

At the University of Toronto Mr. McLarty had a brilliant record in the political science course where he was known to his intimates as "the prime minister." He was graduated from there in 1910 and three years later was graduated from Osgoode Hall Law School.

Health Men Nab 216 Jap Shaving Brushes

TORONTO, Jan. 24. — (CP). — While provincial authorities across Canada sought to-day to uncover shipments of Japanese-made shaving brushes believed to be infected with anthrax germs, government analysts at Toronto, Winnipeg and Edmonton examined samples from seized consignments to determine whether they contain the violent boil-producing germ.

A warning from Federal authorities at Ottawa to Provincial Health Ministers was followed by three seizures, one Saturday in Manitoba where a shipment was reported to have reached the mining centre of Flin Flon, another here yesterday and a third in Alberta.

Ontario police and health department officials confiscated 216 brushes of the suspected type from an unnamed Toronto jobber who they said purchased them two years ago from an United States' jobber. Police are attempting to find out how many—if any—of the brushes expressed the opinion rural peddlars may be handling some.

The other seizures were reported by Dr. F. W. Jackson, Manitoba Deputy Minister of Health, and Dr. M. R. Bow, Deputy Health Minister for Health for Manitoba.

Shipments Traced.

At Ottawa, Dr. J. J. Heagerty, chief executive assistant in the health branch of the pensions and national health department, said shipments of the possibly infected brushes have been traced from their St. Paul, Minn., distributor to the districts of Flin Flon, Estevan, Sask., Ponoka, Alta., and Kelowna B.C. Provincial medical officials, however, said a check disclosed none of the brushes had been received at the four centres. Dr. H. Marantz, medical health officer at Flin Flon, said he found no trace there of brushes answering the description broadcast by Ottawa. Doctors said a search for the brushes in Kelowna and Ponoka was fruitless.

Federal officials are pushing a nationwide check-up in an effort to prevent an outbreak of anthrax from the shaving brush source, which already is reported to have caused one death in North Dakota.

being made by health authorities in Ontario to locate all brushes in the shipment from Japan, he examined the brush and found it fitted the description of those already seized in the States and in Toronto. He got in touch with Dr. J. A. Morgan, medical officer of health for North Monaghan who referred him to Dr. G. Murray Fraser, M.O.H. for Peterborough city. Dr. Fraser advised the man to turn the brush over to Dr. Waite, pathologist at the Provincial Laboratory branch in the city buildings for examination.

Germ Is Usually Deadly.

Anthrax was described by Dr. W. L. Holman, professor of bacteriology at the University of Toronto as one of the most serious infections known, malignant in its effect but fortunately because of rigid control comparatively rare. Many years ago, he recalled theer was a case in Toronto, an American and the infection was traced to a shaving brush which he had brought over the line with him.

The disease he said is caused by a bacillus. A sore is formed on an animal by the bacillus and it stays on the hair and skin, and man gets it usually by handling hides. The germ is most hardy and can remain on hairs for years without losing its virility. If a hair becomes contaminated it must be carefully sterilized. That is the reason public health authorities are so strict in the sterilization of shaving brush bristles. Dr. Holman also said there was always the danger of the infection being transferred to a cut on the face of a human from an infected brush. Its presence would first become known by a very bad boil. "Some times it kills sometimes it doesn't" he stated.

Brushes Stamped 332.

Dr. G. Murray Fraser, M.O.H. asks that anyone who has recently purchased a cheap shaving brush examine it, and if it is found to have "Made In Japan" stamped on the side of the wooden handle and the number "332" on the bottom, it should be turned in to the M.O.H. at once.

Dr. Fraser also reported that he intended to conduct a personal search in the city to determine if this particular type of brush is being sold locally.

Enquiries at a few drug stores and chain stores revealed that all of the brushes in stock were stamped Made In Canada and as import laws require that all imports be plainly marked with the country of origin the brushes in stock locally which are not stamped must be manufactured in this country. Few customers ever ask if the brushes have been sterilized, clerks said, while the more expensive brushes already have the word "sterilized" stamped on it.

Chief Constable Sam Newhall said this morning he had not received any instruction to make a survey on the brush question and knew nothing about it except what he had already seen in the papers.

Newfoundland Misses Mailman From Beat So He Goes To Post Office In Search Of Him

There is sadness in the heart of Moose, the big shaggy Newfoundland dog owned by Gus White, King street.

The smooth tenor of the dog's life was interrupted on January 11th when Frank Smith, the postman who delivers the mail in the south-west section of the city failed to appear on the job. The new man was duly inspected by Moose but failed to impress him, and the dog refused to follow the mailman around the route although the dog was noticed at different locations in the area evidently looking for his friend.

On the following day Moose visited the post office early in the morning and waited as the carriers filed out to start the day's work. Smith failed to appear and although many of the mail men were friendly and patted Moose on the head, he refused to follow any of them. For three successive days he was noticed at the post office and at another time was seen near Smith's house.

James Bath, another postman finally won a place in the big dog's affections and during the past few days the dog has followed him on his mail route, which is a different one to that followed by Smith. Bath feels that the old dog is still wondering what has happened to Smith, because the dog and postman have been close friends for almost two years. Hospital regulations forbid taking dogs into the building or Bath would have taken the dog up to see Smith, who underwent an operation on January 10th. He is reported to be making good progres stowards recovery.

part and praised the crew of the Imperial Airways plane who acted, she said, "with amazing competence."

Captain Spurr also was modest about his feat in directing his tanker by night to the spot of the crash, an accomplishment which his own seamen described as bordering on the miraculous.

He dismissed it briefly: "It was something that is done ashore as well as at sea when any occasion requires it."

Captain Spurr said the survivors owed their lives to the fact that the air cruiser landed in the gulf stream, where the temperature is some 20 degrees warmer than the rest of the Atlantic.

Saved By Their Singing.

The survivors' jubilation on their arrival was reflected in the faces of the members of the Baytown's crew who rowed a lifeboat to their aid after they heard cries in the stygian night.

"We were without stars, moon or sextant—in complete darkness," said Stanley Taylor, a seaman who stood in the lifeboat's bow.

"And then the whole crowd of them started singing. We listened and the sound guided us to the spot.

"I heard a woman's voice say 'Thank God' as we came up to them. Then they started to sing again. I was too busy to notice what it was they were singing. Something religious. I don't know the name."

Oddly, none of the fortunate ten could recall what they sang.

Mrs. George Ingham of Hamilton, Bermuda, said the survivors had agreed to hold a reunion Saturday on the liner Monarch of Bermuda which will carry them to Bermuda, their destination when the accident occurred.

Reports that icing conditions caused as the huge 19-ton plane flew through squalls were responsible for its four motors quitting were denied by First Officer Neil Richardson.

"The Cavalier had carburetor-heating devices," he said. "It's a complete mystery to us all how it happened."

Richardson added it was not particularly unusual for all four motors to fail almost simultaneously for brief periods in flight but "You get out of it by working the throttle."

A board of inquiry will be convened at Hamilton to investigate the disaster—first of its kind in the North Atlantic—Capt. Griffith Powell, trans-oceanic flier and executive of British Imperial Airways, announced.

Plane Splits Open.

Capt. Alderson, the pilot who was dazed by the crash—300 miles southeast of Cape May, N.J.—said the plane's fuselage was ripped open by the impact and sank within 10 minutes.

"Making a deadstick landing," he explained, "we hit the water so hard the hull of the ship split and the water rushed in. It came in with such force I was washed toward the hold."

Survivors varied at many points in their recital of what happened to the three who were lost, but the heroism of four persons: Mrs. Watson, Richardson, Radio Operator Patrick Chapman, and Robert Spence, a steward—stood out.

Spence was the third victim. The other survivors were Miss Nellie Tucker Smith of Bermuda and Charles Talbot of Brookline, Mass., passengers, and David Williams, the second steward.

Terror had wiped away details from the memory of most survivors, but most agreed that Miller, president of a Lincoln, Neb., department store, had been struck by a wing of the plane as he floundered in the water, and sank immediately. His wife could not reach him.

Noakes, who was standing when the plane crashed, received a severe head injury. Spence, apparently internally injured, tried vainly to keep him afloat after helping other passengers from the plane and warning them to grab lifebelts.

"Mr. Noakes, who seemed to be badly hurt, held onto me and then I lost him somehow after a while," First Officer Richardson said. "I didn't know what became of him.

"Spence was with me when he died of exposure. He also seemed to be injured. I don't know how long it was after we landed in the water that Spence died."

Couldn't Get Belts On.

Unable to don the life savers — survivors varied as to whether there were four, six or nine in the water, although each was capable of keeping three persons afloat—the group formed a chain in the water, using the lifebelts as a raft.

For more than 10 hours, bobbing about in the waves, they clung to the improvised raft, singing occasionally to bolster their hopes of rescue. About 8 p.m.—after more than six hours in the water—they sighted lights of a distant boat. It passed. Their hopes fell.

Then at 10:45 the Esso Baytown hove out of the dark, and Radio Operator Chapman risked his life in a swim across open seas to intercept it.

Main Fear Was Sharks

"Richardson followed me to make a disturbance in order to keep the sharks away," he said. "There were naturally a lot of sharks there because there were three bodies in the water. I saw one shark.

"Everyone was fairly comfortable because the water was warm and our one great fear was sharks. Naturally we didn't say much about it.

"The men got rid of all their clothes except underwear and the women discarded most of their clothes."

"Richardson and I swam out to about halfway between the ship and the other survivors. The ship sounded its siren when it heard our shouts."

A little more than an hour later a lifeboat from the Baytown had brought the last of the survivors aboard. Overwhelmed by joy at her rescue, one of the women pushed her hand against the tankers bulkhead, a seaman said, and exclaimed:

"Thank God—that's solid!"

Like most tragedies, the Cavalier disaster had its lighter moments.

His Pants Come Back.

Baytown crew members said Richardson told them that to keep afloat better he had thrown away his pants containing his money and all his papers. Two hours later the pants floated back to him.

Talbot, 23, a former Harvard University athlete who held to a lifebelt with only one arm because the other had been broken in a skiing accident, grinned on his return and said the salt water had been "so good for my arm" that he had taken it out of the cast.

Mrs. Ingham said a one-minute margin after the crash might have meant safety for everyone.

"Another 60 seconds inside the plane and we could have strapped on our life belts," she said. "Then all of us could have survived."

"The most amazing thing of all," Mrs. Watson said, "was the way that man Richardson kept swimming around us in a circle, keeping us all together, kicking and splashing to keep away the sharks, shouting almost continuously in the hope he would be heard."

Quick Action By Hastings Man Extinguishes Fire In Motor Of Car On Village Street

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Jan. 24.—Quick action on the part of John Jones, pool room proprietor, probably saved a car from burning in front of his shop. Two men a few minutes before had stepped into the car and attempted to start it, when flames gushed from the engine. Mr. Jones, who happened to be standing near the front door, saw the fire and ran to their assistance with a fire extinguisher, kept at the shop for emergency. Gasoline in some part of the engine had ignited and flames were quickly spreading when he applied the device and almost instantly extinguished the blaze. A stream of gasoline flowed from the engine for ten feet from the car but it was also extinguished.

Mr. Jones said the men were from Norwood but did not know their names. The car was removed to a garage for minor repairs.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Jan. 24 — (CP). — Late strength at Chicago attributed to unsettled political conditions in Europe brought out some nervous covering near the close of to-day's session on Winnipeg wheat futures market and pushed prices ahead for appreciable gains. After trading around previous closing levels most of the day, quotations finished ¾ to ⅞ cent higher, with May at 62¾, July 63⅛ to ⅜, and October 63⅞ cents.

Reports of damage to wheat crops in Northern France and Belgium also had a stimulating effect on the market, with most of the purchases being made by commission houses. Export sales of Canadian wheat did not exceed 150,000 bushels.

Hedging by large millers against yesterday's purchases of Argentine wheat and the belief the Argentine Wheat Board would not press sales of new crop wheat had a depressing effect on Liverpool futures which closed ⅝d to ¾d lower.

We Noticed

....Not being among the lucky ones who push off on a winter vacation at the first suggestion of chilly weather, returning only when the first spring blossom pokes its head above the fragrance of awakening soil, we must be content with watching what is being shown in cruise lines—the fashions that are forerunners of spring—and be ready to crowd all the fun we can into the delightful days of summer.

....Life is going to be gayer than ever — life MUST be gay when Fashion is presenting designs in prints that have as their amusing theme such things as little peasant figures; flying fish; palm trees and cocoa nuts; masks and flower festoons. Its a story of carnival and color—and interesting, also, is the fact that practically all these spring fashions have been sanforized to make them safely washable.

Former King Alfonso and the former Queen of Spain were among them, but not together. Former King Ferdinand of Bulgaria and his son, King Boris, also were present.

Benito Mussolini, in gold-braided court attire, as Premier and Knight of the Annunciata, was present.

DOROTHY DIX

Every Child Should Begin Paying For His Upkeep As Soon As He Earns Money, But There Is a Fine Line Which Parents Must Observe In This Matter.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—We are parents of small means who have done our best and made many sacrifices to give our boys and girls an education and prepare them for life on their own. Now they are all grown, have jobs and are making money, which they spend lavishly upon themselves, but they till live at home and never think of such a thing as contributing a cent to the family budget. They seem to consider that they should be immune from sharing in the expenses of the upkeep of the home, yet it is a great strain on both their father and myself to try to make his small salary take care of the necessities and comforts of a family of grown-ups. It would ease our lots enormously if we could have some financial help from them. However, when we broach the subject to them they manifest unpleasant feelings and seem to think that we should take care of them as long as they remain under one roof. What would you do about it? — PERPLEXED MOTHER.

ANSWER:

I would try to use as much intelligence in dealing with my young as the birds do in dealing with theirs. I'd push them out of the nest unless they contributed their quota of worms. I wouldn't furnish free board and lodging for husky youngsters who are far more able to scratch for a living than a tired old mother and father are.

When John blows in his money on a streamlined car and Sally spends hers on Queen of Sheba clothes, and leave the rent and the grocery bill and the butcher for poor Pa to pay, Mamma and Papa try to excuse it by calling it thoughtlessness. "The children just don't realize how much it costs to feed a lot of hungry young people, no matter how carefully you shop nor how thin you pare the potatoes."

Goodness knows what parents would do if they couldn't use thoughtlessness as an excuse for all of their children's meanness and selfishness toward them. It is the most overworked alibi in the world. And about the flimsiest. For adult children think fast enough about the price of things when it affects their own pocketbooks.

They know to the last penny what food costs and how much you have to pay for lodging and laundry and having your socks darned and your buttons sewed on and all the other service that Ma throws in gratis along with free board and lodging. The reason they don't contribute to the family exchequer is not because they believe that their parents are miracle workers who can run a home on air, but because they want all of their money to spend on themselves.

Of course, primarily the parents are to blame for this, because they never taught their children that cooperation is the very basis of family life or that they had any responsibility toward maintaining the home and making it happy and comfortable. If from their earliest years each had had his or her specific duties, and if each had been made to feel that he or she should contribute to the upkeep of the home there would never have been any question of the children sponging on Father and Mother after they were grown and able to stand on their own feet.

But if there are grafting children there are also predatory parents, and it is just as unfair that the parents should take away their children's pay envelopes from them as it is that children should refuse to help their parents. It has always seemed to me that this problem of how much of their children's earnings parents are entitled to can best be solved by putting the transaction on a purely business basis. I believe that nothing breaks down the morale of a boy and girl who are just starting to work, nothing kills their ambition and paralyzes their energy so much as for their parents to take possession of their earnings and dole out a few cents for carfare and lunch. Yet the children should help support the home they live in.

So, as I see it, the remedy for the situation is for the children to handle their own money, but pay Mother a definite board. And for Mother to treat the children who pay as star boarders who have a right to spend the balance of the money they earn as they please.

DEAR MISS DIX—Is a bad marriage better than none? Is it better to belong to some one, even if that some one is not your heart's desire, than to be alone? A famous writer stated the other day that it was every woman's duty to marry and have children even if the husband is inferior—that fathers aren't important, anyway. Bah! Or should I say Amen?—JUDY.

ANSWER:

I think BAH is the word. At least, that is the expletive that will arise to most women's lips when they are told that a bad husband is better than none at all, and that even double wretchedness is preferable to single blessedness.

Marriage isn't much of a picnic for women even when they make a reasonably good one. There are a lot more kicks than cakes and ale for a woman in having to adjust herself to the peculiarities and prejudices of any husband, and in having to cook and wash and mend and baby-tend.

If these are complicated and added to by having a bad husband who drinks or gambles, or is shiftless or grouchy and hard to get along with, she is bound to think that she made a bad bargain and that she would be a thousand times happier if she were single.

However, there are undoubtedly many women who do think that any kind of a husband is better than no husband at all. For every day we see women fishing men out of the gutter in order to marry them. We see women marrying lazy men whom they know they will have to support; dull men who will bore them to death; men whom they can't agree with before marriage and whom they know they will fight with afterward. Anybody, just so he is a man!

Any one who asserts that it doesn't make much difference what kind of a father a child has certainly has little belief in heredity, or environment either for that matter. For children are just as likely to take after an inferior father as they are after a superior mother. The father's influence for evil is just as likely to prevail as the mother's influence for good.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—We are a group of under middle-aged successful business women, but so situated that our social contacts are limited, and we would like to meet desirable men in a dignified way. How and where can we do it? — LONESOME GROUP.

ANSWER:

Business offices are supposed to be the happy hunting ground for women seeking their husbands. If the game is scarce there I can only suggest that you move on to some place of employment in which the dears are more plentiful.

Enquiry Column

Conducted by Mrs. MARY MOORE

QUESTION: On your cookery page just at Christmas time I saw a recipe for pastry made with boiling water poured over lard, etc., I found it very satisfactory, but unfortunately I lost the directions.

Would you please send them to me.—C. T.

ANSWER: Thank you for your letter.

The recipe for hot water pie crust that we printed was for nine large crusts. The following recipe is the same but reduced by half—to make 4½ crusts or three crusts and one pan full of tart shells.

Hot Water Pie Crust

Pour ½ cup plus 1 tablespoon boiling water over 1 cup plus 2 tablespoons lard. Stir until the lard is melted, then add 3½ cups sifted flour, 1⅝ teaspoons salt and 1⅛ teaspoons baking powder, sifted together, to the lard and water. Stir with a fork until smooth. Chill at least 4 hours—it must be chilled or it is too tender to handle (it may be made the day before needed, wrapped in wax paper and towel and chilled overnight.) Roll out as needed—for this will keep for a week in the refrigerator.

QUESTION: For a long time I have found your column a real help and enjoy it very much. Now I hope you can help me solve my problem.

I have $10 a week which must buy everything for the house—bottled milk costs $1.55 per month—I buy some canned milk to help out. I have my potatoes and preserves in for the winter and some flour—I do my own baking, bread, rolls, etc. I must have good meals three times a day for my husband for he works hard. He gets his own breakfast so it must be easy as well as substantial. He usually has sausage or liver, cold meat or eggs all with potatoes. The two small children and I have cream of barley, or ... oatmeal porridge, bread and jam, cocoa or milk, sometimes an egg. For dinner we have soup, stew, some vegetable, fish or meat—a roast once a week. For supper the children have porridge or applesauce or bread and jam and milk. Dad and I usually have poached egg on toast or pancakes or hash leftover or stew if any, or beans or bacon and eggs—anything that is hearty. I pay a dollar a week on bill that will be paid in a few weeks, 45 cents a week for insurance—I help pay for the wood. This week my grocery bill of odds and ends was $3.33—that is for 2 weeks. I save an average of 25 cents per week. Can you help me so I can save more. For sweets I bake an average of one cake and some cookies—that is for supper or before going to bed if anyone is hungry. Thanking you for all the help I have received through your columns, and hoping you can help me.—W. B. J.

ANSWER: I think you are making a very courageous and commendable effort to manage your household, but I think you must be economizing too strictly, when your milk bill is only $1.55 per month—even if this is supplemented with canned milk. The children should have 1 quart of milk per day each—to even keep their teeth from decaying they should have one 8-oz. glass of whole milk every day.

You do not mention any fresh food in the outline of the meals you serve. Apples, cabbage, carrots are all very cheap for they are grown here and can be stored—every one of you should have one of these, uncooked at least once per day.

You must not try to economize so strictly—it is false economy—for the money you save will only go to pay doctor or dentist bills—that could have been avoided if you had spent the same money to buy more nourishing food for your children.

They should have 1 quart of milk per day each, 1 egg per day each, one fresh fruit per day each, 1 fresh vegetable, 1 cooked vegetable, 1 cooked cereal or baked potato or ripe banana—once per week they should have calves' liver, deep sea food, dates or raisins or nuts. Other foods I have not mentioned such as soups, cooked fruits, breads, jams, etc. can be given to give bulk to meals, but certainly not as the main part of them. Build your meal around the essentials they should have—only giving them bread and jam and cake after they have had the essentials.

Try making all your bread of whole wheat—vegetables and grains are best in their natural state—if you must economize and cannot afford oranges, lettuce, lemons, celery, etc. This is the only way you can even attempt to make up for the elments these other fresh foods provide. Your husband will like the fuller flavor of whole grain products—all hardworking men do. Your cookies can be made with them.

I am sorry that I am not complying with the spirit of your request. However feeding your children nourishing food is the long range view to take of "saving." I know for I have two small ones too. They will have no need of "insurance" if you are alive and healthy and strong (from proper care of your health) to care for them.

Do watch the cookery page for methods of managing your budget—we try to include one well balanced economical meal every week in our Dinners of the Week. Clip these out and keep them in your cook book to refer to when you need your memory jogged.

We think the following recipe for Whole Wheat Chocolate Drop Cookies a very good way of using whole wheat—they are a general favorite.

When Father Returned

When David Johnston went to work Sunday afternoon at the Cordova Mines he left his wife and family of five children safely at home. His shift operated from four in the afternoon until midnight at which time he would return. When he came back after being told his home was on fire late in the evening he found only his wife and one son, Donald, a little lad of five years. Four others, a girl and three boys, ranging in years from eight to fourteen, were in the blistered and charred remains of the home. The mother had smashed her way to freedom and safety through a window, taking with her the boy Donald into weather which was 16 below zero, and they were clad only in night attire. Other helpers in the village tried putting a ladder to the upstairs window but there was not even a remote chance of entering the place as the structure was filled with flame. The children upstairs never had a chance.

It will be a strange world which Mr. and Mrs. Johnston will face. A family of five children would keep a home rather an active and a bright place; young life always has that effect. Now there is no home, there is but one child and there is no furniture. Just father, mother and the one lad, Donald.

The kindness of friends in Cordova will do something to ease mental and physical suffering, but the full force of the tragedy will increase rather than diminish. It is not something which can be marked with a point where it will terminate and mother and father will live with it as long as their days last. We can conceive of no greater loss than that of four bright children in one tragic hour.

Our City Market Again

It is plain enough members of the Peterborough County Council do not think much of the market-day facilities in this city. It would be pleasant to be able to rush in and support our market, but the truth is there is little which can be said in its defence. At this time of year in particular it is miserable for those who have to take up places on the outside market. There is no protection and no warmth and those who go as customers experience similar conditions.

County Council members were inclined to believe they might as well start a market of their own in Victoria Park, that magnificent square in front of the county buildings. They argued if they had a market there they would not be shoved and ordered about.

So it is that early in 1939 that old question of better market facilities has been brought to the front—and by the representatives from the county. It leaves the city as the party which will have to make the next move. For some years we have issued no debentures and admittedly that has been sound policy by which we are working our way surely to a better financial position. We are on a pay-as-you-go policy but that market business keeps standing in the road and demanding treatment.

The suggestion has been made that the solution is in acquiring new property, but against that is the claim that the city itself has too much at stake in the present location of the market to consider making such a change. The City Trust, acting for the municipality, owns the entire block surrounded by Simcoe, George, Charlotte and Water Streets, and the stores along George Street, most of which have a rear entrance from the market, are all on city-owned property. It is held, and with sound enough reason, that their value as business properties might be lessened by changing the location of the market.

The same argument goes on to say that we have poor enough city offices, and it is not possible to make many changes there. They are crowded, old and out-of-date and the safety factor is none too great. The advocates of the present market site remaining believe new city buildings should be erected elsewhere and the entire open space given over to market purposes. The Examiner is not at the moment an advocate of this plan, but it is set forth here as giving something in the way of a future solution toward which we should be working. It is not good business to have the city told by County members that our market is not acceptable, particularly when we know there is no adequate answer to their charges.

It's Hard To Believe

There is a case going on in Chicago which must make decent citizens wonder whether the officials are more interested in collecting income tax from criminals than they are in putting the criminals out of business.

Murray Humphreys is being sued for $37,165 in taxes and penalties because it is charged he held back certain amounts when filling his income tax papers in 1930 and 1932.

The evidence is that Robert Fitchie, president of the Milk Wagon Drivers' Union, was kidnapped in December of 1931, and from the union ransom money to the extent of $50,000 was paid. It is now claimed that Humphreys received that money and did not put it in with his year's income. And the taxation authorities are actually dealing with the man on that score. It means they want to get their share of the money which was received from kidnapping.

Just why they do not arrest Humphreys and prosecute him as a kidnapper we do not know. The officers must believe him guilty for they are suing for their share of the money he received from that crime. When governments are prepared to look on crime as a fair source of revenue then what's the use of having police?

They Talk And Talk

From Ottawa comes the advice that the debate on the address in reply to the speech from the throne is likely to "drag on" all week, and it may even do worse than that—go on into the next week. That phrase "drag on" states the case as well as words can because that is what is taking place.

And why? It is known that an election is in the offing and many of the members are thinking now in terms of the next campaign through which they will have to go. They want their ammunition to be on the pages of Hansard; they desire to be able to say "I said on the floor of the house . . ."

All these people who are doing little more than killing time know well enough what will happen when they get done debating. There will be a vote taken and the Government of the day will be sustained because it has ample majority to vote down anything which may be urged against it.

The Examiner would find pleasure in referring to useful effort being made by parliament to meet any of our great questions, but when parliament allows itself to become a debating school for coming political purposes it is not functioning well. It is out of touch with the times and it is giving evidence of having failed entirely to respond to the feeling of expectancy on the part of the people that their parliament would quickly settle down to business. If our parliament finds itself falling into disrepute and if people talk in increasing numbers that we must have some other form of government in this country, then a good share of the blame must rest right on the doorstep of our great building at Ottawa.

Another Town In Default

The town of Collingwood has joined the ranks of municipalities which are in default. Collingwood is a splendid town, nicely situated on Nottawasaga Bay in Simcoe county but it suffered when ship-building slumped, and it lost out too when much of the lake shipping went over to Fort McNichol.

In 1928 Collingwood and Simcoe County agreed to help finance Collingwood Terminals which operates a 2,000,000-bushel grain elevator. The town guaranteed debentures to the extent of $800,000 which was a fairly stiff order but at that time it looked safe enough. Since 1934 the Terminal company has paid nothing to the town for the debenture debt and the result is that default has followed. Application has been made to place the municipality under a supervisor named by the Department of Municipal Affairs.

And that is rather a stiff jolt for those who believe municipalities should be willing to guarantee debentures. There are cases where it has been done with perfect safety and good results, but there are others where the municapality has been left holding the bag, and that is what is wrong with Collingwood today.

A Weak Link Here

Two wholesale dealers at Hastings and Warkworth have had an unpleasant experience in trying to secure pay for large shipments of poultry and eggs which they sold to a Toronto commission man several months ago. There seemed to be so little chance of getting payment in full that court action was taken and the man from Toronto must now stand trial on charges of alleged fraud. With that angle of the case the Examiner has nothing to say, and our courts are competent to deal fairly with such a case.

But there is another question. Why should the law allow a commission man to make such large purchases without having satisfied some responsible body that he is able to carry on business and meet his payments? Poultry and eggs rank as farm produce just the same as milk, and the Milk Control Act of 1934 places plain enough regulations regarding the financial standing of those who purchase milk. It licenses distributors, producer-distributors, transporters and peddlers. Where an individual or company is purchasing milk from producers, it is stipulated:

"Where a bond is provided it shall be in an amount satisfactory to the Board, and in no case shall be in an amount less than the value of milk received from producers during a minimum period of 30 days, or where producers are paid on a monthly basis, during a minimum period of 45 days.

"The bond shall be made payable to the Board and all monies derived by the Board under or by virtue of any such bond shall be applicable solely to pay the claims of producers for milk sold to the distributor who furnished the bond and shall not be subject to attachment or be otherwise exigible for any other purpose."

Those clauses make it fairly certain that the producer of milk shall be paid and it is right that such regulations should be enforced. It should be just as desirable to provide that only financially competent people should operate in the field of poultry and eggs. Farmers sell to local dealers as a matter of convenience; the local dealer is merely a part of the system of distribution. Eventually the produce reaches the consumer and there it is paid for. It is a sort of chain system and all the links in it should be financially sound otherwise the local dealer on whom the farmer depends for a cash outlet is not going to be sure of his position if he is not certain of the financial strength of the commission man.

A Slanderous Statement

When a man desires to make a statement it is not necessary for him to speak the truth. Representative Reed, a Republican from New York state, works on that principle. He does not like the new trade agreement between Canada and United States as he believes it is going to give too much advantage to this country.

One of Reed's claims is that the Canadian farmer is going after the cream market in United States, especially along the border. And this is the picture he gives of the Canadian dairy farm:

> "The milk cans were standing out in the open field, and 25 or 30 men would be milking at one time with the rain pouring down over the backs of the cows and running into the pails or soaking through the felt hats and sweaters of these men and then running into the milk pails."

It is hardly worth while entering into a long discussion about this method of making statements. People in this country know well enough that Representative Reed has not even a primary knowledge of the methods of our dairy farms, of the restrictions under which they operate nor yet of the regulations which they have to meet.

The miserable part of the whole thing is that the man should seek to injure a Canadian industry by slanderous means to serve a political purpose. The harm which may be done is that people in United States who read his statement may take it for granted that a man in his position knows what he is talking about, and they may get an utterly erroneous impression of the manner in which Canadian cream is made available for the United States market.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Mussolini has warned France not to try and stand firmly in Italy's Way. Il Duce would doubtless prefer to have France wobble a little.

Toronto man who appeared in court at London was a little rough on lawyers. He said he would conduct his own case as he had nothing to hide. And he was acquitted.

A colonel in the Indian army has protested to the British Broadcasting Corporation that dance music on Sunday morning disturbs him, but the Broadcasting folk say he is getting a programme which is intended for Western Canada on a Saturday night.

Twenty stenographers left the room in a Toronto bank before the covering on the ceiling fell down in flames. After looking in our book on "What To Do in an Emergency" we came to the conclusion that the young ladies acted wisely and well.

Jess Willard now has a job in a hotel at Miami owned by Jack Dempsey. Twenty years ago Willard made $452,000 in the prize fighting ring, and this year Dempsey gave him a job because he was down and out. At 4 per cent. interest Willard's earnings would have given him an annual income of $18,000 ever since without touching the principal. Probably he had more muscle than brains.

SUCCESS

¶ J. Skinflint kept expenses down, he ran the biggest shop in town, but he was rather tight; the men who worked for him well knew, to scamper when the whistle blew, and that of course was right.

¶ And Skinflint used to walk around, to see if loafers could be found, his sight for that was keen; he'd fire a man right on the spot, and do it when his blood was hot, and he was hard and mean.

¶ And Skinflint lived quite well himself, I guess he stacked a lot of wealth, his house was large indeed; and everything in there was right, it told of warmth and cheer by night, where no one was in need.

¶ J. Skinflint passed away one day, a weakened man and very gray, and relatives came in; I had a letter sent from home, it said he lived there all alone, and days were long for him.

¶ Two sons there were named John and Bill, and now they're fighting on his will, I notice the report; and they've engaged smart lawyers too, who know exactly what to do, it is being tried in court.

¶ He was successful so they say, and made his business pay and pay, but there I had to pause; he stacked up lots of wealth I know, was he successful by that show—I wonder if he was?

NO FAVORITISM.

Sentencing of a K. C. and former M. L. A. on a charge of drunken driving (to which he pleaded guilty) to two weeks in jail, with an impounding of his car and cancellation of his driver's permit, will do much to dispel the idea that favoritism is sometimes shown in such cases. A man of sufficient intelligence to sit in the Legislature and to qualify as a barrister must known that when, under the influence of liquor, he takes the wheel of a motor car he is a grave menace to public safety, and that he is not entitled to any leniency from the courts. It is gratifying to find that none has been given in the case in question.—(Brockville Recorder and Times)

IN APPRECIATION of the treatment his wife received in a Lahore hospital a grateful husband has offered to give the hospital three rupees (4 sh. 6d) a month out of his monthly salary of Rs. 60 (lb. 4-12) as long as his wife is alive. Like the Chinese who pay to keep the doctor away the grateful Lahore husband puts a limit to his generosity, but his action is held in the Press to deserve the widest possible attention. With rare exceptions hospitals in this country rely almost entirely on grants from Government and local authorities to keep going. In consequence medical and nursing staffs are often short-handed and essential equipment is lacking. The Government does what it can to make good these deficiencies, but public funds are limited and voluntary donations are not attracted as they should be.—Indian Press Union.

TRUTH

"The sly hussy! So that's what she meant when she said he was just a 'pain in the neck' to her!"

—London Opinion.

• "No Such Incident Took Place"

EDITOR EXAMINER: Sir,—Wide publicity has been given the statement that Bishop Beverley of Toronto, and the Lord's Day Alliance delegation walked out of the room in the midst of the Attorney General's reply to them. No such incident took place. The interview in question took place on the afternoon of Wednesday, December 28th, and lasted from 4.40 to 6 o'clock. During the whole of that time no discourtesy was shown the Attorney General by any member of the delegation. The interview was not concluded until the Attorney General assured the delegation he had completed his remarks, and before Bishop Beverley or the delegation left the room the Hon. Mr. Conant was thanked by the Bishop for his courteous hearing. Any one knowing Bishop Beverley personally may be assured that he conducted the leadership of the delegation with becoming dignity and courtesy. The presence of the Most Reverend Archbishop Owen, Primate of the Church of England in Canada, and the Very Reverend Dr. Peter Bryce, immediate past Moderator of The United Church of Canada, with the delegation may be taken as further assurance that this story of discourtesy has no foundation in fact.

The question of Sunday recreation emerged in the course of the afternoon's discussion, not from the memorandum presented by the Lord's Day Alliance, but from the statements made by Attorney General Conant. His first intimation announced his decision to request repeal of the 1845 Sunday law by the Dominion Government. With that decision the delegation were in practical agreement. Much of the confusion of recent years has centred around that ninety-four year old law and its obsolete clauses. The repeal of this law would leave The Lord's Day Act of Canada, 1906, as the one piece of legislation determining the legality of Sunday activities.

The 1906 Federal Lord's Day Act does not forbid personal or family recreation on Sunday. The poor mans recreation is safeguarded quite as fully as the rich man's. Of course it must be recognized that the poor man cannot purchase as expensive recreation as his wealthier fellow citizen any day of the week. No Sunday law could equalize that condition. But, as far as any law can equalize privileges and freedom, the Lords Day Act is the friend of the poor man. Professional and commercialized sports are not organized to benefit the poor man. They are organized and promoted to make the business of sport profitable for the promoters. Professional sports are not even recreational in character, except for the few employed to provide entertainment for those who pay. And the only sports prohibited on Sundays by the Lord's Day Act of Canada are commercialized and professional sports.

The proposal to widen the privileges of Sunday sports, therefore, cannot mean less than opening the door to these commercial activities. That is the real issue facing the Province of Ontario at this time. We do not believe the majority of Ontario's citizens favor legislation that would open the door in any such way.

Yours faithfully,

GEO. G. WEBBER,
General Secretary Lord's Day Alliance.

Toronto, Jan. 23.

• She's Lacking One Essential

SAYING that the thing was so incredible he could hardly believe it possible, Principal Wallace of University College, Toronto, condemned the action of a girl student in admitting that she acted as "ghost" writer of essays for other students—at a fee.

The young lady, according to an interview in a Toronto evening paper, seemed quite unconcerned about the matter. Why shouldn't she earn money that way? Lots of students were only too glad for her to take the load off their minds because she was good at that sort of thing.

Besides, she wanted to make $300 in order to get married. She prided herself on being able to rattle off an essay on English literature in two hours says St. Thomas Times-Journal whereas lesser accomplished students required a week or two to "swot" it up.

All educational training, from elementary stages to university, also includes a substantial amount of moral training; the formation of character as well as stuffing with knowledge. This miss may be smart but the inculcation of upright principles seems to have but touched her lightly. In the ordinary way she is probably as honest as can be, but writing essays for others so that they may gain their degrees without working for them; passing off her own work as that of somebody else for payment of a fee, is rank dishonesty. It makes the others guilty of dishonesty also. It is a fraud upon the university, and ultimately upon the people who may subsequently employ these graduates in the belief that their qualifications were honestly come by.

The fitting penalty for such acts is expulsion from the university of all those concerned. Public faith in the universities, largely supported by the public money, will be shattered if students are allowed to loaf through their courses and buy others to do their work for them.

• Canadian Labor and the C.I.O.

IF THE FEUD between WILLIAM GREEN, head of the American Federation of Labor, and JOHN L. LEWIS, head of the Congress for Industrial Organization (the C.I.O.) spreads into Canada, it will be a pity. It will be a pity in particular for Canadian labor.

Canadian employers are mostly willing, and they should be willing, to bargain collectively with labor; it is not their business to tell workers what union they should join says the Ottawa Journal. But Canadian employers cannot bargain collectively with two unions at the same time. A great deal of the industrial strife in the United States during the past year has been due to that—employers found themselves up against two conflicting unions, sometimes against as many as three.

The consequence was loss for labor; the loss which division brings inevitably.

The great pity of the thing—from the stand-point of labor—was that the rank and file of the workers didn't share the feud between Green and Lewis. Personal pride, prestige and ambition entered into the conflict; things which the workers didn't understand, and for which they had no sympathy. The war was between the Generals.

United States labor leaders have apparently not learned the lesson that a divided labor front means labor weakness; that it puts the most powerful of all weapons into the hands of labor's enemies.

The Canadian Trades and Labor Congress, to its great credit, has tried for two years to heal the breach between the American Federation of Labor and the C. I. O. It has been powerless to succeed; and now, upon orders from William Green, it is being compelled to take action which brings United States labor factionalism—with threat of consequent weakness—into Canada.

If a way exists out of such a danger, the labor leaders of Canada, mostly men of good sense and good judgment, should try and find it.

A BRICK IS HEAVED.

Any community but Kingston would have been perfectly satisfied to have Their Majesties in their midst for as long as eight and a half hours, even on a Sunday, when many other cities of much greater importance found themselves omitted from the Royal itinerary, and any other community, moreover, would have realized that on a Sunday the King and Queen were entitled to spend a quiet day after a grind of ceremonies in Ottawa and would have fallen into line with such a desire without thought of protest. But Kingston the different is also Kingston the ridiculous and on this occasion it is running quite true to form.—(Brockville Recorder and Times)

Fight the good fight of faith, lay hold on eternal life, whereunto thou art also called, and hast professed a good profession before many witnesses. I give thee charge in the sight of God, who quickeneth all things and before Jesus Christ, who before Pontius Pilate witnessed a good confession; that thou keep this commandment without spot, unrebukeable, until the appearing of our Lord Jesus Christ: which in his times he shall shew, who is the blessed and only Potentate, the King of kings, and Lord of lords; who only hath immortality, dwelling in the light which no man can approach unto; whom no man hath seen, nor can see; to whom be honour and power everlasting. SAD NEWS FOR SOUTH.

The British cotton spinning industry has bought only 238,000 bales of American raw cotton this season, as compared to 782,000 bales during the corresponding period last season.

This represents a drop of nearly 70 per cent. in our cotton exports to Great Britain.

A report from the United States Counsul at Manchester states that the decrease in British cotton imports from the United States is being made up by larger takings of Indian, African and Brazilian cotton.

Sentiment plays little part in business.

Consumers of raw cotton will buy it where they can get it for the least money.

Cotton growers in our Southern States have the plowing-under and price-pegging experiments of the Administration in Washington largely to thank for the decline of their export outlets in Great Britain, Germany, Japan and other foreign cotton-consuming countries.—(Detroit Free Press)

A HOODOO TRICK.

The old Fergus Council bought a truck to use for municipal purposes. Most of the ratepayers considered it too expensive, and a luxury that Fergus could well do without. When election day came around, the entire Fergus Council was defeated. The 1938 Fergus Council sold the truck to Collingwood. The Collingwood Council used it for municipal work. What the ratepayers thought about the truck is unknown to us, but when election day came around last week, the entire Collingwood Council was defeated. The new council may find it hard to sell the truck to any other municipality. — (Fergus News-Record)

INQUIRE INTO YOGISM.

DR. BINET SANGLE, of the French Military Medical Service, who has been deputed by the Government of France to investigate the scientific basis of "Yogism" and "Fakirism" has arrived in India and is at present touring the country in search of competent persons who could enlighten him on the subject.

From the nature of the questionnaire he has prepared (which is very comprehensive), Dr. Binet seems particularly interested in the scientific basis for the oftperformed miracles, such as the "rope trick", fire-walking" and the "hate yoga" feats.

His inquiry also embraces the physical and cultural aspects of yoga as well as its therapeutics.—Calcutta Statesman.

Year Of Progress Is Reported At St. James' Annual Meeting

A splendid attendance marked the annual congregational meeting of St. James' United church held on Monday night in Wesley Hall.

The chair was taken by the pastor, Rev. F. W. Craik, who led the opening devotional service, which included congregational singing of hymns, a Scriptural lesson and prayer offered by Mr. Craik.

Mrs. A. Davis was re-appointed as secretary. The presentation of reports by representatives from the various church organizations shows that the church is in fine working order and that every department is being efficiently conducted by picked leaders.

The Sunday school as reported by the secertary, John Sanderson, has made good progress under the capable superintendency of E. R. Frost. A large staff of well-trained teachers and officers look after the spiritual needs of the school and its financial success is the natural result.

C. F. Kitney, the church treasurer, reported for the various other church organizations with satisfying facts and figures. It was found that the total debt on the church had been reduced by $850 this year, as well as completely remaking the windows from the old Charlotte street church at a cost of $355.

F. Hogan and W. J. Swanger were appointed auditors of the church books, with power to add one more persons of their own choice.

Officers Elected.

The election of officers was carride out without ballot, the retiring members being returned to three year terms in each case.

The stewards elected for three years included: J. Sanderson, H. Fife, A. Fife, J. English, R. Moynes.

The elders for three years are: A. E. Prest, F. Hogan, W. McLaren, W. M. Wood.

Upon motion the term "honorary elder" was changed to "life member of session."

Mr. Frost, Sunday school superintendent, gave a brief review of the work of the school, speaking very encouragingly of the attendance of teachers and class members.

Rev. Mr. Craik in his report, reviewed the work of 1938, and spoke of the 21st anniversary year of St. James' as one of the happiest of his ministry.

Marriages 20, baptism, infants 22, adults 1., Burials 10. Removed by church letter 4, by death 5. Total 9. New members received, profession of faith 24, church letter 12. Total 36. Gain 27.

A special motion of appreciation to Rev. F. W. and Mrs. Craik was voiced by W. M. Wood and was heartily endorsed by all present.

Moved by C. F. Kitney, seconded by F. Hogan, that a vote of appreciation be tendered to all church organizations connected for their loyalty to the church, and carried.

Mr. Craik voiced his appreciation of the co-operation and faithful attendance of the choir leader and his members.

This concluded the business of another successful congregational meeting and with the singing of Blest Be the Tie That Binds, A. E. Prest dismissed the gathering with prayer.

Looking Back
On This Date

Just a hundred years ago we were very nearly at war over the boundary between New Brunswick and Maine, the catastrophe being averted only by the calmheadedness of two distinguished soldiers, Sir John Harvey lieutenant-governor of New Brunswick, who had shared in the victories of Lundy's Lane (1814), and Crysler's Farm (1813), and General Winfield S. Scott, who fought at Queenston Heights.

The tension between the lumbermen became so tense, there was so much uncertainty as to which was British and which was Maine territory that the lumberjacks were formed into two armies, poorly armed but each determined and angry. The Maine "army" was the larger and better equipped and when the state legislature voted large credits for the "war" the situation looked very serious for New Brunswick.

The Maine "army" crossed into undoubted New Brunswick territory on Jan. 24, 1839, but the people of the British colonies showed no fear. Members of the Nova Scotia assembly, when told of the invasion, rose to their feet as one man, sang "God Save the Queen," and put every man and every dollar in the province at the service of New Brunswick.

The news did not reach Upper Canada until March and at once the assembly voted: "That this House would be alike wanting in gratitude and patriotism were we to hesitate to assure the gallant New Brunswickers that, however we should regret a war with the United States, we nevertheless pledge ourselves that should such a result proceed from the conduct of Maine, we will support, maintain and defend the rights of our sister province with our energies and our lives, and that Sir John Harvey be informed of this decision."

Thus did Upper Canada pay in part for the military aid which New Brunswick had given in the war of 1812-14.

Luckily the war cloud passed. Joint occupation of the disputed territory was arranged and eventually the boundary was settled by the Ashburton Treaty of 1842.

Slugfest Features U.A.W. Session

DETROIT, Jan. 23.—(AP). —The faction opposing Homer Martin in the United Auto Workers' Union scheduled to-day the election of a new president and the ouster of four International Board members loyal to Martin.

R. J. Thomas, one of the vice-presidents, it was reported, would be named president of the anti-Martin faction.

This development followed a slugfest Sunday btween the factions

Nevertheless, final outcome of the bitter internal warfare in the United Automobile Workers, it appeared, ma ybe of vital significance to the Congress of Industrial Organizations.

The U.A.W., claiming a membership in excess of 375,000, is one of the largest unions in the C.I.O. and has contracts with all but one of the major manufacturers in a field virtually untouched by the rival American Federation of Labor.

Some labor observers were convinced a definite division of the U.A.W. cannot be averted and that the loss of any sizable number of U.A.W. members would be a blow to John L. Lewis' organization.

DEATH AT THE MANOR

By M. E. CORNE

READ THIS FIRST

Elsie Ritter, a beauty shop operator, taking the place of her friend, Kitty, for a week in the private salon of Mrs. Horace Witherspoon, Sr., is disturbed by queer things she finds and odd people she meets at the Manor, the luxurious Witherspoon home. She finds her employer is an eccentric old woman with sadly misplaced vanity. She meets her granddaughter, Daphne; her daughter-in-law; Della Craig, an actress, who is a house guest, and the various servants of the household. Elsie overhears a violent argument between Daphne and her mother, during which the girl criticizes her grandmother. After meeting some of the other house guests, Elsie gives a manicure to old Mrs. Witherspoon's sister, who converses in riddles. While Mrs. Witherspoon, Sr., is under one of the four hair driers in the salon, Phil, Elsie's friend, drops in to see her and telephones from downstairs. Elsie goes down to see him.

(Now Go On With The Story)

CHAPTER TEN

"LORDY!" I shot up like a jack-in-the-box when the kitchen clock struck ten. "I've been sitting here half an hour! Mrs. Witherspoon will give me what for!"

"Oh, let the old gal sizzle!" Phil was unconcerned; it was not his job.

"I have to go," I insisted. "Maybe if you ask me, I could come into town tomorrow night."

He grinned. "O. K., I'll ask you. Run along to your rich old lady, sweet." And he leaned over and kissed the tip of my nose. "I'll give you a ring tomorrow."

"All right." I kissed him once for good measure and flew up the stairs.

"I'm awfully sorry to have kept you waiting." I began breathless apologies as I untied the hood of the drier and lifted it upward. "I—" A shriek, long drawn-out like that of a locomotive whistle at a grade crossing split the air. It was myself screaming again and again as the limp, lifeless body of Mrs. Witherspoon fell face forward upon my breast!

For one agonized second I stood frozen. The noise of the drier like a giant plane motor roared in my ears. Louder, louder, louder! A faint odor of bitter almond reached my nostrils. I sneezed, I swayed, I pitched downward to the floor.

When I opened my eyes I was lying on the black and silver divan in the salon lobby. Through a mist I saw the moving figure of a man and a woman. I tried to speak. Nausea overwhelmed me. I was going to be sick. Someone held a basin before me, and then someone wiped my face with a cold cloth.

Presently the mist cleared. Mrs. Greely, her face flushed, was bending over me.

"Better now?" Her voice came from an immeasurable distance.

"Better." The effort to speak sent a wave of pain through my head.

"You'll be all right soon."

"She did it! She did it!" A second voice shrill and strained screamed the words. Eliza moved into focus. She loomed above me, tall and forbidding; she pointed an accusing finger in my direction.

"Eliza—please!" a man said tiredly, and I knew that Mr. Horace was in the room.

"I tell you she did it!" Eliza would not be hushed. "She stole the emeralds!"

"The emeralds!" repeated Mr. Horace stupidly. "What emerald?"

"She knows!" The maid's face was livid with hatred. "She watched me put them on the table. She knows!"

"What is she saying?" Mr. Horace was utterly bewildered.

"Mrs. Witherspoon's Jewels," I faltered. "They were on the table—"

"You stole them! After she was dead you stole them!" Eliza laughed hysterically. "You robbed the dead!"

"The dead?" I stared at her. "Mrs. Witherspoon is—is dead?"

"Yes—yes, she is dead." Mr. Horace said dully. "Mother is dead."

He groped for a chair and sank heavily into it. His face was ashen; he looked ten years older than the little man who had come into the salon—was it only this evening—to ask his mother a question, a question which would remain unasked and unanswered!

"Poor mother!" His voice cracked slightly. "The excitement of the ball was too much for her."

"She died—in there?" I motioned to the anteroom. I saw that someone had drawn the silver curtains tightly together.

"In there," replied Mrs. Greely gravely, as one speaks of death.

"And I fainted?"

She nodded. "Eliza found you on the floor—the two of you."

"Thief!" shrieked Eliza, and burst into a paroxysm of weeping.

I shuddered, seeing again that shapeless bundle in the bright-colored kimono as it had toppled toward me.

Eliza's awful weeping filled the room.

"When—when did she die?" My voice was a whisper.

"You don't know?" Mr. Horace regarded me curiously. "But you were there!"

I swallowed with an effort. "No." I said. "No. I was downstairs in the pantry."

"In the pantry?" I think he thought I had gone suddenly daft. "What were you doing in the pantry?"

"She was hiding the emeralds, that's what she was doing!" Eliza uncovered her swollen face.

"Mrs. Greely," he motioned to the housekeeper, "will you take Eliza to her room? She—she has gone to pieces." And he rubbed his forehead between his eyes as though he, too, were in danger of sudden collapse.

"Very well, sir." Mrs. Greely placed her arms about the maid's shaking shoulders. "Come, Eliza!"

"And now, Miss Ritter," Mr. Horace continued when they had gone, "perhaps you had better explain." His voice trailed uncertainly. I felt a wave of pity for him. He was so obviously unfit to cope with the situation.

"Mr. Witherspoon!" I leaned toward him. "I didn't steal the emeralds. You must believe me!"

"The emeralds! Oh, yes! I had forgotten." He smiled wearily. "You must forgive me. My mother's death—"

"Of course—of course," I said softly. I was conscious of a feeling of mild surprise at the evidence of his deep grief. Mrs. Witherspoon, in my opinion, had not been one to inspire great love. Perhaps, I thought, perhaps he was remembering her as she must have been in her younger days; perhaps he had already forgotten the garrulous tyrant with whom I had had such brief and unpleasant contact. Death, I was aware, drew a veil over life, softening its harshness and stern reality.

"She has been ill for many years," he said suddenly, as if thinking aloud. "Again and again I begged her to consult a physician, but she refused. She disliked speaking of illness; she wanted to remain forever young and strong. I—I tried to persuade her to postpone this affair tonight. She would not. And now she is dead. The excitement was too much for her worn heart."

"Yes," I nodded. "She looked badly."

The son sighed. "She had a full life, a very full life." He fixed his eyes blankly upon the ceiling.

"Mr. Witherspoon!" I hated to foist my own affairs upon the little man, but I had to get the business of the missing jewels settled.

"Yes, Miss Ritter?"

"I didn't touch the emeralds."

"Now, now," for the first time he looked directly into my eyes, "you must not worry," he said kindly. "No one accuses you."

"Eliza accuses me."

"Eliza is not herself. My mother's death has upset her. She was very fond of mother. I am sure that we will find the jewels. They may have been mislaid."

"Thank you." I was near to tears. "I really never had my hands on them. Eliza laid them on the table and they were there all the time I was shampooing Mrs. Witherspoon's hair and setting the wave. I remember how they sparkled in the light. "But—I had a sudden inspiration—"but I didn't see them when I came back upstairs. Perhaps I was too excited."

Philosophy a Guide to Happier Living

Reap the Joys of a Fuller Life

None of us escape trouble! But there are ways of thinking that can protect us from the jolts and pains of this world. So thought the great Roman philosopher, Marcus Aurelius.

Sick at heart, crushed by the problem that confronts them both, Joan looks to Helen for comfort.

Where does Helen find the strength to face her problem? Listen as she speaks, "We must 'make the best of what is in our power and take the rest as it occurs'." These are the words of Epictetus, another noble philosopher who taught the "way of courage."

From the philosophers you, too, can find courage, learn to apply simple rules to get what you want out of life. The great Plato tells you to satisfy the needs of the body, the emotions and the mind: "A person is at peace . . . when he has become one entirely temperate and perfectly adjusted nature."

Happily you discover a way to richer, fuller living in the advice of Plato, Aristotle, Epictetus, Marcus Aurelius, others. Our new 32-page booklet, PHILOSOPHY: A GUIDE TO HAPPIER LIVING, brings you the essence of the great philosophies, helps you face life's difficulties, find peace in a troubled world.

Send 15c in coins or stamps for your copy of PHILOSOPHY: A GUIDE TO HAPPIER LIVING to Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

Lindsay Central Fair received a ten per cent increase in their annual grant, as did also several other county fairs. GOODNIGHT STORY

By MAX TRELL

No one in the whole house was happier than Knarf and Hanid over the Christmas presents which the children received. And the present that Knarf liked most of all was the electric railroad train. Hanid thought the dolls and the doll-dresses were more fun. But Knarf kept saying: "Dolls are only to play with—but the railroad train is useful."

"I don't see how it's useful, Knarf."

"You can go to different places on it," Knarf said.

"You can only go from one side of the playroom to the other. Those aren't very different places."

"Oh yes they are—to some folks," he added.

"What folks?"

To These—Yes.

The shadow-boy smiled. "To the

"I'd like to get over there."

Tin Soldier and to Mary-Ann, the rag doll."

Hanid didn't quite understand. So Knarf said: "There's the Tin Soldier standing sentinel duty by the door. And there's Mary-Ann lying in a corner near the window. They're both on different sides of the room. Now I tell you what to do. You go over to Mary-Ann and ask her where she'd most like to be now, and I'll go over to the Tin Soldier and ask him the same thing."

The two shadows separated. Hanid went over to Mary-Ann. "Where would you most like to be now, Mary-Ann?"

The rag-doll sighed. "I wish I were on the other side of the room near the Tin Soldier. I feel very lonely here. I like the Tin Soldier. If only the children would put me on the railroad train, I could get there in a minute."

And the Tin Soldier said to Knarf: "I can't walk, you know. But I would like to get to the other side of the room where Mary-Ann is waiting for me. Do you think the children could put me on the railroad train?"

And what do you think? The children put both Mary-Ann and the Tin Soldier on the railroad train. They called them "passengers." 'Round and 'round the room rode the two happy toys. They sat together. They pretended they were out in the country riding far, far away to the land where toys can talk and walk and be happy together just like people.

"I told you a railroad train is useful to some folks," said Knarf to Hanid. And this time she agreed with him.

Marmora Church Reviews Its Year With Gratifying Results

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, Jan. 24. — Gratifying reports were presented at the annual vestry meeting of St. Paul's Church convened in the Parish Hall on Monday evening, with Rural Dean A. B. Caldwell presiding.

R. J. Scott was appointed vestry clerk following opening prayers. The financial statement presented by H. R. Pearce, rector's warden, was adopted. Full receipts for the year were in excess of $3,400.

The report of the Ladies' Guild was given by Mrs. S. C. Boyd, secretary-treasurer. Receipts of this organization reached $1,094.96, with $879.31 of this amount disbursed to the parish funds. The rector then gave reports of the A.Y.P.A., Sunday School, and Laymen's Association in that order.

The A.Y.P.A. raised over $56, the Sunday School receipts totalled $124.27, and the Laymen's Association showed receipts of $84.50. The latter organization also carried out a canvass which netted $460.35 for the reshingling of the church and the general fund.

The report of the Mission Fund was given by W. J. Cottrell, missions treasurer, showing $85.60 raised for the missionary apportionment of the parish.

Officers Are Named.

The rector reappointed H. R. Pearce as his warden and R. J. Scott was re-elected people's warden.

C. H. Buskard was re-elected lay delegate to Synod for three years, the other two delegates being H. R. Pearce two years, and W. J. Cottrell one year. Members of the Parochial Council for the ensuing year will comprise the rector, the church wardens, H. B. Smith, S. B. Wright, R. E. Bonter, L. R. Rundle, W. J. Cottrell, and C. H. Buskard, and Mesdames A. B. Caldwell, E. Hewitt, H. B. Smith, S. C. Boyd, P. Gray, S. B. Wright, and G. Kerr. Miss M. Savage was re-appointed auditor.

The rector brought up the matter of the sixty-fifth anniversary of the church being observed this year, and the first Sunday in October was set as the tentative date. It was mentioned that the Bishop of the Diocese had signified his intention of being present and the name of another prominent preacher of the church was suggested as an additional preacher for the day.

The rector's report followed, with the following figures being given:

Morning services 52, average attendance 46; evening services 39, average attendance 30; mid-week services 8, average attendance 30; celebrations of Holy Communion: Mid-day 12, average communicants 34; early 6, average communicants 20, Easter communicants, 106; private celebrations, 6; baptisms 20, number confirmed 11, marriages 5, burials 9; Sunday School, 52 sessions, average attendance 56; teachers and officers 8.

Before the vestry adjourned votes of thanks were accorded the Ladies' Guild, organists and choir, and the Rector and Mrs. A. B. Caldwell for services rendered during the past year.

Complete details of the government program will not be available until the supplementary estimates are brought down but other plans include, expansion of the youth training plan, forest conservation work and continued attention to such projects as tourist roads, national park improvements, mining roads, development of historic sites and level crossing elimination.

Quoting figures of reductions of 22.7 per cent in the number of persons receiving relief in Canada from November, 1936 to November, 1938, and 7.7 per cent from November, 1937 to November, 1938, Mr. Rogers said there was no reason for discouragement or defeatism. These figures represented more progress relatively than had been in either Great Britain or the United States.

"This government from the beginning," he said, "although at times its progress may have seemed slow and at times perhaps it may have been open to the charge that we were taking too much care before we proceeded in a given direction, at all events has proceeded resolutely upon lines which we felt would lead us ultimately towards a sound solution.

Solution Possible.

"I believe that, given the kind of co-operation, the kind of enterprise and initiative that exists in this country, at least potentially, it is not beyond the powers of government and good citizens to make steady progress towards the solution of this problem of unemployment."

The government was aware of a loss of morale which came from dependence on direct relief and also from the reliance of large bodies of people on government works. For this reason its policy was to stimulate private employment as well as provide employment on public works.

Through the Housing Act and the Home Improvement Act $50,000,000 had been spent on construction. The program for the coming year would give further impetus to the construction industry and also relieve to a considerable extent the burdens of many municipalities.

Some employers in private industry had enlarged their staffs and he hoped more would do so during the coming year, even at some risk to themselves.

"Let us make no mistake about it," he added, "if private employment is not able to take up the slack, if private industry, acting with governments, and having a knowledge that governments are doing their part, does not itself do its part towards that objective there will be thrown ultimately upon democratic government such a pressure of public opinion in favor of public employment that government itself will be asked to undertake burdens which it is not equipped to bear."

Glad Stevens Back

Mr. Rogers congratulated Conservative Leader Manion in getting "the sheep that was lost" back into the Conservative ranks. He was referring to Hon. H. H. Stevens, former leader of the Reconstruction party.

"We do not yet know," he said, "on what terms this reunion has been arranged. We don't know whether the Reconstruction party is to be conserved or the Conservative party reconstructed."

Dr. Manion had criticized the government in connection with unemployment. A study of Dr. Manion's speeches revealed few suggestions for dealing with this problem. Only three had been offered by the opposition leader. One was that the Dominion take over the entire burden of relief he wondered whether Dr. Manion wanted the Dominion to take responsibility for all the unemployables on relief rolls.

Dr. Manion said he had never suggested the Dominion assume the entire burden but he had urged it to take over a larger part of the burden.

The Conservative leader also had said persons on relief could be usefully employed building dustless highways. Mr. Rogers wondered if Dr. Manion wanted the Dominion to build all the highways in the country.

Another Minister?

The third suggestion was the appointment of a minister of youth re-establishment. But appointment of another minister solved nothing. The government was pursuing a definite program in regard to youth.

H. J. Barber, Conservative-Fraser Valley, recalled opposition which had been directed by the Liberal party to the last Conservative government's policy of works camps for single transients and charged the present administration was restoring the camp system. He criticized the government's methods of administering relief and meeting the unemployment problem, particularly with reference to the national employment commission.

It was possible fewer were getting relief now than in 1935, Mr. Barber said, but there was an increasing army of transients roaming the country and a growing number of people who, after years of endeavoring to keep off relief by a few days work a week or by other efforts, were reaching the end of their resources.

The governments of dictator nations had more to show for their efforts than those of democratic nations, said Eric Poole, Social Credit, Red Deer, Germany had 280,000 unemployed now against 6,500,000 in 1932. Germany was producing more than ever before, had an acute shortage of labor in most trades and was making serious inroads into markets hitherto regarded as exclusively British.

Having failed to fulfill its promises the Liberal government was now raising a cry of national unity. But national unity should be based on economic co-operation and common sense.

How Franco's Victory In Spain Would Give Il Duce Control Of Mediterranean

This comprehensive map reveals how Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy, by making certain a victory for the insurgent forces of Gen. Franco in Spain, can turn the Mediterranean Sea into an Italian lake and hold a dominating club over British and French shipping routes to Africa and the Far East. Three effective "toll gates," swinging at the behest of Il Duce, could effectively control navigation. Victory for Franco would mean that a Fascist Spain would control both sides of the Straits of Gibraltar, completely surrounding the British fortress; that would be toll gate No. 1. A Franco victory would also give Italy a foothold in the Balearic Islands (Spanish) which with Sardinia (already Italian) forms toll gate No. 2, barring France's shipping routes to her African colonies. Once these routes were under Il Duce's thumb he holds a convincing argument in his demands for control of French Corsica and Tunisia which, linked with Italian Libya, Sicily and Sardinia, would form toll gate No. 3, covering the approaches to the Suez. Though this may sound like speculation there is ample evidence that Italy is unswervingly committed to a Franco victory in Spain, giving Mussolini a strong talking point in his demands for port facilities in Djibouti, French Somaliland, for a share of French colonies and for Italian representation in the control of the Suez Canal.

Two Officers Miss Death By Inches As Trap Gun For Wolf Goes Off

LINDSAY, Jan. 24 — (CP). — A double-barrelled shotgun charge passed between Corporal T. J. Woods of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and Game Overseeer Alfred Hodgson of Lindsay yesterday, when the officers walked into an improvised game trap in the woods of Harvey Township.

"It very nearly got us," Hodgson said. "The gun trap was rigged up by a trapper to kill a wolf which had killed a buck deer right near there."

Hodgson said he had talked with the trapper who set up the high-powered charge, but would not disclose his name.

The gun, of the old hammer-action type, was clamped to a board which was nailed to two poles 18 inches from the ground. A piece of thread, connected with a mouse trap, was stretched through the woods for a considerable distance. When jerked the thread released the mouse trap, which pulled a wire against the trigger of the gun.

"I think the only thing that saved us was the fact that the wind had blown the thread out of line," Hodgson declared.

went west and practised law in Medicine Hat, Alta., from 1913 to 1922 when he moved back east to practise in Windsor, Ont.

Tall, heavily built, with thinning sandy hair and genial countenance, Mr. McLarty has established a reputation as a man of outstanding common sense. As a public spirited citizen he took part in many public enterprises and was active in federal and provincial election campaigns, although never standing for public office until the 1935 general election.

An able, fluent speaker, his debating ability had earned him the respect of his fellow members in the House. In his second session, in 1937, he was honored by being assigned the duty of moving the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne.

Real Western

Mr. MacKinnon is manager of the Canadian Credit Men's Trust in Edmonton and also conducts a provincial fire insurance business. While he has been active for many years in the provincial Liberal organization he never ran for public office until 1935, when he campaigned against four opponents, Conservative, C.C.F., Social Credit and Reconstructionist.

In his day he has been a school teacher and a newspaperman. For several years he was a reporter on the Edmonton Bulletin. The new minister without portfolio is a product of that district in Western Ontario—Bruce County—which has sent so many outstanding men to Western Canada. He was born at Port Elgin in 1881, and went west at the age of 20.

Main Bursts, Douses Toronto Furnaces

TORONTO, Jan. 24—(CP). — A bursting water main flooded downtown Church Street today, inundating basements, destroying sidewalks and anchoring automobiles to the pavement as water turned to ice in near-zero weather.

Houses on Mutual Street, one-quarter of a mile away, had from a foot to five feet of water in their cellars. Residents suffered from bitter cold when it became impossible to keep furnaces alight.

Bride Of 17 Days Knew Flier Mate Not Fated To Die In Plane Crash

Mrs. Chapman flew here yesterday from Hamilton, Bermuda, where she operates a beauty shop, passing over the storm-tossed spot where her husband had clung for 10 hours to the wreckage of the plane before the oil tanker Essa Baytown came to the rescue.

"My husband is a very remarkable man and I knew he just couldn't die like that," said the Canadian girl, her eyes brimming over with happiness. "I flew over to be able to take care of him myself when he arrived here," she added.

Mrs. Chapman said she had heard nothing of the accident unti labout 5 p.m. Saturday and it was early on Sunday before she learned her husband was among those rescued.

"They called me from the airport to know if I wanted to go to the airport to met Pat. Did I? I was down at the landing base half an hour after."

Mrs. Chapman married the veteran radio man, who is 34, on Jan. 4, in Baltimore, while the Cavalier was there undergoing a check-up. They flew to Hamilton for their honeymoon. She had only been in a plane once before, when she flew from New York to Detroit several years ago.

Chapman hails from Reading, England. Mrs. Chapman was married once before to Lythe Kirkbride of Detroit. Eight years ago she went to Hamilton and opened a beauty parlor.

Other Cases.

Many occupations on the list with age reservations contain large numbers of men who are below that age and can be accepted for any branch of national service. For example, most of the men in the textile clothing industry under the age of 30 will be eligible for military service, practically all men in the distributive industries under 35 and those under 30 in paper making and printing.

The aircraft industry has no reservation age so every man in it will be in the "dungaree army" in wartime.

Diphtheria Cases Spread In England

LONDON, Jan. 24—(CP).—An indictment of antiquated measures for dealing with diphtheria in Great Britain is continued in an article in the Lancet, medical journal by Dr. E. H. R. Harries, medical superintendent of a London County Council hospital.

He cites steps taken in Toronto as an example of what can be done to control the disease.

The annual diphtheria toll "must seem almost fantastic to observers in those parts of Canada and the United States of America which have adopted native immunization," he says.

The disease is increasing here. In England and Wales, 61,341 cases were notified in 1937 compared with 57,795 in 1936. Notified cases up to October 8, 1938, showed an increase of 5,000 over those for the corresponding period of 1937.

Dr. Harries says that in pre-immunization days, from 1921 to 1925, Toronto had an average of 65 deaths annually from diphtheria. In 1934 and again in 1937 nobody in Toronto died from the disease.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 24—More than 2,000 are each year made wards of the Children's Aid Society throughout Ontario, Tom Rushton, Superintendent of the Children's Aid Society for Hastings County said in an address here Monday. Having taken an active interest in this work most of his life, the Belleville Rotarian reviewed for members of the Campbellford Club conditions in England previous to the reign of Queen Victoria.

After gaining early experience in child welfare along the docks of Hull where the Methodist church was doing extensive work, the speaker then was transferred to Liverpool and later on to the slums of Drury Lane in London. Since coming to Canada he has worked in Brockville, Picton and in Belleville.

During the time of Queen Victoria parents relieved themselves of the responsibility of their children by putting them to work in the mills or the mines. There was a standing arrangement between the employers and parents that if five reasonably responsible children of one family were given employment the sixth would also be placed on the pay roll even though it happened to be an imbecile.

It was not until July, 1921, in Ontario tht Beverly Jones the provincial secretary framed the Children's Protection Act. Previous to this in 1893 J. J. Kelsos, formerly a reporter for a Toronto paper and who later became known as "the greatest social service worker in Canada," was appointed provincial superintendent and given complete control. He held office for 43 years. During the latter part of his tenure of office the Conservative government appointed W. B. Isaac as supervisor and when the Liberal party took office "they saw the wisdom of retaining him as local superintendent for the province of Ontario.

Grants According to Grading

Although the Childrens Aid Society is not affiliated with any religious body or other organization it does receive each year a grant from the government and the amount of the grant is determined by the efficiency of the society and its officers. Every six months they are graded and grants are paid accordingly with A grade receiving $2,000, B grade $1,500, C grade $1,000, D, $500 and E $100. When the society is placed in E grade they will in all probability lose their license to operate. A child cannot be made a ward of the Childrens Aid Society because of poverty reminded the speaker.

All Right Lost

Once committed to the Children's Aid Society the parents lose all of their right to the child and a penalty of $500 fine or imprisonment may be inflicted for interference.

It is the administration of the Unmarried Parents Act passed in 1921 that represents the greatest difficulty for the Society under its terms all that is necessary is for the young woman to come before the local superintendent and swear out an information as to who the father is. It remains the work of the Society to collect hospital expenses and from $3.00 to $5.00 a week until the child reaches the age of sixteen.

Of the approximately 2,000 who each year find their way to the care of the Children's Aid Society about 500 are found permanent homes. There are nearly 8,000 wards of the society in Ontario at the present time.

Sounding a warning to legislatures that a law legalizing sterilization should be passed the speaker claimed that a large number of feeble minded children are being brought into the world and supported this contention by telling the story of a family in which there were eleven children. The parents were feeble minded and had married as "a sort of joke" encouraged by friends in the northern part of Hastings county. Of their eleven children three are epileptic and the other eight are feeble minded. All are wards of the province, the parents themselves being committed to the House of Refuge. Replying to a question from a member of the audience the speaker asserted it was his belief that environment played a greater part in moulding the character of the child than heredity.

In moving a vote of thanks to the speaker Harold N. Carr, M.P.P., stated Hastings couny should consider themselves very fortunate in having a man the type of Mr. Rushton.

Remanded One Day On Drunk Driving

"I haven't a thing to say until I have seen my lawyer," declared Hubert Lovelace when arraigned in police court to-day on a charge of drunken driving on George street.

"I was going to ask for a remand, in any case," Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry explained.

"I feel that the effect of these drunken driving cases is more pronounced if there is a speedy trial," Magistrate Langley stated. "I think those accused of such offences should be brought up the next morning, or the morning after that, if at all possible."

Crown Attorney McElderry thought that he would be able to go on with the case to-morrow, so Lovelace was remanded until Wednesday, when he will be tried before Magistrate E. A. Gee.

Bail was fixed at $500.

650 Families Moved Into Peterborough In Three Years Become Public Charge

A recent checkup has shown that in the last three years 650 families have moved into Peterborough from other municipalities and become a charge upon local taxpayers, President James Dutton, told his fellow Rotarians at Monday's luncheon, in support of an appeal from the relief committee of the city council for Rotary support and co-operation in reporting new comers likely to become relief applicants.

President Dutton also asked for endorsation of a resolution passed at a recent meeting in Toronto of representatives of service clubs, in which speedy consideration for the problem of unemployed youth, transients and otherwise was urged.

In this connection the president was given authority to name a Rotary representative on a local committee apointed by service clubs.

Rotarian E. L. Sackville gave a report upon the recent meeting in Toronto in which the question of re-drafting the Rotary districts was considered. Rotarian Sackville reported that the general opinion had been that the districts as now constituted were so large that the services of business men as district governors were practically made impossible because of the distances the governors had to cover in visiting the clubs under their jurisdiction.

Peterborough, he stated, was by reason of the decision reached at the conference part of Rotary District No. 168 which was entirely a Canadian district, the three old districts having been split up into five.

The meeting Monday unanimously decided on motion of Rotarians V. J. McElderry, K.C., and W. R. Morris, to endorse the new plan.

There was a decidedly Scottish atmosphere at Monday's luncheon in view of the fact that Wednesday is Burns' night. Miss Isabel Duthie sang in excellent voice two immortal Scottish songs "Ye Banks and Braes o' Bonnie Doon" and "Flow Gently, Sweet Afton," her numbers being thoroughly appreciated while J. L. P. Smith, himself a native of Ayrshire, recited "Tam o'Shanter" with a full appreciation of the characteristic humor of the Burns' poem, and in inimitable fashion.

Ald. Stocker Believes Ratepayers In County Not Support Park Idea

"I don't think many of the ratepayers in the county would support the idea of turning Victoria Park into a parking space and public market," Alderman Stocker said today in referring to the county council's proposal to its agricultural committee Saturday.

"Scores of farmers go up there for lunch on Saturdays during the warm months of the year," the chairman of the city's parks committee continued. "It is convenient and it's a pleasant place, and lots of them make use of it. We get a grant of $100 a year from the county council for taking care of the park and we spend about $2,000 on it. So, on the point of getting value for their money the county council should be more than satisfied. Victoria Park makes a beautiful front and approach to the county's buildings. In fact you will go a long way in this province to find any county layout that is more beautiful, and no one can tell me that Peterborough farmers, the majority of them, don't appreciate it. They have an interest and a share in their county town, and they have no intention of allowing their property to be turned into an unsightly parking space, or anything like it. I don't think Billy Anderson and Melville Johnston are serious about it.

Mr. Johnston talks about us taking down an old tree. We did that because F. D. Kerr, who is up around the Court House a great deal, called our attention to it. He said it was likely to blow down, and possibly injure somebody, and we'd be liable. We took it up root and branch and we hope to plant five Schwedler maples next Spring to replace it. It cost us $75 to remove it, and we filled in the big hole we excavated with top soil and dressing, and by the time the young trees are planted the cost will be $100 altogether, the amount of the county's grant for one year. There is another tree that probably should come out near the steps.

Of course, Victoria Park is county property, and if the county council wants to make an eyesore of it, in front of their own buildings and St. Paul's church, I suppose there is nothing we can do to stop them. I'll be surprised if they get any encouragement from their own ratepayers all over the county."

Committee Named For Winter Sports

Committees to direct arrangements for the Winter Sports that are to be held in Peterborough at the week-end of February 11 were appointed at a meeting in the Chamber of Commerce last night with R. T. E. Hicks-Lyne presiding.

Ontario ski championships are to be decided in the Peterborough countryside with a much larger entry of star performers than a year ago. Twenty high class jumpers are expected to be here with fifty of the same top grade in the slalom, down hill and cross country events.

The cross-country ski race will start from the vicinity of the Western Clock Company swinging out in the direction of the rifle ranges and north around the Peterborough Golf and Country Club over an eight mile course. The jumps will be from the Nassau slide and the slalom events are billed for Bethany.

Chairmen of committees include: Carnival committee, Sid Black; publicity and advertising, H. L. Garner; accommodation, C. G. Graham; finance, Doug Loomis; parking, traffic and snow-plowing, A. E. Chalmers; registration is left with the Ski Club members; and Alex Sollitt is chairman of the reception committee.

Hastings, Jan. 24.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CLEVELAND SMITH'S 130 pound Newfoundland dog seems to possess unusual resistance to cold. Monday morning, when A. B. Smith missed the dog from its usual resting place indoors he searched the yard and found "Buff" sound asleep in a snowbank. The thermometer had dropped to 12 below through the night but Buff did not seem to mind. When the large dog arose, he left a spot where the heat of its body had melted the snow to a good depth.

15 Men Fined Not Having Radio Licenses

Fifteen Peterborough citizens who were charged with possessing radio receiving sets either in their place of business, residences or automobiles, without having the necessary license were all fined $3 and $2.50 costs in police court this morning.

Fourteen of then entered a written plea of guilty through Constable Gordon Puffer. They were William Petrie, Robert Gamble, Wilfred J. Cunningham, Tony Carvegge, Morley W. Lyle, Richard Raines, Ken. Robinson, Harry McInnes, Harry Donovan, John Sadler W. J. Koster, John Simmons and Ken McCannan.

The fifteenth, Louis Yeotes, was the only one who appeared in person and he at first entered a plea of "not guilty."

However, when he started to explain that he had not been using his set because of interference in the neighborhood, Magistrate Langley told him that if that was to be his defence he would have to register a conviction because he was charged with possession without a license and operating the set had nothing to do with it.

"That's the law," he said, "we do not make it—that was done by the Dominion parliament."

Yeotes then changed his plea to guilty and he was fined $3 and costs, the same as the other fourteen.

The charges were laid by Inspectors H. S. Williams and Victor J. R. Brister, both of whom were present in court this morning.

Legal And Reception Committee Cuts Its Estimates To $3,500

The Legal and Reception Committee of the Council last night clipped its estimates for this year down to $3,500 from the appropriation for last year of $11,425.52, of which $9,401.21 was spent.

Part of the shrinking was an expedient of bookkeeping. Alderman Gordon said that the $2,000 salary of W. F. Huycke, K.C., city solicitor, should not be charged to the Legal Committee, but should be included with the other civic salaries in the cost of civic government. Naturally, that idea was welcomed by the chairman, Alderman Bradburn, and Alderman Gordon followed up with more diversive help in his contention that the appropriation for miscellaneous items properly belonged to the Finance Committe's budget, and should be transferred to that account. And Alderman Bradburn immediately stroked off that liability.

Legal claims, embraced under the heading of insurance, drew an appropriation of $2,750 last year, and the actual expenditure was $2,754.75, and although midwinter has been passed without any serious accident chargeable to the city, it was decided that a little "slack" should be included for contingencies. The appropriation this year is $2,900, with $200 for law and legislation, and $400 for reception expenses.

Alderman Gordon's motion that the Legal Committee's appropriation be $3,500 for 1939, was seconded by Alderman Stocker.

"An example for other committees," Ald. Gordon remarked.

"I wish the Relief Committee could follow it," said Alderman Dutton in a tone implying that he had no hope in that direction.

An appeal from the Winter Sports Committee for assistance in entertaining some of the outstanding visitors who are expected to come to Peterborough for the Ontario ski championships brought a favorable response. Alderman Bradburn was authorized to arrange for a dinner not to cost more than $60. Alderman Stocker in his motion suggested $50, but acceded to the additional $10 in agreement with advice of other members. Alderman Gordon seconded it.

New Assault Is Planned On City Trust

With a new chairman presiding, the Legal Committee of the Council had picked up the trail of the City Trust Commission's surplus of $330,000, and the sound of their baying is likely to reach Vincent Eastwood, G. A. Gillespie and company. The persistence of the committee did not drop with the change of the year, and Alderman Bradburn's succession of Alderman Gordon. They shook out th idea of going after all or part of the $330,000, giving it a new airing, and then they decided to supply each alderman with a copy of correspondence with the City Trust and also of the saliently significant clauses from the special legislation which appointed the Commission and defined its power and duties.

The brief conversation last night was only the first step in what seems to be a new manoeuvre. No new facts were mentioned. It was mostly repetitions of last year's discussions.

One of Alderman Dutton's comments regarding the surplus the Commission has accumulated largely by its investment of the sinking fund and other moneys in its care was, "The Commission is under no obligation to reinvest any part of its reserve. They can come to this Council and get the money they need annually for interest and sinking fund."

Mayor Hamilton said the Commission's reserve should be used only for the reduction of taxes, "and we should go on record as to that."

Alderman referred to the list of bond deals made by the Commission last year, copies of which he had sent to the members of the committee. As supplementary to the information he had himself presented, he asked that the auditor be requested to go back eighteen years and prepare a statement of bonds bought and sold with dates, names of brokerage houses through whom the transactions were made, and the par and yield values. Ald. Gordon said that there were hundreds of thousands of dollars of bonds and debentures turned over in a few weeks, "and I'd like to ascertain why there is tremendous trading." He suggested that some of the deals did not react to the city's advantage. His motion was seconded by Alderman Dutton.

"I agree that you can't get their surplus handed over to you, but I can't see why we should give them any more money out of our tax receipts while they have that surplus," was another comment by Ald. Gordon.

"Suppose there wasn't a dollar in the City Trust account," said Ald. Dutton, "if they wanted $300,000 for sinking fund purposes and interest this year all they have to do is to ask this Council for it, and the Council must provide it."

The present action is to furnish all the members of the committee with information pertaining to City Trust affairs, equipped with which they should be in a position to project their deliberations with knowledge of the facts.

Dogs Chase Two Foxes Into Hastings Barn

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Jan. 24.—Pursued by dogs, a pair of foxes ventured within the village limits Monday and did not seem much frightened, when Walter Warner came across them near Walter Fowlds barn. According to Mr. Warner, they seemed tired from hot pursuit and started to walk out of the yard until the bay of hounds spurred them on at a run.

A few minutes later a hunter, who lay in waiting, fired rifle shots at the pair but they escaped and fled to a nearby woods.

Jack Frost Goes On Spree In Lakefield Putting Plumber's Plumbing On Hummer

Lakefield is probably due for some of the most sympathetic plumbing any hamlet ever received—and all due to the fact old Jack Frost went on a spree and put the plumbers' plumbing on the hummer. Sure he went the round and jinxed plenty of others that's the trouble.

Ed, surprised in his office—yep he's a hard man to catch—by one of the victims, came up out of a bunch of mumbles that led one to believe that Jack Frost wasn't altogether to blame, but that the canal department, works department, several other departments and possibly the whole Federal Government was in on the business.

Seems during some river front improvement the road in front of Ed's had been lowered and as a result his pipe line to the river had frozen —"but for heaven's sake don't mention it or they'll probably clamp a tax on river water in revenge," says Ed, squinting as he jiggled away at a set of pump valves.

"—just got the line partly thawed when the well went dry, no water for hot water and now the pump's on the fritz—" mumble, jumble.

Just then the phone rang. "Another one," says Ed with a wild look in his eye—"yes I'll come up, but I have to fix my own line first—yes—but my own line—sure—no, not for awhile, only six others ahead of you —yes, yes, yes— soon as I can."

"That's the dentist—he's frozen up too—pipe out at the school—your wife phoned again awhile ago and said to hop right up there pronto and here I am."—and he began to yank out a whole new pumping outfit, tossing the set of balky valves on a shelf, and then started filling up a box with pipe and elbows.

It was an education. You know how often you've seen a plumber on a job stringing pipe and rounding fantastic corners with a gleeful expression and twisting on elbows and T's at a buck a throw—well, doggoned if he didn't toss in enough to do the very same thing on his own job.

"Maybe you'll make it tonight after supper ventured the caller.

"Got to go to a church meeting," answered the plumber as he continued tossing in pipes. Which was probably a good thing after all.

Major J. O. L. Mason Of Lakefield Is Honored By King George

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 24.—Twenty-one years of service in the Third Battalion of the Second Punjab Regiment in India, earned for Major J. O. L. Mason, of the "Uplands," Lakefield, a place on the King's New Year honors list. Major Mason was awarded the title O.B.E. (Order of the British Empire) not alone for his military service, but in recognition, as well, of the work which he did during his spare time—that of reorganizing a district of 12,000 exservicemen in India.

During his military service in India, Major Mason would be assigned for two years to frontier service, following which he would have four years in a peace station "down country" i.e. in a civilized district towards the south of India. When doing frontier service Major Mason was stationed at different positions on the northwest frontier between Afghanistan and the Indian border, one of his stations was the well-known Khyber Pass. While on the frontier he was separated from his wife and family, since life there is too strenuous for women and children. The duty of the battalion on frontier service is to defend the frontier from aggressive tribesmen. The most extensive frontier operations were during 1935, Major Mason recalls, when there was considerable fighting on the Afghanistan border.

During the four year periods at the peace stations Major Mason could rejoin his family, though he says, "One of the joys of the East is that one is never settled. We were stationed in about twenty different places during our years 'down country.' The last of these was 'Meerut' near Delhi."

Major Mason headed the Third Battalion of the Second Punjab Regiment in India. There were only twelve British officers in the regiment, but twenty-one Indian officers. The other 725 were rank and file. There were two campanies of Punjab Mohammedans, in the regiment, a company of Sikhs (members of the Hindu fighting class) and a company of Dogra Hindus.

The worth of re-organizing the ex-service men was a matter of getting the Indian veterans comfortably and happily settled in their homes after leaving the army. It was a matter of getting them jobs and settling their problems and disputes. "It meant plenty of touring and meetings—all done on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays," Major Mason told the Examiner. "The ex-service men would bring their problems and petitions, etc., and we would try to solve them." There were 12,000 ex-service men in the district re-organized by the Major.

"The Indian army served in every theatre of war during the last great war," Major Mason continued. "In every place where there was fighting, the Indian army was represented, including France, Palestine, Mesopotamia, Salonica, etc."

Major Mason, with his wife and three children, returned to Canada last fall and took up residence at Lakefield, early last December. They are living at Uplands where Major Mason is planning to commence poultry raising.

Honored By King

Major J. O. L. Mason, who in recognition of his twenty-one years of military service in India during which time he re-organized one of the largest ex-soldiers' district in Central India, has been awarded the title of "Order of the British Empire," by King George. Major Mason is now a resident of Lakefield and Mrs. Mason is the former Stephanie Davidson, daughter of the late Archdeacon Davidson, who for many years was rector of St. John's Anglican church, Peterborough.

Junior Farmers Plan To Tour Industries

Junior farmers who are taking the three short courses in agriculture and home economics at Stirling, Keene and Blackstock are going to join their forces here on Friday for a tour of Peterborough's industries.

The entire party of about 160 to 180 young men and women from three counties are going to converge on the Quaker Oats mill around nine or ten o'clock, and other places to be visited during the day are Silverwood's Dairy, the De Laval factory in the morning, Canada Packers by the boys in the afternoon and Dominion Woollens by the girls in the afternoon. Some of them are likely to include the Examiner in their itinerary.

Frank Paterson is arranging the details of the day that is bring together young people from three neighboring counties on an educational expedition through industrial Peterborough.

Canon Paterson Is Bereaved

During the annual vestry meeting of All Saints' Church held on Monday night, announcement was made by William Buller of the death in Scotland on the same day of James S. Paterson, father of the rector. Canon Paterson had asked that a chairman be elected to carry on the business after the elections of wardens and lay delegates had been completed, and R. J. Bolton presided while reports were read. Mr. and Mrs. Paterson visited their son in Peterborough eight years ago.

Hunter Is Given 8 Months In Jail

SUDBURY, Ont., Jan. 24 (CP)—Howard Hunter, 28, Peterborough, Ont., was sentenced to eight months in jail yesterday by Magistrate J. S. McKessock. Hunter pleaded guilty to four charges of false pretences and two of forgery, one of the latter being committed at Kirkland Lake. He got eight months on each charge but the terms are to be concurrent.

Crown Attorney E. D. Wilkins described Hunter, who claims to be a mining geologist, as "too lazy to come off the high horse and get down to serious work as laborer when he couldn't get a job." Hunter has previous convictions in Toronto and Kirkland Lake.

Two Youths Get Terms In Jail On Theft Counts

Carl Wilson and George Thompson of Toronto, convicted before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in Police Court this morning of stealing a pair of gloves and a flashlight from Reginald Hopkins, were sentenced to 30 and 28 days, respectively, in jail.

Wilson, who pleaded not guilty and conducted his own defence, was tried first.

Reg. Hopkins told of parking his car outside the White Way place at Bethune and Charlotte Streets and of seeing two men climbing into his machine after he had gone inside. When he went out of the store the men ran away and he missed a pair of gloves, his flashlight, and driving licence. Witness identified Wilson as one of the men.

Joe Coss, who was with Hopkins, corroborated his story and Clarence Jay told of seeing Wilson and another man trying the doors of several cars near the corner of Charlotte and eBthune streets and then climbing into one of the vehicles.

Sergeant John Thompson told of the arrest of Wilson on George Street and of finding the flashlight and gloves on the prisoner, and Constable Archie Menzies testified as to Wilson's arrest.

Had Been Drinking.

Wilson, taking the box as the only defence witness, said that he had been drinking and did not remember anything about the gloves or flashlight.

Magistrate Langley found the prisoner guilty, and sentenced him to a month's imprisonment.

Evidence in the case against Thompson followed much the same lines, Hopkins, Coss and Jay describing how the accused was picked up at Charlotte and Rubidge Streets after the theft of Hopkins' property and taken to the Police Station. Hopkins said that he was sure Thompson was one of the men he had seen in his car and Jay identified him as one of the pair he had seen trying car doors, although he admitted he had been judging by his overcoat and build.

Sergt. Thompson said that when Thompson was brought in he had said that if they finger-printed him they would find out who he was.

In his own behalf the prisoner swore that he had not been in Hopkins' car and that he did not know Wilson. He said he had been given a ride down from Toronto by a stranger who had given him some wine to drink and also the packages of cigarette papers found in his possession. He admitted that he had been convicted in Perth and Kingston of housebreaking and theft and could not explain why a deck of cards found on him was exactly similar to another found on Wilson.

Called in rebuttal Chief Constable Newhall declared that he had seen Thompson in the company of Wilson and John Burke at the corner of Hunter and George Streets earlier in the evening of the theft of Hopkins' gloves and flashlight.

Magistrate Langley registered a conviction, although he said it had not been shown in the second case that the gloves and flashlight had been found upon Wilson. He gave Thompson 28 days so the two youths would not get out of jail together.

Vagrant Is Given 20 Days In Jail

John Burke, who admitted that he used another name on some occasions and who pleaded guilty a week ago to a vagrancy charge after he had been arrested by Sergeant W. E. Wigg was sentenced by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning to twenty days in jail.

Burke who had a previous record, told the court that his home is in Nova Scotia and that he had come here looking for work, because he once had a job in this town.

"Why come to Peterborough for work," asked Magistrate Langley. "We have no jobs for outsiders. Many of our own people are without work."

Burke had no particular explanation to offer and took his jail sentence calmly.

LOCAL COLTS DEFEAT MONARCHS 10-2 IN JUNIOR PUCK TUSSLE

Charge Bruins Play Hedgy Game Belied By Defence Record Totalling 17 Goals, 24 Assists

MONTREAL, Jan. 24 — (C.P.).—At times this season there has been indignant hue and cry that Boston Bruins are too prone to resort to defensive hockey, yet cold figures show to-day that the National League leaders have the highest scoring defence in the circuit.

The five members of the Bruins defence— Eddie Shore, Jack Portland, Dit Clapper, Jack Crawford, and Bill (Flash) Hollett—have piled up 17 goals and 24 assists for 41 points, certainly not indicative of defensive tactics on their part.

Clapper is the leading goal-getter with six, while Hollett comes next with four. Hollett, however, has played part of the season on the forward line because of an injury which kept centreman Bill Cowley out of action more than a month. Portland and Crawford, a rookie, each have three, while Shore has a single.

Oddly enough, the next best goal-getting record for a set of five defencemen belongs to the last place Montreal Canadiens .Babe Siebert's six goals place him with Clapper as the best goal-producer among defencemen in the league. Stew Evans has two goals to give Montreal rearguards a total of eight. Cliff Goupille, Cy Wentworth, and Walter Buswell still have to score.

The Rangers Record.

The forwards have been carrying the mail for the New York Rangers, the highest scoring team in the league with 74 goals in 26 games. Only three of those tallies belong to defencemen, with Art Coulter responsible for two and Murray Patrick the other.

Lanky Ebbie Goodfellow, once one of the best centremen in the league, is the leading goal-getter among Detroit defencmen. The Red Wings sharpshooter has five, Captain Doug Young has one, and Scotty Bowman has one for a Detroit total of seven.

No defenceman on the Toronto Maple Leafs lineup has more than one. Bucko McDonald, Bingo Kampman, Jimmy Fowler, and Red Horner each have tallied once.

Earl (Si) Seibert, the Chicago Black Hawk ace, leads defencemen on his team with four; while Art Weibe and Alex Levinsky have one apiece. Joe Jerwa leads New York Americans with three, although Hooley Smith, who alternates between defence and forward, also has tallied three times. Jerwa is the leading pointmaker among defencemen in the league, having added 10 assists to his three goals for a point more than Seibert of the Hawks.

Breaking Records

It took 37 years for a cricket record set by Charles B. Fry, famour English all-round athlete, in 1901, to be equalled, but Don Bradman, ABOVE, performed the feat when he hit out his sixth consecutive century in Australian first-class cricket. The record-equalling performance came in a regular South Australia vs. New South Wales match, played in Sydney.

Blind Organize Initial Hockey Team

BRANTFORD, Ont., Jan. 24—(CP).—Pupils of the Ontario School for the Blind here have organized what is probably the first hockey league for blind players in the world. The organization is supervised by H. J. Vallentyne, principal of the school. The league developed from skating, introduced into the curriculum some time ago. The pupils made the rink and took to skating enthusiastically. Boys who are totally blind use a tin can for a puck, and follow it by the sound, while those who have slight vision use a regulation puck.

There are two teams in each classification. The groups play on alternate days. Persons who have seen the games say they have all the vigor of a conventional hockey tilt. Girls, too, are enthusiastic skaters, although they have not started playing hockey.

"We haven't had a serious hospital case in 18 months," principal Valentyne said, "and I believe that skating, more than anything else, is responsible for this. It is a fuller, freer, more all-embracing exercise than blind students ever before had."

Campbellford Wins From Lakefield 7-3

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 24—After ten minutes of overtime Campbellford defeated Lakefield 7 to 3 in a lively Juvenile O.H.A. tilt here Monday night. It was their first game of the series and the locals held a 3-0 lead half way through the second frame before Bullock tallied following a Campbellford rush, with the players down the ice. Webb got the opener early in the first period during which Referee Dick Junkins of Lakefield handed out four penalties, all for minor offences. Puffer got the second goal for the winners early in the second with Kelly getting credit for the assist and combined with Farrell to make the score 3 to 0.

The visitors, led by Jewel, Bullock, and Birch, played their best in the third when Jewell and Bullock combined twice to sink the puck into the Campbellford net.

During the overtime period Harold Dunk's squad gave out their best exhibition of the evening boring in on the visitors whom they kept bottled up in their own territory. Webb, Farrell and Puffer each scored one with Farrell getting credit for one and Kelly for two assists.

Next game will be with the Peterborough team which will be entertained here on Thursday.

Lakefield: Goal, C. Windsor; defence, Chas. Birch, Ken Morris; centre, Mark Bullock; wings, Eldon Jewell, C. Pearson; alternates, Bill Clarke, Bill McFaden, Bob Shearer, C. Johnson, B. Arthurs.

CURLING

By HERB MARTIN

We are promised cold weather for to-morrow and that just about fixes things nicely for our first open bonspiel of the season. As we mentioned before there will be two draws, 9 a.m. and 11 a.m., and again the committee would like to have the local entries in by to-night; this little piece of co-operation would be greatly appreciated.

We notice that Mrs. De Graw of our club, and Miss Gladman, formerly of Peterborough, both skipped their rinks to victory in the first round of the Nettlefield Trophy, at Toronto, yesterday.

We have to "special" mention two events taken from last night's curling. First, the big six end Alex Kay scored against Vic Currie—the biggest end scored this season in a schedule game. Second, That shot of W. A. Pratten's with the last stone, of the extra end, to chalk up a win for his rink. And, incidently both these events took place on the same ice—No. 5.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

Local grid fans may enjoy this. After a U.S. football showing in France, a French writer wrote his opinion—and apologies are offered for the translation: "American football, I had a desire crazy to see that. I have seen. It for me is sufficient. But I amused myself very well, that is certain. It is not given to see every day the players of ball with helmets like motorcyclists, with stuffing on their shoulders, their elbows, their knees and elsewhere to the point that they resemble ridiculous robots. Imagine to yourself, for example, these monsters capped with gilded helmets, the torso wrapped in a red jersey, old gold pants striped vertically with red by the rear, without stockings, but feet garnished with enormous brogans. And the little conferences where one discusses the tactics, head to head. 'There they are in family consultation again,' said my companion. But here it is that these gentlemen wish to domesticate this game in France. That, no."

* * * * * *

And a clipping for the lacrossers. Grantland Rice, dean of U.S. sports scribes, viewed a lacrosse game in California and wrote: "Lacrosse is the all-star combination of speed and body contact. It requires more elements of skill than any other game I know....Canada, man for man, is to me the greatest sport-loving country. Canadians can be outmanned, but never outgamed. Lacrosse is the first real American game and is still close to the best. It demands practically everything that competition calls for. It makes many popular games look like a terrific clash at ping-pong or croquet." Yep, old Grant seems to go for the gutted-stick sport.

Skiers Get Religion

Right about now the ski club members here will get plumb religious—those who aren't, anyway—and start praying for a big snowfall for the provincial meet in Peterborough(with Nassau and Bethany as suburbs) in three weeks time. Last two years saw the meet run into an appalling paucity of ski-ing snow, but surely the third time charms. Plans for the big meet are being made now. By the way, the northern ski championships will be held in North Bay Feb. 16-19, and some local experts might be interested.

The following telegram was received the other day by Art Johnston, coming from Jake Solomon in Philadelphia: "Just received notice of Shiner's death and it was a great shock to me. Peterborough has lost one of the best fellows in all around sports I ever knew and I extend my deepest sympathy to yourself and family." Jake had received a copy of The Examiner with the story of Shiner Johnston's sudden death recently. These two were great friends in baseball and both played a big part in making the old C.O.B.L. the best senior ball circuit in Ontario. It is a nice tribute.

A Dash Of Whitewash

Petes slapped the Redmen last night in the face with a brush full of whitewash and did it right on the Bellevillains' own doorstep, too. It was a 5-0 blanking and the locals looked just about that much better. Not that it wasn't a battle, as there is no love lost between these clubs, but the Petes were skating speedier and passing better than the boys from Greater Belleville. They tagged a 2-0 mark in the first frame and did a ditto next time out, winding up with a 1-0 third-period edge. Ice was good but at times play looked somewhat disorganized, th eThomasites playing peculiar hockey in spots and making the Petes look screwy, too. Quinte crew didn't play up to its form of the two previous games with Peterborough—so the locals shouldn't take 'em too lightly when they come here on Friday.

* * * * * *

Big Bentley, with a leather bumperette around his busted beak, tossed the torso around on the back fence again, and Speedy St. Louis threw fists in the direction of Honey Tompkins—who repaid him in kind. Both got majors. The rivals worked in a lot of minor slashing and high-sticking in spots and got downright rough for a while in the third, bumping hard and looking for trouble. Referee Hap Day had the whistle-tooting job and did all right. Not a fan seemed to know him when he skated out on the ice, but the ex-Leafs' defender got a big hand when his name was announced. Goyer wasn't with the Bella Villa band, having quit the team, we hear.

A Pack Of Passes

Tompkins, Kingdon, Gardner and McNulty each figured in on two goals for the Buckland buckaroos, but what's more important, all the Petes' counters were tallied as the result of combination plays. Two and three gees in on every marker and Goalie Watt had no chance on the shots that flashed the red light. All our forwards played a smart passing game and checked back fast, while the defence and goalie couldn't do much more than a whitewash job, could they? Harding turned in a swell effort, again. St. Louis was the best of the losing side, McElrath and Storms going fair, too. Skipper Eddie Thomas refused to be resigned, quoted or comforted! His bunch have to win here Friday or climb into the garbage can.

There was a junior joust at the Brock last eve, but hardly anyone cared to view the affair. Colts copped a soft one over the Monarchs, returning to form to cash in on their weight and experience. Being away with the seniors, we didn't see the tilt and can't say much about it—what would be the use, anyway, as the fans apparently weren't interested in it? The junior fray here tomorrow betwixt Port Hope and Monarchs has been postponed a week, Port Hope being unable to bring a full team. The Monarchs play in Cobourg on Friday, and hold their draw here Jan 31st. The local Colts open a double schedule in Oshawa the 31st, being back here on Feb. 7th. Top team enters playdowns, but if they're tied at the end of the four games, a playoff will be required to declare a "B" playdown squad.

Madoc Defeats Tweed 7-5 In Rough Game

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, Ont., January 24. — In one of the old time spirit games at the local arena on Monday evening, Madoc earned a 7 to 5 decision over the Tweed Blues. The game was featured by a steady stream of penalties, probably the most for any game in years.

In the first period Tweed went into a three to two lead when Provost, from the face-off, netted the first counter, Courneyea, on a solo, placed the home forces two up. G. Kellar then netted a counter for Madoc, only to have J. Tummon, on a nice rush, place the Blues in a two-goal lead. Near the end of the period, G. Kellar tallied his second counter of the game, to leave the locals with a one-goal edge.

The lead was soon overcome in the second period, when Kellar got his second counter shortly after the opening of the second canto, and the Greenshirts went into a one-goal lead when Lovelace, on a combination play, scored neatly. Coming onto the ice from serving a penalty, Provost, a bundle of speed, dashed down the ice, and tied the score. A total of 11 penalties were handed out in the first two periods, with Tweed receiving six and Madoc five.

Going into the last period with the score tied at four all, Courneyea placed the home forces one up on a solo rush, but this lead was seen lost with three quick goals being tallied by Hailstone, Hall, and Akey for Madoc.

Fights Any Moment.

Fights threatened to break out at any moment during the game, and the full fight developed near the last of the period, with Tip Tummon and Lovelace going into one another, and Provost picked his opponent and soon was pounding him. The crowd swarmed onto the ice in no time, and sticks were broken and a few sore heads resulted from the fray. Eight more penalties were added to the list during the last period. Both teams put up a good game of glorified shinny; with hockey a minor part of the game. Neither team got down to the real game, and it was a case of the individual scoring, and not the combination playing that featured the game. For Madoc, Kellar, with three goals was the standout; with the old timer in the nets, Hollingsworth, doing a good job, as he was in tough spots all through the game. For Tweed, Reeves in goal was a standout, making several spectacular saves, and Provost with two goals. Baldy Leal, with his poke checking, featured the best of the plays.

The game was delayed nearly an hour as a result of a car smash outside of Madoc, as the players were en route to Tweed for the encounter; however, it did not affect their game in the least, and they certainly turned on the works, when they set down to it.

Rangers To Meet Their Old Rivals

GLASGOW, Jan. 24.—(CP Cable).—Glasgow Rangers and Hamilton Academicals, old rivals for cup and league honors, clash on the former's ground at Ibrox Park, Feb. 4, in the second round of the Scottish football cup competition. The match stands out in an interesting series to be played as a result of the draw made yesterday.

Blairgowrie, whose 3-2 victory over Dumbarton featured Saturday's inaugural round, will oppose the winner of the Nithsdale Wanderers-Buckie Thistle tie. Celtic go to Montrose, conqueror of East Fife, cupholder last year, and Aberdeen is at home to Queen's Park.

Hearts' luck continues. At the week-end the famous Edinburgh team walked away with a 14-2 verdict over little-known Penicuik Athletic and in the next round Elgin City, another minor league squad, plays at Tynecastle Park.

The second-round draw:

Warkworth-Hastings Junior Game Ends In Near Riot When Visitors Leave Ice

HASTINGS, Jan. 24.—Hasting's juniors chalked up their fourth straight victory when they defeated Warkworth Juniors 3 to 1 in an exciting hockey game played here last night (Monday). The game ended in a near riot when Warkworth left the ice midway in the third period. They claimed the third Hastings goal was offside and refused to return.

The first period opened with very little action with both teams taking long shots. Dudley gave Bowen a perfect pass for Warkworth; Montgomery in the Hastings goal turned it aside. Phillips of Hastings centred one right in front of Fowler in goal for Warkworth but Radford missed the pass. Greenley and Helson went right in but Montgomery made a nice save on Helson's shot. Beatty, Warkworth defence star, drew the first penalty of the game when he was given the gate for tripping McCarthy. Hastings put every man up and gave Fowler a few anxious moments. Shortly after Beatty returned he got a lucky shot away from centre ice that trickled through Montgomery's pads to give Warkworth a one goal lead. Edgar of Warkworth got a penalty for tripping and Hastings again put on the power play.

Puffer got a couple of hard shots in but Fowler could not be beaten. Puffer drew the first Hastings penalty for tripping and was followed seconds later by Edwards for interference. With Hastings two men short Montgomery had to rise to great heights as he stopped shot after shot. Both players returned with no further damage done and with just 30 seconds to go Hastings tied it up, Radford scoring on passes from Petticrew and Phillips.

The second period saw plenty of action as play began to get rough. Scriver of Hastings was given a penalty for slashing and Warkworth went to the attack. Radford and Phillips broke away from the Warkworth ganging attack but Fowler made a nice stop on Phillips low, hard shot. Scriver stepped out on the ice and received an additional penalty for coming on too soon. Helson, Greenley and G. Richardson peppered Montgomery with hard shots but he was sensational. The period ended with the play slowing down and both outfits shooting from outside the defence.

The third period opened with Warkworth on the offensive. M. Richardson and Bowen gave Montgomery a tough one to handle. Phillips, Petticrew and Radford carried the play to Warkworth 'till after 8 minutes of play. Petticrew scored on a pass from Radford and Phillips. Greenley nearly evened the count when he broke away alone but Montgomery turned his shot aside. Six minutes later McCoy scored the last goal on passes from Edwards and McCarthy. At this stage Warkworth players, claiming the goal was offside and that Referee Crate blew the whistle left the ice. Crate denied blowing the whistle and awarded Hastings the game.

The teams:

Warkworth. — Goal, Fowler; defence, Dudley and Beatty; centre, Helson; wings, Greenley and G. Richardson; subs, Edgar, Bowen and M. Richardson.

Hastings—Goal, Montgomery; defence, Boyle and McCoy; centre, Edwards; wings, Puffer and McCarthy; subs, Petticrew, Phillips, Radford and Scriver.

Millbrook Wins Over Lindsay In Neat Tussle

Millbrook pulled out a 5-3 District Hockey League win over Lindsay last night in the Omemee arena, a small crowd of fans seeing a neat fray. The ice was good and play clean most of the way. Millbrook got a couple of lucky counters, and the contest was quite even and interesting throughout the three periods.

Wainman, McCarthy and Mercer looked outstanding for the victors, while R. Williams, Huston and Irwin stood out for the Lindsay squad. Both clubs dished up a fast, passing attack and some persistent and effective checking to hold down the count in what might well have been a free-scoring fracas.

Lead At First

Lindsay had a 2-1 lead in the first heat, R. Williams and J. Begley counting, as Huston got an assist; Elliott tallied for Millbrook. It was tied in the middle chukker, Skitch and Mercer counted for the men of Millbrook, as Huston dented the twine once for Lindsay. Quantrell and McCarthy made it safe for winners in the third stanza on nice work. The teams:

Lindsay: Goal, Mark; defence, Gossien and Growden; centre, Huston; wings, Irwin and R. Williams; subs, N. Begley, J. Begley, Murtha, Balfour and P. Williams.

Church Seniors Battle To Draw

All Saints Seniors and Murray St. battled to a 3-3 Church League puck tie last night at All Saints' rink. Mortimer got two neat ones early on solo tries, while Padgett got one back in the first and E. Spencely scored on a long drive that the goalie pulled in, after the puck hit the backboard and hopped in front of the net. In the third, Johnson put Murray St. ahead but Platt tied it up. All Saints had more man power and pressed late in the fray. This tie ensures a playoff in the senior series. Platt and Mortimer were best for the Anglicans, with Ellis and Padgett good for Murray St. Both goalies were sensational. The teams:

All Saints: Goal: King; defence, S. Seabrooke, Rusaw; centre, Mortimer; wings, G. Seabrooke, H. Charlton; subs, Beauclerc, Saunders, Meredith, Platt.

Referee, Don Charlton.

MUSSING UP THE MAPLES

The Peterborough Lock Company returned to the pin-busting business again last night, when six full teams were on hand to take a fling at the maple pins. In their initial start the new league gave out the night's top trundler, C. Nicholl banging down 692 pins. G. MacDonald counted 658, and B. Simmons 615, with Miss Clancy's 459 high for girls.

Nine of the Westclox men's group shot over 600. H. Thompson 682 Jim Goodson 674, D. Barry 667, H. Baptie 656, Fowler 640, J. Duffus 636. Joe Watson 628, C. Evans 623, and Mongraw 606.

The two-game workout of six teams of Quaker Girls and four teams of Westclox girls resulted in Miss M. Allison's high, 397, including a 207 single game. Miss Hawthorne, Miss Whatley, and Miss Mahoney chalked up 205, 203, and 206 singles. For the Quakers, Miss Eva McIlmoyle was high with 377 (215). Miss G. Perdue 350, Miss E. Alexander 324, and Miss Dixon's and Miss Sullivan's 210 and 203 singles.

Losers Battle But Lose Out To Husky Colts

The Colts, Peterborough's "B" series representatives carried too much weight, speed and scoring punch for the Monarchs in Monday night's all-local junior O.H.A. fixture at Brock St. rink and won over the "C" team, 10 goals to 2, before a handful of fans. While the score hardly does justice to the battle put up by the lighter squad over most of the route, for Monarchs were unlucky not to have added a few goals to the two they actually collected, the winners had too much power for the youngsters.

Sparked by Julian Wade, Nels Foster and Sid Craig, each of which notched three goals, the Colts gave their best scoring exhibition of the season. Wade, used at centre on the starting line, gave an especially fine performance, showing plenty of speed and nice stickhandling ability and Foster and Craig were not far behind, the former picking up five scoring points while Craig was good going both ways. Dutch Pammett, back to the hockey wars after being out with an injured hand, also gave a nice account of himself.

Rochetta Good

Joe Rochetta, paperweight centre star of the Monarchs was the outstanding performer for the losers. He got both their goals and was unfortunate in not grabbing a couple of more and he kept the Colts busy looking after him when he got inside the blue line. Connolly was also aggressive and useful and Nicholls turned in a nice card.

For the first ten minutes of the game the Monarchs outplayed their heavier and more rangy rivals and were outlucked several times when inside the Colts' defence. Rochetta came within an ace of scoring several times but was outlucked or outguessed by Courneya in the winners' nets, and Nicholls and Cauley also had good chances. However, as the period passed the Colts began to take command of the game and finally captain Sid Craig started his team along the victory trail by scoring at close range after taking a pass from Parnell. White got a penalty for boarding but the Monarchs did not come close to cashing in on the one-man advantage and when the teams were even again the Colts put on renewed pressure. Wade made it 2 to 0 on a pass from Foster and the pair came back soon after for a third goal, this time Foster doing the shooting and Wade making the play.

Get Three More

Colts added three more without a comeback in the second session. Wade opened the scoring when he took a pass from the corner by Craig and gave Morrison no chance. A little later the lanky centre star rang the bell again, Foster handing him the pass and Craig made it 6 to 0 scoring unassisted. Near the end of the period Rochetta and Berwick tangled and both got the gate for the only penalties of the period.

Colts continued to carry the play when the third chapter got under way and Craig scored their seventh goal on a smart solo effort. Soon after Pammett picked up a loose puck close-in and scored without difficulty and Foster followed with Goal No. 9 on a pass from Pammett. Rochetta's buzzing around the Colts' net was finally rewarded when he went behind the goal for his own rebound, came out in front and flipped the rubber past Courneya. Berwick was penalized for tripping and when the Monarchs ganged up Foster broke away and went down alone to send the Colts' total up to double figures. Monarchs came back with their second soon after when Rochetta, camped outside the crease, slammed in Connolly's rebound.

Colts—Goal, Courneya; defence, Curtin, Berwick; centre, Wade; wings, Foster, McDonald; subs, Craig, Parnell, Stewart, Williams, Strickland, White.

Monarchs—Goal, Morrison; defence, Giardino, DeCarlo; centre, Rochetta; wings, Connolly, Mortimer; subs, Vitarelli, R. Clark, L. Clark, Nicholls, Cauley.

Referee—L. Gray.

Locals Play Bangup Hockey Against Scrappy Redmen To Gain Clean-Cut Decision

The Redmen were whitewashed last night as the Petes took a 5-0 win over the Thomasites in Belleville in an O.H.A. senior "B" contest before about 600 fans It was a lively tilt throughout, with the Petes clicking in fine form to cop the nod and stay up around the top of their group.

Coach Buckland's bunch stepped out and grabbed a 2-0 lead in the first frame and made it 4-0 at the end of the second period. The Redmen fought back hard but were unable to score a goal against Ray Harding, though they held the speedy locals to a single tally in the third heat. There was a fight in the third canto between Tompkins and St. Louis, both players swinging fists, and both drawing major penalties from Referee Hap Day of Toronto.

While the game at times was somewhat disorganized, with wild passes, it was fast and exciting most of the route. The teams bumped each other hard and tore into it from bell to bell. The Petes showed their best passing of the year and swept in repeatedly on combination plays to give the goalie no chance and to earn the victory handily.

Honey Gets Two

Honey Tompkins tallied two of the Petes' goals and was probably the best of the local forwards, flashing plenty of speed and scoring punch, as well as checking back well. Bun Kingdon counted one goal and aided in two others, while Gardner and McNulty each figured in two goals. The defence checked effectively and did some neat rushing, and Harding was unbeatable in the visitors' cage. The whole team played fine hockey in all departments, though they became a bit disorganized at times owing to the unorthodox attacks of the Quinte troops. Speedy St. Louis was easily the best of the Redmen, with Bentley strong on defence, McElrath doing some fine rushing, and Watt kicking aside a flock in the home net.

It was fast and even for a time in the first till Bentley got the gate for tripping, and the Petes pressed hard but without effect till his return. Watt robbed Tompkins on a dandy try and then Creighton was waved away for hooking. The Redmen roared in there but Harding booted them aside till he got back. The Petes looked a bit better for a time and, after Ethier and Weir went off for roughing it, Tompkins scored a nice one in close in a pass from Kingdon. Harding thefted Storms of one and then Tompkins got another nifty on Kingdon's assist. A long shot nearly beat Harding, and McNulty pulled a fine rush. It was slower at the bell.

Hot In Second

Play was hot in the second with the Buckland boys having an edge most of the way. The Redmen became disorganzed and the Petes partially followed suit but passed better and threatened oftener. Harding tripped Bill Jackson and St. Louis was given a penalty shot, Ray stopping it nicely. Starr and Tompkins on a rush almost tallied and a minute later Creighton bulged the hemp at close range on assists from Crowe and Gardner inside the defence. The Petes kept boring in on fast, passing plays and they made it 4-0 shortly when Kingdon counted at the goal-mouth, Starr and McNulty assisting on the rush through defence. The rivals slowed up a little near the finish.

The third saw faster and more exciting hockey with the homesters trying to whittle it down and play fairly even but hot. Gardner scored on McNulty's pass, going around the cage to sink it fast. Kingdon came close and then Weir went off for charging. Belleville pressed but Ray was in top form to stop them. It was rougher later with slashing and hard bumping at times. McNulty nearly got one, and Ethier went over the wall for tripping. Five Petes swarmed up hotly but couldn't beat Watt and then Creighton got the thumb for tripping. Belleville counted a goal but it went in off a man in the crease and was no good. Watt robbed Coughlin and it was hot and even till McElrath was penalized for tripping. The Petes pressed again till a fight broke out between St. Louis and Tompkins, both drawing majors. McElrath came close and Coughlin was sent away for a trip, with Gardner nearly tallying on a breakaway as Belleville ganged up. The losers were pressing and fighting hard at the final gong.

Principals In Toledo's Battle Of 1919 Sign Again

3 Figure Champs Of '38 Drop Out

TORONTO, Jan. 24—(CP)—Three champions of 1938 have not submitted entries for the Canadian figure skating championships to be held Friday and Saturday at the Toronto Skating Club, officials said today.

Last year's junior pairs titlists, Miss Patricia Chown and Philip Lee of the Winnipeg Winter Club, and Mrs. Humphrey Bonnycastle, the former Veronica Clarke, who won the Dominion pairs championship with Ralph McCreath of Toronto Granite Club, are missing from the entry lists. All other champions will be on hand.

Eleanor O'Meara of Toronto Granite Club and Montgomery Wilson of Toronto Skating Club will defend their titles and McCreath will team with Norah McCarthy as well as entering the singles event. Miss McCarthy, last year's junior women's champion, has entered the open event. Jack Vigeon, 1938 junior winner, will also step into the higher classification.

$5,000 Offered Henry Armstrong If He Will Meet Italian Champ

ROCHESTER, N.Y., Jan. 24 — (AP). — Henry Armstrong, lightweight and welterweight boxing champion, was offered $5,000 to-day to meet Francesco Montanari, Italian welterweight who scored an impressive three-round knockout over Jimmy Clark of Jamestown in his first bout in the United States two weeks ago.

Gus Brown, Montanari's maanger, telegraphed the offer to Eddie Meade, Armstrong's manager in Los Angeles. The proposal calls for a bout here sometime in March.

Campbellford Grabs Close 2-1 Win From Classy Norwood Combines

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, Jan. 24.—The Norwood "Combines" dropped a close decision in the Trent Valley Hockey League schedule, last evening at the Norwood arena, when the fast-skating Campbellford squad, making their first appearance here this season copped a 2-1 victory. The Campbellford boys deserved their win, playing smart hockey all the way, with Turner starring for them in the nets. Play was fast and clean throughout with the visitors having the advantage in the first and second stanzas, Norwood coming back strong in the final frame to nearly even the count.

Doug Brennan, well-known expro, and former Ranger defence star, of Havelock, is lining up with the "Combines" for the rest of the season making his debut last night. His first game of the year, Brennan was a little short on condition, but even so proved strong defensively and provided the fans with a few thrills whenever he wound up for one of his solo dashes.

Half way through the session, Campbellford drew first blood, Robinson, scoring on C. Couch's pass. Webb, local defenseman saved on Campbbellford breakaways time after time, displaying an accurate poke-check. Havelock played a man short, when Webb got the gate for holding, and W. Rogers and McMullen held off the attackers with a fine bit of penalty-killing. Campbellford notched their second and last goal of the night shortly after this, D. Free scoring right after a face-off in Norwood territory on a nice pass from Robinson.

Second Period

Starting the second with a two goal lead, Atkinson almost added another when his bounding shot, dribbled past McMaster to stop exactly at the line. Webb drew another penalty for holding. Ibey threatened twice for the Combines, on Webb's return, D. Couch making a swell play on the latter, hooking the puck away, as Ibey was going in alone on Turner.

Third Period

Two goals down, the locals forced the play from the opening bell in the final stanza, showing for the first time during the game their usual aggressiveness. Their efforts were partially rewarded at the eight minute mark when Hagerman scored their only goal of the match, on a pass-out from Ibey during a scramble in Campbellford's end of the rink. Penalties were handed out ot Robinson and Wilkes of Campbellford, and to Ibey of Norwood.

Hagerman, lone Norwood goal-getter, turned in one of his best games so far this season, and along with Ibey, Webb and Brennan was best for the locals.

Turner grabbed most of the limelight for the visiting team, D. Couch and the line centered by Robinson with C. Couch and D. Free wings, being most effective among the rest of the lineup. The teams:

Campbellford—Goal, Turner; defence, Wilkes, D. Couch; centre, Phillips; wings, Blake, Atkinson; alternates, C. Couch, D. Free, Robinson, F. Free.

Referees—R. Ayrhart, Campbellford; R. Ennis, Norwood.

Summary:

First Period

Campbellford—Robinson (C. Couch) ... 8.40
Campbellford—D. Free (Robinson) ... 8.52
Penalties—D. Couch, Webb, C. Couch.

Second Period

No score.
Penalty—Webb.

Third Period

Norwood—Hagerman (Ibey) .. 10.00
Penalties — Robinson, Ibey and Wilkes.

Two-ton Tony Whips Brescia In First

This is the finale to the abbreviated fight between Two-Ton Tony Galento, the bartender-boxer of Orange, N.J., and Jorge Brescia, tall but not very dangerous Argentine heavyweight. The scrap was scheduled to go ten rounds but Tony, whose stock forecast for all fights in which he appears is "I'll moider de bum," swung a couple of ponderous lefts and Jorge hit the decks for keeps. The fight was over in less than a round. It drew nearly 10,000 spectators in Newark, N.J.

No Big Salaries For Tigers As Punishment

DETROIT, Jan. 24—(CP).—Management of the Detroit Tigers baseball club was so disgusted at results of their big-salary policy of last year that this year the management is going to be tough with its players, very very tough.

Tigers last year paid the biggest team salary bill in baseball history, but the team played mediocre, listless baseball and ended in fourth position in the American league.

Salaries were cut drastically this year, club officials said.

"Any player dissatisfied with the terms offered him is going to find himself up against a stone wall if he holds out," Jack Zeller, general manager of the club declared.

"The salary figures will not be changed under any circumstances and if a player wants more money, he has to show us on the field he is worth more money," Zeller said there would be no bonus schemes in any contracts. He said last year players were so highly paid they lost the urge to hustle.

Lewis Will Spot Joe 20 Pounds

NEW YORK, Jan. 24—(AP).—Indications are that John Henry Lewis, fresh from the light-heavyweight ranks, will spot champion Joe Louis fully 20 pounds when the two negroes meet in their 15-round title fight tomorrow night in Madison Square Garden.

When the match was made the lighter man planned to build himself up to a solid 185 pounds, but when he finished his final workout yesterday he tipped the beam at only 181 and predicted he would not put on more than a pound or two before the official weigh-in at noon tomorrow.

Joe, who started training at 210 pounds, is down to his best fighting weight of 202, and looked razor-keen in his final sparring session at Pompton Lakes. He didn't look like a man who could be spotted 20 pounds by anyone who was unarmed.

For all his admitted footwork and defensive skill, John Henry is bound to feel those 20 pounds every time "old dead-pan" bores in on him. And Joe swears he is going to bore away every second, like he did against Max Schemling last summer. It looks like the odds will be about 1 to 5 on the champion at ringtime.

NIAGARA FALLS, Jan. 24.—(CP)—Hot and cold team of the Senior "A" division of the Ontario Hockey Association, Niagara Falls Brights held a firmer grip on the fourth and last playoff rung today. The league-leading Toronto Goodyears can help Brights consolidate the position by beating St. Catharines in that city tonight.

Brantford Red Birds, fluttering about in the circuit cellar with but one win this winter, gave their best display of the season but lost 6-5 to the Brights here last night. Only a desperate last-period rally by the Falls gave them the slim victory margin.

The win gave Niagara a total of 16 points, four more than St. Catharines and one less than the third-place Port Colborne Sailors. Oshawa are in second place with 19 markers.

Taking advantage of opportunities while Brights tried in vain to find the net, the Brants led 3-1 at the end of the first period and 4-3 at the end of the second. Two goals by the Falls—10 seconds apart—early in the third, gave them the lead for the first time.

Ebby Edmison tallied for Brantford six minutes later to tie the score. The Falls gained victory with little more than five minutes to go when George Grigor shot the puck past Goalie Ted Beattie on a smooth pass from Guelph's swat mason.

Tough Tony Torti, Brant defenceman, pulled the hat trick in the first period with three successive goals. Jack Webster scored the other in the second.

Blackburn Rovers Increase Lead

LONDON, Jan .24 — (CP Cable). —Blackburn Rovers, leaders in the English Football League's Second Division, stretched their lead over Sheffield United to three points on Monday by defeating Bradford 6-4 in a match at Blackburn. The Rovers now have 35 points in the race for promotion to the First Division.

Remember When—

The British Boxing Board of Control lifted the color bar seven years ago to-day, clearing the most anomalous position that ever existed in British ring history. Larry Gains, Toronto colored heavyweight, won the British Empire title from Dan McCorkindale on January 29, the same year.

Advisory Board Is Named For St. George's

For the first time in the history of St. George's Anglican Church an Advisory Board was elected at the annual vestry meeting held Monday evening in the parish hall. The members of the new board are Mrs. W. Andrews, F. Dorrell, Jack Branson, Arthur Sims, Mrs. R. King, L. Watkins and each church organization will have a representative on the committee.

The meeting was opened with prayer by the rector Rev. T. H. Floyd, and who was chairman for the vestery. In his opening remarks, Mr. Floyd said he had hardly been in St. George's Church long enough to know the condition and the needs of the church. "I will leave this to the wardens to present to you. Many of the people present have been members for a number of years and will understand more than I do, what has been done, and also the church's nedes. I do hope however you will give me the same wholehearted support as you have my predecessors. Mrs. Floyd and myself are getting to know you and you have made us feel very much at home. We both look forward to spending many happy years with you."

The first appointment made was that of vestry clerk. Mrs. J. McWilliams was nominated again, but felt she would like to see someone else take over the duties. Mrs. W. G. Ray was then elected as the new vestry clerk, and read the minutes of the last vestry meeting.

The financial report was then presented by the people's warden, W. G. Ray, and was most encouraging. It showed a bank balance of $158.87, which Mr. Ray said was a fine start for the year 1939. The money left this church by Mrs. Winch was largkely responsible for this balance. Mr. Ray thanked the people for their support and thanked each organization for such loyal contributions during the past year.

Mr. A. G. Knott, rector's warden, then presented the 1939 budget, and also expressed his thanks.

At this point the rector said the appointment and election of the church wardens would take place. A. G. Knott was named rector's warden and accepted, W. G. Ray was again elected people's warden.

Sidesmen elected were as follows for the coming year: Messrs. A. Cuff, E. Adkinson, A. Sims, O. Heap, J. Cooper, R. Pilling, W. Morley, J. Adamson, W. Bannon, K. Gibson, A. Cole, G. Martin, F. Dorrell, R. King, A. Busby.

Lay delegates to the Synod elected—Mr. A. Cuff, Mr. A. G. Knott.

Parish press reporter — Miss B. Curtis.

Reports of each organization were presented as follows: St. George's Ladies' Guild, Mrs. R. King; Evening Guild St. George's, Mrs. F. Legon; Women's Auxiliary, Mrs. W. G. Ray; Little Helpers, Mrs. C. Farr; A.Y.P.A., Mr. J. Adamson; Men's Club, Mr. A. Sims; choir, Mrs. R. Pilling; Sunday School, Mrs. F. Dorrell; Girl Guides, Miss H. Houghton; Mothers' Auxiliary Girl Guides, Mrs. F. White; Brownies, Mrs. F. White.

Caretaker Asks Increase

A letter from the caretaker asking for increase in wages. This was approved as it was believed the extra work now required of him warranted such action.

Votes of thanks were tendered by Mr. W. G. Ray, to the people, Mr. J. Branson, to Mr. Ray and Mr. Knott for their good work during the past year and especially to Mr. Ray for the splendid and business-like way he had presented the books to the auditors.

Mrs. J. McWilliams moved a vote of thanks to the organist, Mrs. R. King for her faithful services. Mrs. King then moved a very hearty vote of thanks to Mr. A. Siddall, retiring choir leader, for his interest and work in the choir for the past year, and also to M. J. Branson, our leader for the coming year.

Tigers And Aces Play To A Draw

Tigers and Aces battled to a thrilling 13-all exhibition draw late last eve at the Brock, a penalty shot scored by R. Brady with 10 seconds to play sending the lads home talking to themselves. No stars but those seen by Biff Jordan as he bumped the boards, without however damaging them.

The teams:

Tigers: Goal, Sieve Basciano; defence, R. Brady, Sidepocket Clarke; centre, Shark Zakos; wings, Bullet Roche, Slack Sullivan; subs, Jafsie Conroy, Speed Jordan, Killer Primeau, Diver Spencer, Lightnin' Smith, Sucker McCallum.

OBITUARY

RANDOLPH J. FADY.

The dear hof Randolph J. Fady, 67, formerly of Peterborough, occurred at his home in Toronto Monday morning. Years ago he lived with his parents on Albert street in a house on property now occupied by the Canadian General Electric Company, opposite Jackson avenue. He occasionally visited the city selling specialties on the market and at the Peterborough Exhibition, an occupation in which he met with considerable success. He is survived by his widow, three sons and two daughters. The funeral will take place in Toronto Thursday afternoon to Park Lawn cemetery.

MRS. FRANCES ANN SPENCLEY.

Funeral services for the late Mrs. Frances Ann Spencley, one of the oldest Salvation Army members in Canada in point of service and widely known resident of this city, was held this afternoon from the Salvation Army Temple, Major Neil Warrander officiating. Interment was at Little Lake cemetery.

A large number of friends of Mrs. Spencely and her family were present at the service and quantities of flowers were there as tributes from many. Mrs. Spencley was a woman of boundless energy and devoted much time furthering the work of the Army, and Major Warrander spoke highly of her services.

Surving are one son, Al Spencley of this city and two daughters, Mrs. Ida Lloyd of Toronto and Mrs. Phil Lutjen of Detroit.

Pallbearers were R. C. Braund, J. J. Cunningham, T. Brooks, W. Payton, A. Moynes and W. Gibson.

All Saints' Pays Over $1,000 Off Indebtedness

The annual vestry meeting of the congregation of All Saints' Church was held on Monday evening, with the rector presiding. A splendid attendance of members heard the reports of the past year's work with much enthusiasm. It was most unfortunate that the people's warden, Ken Jarvis, elected last year, was compelled to be out of the city during the last two months of the year owing to the closing of the Auburn Mill. In his absence Harry Collingwood had been acting as deputy warden and he presented the financial statement for the year. Although over one thousand dollars was paid off the parochial indebtedness in the past year and there has been a steady reduction of liabilities in each year, there is still over $18,000 needed before the parish is in the happy position of some other churches and is possessed of adequate facilities for carrying on the large work which centres round All Saints' Church. Carrying charges of nearly $1,000 each year constitute a very heavy burden. All Saints' Church has absolutely no endowment so that every dollar required both for building funds and for general purposes has always had to be contributed by the generous hearted folks who comprise the membership.

In missionary activity and givings there was the same enthusiasm and altogether about sixty bales were sent out to Indian schools and to white settlers in the difficult areas.

The Sunday School is showing increasing efficiency with a considerable increase in membership and a full staff of teachers.

The rector called attention to the interesting fact that 1939 will see the celebration of the 100th centenary of the Diocese of Toronto. Due celebrations will be held at the time of the Synod.

The rector asked John Edgar to continue as his warden for a second year, and Harry Collingwood was appointed people's warden.

Charles Lacheur, the representative on the Nicholls Hospital Board, addressed the meeting on the need for extension of the hospital to provide more accommodation for patients.

Members of troop committee responsible for Cubs, Scouts and Rovers consists of G. H. Cutmore (chairman), Max Metherel, Orville Kidd, J. Hill and Gordon Webb.

The lay delegates elected were: J. Edgar, T. H. Boddy, G. H. Cutmore and Charles Lacheur. Alternates are Percy Hooper and Wm. Buller. S. T. Harris is vestry clerk.

Knox Juveniles Are Blanked 6-0

Park St. Juveniles blanked Knox 6-0, in a church game at All Saints last night. After getting but one goal in the first frame, the winners ran up the count with three in the second and then two in the last chukker. Cox and Hodson, with two each, and Campbell and Martin were the scorers. Campbell was outstanding, while Gardiner and Stewart went well up and back for the other squad. The win leaves Park St. well on top. Teams:

Park St.: Goal, R. Ainslie; defence, Cox, Campbell; centre, Hodson; wings, Briscoe, Martin; subs., Barrie, Cummings, Kidd.

Knox: Goal, Bestard; defence, Elliott, Stewart; centre, Gardiner; wings, Doughty, Ward; sub, Gash.

Referee, B. McDougall.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

NO UNIMPORTANT CARDS

EXTRAVAGANCE is as unprofitable in bridge as it is in everything else. Players who wantonly toss away intermediate cards such as nines and tens are likely to find a bit later that those little fellows have grown to giants in stature. Much of the difference between fine players and medium ones is found in the appraisal placed by the more skilled ones on cards which at the moment seem unimportant but may acquire real value as the play progresses.

South began the bidding here with a weak third-hand call of 1-Diamond. West doubled, North redoubled, East and South passed, West bid 1-Spade, and when it got around to South he called 1-No trump. After North's 2-Hearts, South bid 2-No. trump and West doubled. Taken by and large, it was a pretty sadly bid hand.

West led his spade 2 and the declarer without delay played the 10 from dummy, which drew the K and A. Followed a heart to the K, another to the J and A, return of the club 4 to the Q, the spade 3 to the 8, 9 and Q, the heart Q, the diamond 2 to the K and A, then two spades cashed by West. With natural play following, South got all told only two tricks in spades, two in hearts, two in diamonds and one in clubs, so was down one.

Had South calculated before playing to the first trick, he would have realized that, with the 10 in dummy and 8 in his own hand, play of the 10 could not pay unless East held the 9. Odds against his holding any one card were heavy, as West both bid the suit and led it. Had he played the 4 to the first trick, he could not have been prevented from getting three tricks in spades, enough to have made his contract safe.

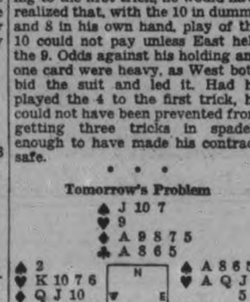
Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

If North opens with a psychic bid of 1-Heart on this deal, what is the proper course of good bidding thereafter?

Grace Church Holds 104th Annual Meeting

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Jan. 24. — An attendance that was gratifyingly large, reports that showed constructive activities and wide interest, with finances in excellent condition, featured the annual congregational meeting of Grace Presbyterian church, held on Thursday at 3 p.m., with the minister, Rev. H. R. Williams, B.A., presiding.

Explaining that this marked the one hundred and fourth annual gathering of the congregation, the minister read the lesson from John 14, and offered prayer.

Margaret Armstrong was appointed secretary protem, and the treasurer, H. A. Kerr, read his itemized eport, showing total receipts of $1,550.34; disbursements $1,532.54, leaving a balance on hand of $17.70; the insurance premium of $83 had been paid for 1938, this obligation not to occur again for three years. The auditors, T. W. Belch and S. E. Eakins, had examined the books and pronounced them correct.

Later Mr. Kerr was given a hearty vote of thanks for his efficient services, and was re-elected for 1939.

The session report for 1938 was given by Rev. Mr. Williams and included two communion services; eight received into church membership, with two by certificate; four baptisms; three funerals, and three new elders inducted. The Sunday School report was read by S. E. Eakins, and was most encouraging, showing increased attendance and enrollment; supplies paid for amounting to $99.79; balance on hand of $18.75; total collections, $87.24. Mention was also made of the contest being conducted by F. C. Scott, from May 1938 to May 1939, when the superintendent of the school having the best average attendance will be given a trip to the world's fair at San Francisco, at Mr. Scott's expense. The contest is for the schools of Millbrook and Cavan and Mr. Eakins urged that parents come out on Sundays so that the Grace school superintendent, Mr. Harold Hubbeard, might have a good chance to win in this competition.

W.M.S. Reports

The W.M.S. report was presented by Mrs. J. R. Thompson, telling of nine devotional meetings; two thankoffering gatherings, one in the spring and the other in the fall, with program of a special character; of the helpful papers prepared by members in lieu of taking up a regular study book; the bale containing a complete outfit for an Indian girl of 16 years; and of the evening meeting when Rev. Mr. Davies of Manchuria, gave a helpful address. The treasurer, Miss Agnes Johnston told that total receipts had been $155.50, and that the allocation of $125.00 had been remitted to the branch treasurer, leaving a balance on hand for beginning 1939.

Mrs. Mervan Kinsman brought the Ladies' Aid story for 1938, including 11 regular meetings; teas, garden party, fowl supper, etc, as means of raising funds, also talent money; the treasurer, Miss Jean Syer, following with report of total raised, $796.47; disbursements, $638.03; balance $58.44. The groups reported through their conveners, that of Miss Mina Gibson topping the list with $26.55; Mrs. R. J. McKnight, $25.55; Mrs. Suttle Pritchard, $25.25; Mrs. H. Seaton, $12.20; Mrs. N. Belch, not reported. T. W. Belch and Harry Ball were the auditors of the books.

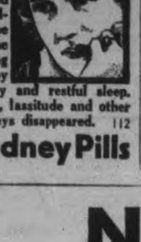
New Manager Appointed.

Two managers, W. C. Thorndyke and L. H. Gibson, were retired, those taking their places for three years being V. R. Hunter and N. Belch. For the Junior Auxiliary Mary Armstrong brought a most interesting resume of activities, telling of 18 meetings, divided equally between work and devotional gatherings; a study of Missions in Indian and Formosa; good programs, and a balance of $11.75, with $20 remitted to the Presbyterial treasurer, Rev. Mr. Williams expressed appreciation of the fine showing made by all organization during 1938, and particularly of the excellent type of leadership for the junior girls given by their leader, Miss Agnes Johnston. On motion of E. L. Armstrong and Mrs. T. C. Ingram, it was decided to print the annual report this year.

The session clerk, Mr. Jos. Burns, after coming to the platform, invited both Rev. and Mrs. Williams to come forward, when an appreciative address was read by Mrs. John Thompson, and Mr. E. L. Armstrong, chairman of the Board of Managers, on behalf of the congregation, presented them with a substantial purse of money, and following reply by the minister ,all joined in singing, "Blest be the tie that binds."

A second presentation took place after the social hour, when the ladies' Aid served refreshments, tea being poured by Mrs. J. H. Paul and Mrs. Seaton at a table attractive with fine cloth, servcie of silver, and a bowl of roses on the central reflector. This time, it was the junior girls who, following an address read by Ada Deers, presented a pair of fine china cups and saucers, Mary Eakins offering the gifts. Suitable reply was made, and the meeting dismissed with the benediction.

"TIRED" ALL THE TIME



She felt miserable—draggy—low in vitality—lower in spirits. She hadn't thought of her kidneys, until a friend suggested Dodd's Kidney Pills. At once she took Dodd's. The "washed out" feeling was soon replaced by clear headed energy and restful sleep. Headache, backache, lassitude and other signs of faulty kidneys disappeared. 112

Gift Gag Brings Fortune To Leader

Shep. Fields, orchestra leader, and Mrs. Myra Wallace, wife of a music publisher, are shown as they left the Federal Government building in Los Angeles with a receipt for $10,000. Mrs. Wallace gave Fields an old treasury note for $10,000 recently as a gag, believing it was worthless, but Fields turned it over to Federal officials who declared it bona fide. The bill has been hunted for years ever since it was thrown from a building in Washington, D.C., during a fire in 1934. Mrs. Wallace reported that she found it on a New York street some months ago.

Swiss Bolster Border Guard

BERNE, Switzerland, Jan. 24. — (CP Havas)—Unconfirmed reports of abnormal troop movements in the Austrian part of Germany today caused authorities of the canton of St. Gall, which borders the Rhine and Lake Constance, to add about 100 men to the frontier guard on duty there.

Last November reports a Nazi party purge had occurred in Vienna following excesses there were widely printed outside Germany.

On Dec. 1 Vienna newspapers announced Joseph Buerckel, Nazi party leader for Austria, had ordered the dismissal from the party of 12 Nazis sentenced to spend six months in a concentration camp "for having profited from the recent anti-Jewish demonstrations to enrich themselves personally."

Two Cars Wrecked Near Trent River

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TRENT RIVER, Jan. 24. — On returning from the hockey game at Hastings on Thursday night Earl Van Volkenburg met with an accident on Highway No. 7, near the residence of Eugene McLaughlin, his car crossing the ditch through a fence, hitting a hydro pole, then turning over. Fortunately none of the occupants was seriously injured.

Mrs. Earl Van Volkenburg accompanied her husband but escaped unhurt. Bill McLaughlin, Sr., received injury to the back of his neck and was taken to Havelock for medical aid.

The car was damaged considerably.

A car owned by Herbert McMillan took the ditch while being driven on the Norwood Road on Friday, and was badly wrecked, the passengers escaping injury.

Liked The Old Car

CHARLESTON, S.C., Jan. 24. — (AP).—It's hard to teach an old dog new cars. It looked like stubbornness when Coolie, a Chow belonging to Malvern Halsey, jumped into a car parked at a curb and would not get out. He was ejected only by force after the owner drove to the police station for help. Later they found why Coolie refused to leave—the car was formerly owned by Halsey, who sold it a few months ago.

Modern Life Tension Places Hard Strain On Heart

Detroit, Jan. 24 (CP).

DR. HENRY F. VAUGHAN, medical health officer of Detroit, said today residents of Canada and the United States are living today to end up as heart ailment victims.

High tension of modern life is a contributing factor in the high incidence of heart disease, Dr. Vaughan said.

"A hundred occurrences in every life are heart strains," Dr. Vaughan said. "If you become annoyed over some traffic snarl, if you are frightened by some accident, if you race through the day, you are putting a strain on your heart."

WARSAW

Rev. J. W. Wilkinson Invited To Remain

(Examiner Correspondence.)

WARSAW, Jan. 24—The annual business meeting of Warsaw United Church was held on Tuesday evening in the Sunday School room. Rev. J. W. Wilkinson presided.

Reports from the various organizations of the church were read and showed that all were in good condition. There has been a desire among some of the people for a morning church service sometimes, as there is now none in the village. It was decided to try one on Sunday morning, January 29, at ten o'clock, with the Sunday School immediately after. Mr. Wilkinson will hold a service at Bethel the same morning. The Y.P. choir will lead the service of song.

A communication from Rev. Mr. Beavis suggesting a week of prayer during Lent for all village congregations was read by Mr. Wilkinson, and the same will be arranged.

Rev. Mr. Wilkinson was given an invitation from the four points to remain another year. Mr. Wilkinson's work here has been very gratifying, but far from easy, as he is the only resident clergyman in a large area. He does not confine himself to his own people.

7 Hurt In Crashes After Blizzard

STRATFORD, Ont., Jan. 24.—(CP)—A raging blizzard which yesterday threatened to keep the entire district in its grasp, blew itself out during the night and left in its wake low temperatures, highways a sheet of ice and a series of motor accidents which brought injury to at least seven persons. No one was seriously injured.

Five were hurt in a crash on Highway No. 23 about three miles north of Monkton.

A Goderich woman was hurt in a two car crash near New Hamburg and a Stratford man whose name police did not obtain, lost a tooth in another accident east of Shakespeare on Highway No. 7 and 8.

U.S. Sees Its Army Ranking 8th In Next 2 Years

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24—(AP)—The 45,000 increase in the strength of the United States army projected in President Roosevelt's defence program, would move the United States up three notches in the list of the world's active military forces, officials said today.

A proposed addition of 27,000 officers and men to the air corps, 13,000 or more to the Panama Canal garrison, and 5,000 to other branches would swell the regular army to almost 230,000 officers and men.

Ten countries now have larger standing armies than the United States, on the basis of newly revised official figures. Disregarding increases which others may make in the meantime, the United States will rank eighth in two years, if congress approves the $552,000,000 armament recommendations.

When trained reserves are included, the United States ranks 19th, and officials anticipate no relatives advance in this respect.

In air forces, the United States with 25,895 officers and men in actual service and in trained reserves, ranks seventh and probably will continue to do so.

The proposed $300,000,000 expansion of the army air corps likely will be the first part of the defence program ready for action by the house of representatives. Chairman May (Dem-Kentucky) of the house military committee said he hoped to complete hearings late this week.

Army Figures.

The United States Army last June 30 contained 183,455 officers and men, including 6,400 Philippine Scouts. The National Guard numbered about 205,000, and the Officers' Reserve Corps 113,177.

Reports to officials here credit Germany with 930,000 men actually under arms, a trained reserve of 3,150,000, and an air force of 280,000 men.

The largest active armies were: Great Britain, 208,500; China, 2,000,000; Czechoslovakia, 205,000; France, 725,729; Germany, 930,000; Italy, 917,991; Japan, 1,500,000; Poland, 266,000; Rumania, 212,000; Russia, 1,500,000.

Presentation Made To Mrs. Lowes

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MOUNT PLEASANT, Jan. 24. — The Women's Association held the first meeting of the year at the home of Mrs. W. H. Lowes on Wednesday afternoon.

The president, Mrs. Thos. Graham, presided for the meeting.

Mrs. Brenton, convener of the Devotional committee, read the Scripture lesson, Phill. 4th chapter, basing her talk on the 8th verse.

Directly after the secretary read the minute of the previous meeting, the president asked Mrs. W. H. Lowes to come forward, when the secretary read an address and presented Mrs. Lowes with a beautiful flower comport as recognition of her attending every meeting of the association for the year 1938.

Mrs. Lowes, though taken by complete surprise, feelingly replied and thanked the ladies.

As a means of replenishing the treasury it was decided to have a "travelling basket." Mrs. Brenton was appointed to secure and prepare the basket and start it on its journey.

After an interesting discussion of the "holiday calendars" it was the unanimous choice of the meeting to use the calendars for this year, and Mrs. Ira Lowe, Mr. Harry Jamieson and Mrs. Norman Free were a committee chosen to prepare the calendars.

Mrs. Hubert Lowes reported regarding a committee in charge of choosing a play.

An invitation was received from the Fairmount W.M.S. inviting the Mount Pleasant W.A. to attend a meeting in Fairmount church at which Miss Rorke, missionary from Japan, would be the special speaker, on Thursday afternoon. It was with regret that the president could not accept the invitation, owing to the cold weather and condition of the roads for lady motorists and she urged that any who could avail themselves of the opportunity of attending would do so.

Mrs. B. Morden and Mrs. E. Lawson were in charge of the program of the meeting, which met with splendid response from the members.

Mrs. Brenton recited the poem, "You Bad Llitle Boy."

Reading, Mrs. Lawson, "Strong hand in a friend"; reading, "The Spoken Word," Mrs. Harry Jamieson; reading, "Quilting," by Mrs. McConkey; reading, "Shopping," by Mrs. W. H. Lower; reading, "Visit to the Doctor" by Mrs. B. Morden; story, "Give Time For Getting Started" by Mrs. Ira Lowe.

Mrs. Thos. Jamieson extended an invitation for the W.A. to meet at her home for the February meeting.

At the conclusion of the meeting, with the singing of the hymn, "More Love to Thee" followed with the Mizpah benediction, all remained for a friendly social half hour to enjoy a cup of tea and the dainty refreshments which were served by the hostess.

PENSIONS PAID

FREDERICTON—(CP).— During the fiscal year of 1938 old age pensions paid in New Brunswick by the Dominion and Province amounted to $1,870,422. Blind persons in New Brunswick received $75,377 in pensions.

Pledges Loyalty

Here is His Excellency Sidi Ahmed Bey, the Bey of Tunis, in the ceremonial robes he wore to greet Premier Daladier of France, when the latter visited the French protectorate in North Africa, Italy's claims to an interest in Tunis precipitated a near-crisis and M. Daladier's tour was considerd a blunt warning to Il Duce. The Bey assured M. Daladier that Tunish had no desire to change the over-lordship of France for that of Fascist Italy.

Pancreas Runs Wild Double Appetite

KANSAS CITY, Kas., Jan. 24 (AP) — Four months ago Archie Mitchell, 44, had to eat bacon and eggs, cereal, a half pint of cream, roast beef, mashed potatoes and gravy, five other vegetables, lots of butter, three hamburgers, two or three pork chops, a half dozen oranges, several sandwiches and a couple of pieces of pie every day or he would collapse of hunger.

He first noticed his condition while he was farming a piece of land near Mound City, Kas., in 1933. If he didn't eat a sandwich in the field he was likely to faint behind the plough. It took a couple of oranges to pull him through the evening chores.

So he came to University of Kansas hospital here. Doctors told him his pancreas was functioning too heavily.

The pancreas secrets insulin which burns up sugar in the blood. Mitchell's blood sugar was burning up so fast it didn't leave him any energy. His situation was just the opposite of the diabetes patient, who doesn't have enough insulin.

The doctors removed part of Mitchell's pancreas without any noticeable result.

Two more operations were performed but Mitchell's appetite got bigger than ever. But in the third operation doctors ran onto a little growth called an adenoma which was poured insulin into Mitchell's system.

He snipped it out.

Now Mitchell eats three square meals a day and no more.

Dr. A. H. Hinshaw, assistant superintendent, said the hospital had had only four such cases in its 25-year history and that Mitchell's was the most severe.

Marmora Church Has Special Service

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, Jan. 24. — Evensong at St. Paul's Anglican Church on Sunday was of a special character, members of St. Paul's A.Y.P.A. taking part.

The lesson, Matthew 5, 1-16, was read by James Burridge, president of the A.Y.P.A., while prayers were taken by W. J. Cottrell, missionary convenor, and James Bird, another active member of the local branch, Rural Dean A. B. Caldwel lannounced the hymns, pronounced the absolution and benediction, and delivered an impressive sermon on "The Calls of Religion to Youth."

During the service the guest soloist, Miss Viola Sexsmith of Peterborough, very effectively rendered "The Holy City" and "My Task."

Following the service, members of the A.Y.P.A. and Peterborough visitors, with members of the choir, were served light refreshments at the rectory.

Hopelessly Old And Infirm G. B. Shaw Alibis For Failure To Attend Night Party

LONDON, Jan. 14 (CP-Havas).—George Bernard Shaw gave a typically unconventional interview to a correspondent of the Daily Herald who telephoned the Irish dramatist to ask whether ill health had prompted his refusal to attend an evening function last week.

"Your health is all right?" the newspaperman asked.

"Certainly," Mr. Shaw replied. "I have refused evening engagements for years. Why should I go out every night to places where there is drinking and drinking and smoking and smoking — things I don't believe in."

Then, as if another idea had struck him, the 82-year-old playwright, said: "Tell them I am hopelessly old and infirm, and don't go anywhere. The more you tell them I don't accept evening engagements, the better."

Cock Pit Proprietor 73, Fined $100; Aide Says Even Pastor Attends

HAMILTON, Ont., Jan. 24 (CP). —Andrew Smith, 73, pleaded guilty before Magistrate H. A. Burbidge today to keeping a cock pit and was fined $100 or three months in jail. Eleven of the 14 men arrested and charged with aiding or assisting in conducting a cock pit were each fined $20 or 21 days.

Bail for the other three men, $25 each, was estreated when they did not appear in court.

Constable Clarence Preston said 16 birds and all the paraphernlia for cock fighting were seized in a barn at the rear of Smith's property. Four birds showed signs of having been in battle. One was so badly injured it had to be destroyed.

Matthew Murphy, pleading for leniency, said cock fighting was a sport that fascinated its followers.

"It might be different if gloves were used but the use of steel spurs indicates sadism," said the magistrate.

Even Ministers Attend

"I will be frank with your worship," said Mr. Murphy. "I am a follower of the sport and even ministers of the gospel are followers. I know of one church which is supported by the donations of followers of the game and the minister attends himself. Dead birds are donated to the poor of the parish."

"To my mind, cock fighting appeals to the hidden savage in man," said Magistrate Brubidge.

"Yesterday after bail had been arranged, a number of these men went to church, I know," said Mr. Murphy.

"Penance," replied the magistrate.

Mr. Murphy said a writer, defending cock fighting, had pointed to the millions spent on armaments for use against men.

"If my friend is arguing literature, I would refer him to the criminal code which is the only book we are interested in just now," said Crown Attorney George Ballard.

Supper Is Planned By Janetville W.A.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

JANETVILLE, Jan. 24—Mrs. R. J. Burn, newly elected president, was in the chair for the first meeting of the New Year of the Women's Association which was held in the United Church on Thursday evening, with a splendid attendance.

During the business session Mrs. H. Blatherwick offered her home for the February meeting, and Mrs. O. McGill and Mrs. W. Walker were appointed in charge of the program.

Plans were made for a progressive crokinole party to be held in the Sunday School rooms on February 3, when Mrs. Bury will donate a lucky chair prize.

Final arrangements were made for a "pot luck" supper which will precede the annual congregational meeting in the church on January 25.

A splendid paper, "What is Meant by Conversion," was given by Mrs. H. Blatherwick and an appropriate vocal duet was rendered by Mrs. F. Joblin and Mrs. J. Thornton.

The newly elected officers were installed in an impressive ceremony conducted by the pastor, Rev. M. A. Bury, and afterward the meeting closed with a hymn and prayer.

Northern Ireland shipped over 3,000,000 linen handkerchiefs to the United States in a recent month.

20 Cars Join Smash As 2 Collide; Tie Traffic 2 Hours

Aurora, Ont., Jan. 24 (CP)

MORE THAN 20 CARS were involved in a series of accidents at Bond Lake, near here, yesterday when they were unable to stop on the icy pavement after the first two cars had collided. Traffic was tied up for more than two hours and several persons needed medical attention. Three tow trucks separated the cars.

The spot where the accidents took place is in a narrow valley. The wind swept through it, whipping up the snow and making visibility almost zero.

Anti-Martinists Name President

The Martin opponents, who challenged his right to suspend them, also adopted a resolution calling for the impeachment of four members of the 24-man board who supported Martin. They took similar action against Martin last week.

Thomas is to hold office until the convention called by the anti-Martin board members for March 20 in Cleveland.

Martin already has announced plans for a convention to be held in Detroit before March 20.

13 Are Aspiring For Postmaster In Lakefield

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 24. — Thirteen aspirants for the position of village postmaster—a position left vacant by the death, last October, of W. H. Casement, Lakefield's veteran postmaster—tried Civil Service examinations in the Memorial Hall here Friday afternoon. The position, which was formerly a government appointment, has been assigned to the list of Civil Service appointments so that the usual Civil Service examination must be passed by applicants.

The examination was called for 1.30 p.m., and after a written paper each applicant was examined orally by Civil Service examiners, so that it was well on towards 6 p.m. before the last applicant was released.

Only one member of the female sex applied for the job. She was Miss Zelma Darling, who has been employed in the post office for some time.

Mr. Jaffer did, by all means go see the Syntona Man and find out for yourself what this grand new medicine is doing for others. This report is by no means unusual. Hundreds of people who suffered with similar troubles due to irritating acids, impurities and waste matter in the system, tell of the same gratifying results.

If you suffer like this, make up your mind today to give Syntona a good trial. Syntona is now being introduced in Peterborough at Elliott's Drug Store.

President Of Examiner Passes Away

HARRY B. MUIR

Harry B. Muir, president of the Peterborough Examiner, and co-publisher with W. Rupert Davies, of the Kingston Whig-Standard, died in Kingston today after an illness of more than a year's duration.

Born in Ingersoll, Ont., Mr. Muir was early associated with newspapers, beginning with the Winnipeg Telegram. Returning to his native province, he joined the advertising staff of the London Free Press, and in 1921 became managing director of the London Advertiser. In 1926 he purchas- the Kingston Standard from W. R. Givens, and soon after the Standard was amalgamated with the Kingston Whig, owned by W. Rupert Davies, since which the paper has been published as the Whig-Standard. In 1935 Mr. Muir and Mr. Davies purchased the Examiner.

His adequate knowledge of the problems of publishers brought Mr. Muir into the presidency of the Canadian Daily Newspaper Association in 1931-32, and he has since served on many of the major committees of the Association. In Kingston, the city of his adoption, he was active in many community enterprises, serving as president of the Chamber of Commerce, director of the Cataraqui Golf Club, chairman of the Kingston Hospitalization Plan and Governor of the Kingston General Hospital. Mr. Muir is survived by his wife, formerly Tena Wallace of Ingersoll; two sons, Wallace and John, and one daughter, Margaret, all of Kingston; his mother of Kingston, one sister, Mrs. W. M. Wallace of Kingston, and two brothers, Robert of Ingersoll and Chester of Los Angeles, Cal.

In Broken Health

Mr. Muir was for many months actively engaged in advancing the plans of the Housing Commission, and served in an official capacity for the central organization. The many demands which were made on his time and energy and the readiness with which he responded to them all, created too great a strain, the result being that more than a year ago he had to relinquish all activities apart from his business, and finally it was necessary that he should delegate much of that to associates.

In the late spring of 1938 Mr. Muir, in search of health and a change in surroundings, decided to try the Peterborough district, and for a number of weeks occupied a cottage on Long Lake, where he enjoyed outdoor life in our lakes district. At that time it appeared as though the change had been beneficial, although it was apparent to those who knew him best that there had not been the full return of former strength and vigor which had been so hopefully anticipated.

Through occasional visits in Peterborough, Mr. Muir had become known to a number of the business people of this city. They found in him an energetic gentleman with a keen knowledge not only of newspapers but of the wider business field in general. The planning of a new home for the Examiner and the placing of this newspaper in its present adequate structure was part of Mr. Muir's program for the development of the Examiner in this city.

Million Inheritance Fails To Excite Retired Blacksmith

Detroit, Jan. 25 (CP)

JOHN G. MENGEL, 89, retired blacksmith here, was unexcited today after learning he may inherit $1,000,000 from the estate of J. F. Hessel, of Champaign, Ill.

Two others were expected to share the $3,000,000 estate with Mengel. Mengel, busy shovelling snow off the sidewalk, told reporters he thought he was a second or third cousin of Hessel and he was not much concerned about the estate, because he had enough to live on.

Son Been Missing From His Home For Eighteen Months

A small item of police court news in a recent edition of The Examiner and the happy coincidence of a Northern Ontario woman being in Peterborough on a visit and seeing the paragraph will soon bring about a reunion on a lonely island in Lake Penange, 28 miles from Sudbury.

Five days ago a young lad who gave his name as David Black and afterward said that his real name was Hutchinson, pleaded guilty in police court here to vagrancy and was sentenced to ten days in jail. His address was mentioned as White Fish, Ont., and when a brief story of the case was given in The Examiner a woman from the district noticed it. She knew that Mr. and Mrs. Henry G. Hutchinson of Lake Penange, near White Fish, had been searching for 18 months for their young son, David, who suddenly ran away from home, so she sent word north of the boy being sentenced here.

Overjoyed, Hutchinson, the proprietor of a fishing camp, immediately set forth on skis last night and made his way through a blizzard across the frozen lake and reached the home of a friend on the mainland and was driven through the drifts and storm to White Fish to catch the train for Peterborough.

He arrived here at noon, and to his dismay found that it was not as easy a matter as he had thought to secure the release of his boy. The lad still had five days of his sentence to serve, and could not be liberated. Crown-Attorney McElderry was appealed to, and he immediately called the Attorney-General's Department, and was informed that the Ontario authorities could do nothing in the matter and that it would be necessary to secure an order from the Department of Justice at Ottawa. Mr. McElderry speedily got in touch with Dr. Hur-

Thug Strangles Child Of Six, To Still Cries While He Robs Parents' Home In Winnipeg

WINNIPEG, Jan. 25 (CP).—Six-year-old Rose Eiler was slain last night and police today sought a mysterious stranger alleged to have entered a Young Street boarding house, bound and gagged Miss Kay Reniuk and strangled the child when her cries threatened to arouse the household.

Steven Eiler, unemployed father of the slain child, discovered the tragedy when he returned home at 10.45 p.m. Rose lay dead on a studio lounge, her sister Joan, aged five, was unharmed and Miss Reniuk, Eiler's 24-year-old housekeeper, was unconscious on the floor, her hands and ankles bound. The woman was nearly smothered by a large gag stuffed in her mouth.

Police reconstructed the crime largely from the story told them in hospital by Miss Reniuk, whose condition was not considered serious.

Gags Housekeeper.

The housekeeper told them, officers said, that a tall, unshaven man, a stranger to her, entered one of Eiler's two rooms and demanded "Steve's papers." When she refused he seized her by the throat and, smothering her cries, bound and gagged her.

When Rose awoke and started to cry the intruder, police believe, quickly clapped his hands over her mouth, snatched up a suit of the child's combination underwear and twisted it tightly around the throat above her sleepers. A bit of cloth was stuffed into the child's mouth as a gag and her struggles ceased. Five-year-old Joan's life was spared, apparently, because she did not cry out.

The slayer was believed to have snatched some papers from a drawer, picked up $10 which caught his eye and fled without his presence being known to the house's six other occupants.

Mayor Of Concepcion Issues Desperate Plea For Food, Medical Aid At Once; President, Staff Head For Scene Of Tragedy

SANTIAGO, Chile, Jan. 25 (AP).—An army plane surveying the scene of a disastrous Chilean earthquake that shook a 400-mile strip of coast, today flew low over Chillan, 220 miles south of Santiago, and reported finding the city of 40,000 inhabitants "completely destroyed."

The report of heavy damage to Chillan came as three army planes flew south to check unconfirmed reports 2,000 persons had been killed in Concepcion, important coastal city 50 miles southwest of Chillan.

The Mayor of Concepcion sent a terse message to the government, saying: "Situation most serious as a result of the earthquake. Unable to state number of casualties but many hundreds, probably thousands. Require food, medical aid desperately urgent."

President Heads for Scene.

President Pero Aguirre Carda and several cabinet members departed for the quake area on a special train with 40 physicians, 70 nurses, and medical supplies.

First reports said the majority of houses were destroyed in Renaico, small town 50 miles south of Conception, and the railway disrupted in numerous places. Forty per cent. of Conception's houses were reported demolished.

Soldiers sped to this area, which included the city of Talca with a population of 45,000 and Concepcion, port city of 77,000 people.

The navy, government and commercial stations could not establish wireless contact with either Concepcion or Talca at 3 a.m.

The radio operator at Talcahuano, close by Concepcion, advised the Valparaiso navy station, however, that electric power was off at Concepcion and that fire was noticed.

Two brief amateur messages got through from Talca. One said the tremblor was violent, that three were killed and 20 seriously injuded. The second said several were killed and that many houses collapsed.

The early reports included:

The populace of Curico was in panic, with hundreds sleeping in plazas and avenues. Many buildings were damaged and several walls collapsed. Power failed, but was restored.

At Cordillera the temblor was proceeded by li ght flashes which might indicate the eruption of a nearby volcano.

The jail at Traiguen collpased. Several other buildings were damaged.

A violent temblor was felt at San Fernando and the people were greatly alarmed.

McNevin Urges Wheat Policy Changes

OTTAWA, Jan. 25 (CP) — Demands for a change in Canada's wheat marketing policy have come from both government supporters and opposition members in the House of Commons and an indication of the government's attitude on the problem may come today when Trade Minister Euler speaks in the address debate. Mr. Euler is the minister directly responsible for wheat marketing and is chairman of the wheat committe of the cabinet.

Yesterday E. E. Perley (Con. Qu'Appelle) and Bruce McNevin (Lib. Victoria) suggested changes although neither criticized the government for continuing the wheat bord act and fixing a price on the 1938 western wheat crop.

Mr. Perley, a western farmer, thought some control should be imposed on the marketing of wheat by licensing deliveries from farmers. Mr. McNevin, an Ontario farmer, said a fixed price could not be paid permanently on one commodity in one part of Canada.

"I think the farmers of Western Canada realize now that there must be some control of production or at least some control of marketing," said Mr. Perley. "I am not in favor of controlling acreage but if I had the opportunity I think could work out a scheme for controlling deliveries to the market."

One Policy All Around

"We cannot establish as a settled policy in our economy provisions which would permit the payment of a set price for any commodity in one part of Canada and deny the same concessions to those producing a similar commodity in other parts of the country," said Mr. McNevin.

Government spending on a large scale did not bring prosperity or offer a cure for unemployment. For this reason he hoped the interests of the taxpayer would be considered as the business of the session went on.

He was opposed to any new construction of arsenal buildings until facilities of the Lindsay, Ont., arsenal were used to the utmost. He believed government arsenals should not be held as auxiliary arsenals for use in time of war. They should be used to supply peace-time needs and private industry, under proper supervision, should stand ready to provide the additional producing capacity needed in war.

Mark Senn (Con. Haldimand) said the United States got the best of the bargain in the 1935 trade treaty and the new treaty was also one-sided.

Solution of the unemployment problem did not lie in public works but in the provision of a balanced price structure. If the farmer got adequate prices for his products he would buy the products of industry and make employment in industry and commerce.

Rebels Storming Suburbs Of Barcelona

HENDAYE, France, Jan. 25.—(AP).—The insurgent command reported to-day that its troops had penetrated the southern section of Barcelona and by noon had extended a ring of steel around the city except the northern coastal portion.

From emplacements along a huge arc nearly enclosing the third capital of the Spanish Republic insurgent artillery was reported shelling the city, while a steady stream of refugees poured out northward along the coastal road.

Insurgent dispatches said an advance guard of one column entered Barcelona from the south but was waiting in the outskirts rather than risk further penetration until stronger forces had been brought up.

The main body of troops was following by forced marches, said the insurgent command, and was expected to begin arriving in Barcelona by nightfall.

Loyalists Retreat Fighting.

One Burgos dispatch said bitter fighting occurred in the government capital's outskirts when the first Moroccan and Navarrese units entered.

The advance guard of the insurgent forces marched into the Spanish government capital after tightening a ring around the city o three sides, reports from field headquarters said.

Barcelona still was in government hands, however. A direct communication from the capital at 10.30 a.m. (5.30 a.m. EST) said government troops still held out in the city proper.

An insurgent dispatch predicted complete occupation by tonight.

The Moorish army corps commanded by General Juan Yague which had driven northeastward along the coast from Tarragona was reported to be the first insurgent unit to enter the government capial.

Refugees of many nationalities clustered at Caldetas on the coast 24 miles northeast of Barcelona, awaiting evacuation by their war-

French Fire On Rebel Bombers

CERBERE, France, Jan. 25—(AP).—French anti-aircraft batteries today fired two warning rounds at four insurgent bombing planes which circled over French territory near this border city.

The appearance of the planes at 10.30 a.m. (5.30 a.m. EST) hampered the scheduled passage of about 400 non-Spanish combatants, believed to include about 300 Canadians, through the international tunnel from Spain to France.

The crossing of the former members of the international brigade was delayed until afternoon.

The four planes, flying low in clear weather, cross the mountain frontier near Cerebere, but flew out over Spanish water as soon as the French guns went into action.

Spanish government anti-aircraft batteries at Port Bou opened fire and drove the planes to sea.

Windows rattled in Cerebere from the gunfire and the population filled the streets to watch teh bombers.

The sound of bomging reached Cerebere later. Reports from the the frontier said San Miguel De Culera, on the Spanish side, had been bombed.

No 2nd Munich Say French Heads As Hitler Ships Duce Supplies

By Jean Aliary
(Copyright, 1939, by the Havas News Agency.)

PARIS, Jan. 25—(CP-Havas). — "A new Munich conference, this time concerning the Mediterranean, is impossible," it was stated to-day in official quarters here.

"There is not a French Government that could, even if wanted to, agree to discussion with the object of ceding any territory whatever now under French sovereignty," the same source said.

This statement was made in connection with reports that Premier Mussolini will shortly press Italian claims on French Mediterranean possessions, now that the insurgents appear to be winning the war in Spain.

Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet will be particularly firm on the point of no territorial concessions when he makes his address to the Chamber of Deputies on foreign policy, expected tomorrow, it was said.

Bonnet was clear on that same point during the conversation he had Monday with the German ambassador, Count Johannes Von Welczeck, it was stated.

Think France Will Bow

Despite this, it is held in authoritative circles here that Premier Mussolini is sure to put his Mediterranean claims on an official basis as soon as the Spanish war is ended.

The call of 60,000 Italian reservists to the colors to-day was regarded as indicative of the atmosphere in which the Fascist demands will be formulated.

Reliable reports from Rome show that the Italian government is convinced that France will accept all and any conditions rather than risk a war.

The fact that Italy's "natural aspirations" were raised in the Fascist chamber last November 30—the very day a general strike was called in France—demonstrated that Italy

Bull Renounces $500,000

RACINE, Wis., Jan. 25.—(AP).—Counsel in the suit to break the will of Mabelle Horlick Sidley, malted milk heiress, to-day announced the case was settled out of court, with W. Perkins Bull of Toronto, renouncing his interest in the residuary estate.

The attorneys issued the following joint statement:

"Subject to the carrying out of the various necessary arrangements, the parties have agreed to the disposition of the contest and all related matters on the following basis:

"Mr. Bull is to renounce his interest as the residuary legatee only, which interest is estimated to be of the order of $500,000. William H. Sidley is then, with the approval of the court, to withdraw his objections to the probate of the will.

"The estate is to be administered by two of the named executors, Col. Roy F. Farrand and William H. Sidley.

Sliding Fine Scale Lets Speeders Figure Cost Ahead

Saginaw, Mich., Jan. 25 (CP)

CIVIC OFFICIALS here have established a sliding scale of fines, so speeders may know in advance just what it will cost them to be in a hurry.

On side streets, speeding up to 24 miles an hour will cost $3, and more than 24 miles an hour $5, while on through routes the charge for speeding up to 34 miles an hour will be $3 and $5 for 35 miles an hour with an additional $1 an hour for every mile per hour over 35.

WINDSOR, Ont., Jan. 25—(CP).—Robert Wales, 61, pleaded guilty in county court here today to stealing $7,229 from Mersea township during a four-year period as township treasurer. He was remanded until Saturday for sentence, after Magistrate Arthur Harrahan termed the case "most unusual."

Wales told the court he had taken township money on a number of occasions to establish township residents on farms, so they would not have to go on relief. He denied taking any money for personal benefit.

"What I did was not right from a legal standpoint, but it was right from a humane standpoint," Wales said. His lawyer termed him a "20th Century Robin Hood."

"What has happened over a period of years may be shown by one case in which a man was about to lose his farm," said C. E. Awrey, Wales' counsel. "The mortgage was about to foreclose because it was in arrears of taxes. To save the farm, Wales gave him a receipt for taxes which he had not paid. He had no right to do that.

Collect Then Give it Back

"He would collect monies from men who were hard up and give it back. I have letters of thanks from those whose property he saved. As far as he was concerned, his emolument was $500 a year and a percentage of arrears. But people were in trouble and he would not collect his percentage as he should have.

"The effect is here we have a man who should never have been in this position of treasurer. Instead we should have had there a man without too much heart. He and others feel that he saved the township thousands of dollars by keeping people off relief so they might carry on producing crops.

5 Coast Guards Lost In Lifeboat Among Floes Seeking 2 Fishermen Saved By Others

CHEBOYGAN, Mich., Jan. 25—(AP). — Five coast guards from the Walker's Point Station, who set out in a lifeboat yesterday morning to search for three fishermen missing on an ice floe, had not returned to-day. The fishermen were located, safe on Drummond Island, yesterday.

Coast guard officers said the 35-foot power lifeboat had no stove and meager food supplies. Sub-zero temperature prevailed to-day and upper Lake Huron was filled with broken, drifting ice cakes.

Officers at Walker's Point, on Bois Blanc Island, said the men might be on Drummond Island or the boat might be frozen in the ice somewhere near the island.

Double Insulating Tissues Let Gals "Take It" On Zero Days–No More Male Sympathy

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 25 (AP)—Men, when you see a pretty girl hurrying briskly down the windy, winter street in today's drafty dress, don't feel sorry. The girls can take it — much better than you can.

This is the conclusion of a group at Yale University School of Medicine, where science found a biological explanation for the fortitude of the so-called "weaker sex."

The report was presented yesterday to the convention of the Society of Heating and Ventilating Engineers, disclosing that the thickness of the "thermal insulating tissues"—or cold weather protection — of women is nearly double that of men.

And in hot temperatures, the report added, the girls don't begin to perspire nearly as quickly as their escorts, thus explaining why they can keep that fresh-as-a-daisy look while men wilt.

The studies were made under C. E. A. Winslow, a public health authority, in connection with a survey of recent advances in physiological knowledge as they bear on ventilation problems.

'Bottle' Gunman Nabbed In Chase

TORONTO, Jan. 25 — (CP). — Police today held a blond youth who they claimed used a bottle as a revolver and atempted to hold up a theatre box office yesterday.

They said the youth, whose name was given as Thomas Moore, 18, claims he is a "pal" of Owen McNeil, 18, alleged toy-gun bandit now awaiting sentence for an attempted bank holdup last week. A newspaper clipping showing McNeil after his arrest was found in Moore's pocket, police said.

Moore was reported as saying he staged the holdup because he needed money to pay his room rent. McNeil when taken reportedly told police he tried to rob the bank because he was hungry.

Police said Moore approached the theatre cashier, pretended he had a gun in his pocket, and passed her a note reading "keep your mouth shut and hand me the money." The girl screamed and slid from her seat in a dead faint.

Her scream attracted the doorman who chased the youth despite the fact that Moore allegedly threatened him with his "bottle" revolver. The youth was arrested a few minutes later by police.

According to police Moore and McNeil rode the rails to Toronto and McNeil staged his holdup attempt two days after arriving here.

Moore was remanded until Feb. 1 when arraigned this morning. Bail was set at $5,000

Starved To Give Kiddies Food Says Widow Of Bushman Found Dead–Refused Relief

NORTH BAY, Ont., Jan 25 (CP)—Crown Attorney E. A. Tilley said today he is preparing a report on circumstances surrounding the death of Aime Houle, 45, which will be sent to the attorney-general's department at Toronto.

Houle, a bush worker, was found early Sunday in a snowbank near his home at Astorville, 15 miles south of North Bay. A deep gash was in the top of his head and he died early Monday. Coroner Dr. D. A. Campbell decided an inquest was not necessary.

The man's widow reported to authorities the family had been denied unemployment relief and that Houle starved himself to death so food might be available for his wife and five children. "He said he would let himself die to feed his family," said Mrs. Houle, adding that Houle, despondent in recent weeks, went foodless for a week before his death.

Houle returned to Astorville from a lumber camp north of Sturgeon Falls shortly before Christmas when his wife became ill. Mrs. Houle said five applications for relief had been refused by Oscar Rochefort, district welfare administrator.

Rochefort in a statement said: "We were not at fault with the relief." He explained relief could not be given until investigation was made. Such an inquiry was made after the Houles had made application for assistance and Rochefort said he prepared a report and forwarded it to George T. Chenier, relief administrator in North Bay.

French Agitation Grows For Action On Tunnel Under Channel; British Army Men Opposed

By J. F. Sanderson
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

LONDON, Jan. 25 (CP).—The French government is being urged in the Chamber of Deputies to make fresh approaches to British authorities on the century-old project of a tunnel under the English Channel.

Marcel Boucher, deputy of the Vosges district, uses military and economic arguments when urging construction of a land link between France and Britain but the response in this country has been cool.

Charles James Fox first discussed the idea of a tunnel with Napoleon in 1802, and from that day to this British military authorities have opposed it. In 1881 shafts were sunk in both countries and headings were driven a mile from each coast but Lord Wolseley stressed military arguments against it and the project fell through.

Since then there have been many attempts made to revive the idea including designs featuring lighthouses out in the Channel equipped to flood the tunnel in an emergency. In 1924 the committee of Imperial defence reported against the tunnel and in 1930 could find no advantages in its favor. During the days of the Macdonald government, a free vote in the House resulted in a narrow defeat for the tunnel.

Time Not Right

With the Chamberlain government so engrossed in rearmament and Europe in such a disturbed state, authorities here may find the time inopportune to review the whole project. In addition, British shipping, which might be injured by its construtcion, has been losing ground steadily since the Great War and might demand subsidies for itself rather than fresh competition.

There is also the question of defending a tunnel—whether it is easier to protect tramp ships or a tunnel entrance from enemy bombers. There seems to be no doubt the tunnel will be dug some day. Strategical and economic arguments were used against the Suez Canal and the Panama Canal was delayed for years through financial failure. It seems likely the Channel tunnel will provoke both patriotic doubts and financial scepticism until it is built—and then, perhaps, everyone will agree it should have been built years ago.

Laborites Oust Socialist Chief Cripps

LONDON, Jan. 25 (CP-Havas)—The national executive of the Labor party today voted to expel Sir Stafford Cripps, militant socialist leader, from the party.

The reason for the expulsion was Sir Stafford's leadership of a campaign in favor of a popular front of all factions opposing Prime Minister Chamberlain's foreign policy. He had continued this drive despite the opposition of the Labor party itself to such a popular front.

The executive's vote was 18 to 1.

Miss Ellen Wilkinson, Labor member of parliament, cast the lone vote in favor of Sir Stafford, who formerly was a member of the executive.

Charged with disloyalty because he went over the heads of that body in issuing an appeal to Labor groups for a united front, Sir Stafford argued he had no wish to split the Labor party but that "the time and circumstances" necessitated a combined effort against the National government.

Zero Wave Trails Night Blizzard

(By the Canadian Press.)

Zero weather was nipping ears and noses in all sections of Ontario to-day. Fresh to strong northerly winds whipped the cold down overnight and prospects of milder weather for a day or two were slight.

A blizzard-like storm that brought three inches of snow with it hampered traffic in Sudbury and North Bay areas. At the latter the temperature was 15 below zero to-day.

Sudbury reported all main roads in the district, except those to Burwash and to Manitoulin Island, were expected to be opened to traffic tonight though high winds were continuing to pile up drifts.

Owen Sound, on Georgian Bay, had the coldest weather of the season. It was two below zero in the city and several degrees below this the wind had full sweep. Snow in the surrounding rural areas where ploughs were out on all highways, but no roads were blocked.

South-western Ontario said the sun was shining to-day, but northerly winds were still chilly. There was little moderation of temperatures from overnight lows. It was two below zero at eight o'clock at Kitchener. At Sarnia it was zero and it slipped to the same point at Chatham.

25 Below At Sault

Sault Ste. Marie's citizens weren't doing much deep breathing outdoors today. It was 25 below zero at eight a.m. and was still 20 below a few hours later.

Hearst, on the Canadian National Railways trans-continental line, reported 44 below during the night. Franz had a 38-below mark and Michipocten and Frater 30 below.

Scores of students arrived at Galt collegiate today with frozen ears and the teachers were kept busy rendering first aid. A gale that blew all night continued today. There was drifting on the roads.

Peterborough reported a temperature spread of 36 degrees overnight. At nine p.m. it was 26 above zero. This morning it was ten below.

Timmins, centre of Ontario's northern gold belt, reported the lowest temperature in four years—38 degrees below zero. The record was set eight years ago with 40 below. It was fine today with the cold set to stay a while.

Italy Calls Up 60,000 Men Of 1901 Class

ROME, Jan. 25 (AP).—The Italian Government today announced about 60,000 men of the class of 1901 will be called to the colors for training and instruction.

An official communique said the first group of these men, who are now 38 years old, have been called for February 1.

Authoritative Italian sources previously had denied the men were being called as a precaution against possible French intervention in Spain to save the Barcelona regime.

But Italy at the same time repeated its warning that French intervention in Spain would result in Italy claiming its "liberty of action."

French fears that Italian troops on the French-Spanish border would be dangerous to France were declared to be "excessive" by Informazione Diplomatica, the official bulletin of the Italian Foreign Office.

Rebels 10 Miles Off Barcelona

HENDAYE, France, Jan. 25. — (AP). — An insurgent advance guard drove to within 9½ miles of Barcelona to-day as hard-pressed government militiamen fought stubbornly to halt forces closing in on the capital from two sides.

The main insurgent column advancing up the Mediterranean coast was halted about 12 miles from Barcelona, while a second army approaching from the west was reported 10 miles from the capital.

The southern army, following the highway up the coast, was said to have been brought virtually to a standstill in the vicinity of Sastell-defels by militiamen who clung to positions in the Garraf Mountains overlooking the Mediterranean.

But the left wing of this column circled the mountain nests and laid siege to the little village of San Boy, 9½ miles south-west of Barcelona. San Boy lies on a hill above the Llobregat River, dominating the coastal highway and the highway from the west.

General Franco's army approaching from the west was reported fighting its way into the highway town of Martorell, 10 miles from Barcelona, where government forces were making a determined stand. Reports the town had fallen were denied by government bulletins.

Government officials in Barcelona were counting on their forces to hold off the insurgents until the capital's defences could be organized under the new martial law orders issued yesterday.

Evacuation of non-combatants and foreigners was proceeding under constant danger of the heavy aerial bombardment to which the city has been subjected during the past few days.

was speculating on internal disorders in France.

Genevieve Tabouis wrote to-day in O'Oeuvre (Rradical-Socialist) that Premier Mussolini has agreed to let Chancellor Htiler control military operations and the war economy of the two countries.

Quoting reports from Rome, the foreign affairs writer said an international crisis over Italian demands probably will open in mid-February even if Barcelona does not fall to the Spanish insurgents.

Hitler Sending Duce Arms.

Pertinax, in L'Ordre (Conservative), said that "according to testimony which cannot be lightly rejected, transport of war materials from Germany to Italy already has been noted."

"On the other side of the Mediterranean," he continue, " at Benghazi, Cyrenaica (Libya), artillery and troops are reported to have debarked. In addition, all sorts of preparations are said to have been made at Kufra, in Southern Libya, including the drilling of wells and the construction of airdromes.

"It is enough to glance at the map to see what might be attempted by airplanes setting out from the oases of Kufra."

London Wakens Up

"There is in London but a single question from which stems all pessimism," Mme. Tabouis said. "It is that of definite and complete aid promsed by Germany to Italy. Political, financial and diplomatic circles in London are now definitely convinced of this.

"According to reports which arrived from Rome yesterday evening, Hitler, under the pressure of his generals, asked Mussolini to leave to him the control of military operations, which in reality is the equivalent of giving him the general direction of the two allied armies, even on the Italian sector. Mussolini agreed.

"In addition, Germany asked and obtained from Mussolini the direction of war economy. According to the plan o fthe (Rome-Berlin) axis, an international crisis concerning Italian demands should open in mid-February, even if General Franco has not been able to occupy Barcelona."

NANAIMO, B.C., Jan. 25—(CP).—Talk about efficieny—a letter was mailed in England just before Christmas to "Miss S. Mainwaring, Wallace street, British Columbia." The town was omitted, but the letter has been delivered to Miss Mainwaring here.

B.C. Sending Toronto 30 Jobless Bi-Weekly

TORONTO, Jan. 25 (CP)—British Columbia is sending single unemployed transients to Toronto at the rate of about 30 every fortnight, John Bianco, 22, formerly of Ottawa, said today. Bianco said he was one of those "shipped" here. He described the Vancouver situation as regards the unemployed as much worse than here.

"I was working in a provincial government camp in British Columbia and when I was finished they told me I would have to take part of my pay in railway transportation," he said. "There were about 30 other men who had the same alternative. A few got off at Winnipeg, but the rest came through to Toronto."

OBITUARY

MRS. SHERWOOD SCEA
(Examiner Correspondence.)

TRENT RIVER, Jan. 25. — The funeral of the late Mrs. Sherwood Scea was held Tuesday afternoon. The remains were taken from the family home, Concession 15 Seymour, to the United Church, Trent River, at 2 p.m., where service was conducted by Rev. A. McLauchlin.

There was a large attendance of relatives, friends and neighbors who came to pay their respects to one who had been a resident for so many years. Hymns used were favorites of the deceased: "What a Friend We Have in Jesus," "He Leadeth Me," and "Rock of Ages." The choir rendered an appropriate selection, 'Face to Face," with Mrs. Bert Robson as pianist. Rev. Mr. McLauchlin read the 61st Psalm and delivered a comforting address to the bereaved.

The pall-bearers were five grandnephews: Ernie Johnston, Bernice Johnston, Roy Johnston, George Fox, John Aulthouse, and Dan Shorter. Flower bearers were two grandchildren: Thelma and Vernon Aulthouse.

Interment was made at Maple Grove Cemetery.

ANDREW FORREST.

Funeral services for the late Andrew Forrest, 466½ Gilmour Street, who died at St. Joseph's Hospital on Saturday afternoon, were held from the Nisbett Funeral Home on Tuesday afternoon, Rev. G. S. Representatives of the local branches of the Masonic Order were present at the funeral to do honor to a fellow Mason, who was a charter member of Gretna Green Lodge, 1158, and Portabello Lodge, 889, both in Scotland. Many friends and relatives were at the funeral to pay tribute to Mr. Forrest, a man highly esteemed in this community.

Pall-bearers were: J. McDairn, A. Chartren, J. McCabe, K. Martin, George Nicholls and L. McDain.

Interment was at Little Lake Cemetery.

Victoria Stresses Reforesting Plans

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LINDSAY, Jan. 25. — Victoria County Council concluded its session Tuesday afternoon. Considerable time was spent discussing the work of the Reforestration Committee. Mr. Corson, chairman, urged that the individual farmers and the townships take a greater interest in the work. This would go a long way towards securing the cooperation of the Government in establishing a tree nursery in the county. Options on property in Sommerville township suitable for reforestration purposes will be secured. A letter was read to the council from County Crown Attorney Anderson in which the latter pointed out to the council the alarming situation with regard to the number of children which the county is paying for under the Children's Protection Act This letter, which brought up the high cost of administration of justice in the county, resulted in Reeve Pardy, of Bobcaygeon, introducing a recommendation to the attorney-general that in ordinary police court cases only one adjournment should be granted. It was felt that continuous adjournments were, in many cases, needless and an additional expense to the county.

Merchant Passes

Lindsay lost one of its veteran merchants Tuesday in the passing of Michael E. Tangney at his residence, Lindsay street. Mr. Tangney, who was in his eighty-fourth year, was born in Peterborough, and learned his trade with the late M. McFadden, furniture dealer and undertaker of that city. Mr. Tangney embarked in the furniture business at Victoria Road, and later came to Lindsay where he conducted business up to the time of his death. He was a prominent member of St. Mary's Church, was charter member of Lindsay Council Knights of Columbus and was also identified with other church organizations. He is survived by his wife, three sons and four daughters. The funeral takes place Thursday morning to St. Mary's Church and thence to the parish cemetery.

tubise, member for Nipissing in the Federal House, at Ottawa, and asked him to take the case up with the Department. Hutchinson is anxious to get his boy and start for home as soon as possible because he left his wife and 10-year-old daughter alone in the isolated camp and wants to get back to them as soon as possible.

14 Years Old When He Left.

"We don't understand why David left home," he told The Examiner. "He was just 14 years old and never said anything about being dissatisfied with things on the island. Eighteen months ago he just disappeared—left us one day without any warning, and from that day on we never heard a word from him or about him until now, although we have tried every way possible to trace him. There have been appeals over the radio, and every time I read about a boy being picked up anywhere I wrote for particulars—but it was never David."

"Have you seen him yet?"

"I couldn't bear to see him behind the bars," said the father. "I don't believe I would be able to speak to him."

Hutchinson is waiting at the jail for word from Ottawa that will give him his son back and let him start on the journey to the north, where an anxious mother waits for his arrival.

Young Hutchinson was in Peterborough last year for a while and was treated in hospital here for a bad cold. At that time the police communicated with the address he had given but there must have been some error in the address, for the letter was returned unopened.

Schooner Fired After Crew Saved In Gale

LONDON, Jan. 25—(CP).—The Atlantic Ocean to-day claimed the Canadian auxiliary schooner St. Clair Theriault, a victim of the gale that since early Sunday has whipped the Atlantic into mountainous waves.

According to a meagre report received here last night, the rudderless, three-masted Nova Scotia schooner was abandoned and set afire. The firing was to guard against her becoming a menace to navigation.

Few details were available. The message merely said the 31-ton vessel, owned in Pictou, N.S., was set afire at a position given as 47.47 north 6.55 west in the North Atlantic.

The Canadian craft, en route to Pictou from Ballina, Eire, lost her rudder in the gale approximately 50 miles southwest of Ushant Island

24 Rinks Enter For Morrow Cup

With the temperature well below the zero mark and with a real "northwestern" storm, twenty-four rinks from Peterborough and the surrounding district made up a perfect draw and were sent away by Chairman R. F. Downey at 9.30 a.m. in quest of the beautiful silver cup donated by W. G. Morrow.

James Richmond, president of the Peterborough Curling Club, welcomed the visitors and in a short, snappy speech reminded all that curling was a gentleman's game and hoped that the best team would win.

Dr. R. Scott of Bobcaygeon and winner of the Morrow Cup last year was pitted against Peterborough's veteran campaigner, Walter Oke.

Rinkless Pair

By the luck of the draw two clubs that have no curling rink at all were pitted against each other in the first round, Bob Edmunds of Millbrook and Stan Lowe of Marmora.

There were many close and exciting games in the first round with probably the honors going to the Downey-Ward game. Downey, one down going home, and he built up a defense that Ward could not get through, Downey winning out by one shot.

Another game that is worthy of mention was the Michaels-Skitch game. Generally Percy puts up good stiff opposition but the boys from the Motor Town were completely masters after the second end. Percy was always tied up tight and could make no headway.

The Scott-Oke game was also close. Oke down two going home and almost pulled the game out with his last stone ,but was just a little heavy.

The rest of the games were somewhat one-sided.

The games continue until late this evening and the public is cordially invited to see the finals tonight.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Jan. 25 — (C.P.). — Purchases by exporters and mills totalling nearly 1,000,000 bushels and higher prices at Liverpool sent wheat futures fratcionally higher on Winnipeg Market to-day. Final quotations were ¼ to ½ cent higher, with May at 63⅛, July 63⅞ and October 64¼ to ⅜ cents.

Trading was fairly brisk throughout the session and brought out some buying in connection with inter-market spreading involving purchases of Winnipeg May wheat against sales of May at Chicago. Nervous covering was encountered at times due to the unsettled European political situation.

German Star's Tragedy At Last Told

Back in the days of the depression a new movie star flashed across the screen of Canada, bringing joy and carefree abandon to thousands with her singing of a catchy little song called "To-day I Feel So Happy." Her name was Renate Muller and the picture was "Sunshine Susie," says an article in the Movie Digest.

Broke Records.

Renate Muller had originally been a German motion picture star and "Sunshine Susie" was an English version, filmed in Britain, of one of her most successful continental hits It had extended runs and broke box-office records all across Canada, and people eagerly looked forward to the next film in which she would appear.

Months passed, and Renate Muller did not appear in another film and film fans' anticipation gave way to a sense of wonderment as to why any movie star would not follow up such an outstanding success.

However, there was a story behind this sudden disappearance of Renate Muller—a story in which the heavy hand of Herr Hitler loomed ominously in the sinister background; the story which is revealed in the Movie Digest. "Renate Muller," says Movie Digest, "tops the list of movie stars who have attracted Hitler's attention."

"Nice" to Him.

Der Fuehrer met the star at a reception at which Goering and Goebbels were present. Both of them asked her to be "nice" to Hitler, and the little actress carried out their instructions so successfully that Hitler made her the gift of a fine riding horse which had been presented to him by his Nazi admirers.

However, as far as "Sunshine Susie" was concerned, there was no romance involved with Herr Hitler for Renate Muller was in love with a young non-Aryan who had fled to Paris. She followed him there for what she thought was a secret rendezvous. Nazi spies were watching her, and when she returned to Berlin, she was advised that her film career was ended if she ever again saw or communicated with her non-Aryan lover.

Being thus disgraced, she was also socially ostracized. When life in Berlin became unbearable she flew to Monte Carlo. There she was joined by her lover and there again they were spied upon by Nazi agents.

Injuries Fatal.

When she returned to Berlin her passport was confiscated and she was informed that she would never again appear in motion pictures.

Following a visit from the police, she threw herself from her apartment window, suffering severe injuries. She died in a plaster cast in a hospital, but not before she had announced during one of her periods of consciousness that she did not care if she could never walk again if she could not join the man she loved.

So ended the career of the famous "Glad Girl," "Sunshine Susie," who sang "To-day I Feel So Happy."

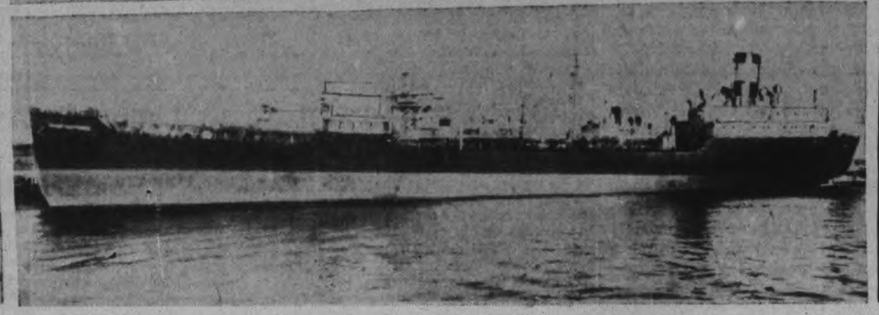
Three Die and Ten Saved As Flying Boat Plunges Into Atlantic



Two passengers and one member of the crew of the Imperial Airways flying boat Cavalier were drowned when the giant flying boat was forced down at sea during its regular flight from Port Washington to Bermuda. The Cavalier, TOP CENTRE, sank ten minutes after iced carburetors in all four engines forced her down. Ten survivors of the fatal plunge were rescued, after spending 11 hours at the mercy of the sea, by the tanker Esso Baytown, LOWER CENTRE. Robert Spence, steward of the ill-fated airliner, TOP RIGHT, and J. Gordon Noakes, passenger, LOWER RIGHT, were both drowned shortly after the flying boat hit the water. Captain M. R. Alderson, skipper of the lost airliner, TOP LEFT, and Radio Officer William Chapman, LOWER LEFT, were among the survivors picked up by the Esso Baytown. Survivors reported that the 20-ton flying boat sank so quickly that there was not time to put on life belts.

France Tightens Her Frontier

PERPIGNAN, France, Jan. 25—(AP)—France adopted extraordinary police measures along her tense Spanish frontiers today, anticipating a flood of refugees from the Catalan war front.

Primary emergency precautions were taken in an area extending 125 miles inland from the Mediterranean and some distance north from the border to prevent any unregulated movement of refugees into France. Camps will be provided, however, for refugees who do not want to return to any part of Spain.

On all main and secondary roads in that zone Prefect Raoul Didkowski established mobile guard barriers which were in addition to posts of the frontier proper, where the guardsmen regularly watch every mountain path.

Police of every village, forest guards and other local officers in the zone were notified they formed a part of the refugee-watching service.

None Must Pass

Three infantry regiments in Perpignan and other nearby garrisons were designated for a secondary guard to watch for refugees who might get through the frontier barrier.

Under Didkowski's plans, the whole southern section of the Eastern Pyrenees department has been turned into a zone through which refugees must not pass except under guard.

Mindful of previous crushes of refugees, after the fall of Bilbao and other northern Spanish cities and during the insurgent Catalan offensive last spring, Didkowski said: "Our job is to make the frontier so tight that not a single refugee can get into France on his own."

The guard became effective last midnight. All cars, even those bearing French licenses, were stopped and strangers without identification papers were detained.

King Denies Sunday Speech Political

OTTAWA, Jan. 25 (CP)—A suggestion from Conservative Leader Manion that a radio address delivered Sunday by Prime Minister Mackenzie King was political drew a prompt denial from Mr. Mackenzie King in the House of Commons yesterday. The speech was one of a series on the business of government. Mr. Mackenzie King explained his duties as prime minister and secretary of state for external affairs.

Dr. Manion said he had offered some criticism in the house because Mr. Mackenzie King had not visited various parts of the country and Mr. King had replied in the house. He had then made a further reply on the radio.

"I should like to know," he said, "whether the Liberal party paid for that political address or whether it was a gift from the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation to the Liberal party."

The prime minister said he had been asked to explain the duties of his position as Dr. Manion had been asked to explain the duties of the leader of the opposition in the series of broadcasts.

"My remarks were not intended to apply to my honorable friend's criticism," said Mr. Mackenzie King, "and I was not referring particularly to my own duties but to those of previous prime ministers and possible future prime ministers."

Dr. Manion agreed he had been invited to participate in the series but declined because all the other speakers except himself were to be Liberal cabinet ministers. He thought this was too one-sided.

His Customer Dead

COBOURG, Ont., Jan. 25—(CP)—Suspicions of a bread truck driver that something was wrong when his aged customer failed to answer the door and Saturday's paper was still on the door step, led to the discovery last night of the body of William Millen, 72, who had died in his sleep. Coroner Dr. W. E. Wilkins was called and decided an inquest was not necessary. Fred Hempstead, the bread man, told police last night that he thought something was wrong. Night Constable Don Erskine forced entry into the cold cottage and found Millen dead.

Food Follies Subject Of Keen Discussion

(Examiner Correspondence.)

KEENE, Jan. 25. — The topic "Food Follies" was the subject of a very keen and interesting discussion led by Willena Nelson at the regular meeting of the Ladies' Club held at the home of Mrs. H. Wright when sixteen members and one guest were present.

Mrs. Robert Nelson discussed the current events and at the close of the program dainty refreshments were served.

Classes continued during the past week for both boys and girls at the Junior Farm School. Especial attention was paid to sewing in the girls' class and also laundering of clothing. The cooking class continued its work on the cooking, preparing, and planning of meals.

D. A. Bell led several discussions on farm management in the boys' class and the value of co-operation in rural activities, both economical and social, were stressed.

A literary meeting was held on Friday afternoon when a large number of outsiders attended. A debate, "Resolved, that the farmer has more opportunities for happiness than the business man," was one of the highlights of the program.

Hope To Build New School At Curve Lake

A new school, cost of which is estimated at $10,000, may be erected by the Dominion Government at Curve Lake, it was learned to-day. Construction of the two-roomed school will probably commence early in May, if money is provided in the estimates, and will be completed by the first of September, in time for school opening in the fall.

A meeting was held at Curve Lake Monday, and residents voted to give up a piece of land near the lake for school purposes. Consent of every man and woman over twenty-one years of age had to be obtained before the publicly-owned reserve land could be used for such a purpose. Present at the meeting were Indian Agent V. M. Eastwood, a representative from the Department of Indian Affairs in Ottawa, Indian Chief Dan Whetung, and members of his council. Together with Indian residents of the reserve, they selected the site to be used.

A two-roomed structure, the new school will accommodate more than a hundred pupils. At present school is sitting in the Town Hall, in two classes, and there are some seventy pupils. Only other school the reserve has known was erected nearly a hundred years ago, and it has now fallen into disuse.

Indian Agent V. M. Eastwood could not verify that the building is to be built this spring. He said it is hoped to have cost of the building included in this year's estimates, to be passed by Parliament now sitting in Ottawa, but as yet the estimates have not been passed and for eight years now efforts have been made to get this school.

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 25, 1939

Another Matter Settled

Hon. Norman Rogers, Minister of Labor, announced it was the intention of the Federal government to pay 40 per cent. of relief costs. That means the Ontario government will do the same, and municipalities will provide 20 per cent. The question had been booted around so much in recent months that Peterborough in common with other municipalities was hardly certain of where it stood or on what basis its relief expenditure for 1939 should be estimated before being included in the tax rate.

Now that a definite ratio has been established it would be well to leave it alone because at best it is difficult to estimate at the beginning of a year what the relief appropriation should be. Last year the Relief committee felt conditions were improving, and so they were at the start, but they slid afterward and left a deficit. Estimating relief expenditure is quite different to financing departments where there are fixed costs.

Under the new announcement the city should benefit as far as its outlay goes, but the citizens as such will in the end be called upon to pay their share of what the province and Dominion needs for the same purpose. It is not well to lost sight of the fact that when there is a bill to pay the people pay it no matter which government does the collecting.

Is There a Difference?

Andrew Smith, a gentleman of 73 years, conducted a cock pit on his premises at Hamilton and it cost him $100 or three months in jail. A dozen or so others who were present when the game birds were fighting were fined $20 and costs.

When the case was being tried in court the argument was advanced that there was nothing more wrong with cock fighting than there was with people or nations doing the same thing. The bench replied that it was a cruel sport as they used steel spurs on the legs of the cocks. No question about that—it is cruel.

But actually is it any more cruel than the things which human beings do to each other. We have skilled men today who have been working and planning for years on how to make gas more horrible than ever before; devising ways and means for bombs which will wreck more buildings and kill more people than any bombs used in the past. These people have no mercy and no kindness and yet they go about their work. They are well paid and honorably mentioned. They are not called into court and fined as we do with those who match game cocks in a fight.

We have no use and small patience for those who match game cocks in the hidden fighting pit, but that argument advanced in court at Hamilton that it was no worse than what human beings do to each other is hard to shove away as having no bearing on the larger view of the situation.

Not Likely To Change

The Hotel Association of Ontario, now in session in Toronto, will probably hear something about there being too many hotels in Ontario. The reports indicate the feeling as being that since 1934 when the beer and wine legislation came into effect the number of places classed as hotels has grown enormously, and the hotel men feel that the standard of service has fallen as a result.

It is difficult to see how the change could have produced any other results. There were many small places which without a permit to sell beer and wine could not have made a living operating as hotels for the simple and sufficient reason that they were not good enough to attract or hold patronage. But when they secured permits for beverage rooms they made alterations to ensure they would measure up to the minimum requirements as a hotel. But it is the beverage room which keeps them going today.

The Hotel Association may advise them to bring their premises to a higher standard but we doubt if many will accept the advice. The reason for their existence is the beverage room and they are not hotel keepers in the fully accepted meaning of the term.

A Woman Who Was Brave

When the Imperial Airways flying boat cracked up between New York and Bermuda there was apparently little confusion. There were 13 on board, and life belts were passed around after which the passengers were aided out to the wings of the machine. The radio operators had time to send out calls telling of the disaster, and also to give the exact location. In a short time after that the aircraft sank from sight and passengers and crew were left in the ocean. Fortunately it was in the Gulf Stream. Not quite so fortunate was the circumstance that shortly after it started to turn dark and the survivors had no light.

They waited there for hours, during which two women saw their husbands sink, as they could hold on no longer. It is agreed by survivors that the bravest individual through all that experience, waiting until a lifeboat from a tanker finally reached them about 10.30 at night, was a woman, Mrs. Edna Watson, 43, of Montreal. When the captain of the air liner collapsed it was Mrs. Watson who held him up, probably for several hours. It was this woman who seemed able to direct the movements of the party and to keep them as cheerful as possible. She started them singing a song, and it was the singing that gave the life boat direction as to where the survivors were—bobbing up and down in pitch darkness of a rather rough night on the Atlantic.

We do not suggest that many women could have done as Mrs. Watson did; nor many men. Possibly prior to the accident Mrs. Watson herself would have been the last to admit that she could play such a part. But when the emergency arose she was equal to it. Today she is referred to by the other survivors as "the bravest woman living." That of course is a fine tribute but it is not true. There are others capable of similar heroism, only the crisis which calls bravery into operation has not yet come into their lives.

Franco Seeks Barcelona

With the approach of Franco civilian population has been warned to leave Barcelona. It is the chief seaport in Spain and its second largest city, being somewhat comparable in size to Toronto. It has a magnificent harbor well sheltered and the amount of shipping done there has been large. It has age and tradition, some of its cathedrals dating back to 1298, while its university was founded in 1430. The spinning and weaving of silk, cotton and wool are the chief industries in the city in normal times, and as many as 160,000 have been employed in these factories.

But Barcelona has also been the scene of a good many uprisings and a good deal of political unrest. Centred there have been revolutionary, socialistic, anarchist, Carlist and republican movements, although the threat of invasion by Franco has done a great deal to break down former lines and unite the population.

Conquered by the Romans it was a trading centre in the second century. The Moors captured it in 713, but in 801 it fell into the hands of the Franks. Back in 1705 the English captured Barcelona but it fell to the French in 1809. It has had a strange history that way as it has been in the hands of many nations.

When the epidemic of influenza broke in 1918 and covered most of the world it was Barcelona which for a time headed the death rate list, as people were dying there at the rate of 1,200 daily. How many lives have been lost in taking and defending Barcelona is a question which cannot be answered.

As It Was On The Tenth

An Examiner reader who lives about 12 miles east of the city has a complaint. He states his case this way:

"Say, what kind of a thermometer do you people own? Now we have one here and it is a good one and paid for too. On Sunday night I was out at the barn for a while and when I came in I took a look at the glass because I knew we were in for a cold night and it said 17 degrees below zero. It felt that way too with the wind piping up from the north and west. I said then I'd take a look at your paper next day, and first thing I went for was the weather and it said 12 below so you went and done me out of five degrees of cold."

That was the same night as the disastrous fire at Cordova, and it was reported there that the weather was 16 below zero at the time. Brantford in the Western end of the province says it was 6 below. It seems to go like that all over and it may be all the thermometers are doing their level best to record things just as they find and feel them.

On the Tenth Concession people had several ways of telling how cold it was without stepping out on the kitchen porch to look at the thermometer. We always had a feeling that the thermometer out there was old and lacked enthusiasm. In the winter it never would dig down to where we thought it should go, and in the summer when the folk were getting water and a handful of oatmeal to put in the stone crock to be taken out to the field that thermometer would never admit it was over 80 in the shade, not even on a day when the speckled hen was walking about with her wings open a bit and her mouth likewise opened.

It may be on that account we lost confidence in the thermometer, and relied on other things. The first test was the ice on the water pitcher in the bedroom, and the second was how long it took to blow a hole so you could see through the bedroom window. If the frost was heavy on the window then it took quite a lot of blowing, and there was some connection between that and the amount of cold that should have been registered during the night.

Then when you got down to the kitchen the next place to look was on the door hinges. If the frost had come in there and settled rather thick and white that was another indication and it somehow agreed with blowing the hole in the frost on the window up above. Of course the fire in the kitchen range did not stay in over night so the frost had a chance to enter. Cold nights the geraniums were generally lifted out of the windows or else there was a good sheet of newspaper put up behind them. The next thing after getting the kitchen fire started was to go out to the pump just across from the kitchen door and try for a pail of water. If the pump was frozen up stiff and had to be thawed out then we knew without looking at the thermometer that it had been something like 20 below zero. If the water in the drinking dish in the hen house was frozen stiff to the bottom and if the rooster's comb had been nipped during the night then there was no room for argument; it had been a good full 20 below and perhaps a few more.

If that old thermometer which hung out on the porch did not like to fall in line with the other signals around the premises then we ignored it, and some person would like as not suggest it was time it had a cap on and some woollen socks for cold nights. It was a somewhat different method to that used by our correspondent who looks at his thermometer and then believes it has told the truth. On the Ten Concession we could tell the weather pretty fair without a thermometer. At least we could make a good stab at it during the time between getting up and then later on gathering around the kitchen range and getting thawed out before starting on breakfast.

COUSIN EZRA

(By A.R.K.)

¶ My Cousin Ezra's wrong once more, worse now than what he's been before, and Ezra's feeling blue; the dainty widow yesterday, was packing up to go away, and all this Ezra knew.

¶ And she had things all set to go, she'd dug and shovelled out her snow, and that too seemed a shame; so Ezra hollered from the gate, that if she'd rest a bit and wait he'd drive her to the train.

¶ So Ezra toted grips and stuff, and said they were as light as fluff, and gaily drove away; if she'd just say when she'd be back, he'd gladly take the family hack, and meet her any day.

¶ His wife had been down town that day, she saw him as he drove away, of parcels she had four; her temper rose some six degrees, for she was shaking at the knees, her speech rose up some more.

¶ When Ezra drove back from the train, his wife's tongue lit a little flame, produced a lot of heat; she up and said before she stopped, that she could hobble till she dropped, with blisters on her feet.

¶ So Ezra's thinking hard just now, on how to miss another row, his outlook's rather black; he'd told the widow how he'd come, and gladly do the little run—whenever she got back.

Hepburn's "Pal" Not For Cabinet

POSSIBLY IT is nothing more than political gossip, but C. L. Bishop of the Press Gallery at Ottawa suggests that the friendship of Ross Gray, M. P. for West Lambton, and chief Liberal whip, for Premier Ferguson had something to do with Mr. Gray not being appointed Postmaster-General on the retirement of Hon. J. C. Elliott. The story:

In all Cabinet changes there is interest because, usually, while several feel that they have a call, few, of necessity, can be chosen. When a selection is made, either on the formation of a government or in recruiting to its ranks, satisfaction is mingled with disappointment. So far as Mr. MacKinnon is concerned, he is the only Liberal member for Alberta and thus the only one who is eligible. Mr. Bennett is the only Conservative. All the others belong to the Social Credit wing. Mr. MacKinnon's elevation is that of a genial and efficient man, who says very little but who has a great deal to do by reason of his peculiar position as the only Liberal member for the province, which heretofore has had no Cabinet minister.

In the place of the new postmaster-general it is different. That Mr. Elliott was to retire has long been known. There were three aspirants in particular — Mr. Ross Gray, chief Liberal whip; Colonel Mulock, grandson of the venerable Sir William, and Mr. McLarty.

It is perhaps fair to say that in the gossip—though often it proves unreliable — the two former members have been mentioned more prominently than Mr. McLarty. Mr. Gray has been in Parliament since 1929, and for some time has been chief Liberal whip. Often it is a stepping stone to perferment. At least two whips became Cabinet ministers in Liberal governments; others became senators or went to other positions. The odd one has been left high and dry.

A certain significance may be attached to the present case from the fact that Mr. Gray is a friend of Premier Hepburn, his former roommate in the House of Commons, and as he described it at a meeting last autumn, his "pal." Mr. Hepburn rather embarrassed his pal by seizing the most unwanted occasion of a non-political nature to make an onslaught on the authorities here, to whom Mr. Gray had indicated no disloyalty.

A few weeks ago the Ontario Liberal caucus indorsed the prime minister, following which Mr. Gray and Mr. W. A. Fraser constituted themselves into a voluntary mission to Mr. Hepburn to negotiate peace and afterwards proclaimed it. Mr. Hepburn said nothing by way of dissent at the time, but just before leaving for Australia, took a final fling at the two ministers, Mr. Howe and Mr. Rogers. Very probably Mr. McLarty's selection had no reference whatever to the Hepburn episode, but if it did have, it is not to be construed as an olive branch to the ebullient and somewhat erratic premier of this province.

It appears that the Liberal members for the province were invited to indicate to the prime minister their preference for the post and they either did it or left it to Mr. King himself. In any event, Mr. McLarty mounts to the position, outdistancing the other gentlemen with their praiseworthy ambitions. Col. Mulock's association with it was not due to any particular prominence in Parliament, but his family connection and, in degree, to the argument that Toronto should have a minister since the Liberals have made substantial inroads in that erstwhile Conservative terrain.

PLOTTING TOGETHER.

When the history of the last three or four years comes to be written from a retrospective standpoint, the connection between the recent activities of Germany, Italy and Japan will become more clearly apparent than it has been to contemporary observers who were unable to survey the shifting panorama as a whole. We have the outstanding facts of the beginning of the Italian invasion of Abyssinia in 1935, the outbreak of the Spanish civil war in the summer of 1936, the Japanese invasion of China in 1937, followed by the German acquisition of Austria and part of Czecho-Slovakia in the year 1938. It is evidently no mere operation of "blind chance" which made these events occur one after another like successive steps of stairs within so short a space of time. We are driven to the conclusion that Signor Mussolini, Herr Hitler, and the Japanese government have been in close consultation regarding their plans of action.—(Belfast Telegraph)

FINE SENTIMENT.

Speaking in Ottawa to a group of Jewish women, Senator Cairine Wilson said, "I would not be worthy of the name woman if my heart were not wrung by the troubles of your people. . . It is time people of my faith, your faith and the Roman Catholic faith drew nearer to the spiritual aspects we have in common." A fine sentiment that if observed in practice would greatly help in healing differences. —(Lethbridge Herald)

Letters To The Editor

Correspondents Discuss Various Topics

THE LAND TAX

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—The letter entitled "He Cannot Agree" and signed "Home Owner," which appeared in your issue of January 21, and which commented on recent addresses by myself dealing with the system of municipal taxation followed in Peterborough, was written in such a fair spirit, it deserves a reply.

While The Examiner has given liberally of its space to report my recent addressses, it was not possible for it to publish them in full. Had it done so, "Home Owner" would have seen that I pointed out that, under our provincial legislation, it is not possible for cities to remove improvements from taxation while increasing the taxation on land values. I pointed out, also, that the local assessor is not at fault, as he must of necessity follow the system required by law. Peterborough is a well governed city and our municipal authorities are in no sense responsible for existing conditions. Neither are the property owners. It is the system which is at fault.

Home Owner states that the reason the Toronto contractor, who recently proposed to erect an $80,000 apartment house in Peterborough, did not do so was because he was not sure that this city was ready for an apartment house on a fairly large scale. My information is to the contrary. The person concerned was satisfied that Peterborough was ready for such an apartment house, if the apartments could be rented on a basis that would attract business. He found, when he got his estimates completed, that he could not rent the apartments on an attractive basis. This was due in a large degree to the taxes he would have to pay on such a building. For that reason he abandoned the idea.

Home Owner raises a common objection when he claims that it would be unfair were a man in a small house, occupying land worth $500, to be taxed only one quarter as much as the owner of an apartment house occupying land worth $2,000. It all depends upon what we are trying to do under our system of taxation. Under our present system of taxation if a man finds that he cannot erect and operate an apartment house profitably he simply does not erect it. That is what has happened in Peterborough. Instead, he can put his money in stocks and bonds. Peterborough then would not get any taxes at all.

When I was in Sydney, Australia, I visited the Bank of New South Wales. The building was said to have cost $1,000,000. It was the largest bank of the kind I have ever been in. Yet, there were no taxes on the building. The bank paid high taxes because the land occupied was valuable, but the building itself was free from all taxation. The city was proud of the building. Had Sydney been following Peterborough's system of taxation the bank probably would have been satisfied to have erected a building costing $200,000 or $300,000. The heavy taxes they would have to pay on a more expensive building would have justified them in so doing.

The city of Pittsburgh, only a few hundred miles from here, affords an excellent example of the benefits derived from this form of taxation. In 1913, it secured state legislation which enabled it, at three-year intervals, to remove 10% of the taxation on buildings and add it to the taxation on land values. It was not allowed to remove more than 50% of the tax from improvements. In 1914 the land tax was 9.4 mills and the building tax 8.46 mills. By 1925, the land tax had been increased to 19.5 mills and the building tax was 9.75 mills. In Pittsburgh, as in all other cities, taxation during the past 20 years has increased greatly. This year the tax on land is 20.6 mills and the tax on buildings 10.3 mills.

That this system has proved a success is vouched for by Percy R. Williams, Chief of the Department of Assessors for the city. Dealing with this point, Mr. Williams says:

"There is, of course, no loss of revenue through the graded tax. The law of 1913 has no effect whatever on revenues or upon expenditures. It simply brings about a shifting in sources of revenue. The Pittsburgh tax experiment is really a model tax reform applied in a very conservative manner.

"It has tended to stimulate the improvement of real estate. Since the change in our system of taxation Pittsburgh has had a real boom in building and has made a record for new construction never before equalled in the history of the city. During the first fifteen-year period that graded taxation was in operation the assessed values of Pittsburgh increased $280,000,000, or in other words practically doubled, while assessed land values increased only $94,000,000.

"Owners of improved properties of all classes are benefiting in lower taxes by reason of the graded tax law. But it is the home owner who stands out as the chief direct beneficiary of the graded tax. Only in rare instances do we not find a home owner who has been benefited to some degree by lower taxes through operation of the graded tax law. In the thirteenth ward, a typical residence ward, a check-up showed that out of a total of 4,252 assessments there were 3,250 cases where the taxes paid under the graded tax were less than would have been paid under the old flat rate system. These savings ranged from 5% to 30%. Of the remaining 1,002 assessments, where the taxes paid were higher, 980 represented vacant lots, leaving only 22 improved properties that were not paying lower taxes. These 22 were properties that were not adequately improved."

In 1938, the land tax in Pittsburgh produced a revenue of approximately $11,385,000, while the tax on buildings produced a revenue of $5,626 000. Attempts have been made in Pittsburgh to have all taxes removed from buildings and added to land values, as is done in Australia and New Zealand, but I understand that it has not been possible to secure the necessary state legislation that would enable this to be done.

LABOR TROUBLES

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—I'd like to use a bit of your space commenting on the split in the labor movement in the States and in Canada. It is certainly deplorable that different bodies which are working for the good of the workers are having such internal troubles. But what organization doesn't at some time or other? In the States are the A.F. of L. and the C.I.O., and in Canada a country with a smaller population we have several different labor organizations. Now more than ever we need unity. Especially when we hear of the conditions a lot of workers work under.

I know of certain conditions which prevail even in this city, because I have worked in several of the factories. There should not be any of that dis-unity between the craft unions and the industrial unions. There is room for both types. But the industrial form of unions is here to stay, especially in these days of mass production. The labor movement may have their petty differences but the majority of the rank and file of all unions are favorable for unity and the day will come when labor will be united once more and become a force for good and for humanity.

POOR RADIO SERVICE

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—On behalf of this community, I will say, we all agree with Alderman Dutton regarding service on the radio. It is most provoking. The most of the singers or crooners are pests, and if you want to get anything special, the static is so bad, you can hear nothing.

Where is the old time violin music gone? That's what we want to hear, not the screeching sax, and jazz, most of it, no one enjoys. Instead of paying a licence we are asking for services first. It is rank injustice to say the least.

EXALTING THE C. I. O.

On the very day when the executive council of the Trades and Labor Congress voted at Ottawa to expel the members of the C. I. O., a C. B. C.-sponsored program exalted the merits of the C. I. O. organization.

The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation would doubtless say that it was raising the cultural standards of Canada by permitting a debate on a topic of general interest. But, as usual in such presentations, the argument was very much lop-sided as it is likely to be where the debaters from both sides are chosen by one person.

The responsibility for inadequately presenting the case against the C. I. O. rests primarily with the C. B. C., but ultimately, it falls upon the Government. Ontario dealt with this issue in the last provincial elections. Possibly the reopening of the question by the C. B. C. is just the Government's way of indicating that it doesn't care what Ontario thinks.—(Toronto Telegram)

Social Service Worker Is Urged For Curve Lake Reserve At The 11th Annual Presbyterial

"Making Canada Christian" was the spiritual theme which ran through the entire program of Thursday's eleventh annual meeting of Peterborough Presbyterial held in George Street United Church in three well-attended sessions. The president, Mrs. W. H. Morton, presided throughout with grace and tact. The pre-convention executive meeting, held on Monday night, took care of many business details, leaving the day free for the program proper, of which the initial feature was a meeting of the nominating committee led by the convener, Mrs. H. T. Rehill, who presented her report later in the day. Registration of delegates and visitors began at 9.45 and the opening service of worship, "eWaving the New Web," was in charge of St. Andrew's Evening Auxiliary, with Mrs. B. W. McClennan and Miss Bella King reading the Scripture and offering prayer. The visiting ladies of the Presbyterial were given a cordial welcome on behalf of the convention church by Mrs. A. I. Brown of the Bay of Quinte branch, to which Mrs. A. E. Metcalfe of Hastings graciously responded for the guests.

Committees were appointed as follows: Courtesy, Mrs. E. W. Rowland and Mrs. George Hanbidge, and Resolutions Committee., Mrs. E. J. Wagar, Mrs. J. Bradbury, and Miss Helen Bannister.

Reports of the work done during the year by the various officers and department heads held a large place on the morning program when the twin departments, Christian Stewardship and Finance and the Treasury, were given in a splendid paper, and a balanced statement by their respective secretaries, Mrs. C. L. Brown and Mrs. Howard Clegg. Mrs. Brown defined Christian Stewardship as "Love in Action," and stressed systematic giving by envelope in 1939. She reported four auxiliaries, two evening auxiliaries, three circles, and six bands as having reached their allocation. Twenty-nine organizations had increases over last year, while the treasurer showed only a slight deficit in receipts for this period. A prayer of thanksgiving upon the financial progress of the Presbyterial was offered by Mrs. E. W. Rowland.

Sectional Rallies

In concise and cleverly worded reports, the vice-presidents told of the four sectional rallies at which Miss Luella Rorke of Japan and the delegate to summer school, Miss Corona Hanbidge, were chief speakers. These vice presidents include Mrs. Howard Clegg, Mrs. R. F. McIndoo, Mrs. W. W. Leonard and Mrs. Reta Pakenham

The Associate Helpers, called the recruiting force for the W.M.S. was the field of Mrs. B. Tucker of Norwood, reported a membership of 156, who raised $117. Many visits were made and much literature distributed.

One of the greatest endeavors of the society is that of the supply department, presented by Mrs. H. T. Rehill, who told that the total weight of the bales was about 30,000 pounds and its valuation placed at $1,062.

Excerpts from letters of acknowledgment for bales sent to the needy, testified to the benfits of such practical christianity.

The possibilities of community friendship were emphasized by Mrs. W. E. Pakenham, who reported a total of 1,670 visits for the year, an increase of 400 over last year.

Mrs. A. E. Metcalfe brought a most encouraging and unique report for the W.M.S. magazine, wearing sandwich boards made from the missionary monthlies, which added much to the effect of her report and brought the little magazine prominently, both the front and to the back.

Temperance and Christian Citizenship are taken up at regular W.M.S. meetings as reported by Mrs. J. H. Rowe, who outlined the various activities along this line, while Mrs Wm. Stevens, the enthusiastic literature secretary, said that definite progress had been made in sale of missionary literature. 87 study books were bought and 725 books read during the year.

Reading Contest.

In the reading contest Fairmount Auxiliary came first with Mrs. J. Seymour the banner reader. St. Andrew's Auxiliary came second, with Mrs. J. C. Elliott, banner reader. Mrs. Stevens also had on display a fine line of missionary literature.

Greetings from the Bay of Quinte President, Mrs. R. O. Jolliffe, were read by Mrs. Morton, who also spoke loving words in tribute to the late Marion Coon, and placed a basket of lovely daffodils and tulips in her remembrance.

At this point the missionary guest speaker, Miss Martha Coutts, B.A., was introduced and greeted by the convention as well as Mrs. H. T. Thompson, who gave the afternoon address.

The beautiful quiet half-hour, led by Mrs. James Brown, was a fitting close to the busy morning's program. A sumptuous dinner was served by the George Street ladies at the noon hour, when all enjoyed a social time together.

The convention theme was like a refrain running throughout the day's activities and was emphasized in the afternoon devotional service, with "Learning to Live Together," as the topic and led by Mesdames Charlton, Yale and Orr of Lakefield Auxiliary.

Again reports were heard, when Mrs. H. Alton, secretary of the Baby Bands, stressed the friendships formed by the mothers in the Baby Bands, and the opportunity to teach the children to share their gifts.

In her report as corresponding secretary, Mrs. R. C. Hanbidge, said "Figures do not always count, but we are all honored and privileged to be called co-oworkers in this great work, as we go forward into another year, looking for better and greater things to be accomplished."

An interesting feature was the presentation of certificates of merit to three Misison Bands (George St., St. Andrew's and Trinity) by the Mission Band secretary, Miss Helen Bannister following her splendid report, where she pointed out that "the results of the Mission Bands will be revealed in the year sto come as trained and educated workers are ready to fill the places of those forced to retire."

The work of the C.G.I.T. and Mission Circle was brought to the meeting in interesting reports by Mrs. J. A. McKone, C.G.I.T. secretary, and Miss C. E. Wagar, secertary of Mission Circles.

Thanks to the newspapers throughout the Presbyterial, for their generosity toward the work of the local auxiliaries, as an organization was voiced by the press secretary, Mrs. Wagar. An interesting display of scrap books—the result of the contest—were on display, as well as a poster indicating the wide range of work covered.

Election of Officers.

Mrs. C. M. Scott, past president, very ably took charge of the election of officers and led the impressive installation service, with the following capable executive resulting:

Honorary Presidents, Mesdames A. F. Bookhout, R. G. Lawler, and Mrs. A. I. Brown. Past President, Mrs. C. M. Scott, Peterborough. President, Mrs. W. H. Morton, Peterborough. First Vice-President, Mrs. A. R. Brown, Peterborough; 2nd Vice-President, Mrs. R. F. McIndoo, Ida; 3rd Vice-President, Mrs. W. W. Leonard, Lakefield; 4th Vice-President, Mrs. Reta Pakenham, Norwood. Recording Secretary, Mrs. B. W. McClennan, Peterborough. Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. R. C. Hanbidge, Ida. Treasurer, Mrs. Howard Clegg, Peterborough. Secretary Christian Stewardship and Finance, Mrs. C. L. Brown, Springville. Secretary Mission Circles, Miss C. E. Wagar, Peterborough. Sec., Affiliated C.G.I.T. Groups, Mrs. Ada Huffman, Peterborough; Sec. Mission Bands, Miss Helen Bannister, Peterborough. Sec. Baby Bands, Mrs. H. Alton, Peterborough. Sec. Associated Helpers, Mrs. William Stevens, Peterborough. Sec. Community Friendship, Mrs. A. J. Throop, Peterborough. Sec. Literature, Mrs. Elmer Milburn, R.R. 4, Peterborough. Sec. Misisonary Monthly, Mrs. A. E. Metcalfe, Hastings, Ont. Sec. Temperance and Christian Citizenship, Mrs. J. H. Rowe, Peterborough. Press Secretary, Mrs. E. J. Wagar, Peterborough. Supply Secretary, Mrs. H. T. Rehill, Peterborough.

The convention was honored by the presence of Mrs. H. T. Thompson, secretary of Christian Stewardship for the Dominion Board, who gave a brilliant resume of the financial policy of the W.M.S. as well as a spirited plea for increased effort on the part of every individdal worker.

In reviewing the activities of the society she told of 170 home missionaries and 180 foreign missionaries who are supported by the funds, besides many representatives maintained on various boards. She also outlined the sources of total income for the W.M.S. as follows: that received from the Conference branches, donations, interest, miscellaneous revenue, extraordinary revenue and legacies.

In 1929, which was termed the 'peak' year, the income reached the amount of $890,000, but since that time there has been a steady decrease, which is partly accounted for by the lowered rate of interest. To supplement the general fund, it was found necessary to add $50,000 from the Bequest Fund, in 1938, and again in 1939, $40,000 will be used. After that date, the Bequest Fund can be reduced no further and unless the societies measure up financially the only alternative will be a reduction in the work so dear to the hearts of missionaries and W.M.S. workers alike.

Mrs. Thompson also brought illuminating information regarding the Property Fund, the Retirement Fund, annuities and estimates. "What do cut and decreased budgets mean?" she asked. Curtailed program, missionaries' salaries reduced by fifteen and ten per cent, no new specials, little equipment, no new buildings. "But the most important effect," she declared, "is the inability of our workers to seize new and strategic opportunities for the expansion of God's kingdom."

The most important part of the W.M.S. "set-up" is the local auxiliary, and in it, membership is the most vital force. The major part of the income should be raised by envelope givings and the speaker suggested, as a means of meeting the finacial crisis, "five cents more per member, per month." Continuing, Mrs. Thompson said: "The W.M.S. is a "live" business—if it were dead we wouldn't need money!" She announced the meeting of the United Stewardship Council of America in Toronto on March 7 and 8 and urged that every missionary-minded woman attend.

Closing her fine address, the speaker said that money was really just what we can buy with it, and that, when given to the W.M.S., it became a wonderful force, multiplied many times over.

Urge Social Worker.

Miss H. Bannister presented the report of the Resolutions committee which was adopted in full by the Presbyterial. The resolutions included one urging upon the Dominion Board the necessity of appointing a social worker at Curve Lake immediately. A second dealt with the supplying of forms to all organizations so that a full report of the literature used could be obtained. A third presented a petition to have names of child and country added to the Baby Band gift boxes, and a fourth stressed the need for emphasis upon peace, opposition to all forms of individual and social gambling, the need for exercising the franchise in behalf of candidates of high moral character and temperance principles and lastly appreciation of the work of the provincial police in closing illicit drinking and gambling places.

Delegates to the Conference Branch meeting to be held in Lindsay in April were appointed in Mrs. W. W. Yale, Lakefield, and Mrs. Powers, George St. W.M.S., with alternates, Mesdames Patterson and Porter. An invitation was extended from the Presbyterial for the next Branch meeting to be held in 1941 in George St. United church here.

Mrs. Pilling, on behalf of St. Andrew's Auxiliary, invited the Presbyterial to meet next year in their church.

Arrangements were also made for having Miss M. Halliday, missionary on furlough from Africa, address the four sections of the Presbyterial in April.

Nominations for the various vacancies on the Branch executive were made as follows: Miss Dunoon, Lindsay, for president, Mrs. C. M. Scott, Peterborough, as first vice-president, Miss M. Hutchison, Oshawa, as corresponding secertary, and Mrs. W. L. Smyth, Pembroke, as Christian Stewardship secretary.

The Presbyterial Nominating committee for 1940 were appointed to include Mrs. W. Stevens, Miss C. Wagar and the five presidents of the city societies.

A note of sadness was introduced in the very beautiful memorial service for deceased W.M.S. members conducted by Mrs. A. L. Sisco, who spoke on Hebrews, 13:14. As the list of departed members was read, the congregation stood with bowed heads while Mrs. Morton placed a lovely rose in their memory.

At the supper hour the delegates again enjoyed the delicious refreshments provided by the entertaining society, when a special table was reserved for the Mission Circle members. At this time a varied and splendid program was enjoyed, opening with Ukrainian folk songs conducted by Miss Doris Shewchuk in national costume.

St. Andrew's Mission Band, under the direction of their leader, Miss B. King, delighted the delegates with their chorus and beautifully presented pageant, "Let There Be Light."

At this time, too, greetings were brought to the Presbyterial by Rev. M. C. Parr, chairman of Peterboro Presbytery and by Mrs. Fred Horton, representing the Presbytery Woman's Association. The report of the Courtesy committee, submitted by Mrs. George Hanbidge, expressed appreciation to all those contributing to the success of the convention and was heartily endorsed by all.

Conferences for C.G.I.T. and Circle workers were held by the respective secretaries, immediately following the supper hour, when many practical suggestions and methods were discussed.

Evening Session.

At these annual gatherings the evening session comes as a happy culmination of the inspiration of the day, and this year's service, commencing at eight o'clock, was no exception. Rev. M. C. Parr, pastor of the church, presided and conducted the opening worship service, assisted by Rev. E. W. Rowland, chairman of Home Missions Committee of the Peterborough Presbytery. The choir of George Street United Church, under the direction of Charles Renaud, rendered very beautifully "The Heavens are Telling" (Haydn), the solo parts taken by Mrs. J. Goldie and D. Carlisle. The lovely solo "Others," contributed by Mrs. J. Goldie, added to the evening's enjoyment. Mrs. Charles Renaud, the church organist, accompanied all the convention hymns and solos throughout the day, adding greatly to its enjoyment.

One of the storm centres of our war-torn world to-day is China, a land vividly depicted by Miss Martha Coutts in her enthusiastic and inspiring address, one of the highlights of the Presbyterial meeting. This missionary speaker was introduced to the large congregation in warm words of welcome by Miss Vera Squire, who spoke of her six years of splendid service in China.

Miss Coutts brought the thanks and appreciation of the Chinese Daughter Church to the Mother Church in Canada, and declared that missionaries are not "foreigners" in that land, but "belong," and so can tell the story of Jesus more effectively.

"Communism is quite strong in China," she said, and went on to tell of their persecution of Christians.

Hardships are very common and the hard work done by the average Chinaman appals one. Thousands of Chinese children have no chance for an education. To these people the Christian religion brings hope and cheer in place of gloom; brightness replaces superstition. So the missionary's story is one of satisfaction because of the changed lives of these kind-hearted folks, who, even in their own poverty and need, strive to help one another.

As an evangelistic missionary, Miss Coutts could tell an interesting story of her trips into the country districts, with all the attendant discomforts of the trip, but with a warm welcome at every stop. Medicine was dispensed, parcels of tracts and Sunday School papers distributed and gramophone music enjoyed, and so a contact made for the bringing of Christ's message of love.

"The Chinese church is handing on what you have given them," declared Miss Coutts, who told of how they had sent native missionaries into the bush country along the borders of Tibet, and of the fine work being done there. She outlined, too, the efforts in behalf of the beggars and refugees of China, who, though they had lost all other possessions, still clung to their Bibles. In spite of war conditions, the Chinese are not bitter, but ask for our prayers in behalf of the Christian church.

In conclusion, the speaker urged that W.M.S. members "carry the torch high" to enable our missionaries to carry on in China.

Pictures on the study book, "The World in Canada," were shown with an interesting talk by Mrs. H. T. Rehill taking the audience on a realistic missionary trip from Newfoundland, through the Maritimes, Northern and Western Canada to British Columbia. These pictures were a boon to the study book leaders of the Presbyterial, and sincere thanks are due Mrs. Rehill.

The benediction by Rev. Mr. Parr brought to a successful conclusion this very inspiring meeting.

Sea Heroes Cheat Davy Jones

Here are the members of the heroic lifeboat crew of the Esso Baytown, who enacted a true saga of the sea in their daring fight against terrific odds to save the survivors of the flying boat Cavalier from the stormy waters of the Atlantic Ocean. Through their efforts 10 survivors of the Cavalier's cargo of 13 were brought safely to shore. One lifeboat was swamped and lost before the rescue could be completed. LEFT to RIGHT, the men are: Stanley Taylor, of Boston; John Goodwin, of Boston; Thomas J. Brady, of White Haven, Pa.; John Thomaschek, of Black Wood, N.J.; Howell Smith, of Mobile, Alabama, and Joe Miner, of Tappahanock, Virginia.

U.S. Plane For France Does 575 M.P.H. In Diving Test

Buffalo, N.Y., Jan. 25 (AP) A CURTISS HAWK 75 a pursuit plane, one of 100 being constructed for the French government, has "substantially exceeded all known speed records" with a free dive of more than 575 miles an hour and may have exceeded 600 it was announced today.

The speed mark was established yesterday while the ship was undergoing acceptance tests; officials of the Curtiss aeroplane division of the Curtiss Corporation said.

The tests were made by H. Lloyd Child, chief test pilot of the Buffalo Curtiss plant, who said he "felt no ill effects and did not realize" that the speed was "presumably the fastest man ever has travelled."

Defence Lineup For '39-'40 Ready To Table

OTTAWA, Jan. 25 (CP)—Canada's 1939-1940 defence program will be disclosed in estimates expected to be tabled in the House of Commons tonight. If parliament consents, it will be carried out under a government policy providing for an independent purchasing board and the financing of capital expenditures over a 10-year period.

A resolution proposing appointment of the board and the financing change appeared on the Commons order paper today. It was sponsored by Defence Minister Mackenzie, who gave notice of it last night.

The board would be given exclusive power, subject to Cabinet approval, to make contracts for the purchase of munitions, equipment, materials and supplies required by the Defence Department in all cases where expenditures exceeded $5,000 and to prevent profiteering.

The resolution also seeks to authorize the government to borrow money for capital expenditures of the Department and to provide a sinking fund sufficient to retire the sums borrowed in 10 years, with interest at three per cent.

It was learned that in the Department's estimates appropriations which may be classified as chargeable to capital account will be expenditures for new structures, properties, ships, aircraft, armament and other equipment. Service ammunition required for reserve stocks, as distinguished from that used for practice, also will be considered a capital charge.

King Of Spain?

A photo of the Duke of Aosta, only member of the Italian royal family who is a Fascist in good standing, who, according to Rome sources, will be the puppet king of Spain in the event of a Franco victory—this being the price set by Premier Mussolini for Italian aid to the insurgent cause in the Spanish civil war. The report says that before the start of the current insurgent drive into Catalonia, Il Duce came to an airtight agreement with Generalissimo Franco to the effect that he will proclaim the Duke of Aosta king of Spain and that he, himself, will accept the premiership of the puppet monarchy, renouncing all designs to become dictator of the country.

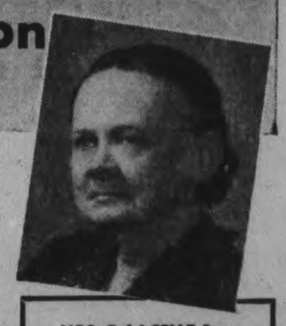
ONTARIO WOMAN SAYS:

"Mustard is my best friend, when I have indigestion pains"



Otherwise hale and hearty, this lady of over seventy frequently suffers from a digestive or stomach condition that causes a severe pain between her shoulders. Mrs. Lacelle was interviewed at her home, 144 Glenora Street, Ottawa, and told how she relies upon mustard to bring her relief from these attacks.

"Directly the pain starts," she says, "I make a poultice of mustard and rolled oats — equal parts of each — and mix with lukewarm water. My back is first rubbed with a little camphorated oil, then the poultice is applied. In less than ten minutes I am free from pain."

MRS. C. LACELLE Says, "I AM EASY AND FREE FROM PAIN IN LESS THAN 10 MINUTES"

MR. LACELLE SPRINKLES DRY MUSTARD IN HIS SHOES!

Winters are generally long and cold in the Ottawa district and Mr. Lacelle, like many others, suffers from uncomfortably cold feet. So in frosty weather he sprinkles a little dry mustard in his shoes. This develops a warmth that keeps his feet comfortable. Another way to use mustard to keep the feet cosy is to make two brown paper insoles for each shoe. Sprinkle a small quantity of mustard between the paper insoles and lay them smoothly over the leather insoles of the shoes. Use very little mustard at first and increase the quantity until you get the right amount to kindle a mild, glowing warmth all over the soles of your feet.

MUSTARD WILL GIVE RELIEF from many aches and pains

The mustard bath for the feet or the entire body is a long-proved treatment for breaking up a cold or offsetting a chill. Then mustard poultices relieve bronchitis, chest colds, hoarseness. TORONTO TEAM HAS SCORED 94 GOALS IN 17 O.H.A. GAMES

Goodyears Whip St. Kitts Badly By 9-1

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., Jan. 25—(CP). — Certain to finish in first place, Toronto Goodyears set their goal to-day at ending the regular Senior A schedule of the Ontario Hockey Association without a defeat. They have three games before the playoffs start on February 10.

Peanuts O'Flaherty, Goodyear winger, thinks that's time enough to win the league point-getting title in his duel with Lex Chisholm of Oshawa. The Toronto Irishman counted three goals and an assist to go into a first place tie with Chisholm as the unbeaten Goodyears whipped St. Kitts 9-1 here last night.

The result left Toronto far ahead of the field with 30 points, 11 more than the second-place Oshawa club Port Colborne are third with 17 markers, Niagara Falls fourth with 16, and St. Catharines fifth with 12 Brantford, who have won but one game this season, are in the cellar. The first four finishers enter the playoffs, won last season by Goodyears.

Total of 94 Goals.

In their one-sided win here, Goodyears collected 16 scoring points. They've blasted 94 goals into opposition nets this season, with 27 scored against them. They've won 13 games and tied four.

Goodyears scored once in the first period against St. Kitts, added three goals in the second, and five in the third. The homester tally came early in the third when Bobby Pinder snared a loose puck in front of the Toronto twine.

Other Goodyear scorers besides O'Flaherty were George Imlach with two goals, and Frankie O'Brien, Bobby Laurent, Eddie King, and Georgie Imlach.

The game was delayed 10 minutes little more than a minute after it started when Goalie Walt Coupland of St. Catharines stopped a hard shot with his face. He came back after repairs.

Another casualty was Frankie O'Brien, veteran Toronto performer, who suffered a five-stitch gash in his head late in the second period. O'Brien was nicked accidentally by the stick of Speedy Groh, former professional, and now playing coach of St. Kitts.

EDINBURGH—(CP).—Heart of Midlothian Football Club played throughout the New Year's holiday series without A. Miller, international left-half. He had been suspended for disobedience.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

Gord Minty, "Y" swimming coach, tells us there will be a right interesting aqua meet in the Y.M.C.A. pool this Saturday eve, starting at eight bells. A return session with Toronto West End "Y". Best of the local talent and some Canuck topnotchers in water circles, or ripples. Like George Burleigh, former British Empire 100-yard champ; Jim Prentice, Canadian breast-stroke champion; Fred Sansone, runner-up for the Dominion two-mile title; and a number of other ace swimmers and divers Al Marshall, by the way, will be competing against Prentice and he stands—or rather swims—a very good chance of beating this bird. Or at least making it closer than corn on a cob—seeing as how Al has plenty of class in the briny. Sounds like a good water meet, anyway.

* * * * * *

Baz O'Meara of the Montreal Star, generally a gent who knows whereof he speaketh before he busts into a rash of print, says the grid meeting to form a Big Six group — which would freeze Peterborough out next autumn—is indefinitely postponed. "The Big Six idea is out," says he. "Toronto Argos are all against it. They argue, not without reason, that there seems little sense to bringing in a team like Sarnia, for instance. They claim that Sarnia is going into a rebuilding process which may take a few years to finish. Besides the team does not draw to the same extent as Big Four clubs." Baz adds that there is some work going on in an effort to merge the two clubs there, but says Prexy Porter is pretty coy about it—he may stick with his good Nats, only moving his field to Westmount. What, and get away from that bouquet with the attar de garbage flavor?

Pick In A Pickle

Though Bill Calladine is up around the top now in his loop scoring, and Ned Vitarelli is playing a good gamewith Baltimore Orioles, Pick Hines' hopefuls aren't going so good lately. Parked down in the vicinity of the cellar. And we note this item in theSudbury Star: "An Eastern Amateur Hockey League raider from the States is reported on his way to Northern Ontario. Pick Hines, coach of Baltimore Orioles, is on the hunt for two new forwards to replace crippled Orioles. Before starting his search, Hines gave out that he intended to get the players in the north."

After knocking off practice for a night, the Petes resume their regular workouts tonight at seven in the Brock. Getting set for Friday's fray here 'gainst the Belleville Redmen. The latter team play the Fliers tonight in their second clash. If the Airmen trim the Thomasites tonight, and the Petes maul them here this week-end—the schedule is practically over. Just the motions to go through then, as the Petes and Fliers will have qualified for their O.H.A. senior "B" group playoffs. And it would be the last look at the Redmen we'd have in this year of grace and good ice. But, of course, the boys of Bella Villa aren't going to bow out without doing some punching, we'll betcha.

* * * * * *

"Just An Off Night"

Comes a comment or two from the Quinte quill-steerer: "There is one thing sure, the Redmen got a real bad game out of their system Monday and the R.C.A.F. Fliers had better look to their hockey knitting on Wednesday. Hap Day, former N.H.L. player, tooted the whistle. The game was not hard to handle, which makes us wonder what Mister Day would have done if a typical Belleville-Peterborough game had been the outcome. The Peterborough club squawked on the O.H.A. appointment of Joe Smith, as fine a referee as pulls on a pair of skates, but after last night we venture to say the Petes, or the Redmen either, will not want any more pro hockey arbiters around handing out penalties for minor trips." Yeah, Smith is okay in our book — and Day certainly was chasing 'em off every time a fellow fell down. But he let a lotta highsticking go. Ya can't please 'em all.

No more junior puck tilts here this week, Colts being idle till next week and Monarchs' only game being Friday in Cobourg. And they'd better win it, too, as their chances of a playoff berth are hinting gently at a fadeout as Bowmanville and Lindsay dominate this "C" grouping. Colts will practice regularly in preparation for their "B" series with a good Oshawa club, which opens the last day of this month in the Motor City. The two junior puck packs here this winter have been playing fair hockey—a bit of the in-and-out variety—and the fans have been saving their shekels for the interesting senior "B" scraps, but the youngsters may click and steal the seniors' thunder come playoff time. It's been done before.

The Minors Are At It

Flock of Church League hockey tilts tonight at All Saints' rink. Knox Bantams play All Saints at six, All Saints meet George St. Juveniles at seven, St. Paul's Juniors mix it with Mark St at eight, and George St. Seniors play All Saints at nine. Bill Prindible has obtained a dozen pucks for this circuit, and he is hoping the O.H.A. will send some sticks for the minor sections in this league and the Southend Loop. We are asked if a referee can penalize a player after a period ends, with the whistle having been blown. Yes, if the referee feels it is deliberate, he may do so as he is in control of the players so long as they are on the ice, regardless of whether play has stopped for the time being or not. They usually do for a fight or rough stuff, but don't bother with a trip after the whistle.

* * * * * *

Every once in a while football murmurings keep bobbing up—and we hope local ossfiers are checking on new players and also exhibition games for early fall right now. Vern DeGeer writes today in the Globe and Mail: "There are football rumblings from Hamilton these snow-flaky mornings, with reports that the Tigers will roar loud next fall with some surprise talent and a new coach. Hamilton officials have been casting eyes on Art Massucci of Sarnia Imperials for several seasons. Stranger things can happen than to have Massucci make a change. Tony Golab, 19-year-old rookie backfield star with the Imperials last fall, has returned to his Windsor home after a few short months in the Tunnel City. Golab attended Port Huron, Michigan, Junior College during his stay with the Imperials."

Havelock High Wallops Lakefield 7-0

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, Jan. 25.—The Havelock High School hockey squad received their first win in the interscholastic schedule, last evening, when they handed the Lakefield High School boys a 7 to 0 trimming, in a spirited encounter at the local rink. A fine snow falling intermittently during the match caused the players some trouble in carrying and shooting the puck, the play as a result becoming quite ragged in spots.

"Joe'" Peters playing a brilliant game in the local nets earned his first shut-out of the season. He was given fine support also by his defense, and the wings back-checked all the time. The team as a whole turned in a good performance, with the switching of McCutcheon and Pollock to the rearguard, adding a lot of strength.

Yale, visiting defenceman, was by far the best among their line-up, coming close on several solo rushes. Loyst, Stewart, Shearer, Hurl and Tanner were most effective among the rest. Winsor, in the Lakefield net, let a couple of easy ones float past him, although the condition of the ice surface made his job no easy one.

Havelock forced the play from the start, Yale picking up the puck during a scramble at the net, and received the first penalty of the game. While he was off, Pollock notched the local's first goal, McMullen being credited with an assist.

Stewart and Shearer, of Lakefield, both drew penalties, and while the latter was off, McMullen made the count 2-0. Haggerty got the gate for boarding Tanner, and Lakefield threatened, with Loyst hitting the goal post.

McCutcheon slipped Jamieson a pass early in the second for Havelock's third goal. Play roughened a little with Yale and McCutcheon drawing penalties, and the game was held up for a minute when Shearer was struck in the fact with a high stick.

5-0 End of Second.

Haggerty scored Havelock's fourth half-way through the session, on a neat combination play with McMullen and Jamieson. Haggerty was penalized for trying to start an argument, and McMullen scored for his team while they were a man short, ending the second stanza with the locals leading by five goals.

Yale made a nice play at the start of the third, stick-handling his way past the defence, to bang one at Peters, then tear in for the rebound, ending up with a headlong rush into the net. He came close again a few minutes later, Peters making a great stop.

Pollock combined with Jamieson to notch the sixth goal of the night, Hamilton ending the scoring, with his tally near the last of the period, driving the rubber past Winsor during a scramble in Lakefield territory.

The teams:

Lakefield—Goal, Winsor; defence, Yale, Stewart; centre, Loyst; wings, Hurl, Hanner. Alternates: Arthurs, Kendall, McCracken, Shearer and Clarke.

Havelock—Goal, Peters; defence, Pollock, McCutcheon; centre, McMullen; wings, Jamieson, Haggerty; alternates, Hamilton, Pollock, Williams, Buchanan.

Referee—Bert Hagerman, Havelock.

Summary:

First Period—
Havelock—Pollock (McMullen) 9.03
Havelock—McMullen 9.12
Penalties—Yale, Stewart, Shearer, Haggerty, Hamilton.
Second Period.
Havelock—Jamieson (McCutcheon) 9.32
Havelock—Haggerty (McMullen, Jamieson) 9.44
Havelock—McMullen 9.48

Ski Notes

The great Canadian winter appears to have arrived with a vengeance and now we hope to run some of the events which were postponed on account of last week's balmy weather.

The order of events for the club championships this weekend is as follows:

Saturday, 9 a.m.—Cross country race—approximately eight miles. Start and finish on the Westclox hill, Hunter street, east.

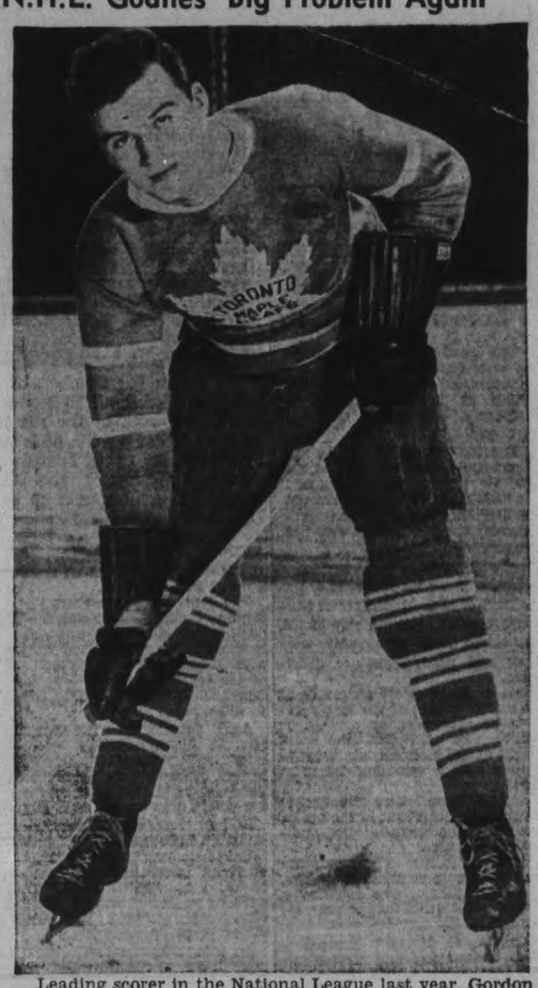
Saturday, 2.30 p.m.—Jumping at Nassau.

The downhill race will start at 11.30 a.m. Sunday morning at Bethany and the slalom race will also be at Bethany immediately following the completion of the downhill.

Competitors in any of these events must make their entries with the secretary and must also have a competitor's card which can be secured from Jack Holland or Lahring Parsons. Make your entry now—the more contestants we have the more interesting the races will be.

Here, world famous instructors demonstrate the art of navigation on skis and climax their course with a thrilling night run down a mountain side.

N.H.L. Goalies' Big Problem Again



Leading scorer in the National League last year, Gordon Drillon, ABOVE, all-star right wing with Toronto Maple Leafs, is coming back strong in another bid for the leadership, after missing many games at the first of the season, out with a broken thumb sustained in the second game he played. Since his return a little over a month ago he's been banging home goals regularly and once more he's right up with the leaders in goal-getting.

JOE LOUIS IS CALLED TO WIN IN SEVENTH WITH A KNOCKOUT

Odds Ten To One By Night On Joe Louis

By Gayle Talbot
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

NEW YORK, Jan. 25 (AP)—As usual, the odds in favor of Joe Louis retaining his heavyweight championship grow steadily longer as the hour nears for the big Negro to meet John Henry Lewis in 15 rounds tonight at Madison Square Garden. Louis is called to win in seventh by a knockout.

A few days ago it seemed the widespread admiration for the challenger's boxing skill would cut the odds down to a respectable 1 to 4 by fight time, but nothing came of it. The betting commissioners, anxious to get some action, have boosted the figures up to 1 to 7, and there is reaso nto believe they will be even more liberal by tonight.

The fact is that few are anxious to wager against Joe Louis at any odds, hence the men who make their living by guessing right on sports events are forced to offer outlandish inducements It will pain them to do it, but they probably will be betting $10 against each $1 of Lewis money by the time the two blacks climb through the ropes.

By coincidence, that is substantially the price they offered that Louis would lick Max Schmeling in their first meeting in 1936. When the German battered Joe into dazed submission.

Louis, called the greatest fighter of history since his shattering one-round knockout of Schmeling in their second fight last summer will go into tonight's engagement with every advantage, except that of experience. He will pack a "difference" of close to 20 pounds in weight and he punches with a shocking force that John Henry never had. Further, he is at the peak of his career, while John Henry passed his two or three years ago and has lost some of the dazzling speed that made him king of the light-heavies.

From a Ski Jumper's Point Of View

This the uninviting sight that would greet your eyes if you decided to go in for ski-jumping in a big way and found yourself off on a leap of more than 180 feet. Up in the corner is Reider Anderson, Norwegian ace, who was making the leap, while down below...'way down below... is the snow-covered ground, on which Mr. Anderson will alight after a short stay in the air. On this side of the Atlantic for the first time since he came with the Norwegian Olympic team of 1932, Anderson took top honors at a meet of the Norge Ski Club in Cary, Illinois, with a 181-foot effort.

THE SPORTS ROUND-UP

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, Jan. 25 — (AP). — Announcers have been holding skull practice for a week trying to hit on how they can broadcast Louis vs. Lewis to-night without balling things up....Some of the brighter headline writers are calling Joe Tripp's holdout the "Stripp tease"....Tony Canzoneri continues his comeback campaign in San Francisco against Newsboy Gavras who not long ago was fighting prelims at $25 per.

"One Ton" Galento (his pop is the pippuls' cherce) is walking at eight months....La Henie's share of last week's gate receipts in the Garden averaged $11,000 per show. . . Jack Powell, who was in the Coast League's dog house last year for breaking training, will be back on the umpiring staff this season.... Every jockey who rode a winner at Santa Anita the other day gave his $25 fee to the parents of Jockey Willie Ray, killed in an auto crash.

Latest reports have St. Louis books laying 10 to 1 on Louis.... Best you can get around here is 6 or 7 to 1....Note to George Trautman, president of the American Association: The International League is getting ready to lay it on thick next time the minor league convention is held in your territory.... Every time Joe DiMaggio slams one into the stands, the barkeeps in his San Francisco restaurant yell: "This one on the house, gents."....Old Pete Alexander (who positively was not a southpaw) wrote the Cubs for a coaching job on—Friday the 13th.

Rex Weyant, brother of the girl who gets a third of the Ruppert millions, is known as the No. 2 best dressed travelling secretary in the American League....No. 1 still is Phil Troy, the Boston dandy, who wouldn't dare go South with fewer than four trunks of glad rags. . . . Mike Jacobs hopes to cool off Tony Galento by matching him with Arturo Godoy, the Chilean, who can use his elbows, teeth and head just as efficiently as Tony or anyone else.

Leaf Castoff Jackson Paces Amerks In 4-1 Drubbing For Toronto; Canadiens Beaten 6-4 By Bruins

Remember When—

Great Britain started a two-year, $150,000 campaign one year ago today to regain the Westchester Polo Cup from the United States. The Hurlingham Polo Association announced purchase of 18 ponies for the match and proposed buying of 30 more. Britain last won the trophy in 1914. It was first completed for in 1886.

(By the Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—Art Jackson, a former Leaf, played the leading role in that old sports drama, "the cast-off's revenge," as New York Americans, after staging a waiting game for nearly two periods, went on to defeat Toronto Maple Leafs by 4-1 in an N.H.L. fixture at Madison Square Garden last night.

The younger of the Jackson brothers scored two goals in the victory that gave the third-place Amerks a decisive seven-point margin over the fourth-place Leafs in the league standing.

Leafs' sniping eyes were away out of focus and it was not until the winners had sent the score up to 3-0 that Apps got Toronto's lone goal. Wiseman and Schriner netted the Amerks' other two scores during a third period that produced four of the goals and also furnished a slim crowd of about 8,000 with the only stirring action.

Boston Wins 6-4

Bruins whipped Montreal Canadiens 6-4 at Boston. Cooney Weiland, Art's first lieutenant, directed the team from the bench in its greatest display of scoring power in any game with Canadiens this winter.

It may be that Ross has suspected a few flaws in his great machine and wants a new perspective on it. A better guess probably is that the manager feels the pressure is lessening and he can relax a little. Every step he has taken—principally his recruiting of young players like Frank Brimsek, Johnny Crawford, Roy Conacher and Mel Hill—has worked out for the best.

Bruins' closest foes, New York Rangers, are being pressed for second place again by New York Americans, who climbed to within two points of them last night by defeating Toronto 4-1 at New York. The Americans made sure of sinking no lower for awhile and put themselves in position to draw level with Rangers when the New York teams collide Thursday.

Interest in the race for league point-making honors reached a new pitch when Toe Blake of Canadiens and Tommy Anderson of Americans gained a first place tie with Johnny Gottselig of Chicago. Blake nabbed two assists and Anderson one, while Sweeney Schriner of Americans climbed into second place with one of the New York goals. Nels Stewart of Americans got an assist and Syl Apps of Toronto a goal to advance to within a point of Schriner, where they are tied with Marty Barry of Detroit.

Montreal Presses Hard.

Canadians, with a better record against Boston than any other club, made it close most of the way, rallying in the third period to tie the score at 3-3. Then they got overanxious when Boston was shorthanded and Milt Schmidt and Busher Hollett broke away for two quick goals that practically clinched the result.

Roy Conacher was the only player to score twice. His first goal came in the second period after Ray Getliffe had given Boston a 1-0 lead. Polly Drouin tallied for Canadiens but Dit Clapper made the Bruin margin 3-1 before the second interval. Babe Siebert and Johnny Gagnon rallied the Canadiens with goals in the third, only to have Schmidt and Hollett step in. Before Conacher closed the scoring, Herbie Cain got the Habitants' fourth goal.

After drubbing the Americans 7-2 at Toronto Saturday, the Maple Leafs entered Maidson Square Garden with high hopes. They came away complaining of Americans' defensive methods.

In nearly two periods the home club played conservative hockey. Then Art Jackson scored the first of two goals and he added his other after Eddie Wiseman put Americans up 2-0 early in the third. Apps spoiled Earl Robertson's chance for a shutout with seven minutes of the period gone and Schriner completed the scoring a minute from the finish.

Albions Handed 4-1 Lacing By Indian River

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, Jan. 25. — In the first game of a double-header last night at the Havelock rink, the Albions suffered a 4-1 defeat when they tangled with the Indian River team in a regular East Peterborough Rural Hockey League fixture. Weakened by the loss of one of their defence stalwarts, Noel Lade, who received a cracked rib in last Friday's game, the local squad were outplayed badly in the first period. They held the visitors in check during the second and third stanzas, but failed to overcome Indian River's lead.

Brown opened the scoring for the winners five minutes after the opening whistle. M. Tedford got their second counter a while later on Brown's pass, and the latter followed this up a minute afterwards with his second goal of the evening. The Albions defence were particularly weak during this session, allowing the visitors to sift in on Hill, whose fine work in goal kept the count low.

There was no scoring in the second period, but play became rather ragged, and Havelock received no less than four penalties, Hagerman, E. Gordon, F. Ellis, and Hamilton being the offenders.

Indian River boosted their lead to four half-way through the third, Green scoring on a neat pass from Jim Cavanaugh. Four minutes later E. Gordon spoiled the visitors' chances of a shutout, sliding the puck past Doherty, as he lay on the ice during a scramble in front of the net.

Brown, M. Tedford, Green, and Walsh showed to best advantage for the winners, who were also short one of their star wingmen, in the temporary loss of Gavin Shearer, who received a bad shoulder injury in a recent game.

Goalie Hill, E. Gordon, H. Gordon, and Ellis went best for the losers, although the whole team seemed badly disorganized throughout the game.

The teams:

Indian River — Goal, Doherty; defence, Holmes, H. Walsh; centre, N. Clark; wings, Jim Cavanaugh, Green; alternates, R. Tedford, M. Tedford, Brown, John Cavanaugh, R. Walsh.

Reefree—Bert Hagerman, Havelock.

Sumamry:

First Period—
Indian River, Brown 7.50
Indian River, M. Tedford (Brown) 8.02
Indian River, Brown (Walsh) . 8.03

Second Period—
No score.
Penalties — Hagerman, Gordon, Ellis, Hamilton.

Third Period—
Indian River, Green (Jim Cavanaugh) 8.40
Havelock, E. Gordon 8.44

"I'll Be Back"

Still smiling, and still holding a baseball, Monte Stratton, former ace of the Chicago White Sox pitching staff, who had his right leg amputated following a shooting accident in December, shows the old will to win that he hopes may get him back on the major league mound when he is sufficiently recovered and equipped with an artificial limb.

New Hockey Team Boon For Blind

MONTREAL, Jan. 25 — (CP). — Organization of a hockey league composed of blind players at Brantford, Ont., was commended yesterday by Dr. J. A. MacDonald of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

There's no reason why hockey should be more hazardous for thet blind than for sighted persons, Dr. MacDonald said. He thought the league would be of "great benefit," describing it as a long stride toward progress in recreational activities for the blind.

Dr. MacDonald recalled having played soccer with a ball with a bell inside at Halifax many years ago. In Montreal, skating has long been a pastime for the sightless, but so far there has been no attempt to organize hockey.

WINDSOR, Ont., Jan. 25 — (CP). —Windsor Alumni defeated Assumption College 36-30 in a hard fought basketball game here last night. Alumni players have won two games in the best-out-of-five series to determine the Windsor representative in the senior Ontario basketball playdowns.

22 Of 163 Teams Unbeaten In League Tilts

But the Senior 'A' 'division presents the outstanding achievement with Toronto Goodyears leading the league with 13 wins and four ties. Goodyears, only unbeaten club in the "A" section, can't be ousted from their position before the season ends February 7. Six teams make up the circuit.

Only unbeaten team in the Senior "B" division is Royal Military College of Kingston—but the Cadets have played but one game. Waterloo, with six straight wins ,are the only Intermediate "A" club unbeaten. They lead their group by a comfortable margin.

Intermediate "B" clubs undefeated are Whitby, Bolton, Port Colborne Incos, Paris, Point Edward, Glencoe, Clinton, Arthur, Owen Sound and Gravenhurst. Most notable among these is the Port Colborne club, farm team of the Senior 'A' Sailors, with nine wins in as many starts.

In other groups of the same series, Arthur and Gravenhurst show six wins with no ties or losses. Point Edward have won their four games played. All eight teams in the Junior "A" section have lost at least one game, but four clubs remain without a loss in the Junior "B" division. In the Junior "C" groups, lowest division of the O.H.A five clubs are undefeated.

The Junior "B" teams with perfect records are Kingston, Lindsay, Toronto Northern Vocational School and Toronto Runnymede. Simcoe, Collingwood, Parry Sound, Dunnville and Lansdowne are the unbeaten "C's."

Mrs. T. S. Wood Hostess To Buckhorn W.I.

HALL'S BRIDGE, Jan. 25.—The January meeting of the Hall's Bridge branch of the Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. T. S. Wood. The president, Mrs. Howard Pearson, was in the chair and a goodly number of ladies was present. After the opening exercises, the reports were given, then the routine business was proceeded with. The roll-call was answered by naming a Canadian product, and the treasurer reported a balance of $38. Arrangements were completed for a banquet to be held in March and plans were also made for a supper and bazaar to be held later in the season. It was suggested that a library be organized, and after quite a lively discussion it was decided to leave the matter in the hands of a committee. Mrs. G. Dunford gave current events, and Mrs. W. Blewett read a chapter from the hand-book. Mrs. Wood gave her second talk on the "Care of Clothing' in relation to laundering, and the soaps and powders to be used, also a demonstration on the washing and drying of woollens.

Mrs. Evans Blewett, convener for the month, then took charge of the meeting, and called on Rev. K. Stewart for a talk on "Canadianization," which was both instructive and helpful. A duet by Mrs. G. Dunford and Miss M. Nichols followed, after which Mrs. E. Blewett gave a humorous reading, and Mrs. R. Montgomery sponsored a contest. The singing of the National Anthem brought the meeting to a close. The hostess and her assistants served a tasty lunch, then a social half-hour was spent.

Personals.

Dr. E. E. Willis, who has been seriously ill in St. Joseph's Hospital, has returned home much improved in health.

Mrs. J. Harris of North Smith is paying an extended visit to her brother, Mr. Matt. Conkey, in Haileybury.

At the annual school meeting the ratepayers elected two ladies to fill the vacancies on the local school board.

The new councillor, Arthur Haines, is receiving the congratulations of his many friends on his recent success at the polls.

and earlier advices said the British freighter Hertford was standing by.

It was assumed the Hertford took off the St. Clair Theriault's crew believed to number seven or eight men under Captain E. O. Fudge of Halifax. Most of the crew were thought to come from Pictou, Halifax and Newfoundland and it was believed John Parker of Sydney, the owner who usually served as second officer, was among them.

The schooner was built in 1919 in Belliveau's Cove, N.S. The St. Clair Theriault left Eire following repairs necessitated when she went aground on a sandbar at Ballina harbor with a cargo of lumber.

Several seams were opened at that time. The starboard main rigging parted and machinery space was submerged, while deck planks were set up 1½ inches and several deck beams broken.

Warships Stand By.

British, French and United States warships were anchored close to where insurgent bombs were falling from planes, harassing the government lines of communications.

Military advices said the Government forces were gradually falling back to a new defenec line organized in advance and designed to protect the northeastern corner of Spain even after Barcelona's fall.

The insurgents' superiority in guns and planes became more telling as the front became narrower in and around Barcelona.

Military observers at the border believed that only a covering force had been left by the government in Barcelona to protect its retirement and that the city would fall instead of repeating the heroic resistance of Madrid—besieged in November, 1936, and still holding out.

Over the whole battle scene was heard the monotonous and threatening drone of Insurgent bombers which yesterday virtually wrecked the port district of Barcelona.

City's Calm Breaking

Reports reaching the border said the calm of the refugee-choked city of 2,000,000 people was beginning to break as it became apparent there was no means by which they could flee to the north.

All trains had stopped running, these reports said, and only members of the government and a lucky few were able to obtain cars and trucks to carry them out of range of smashing shell fire.

Along the winding roads leading northward from Barcelona to the French border thousands of refugees trudged on foot, carrying on their backs what few possessions they were able to take with them.

They were almost entirely confined to elderly people, children and women whose husbands were at the front.

Through the debris-strewn streets of the capital could be seen reminders of Insurgent bombing raids which had killed more than 500 persons in the past three days and left scores of buildings burning.

Scots Are Observing Today 170th Burns' Anniversary

Scots the world o'er, and not the least of them those who dwell in Peterborough, will foregather tonight wherever they can find congenial shelter and fitting good cheer to commemorate the 170th anniversary of that "cauld blast o' Januar' win" that "blew hansel in on Robin."

On January 25, 1759, was born in Alloway, Ayrshire, Scotland, the boy whom history honors and literature reveres as Robert Burns, national bard of the Scots, world-wide defender of the rights of man, all-time spokesman of obscure, independent thought and the lyric voice of lovers everywhere and always, while English is spoken and the Doric understood.

Born to Strife

"The spaewife keekit in his loof" and saw troubles ahead for the newborn boy. And she was not mistaken. In the brief 37 years that he spent in the troublous world to which he was born, he saw little else but strife, misunderstanding, needless unkindness, and he made his own life still more unhappy by revolting against them all.

He battled bitterly all his life against snobbery, oppression, cant and humbug. He died defeated but his memory lives victorious. His soul must have planed gloriously triumphant over the legislative halls of the Dominion parliament a few years ago, when a leading Presbyterian clergyman stood before a committee of the House and a crowd of fellow holders of his faith and doctrine and quoted to them "Orthodox, Orthodox, wha' believe in John-Knox..." To the Presbyterians of Burns' day those stanzas were what the International is to a National Socialist today.

He was born just eight months before Wolfe and Montcalm met in mortal conflict on the Plains of Abraham to battle and to die for possession of the "few acres of snow" which Louis XV a few weeks later light heartedly bartered away for peace and a couple of islands in a warmer clime.

Braved Displeasure

In the prime of his poetical success and his political unpopularity he made his lot worse by mourning publicly and in verse on a day set aside for national rejoicing over a victory of British arms.

As Rossetti said once, for one Englishman who can spell Shakespeare there are ten Scots to whom Burns' work is a breathing, living reality today. But his following is not confined to Scots. A Scottish missionary is quoted as having said he heard a Hindu on the banks of the Ganges quoting Burns in behalf of the "Untouchables."

His fate was like that of many another genius whose thought was genuine and not for sale. Edinburgh, the capital and centre of learning and fashion of his country, took him up, lionized him, showed him around like a newfound curiosity and, when they found their lion had claws to scratch with and teeth that bit deep and hurt, they dropped him and went looking for a prettier plaything, or one that would prove less painful to handle.

Retort Uncourteous

Yet that unhappy episode also has not failed to leave the world some memorable remarks, some unforgotten quotations which make one think, sometimes, that the poet's sufferings were perhaps worth while. One of the best known perhaps, is his retort to a professor of Edinburgh university: "Sir, you have proved to me that a man can be a very learned doctor and still be a damned fool!"

Of him one of his keenest critics has said: "there may be some doubt as to which of all men is most Poet; but there can be none as to which of all poets is most Man." The human element in all things appealed to him and he has made it appeal to all men more. Nearly two centuries later, the critics and deprecators of the unmarried mother are still withering under his jibe. "Ye're aiblins nae temptation!" And to the Holier-than-Thou community his memory still flings the taunt: "Howe'er it be, with such as he, May I be saved or damned."

Never inside a university himself, and none too respectful of their faculties, he is reverently studied in every university where English literature has a place, and in some where it has not. In fact, everything that was refused him in his lifetime has been showered upon him since his death. Of his Jolly Beggars, Jas. Douglas points out that 'there is more moral cordite here than all the ethical chemists have ever manufactured since the serpent persuaded Eve to eat forbidden fruit."

Yet it is not for his "moral cordite" that the world remembers and loves him, but for two great sentiments that he voiced better than anyone else. They are exemplified in the two following quotations:

"What though on hamely fare we dine,
"Wear Hodden grey an' a' that?
"Gie fools their silks and knaves their wine,
"A man's a Man for a' that."
And .....
"Had we never loved sae kindly,
"Had we never loved sae blindly,
"Never met, and never parted,
"We had ne'er been broken hearted ....."

Dozens Take Part In Concert By Ennismore Young People

ENNISMORE, Jan. 25—Much hidden local talent was brought to the fore on Friday evening in an entertainment sponsored by the Young People's Club of St. Martin's parish.

The program, which attracted an audience that filled the parish hall took the form of an amateur contest supplemented by contributed numbers. In a fiddlers' contest, which was the opening number, the first prize was awarded to Hal Doran, with Tom Morrissey as second winner. Contestants in the boys' singing contest were as follows: Jim Hoar, Eddie Ayotte, Tom Morrissey, Harold Killen, Laverne Perdue, Kenneth Crough and Carl Twomey. Tom Morrissey won first prize over his opponents with Harold Killen second.

Girls Sing Well

The girls' singing contest provided some lovely and atractive numbers which were much appreciated by the audience. The following took part: Regina Killen and Margaret O'Rielly, Patsy Gannon, Dorothy Harrington, Helen O'Rielly, Olive and Alma Murray, Gloria O'Rielly, Teresa Crough, Teresa O'Rielly, Carmel Twomey. First prize was awarded to Gloria O'Rielly with second to Regina Killen and Margaret O'Rielly. Special numbers for which prizes were also offered featured a song by Mike Collins; stepdance by Carl Twomey and Pat Morrissey; Highland Fling, Ethel Cavanagh and Florine Killen; a Jew's harp selection by Jack Flood; stepdance, Eileen Carroll; a musical duet with Irvine Twomey on the accordion and Earl Twomey as pianist; step-dace by G. Sullivan; Highland Fling, Carmel Twomey and Camilla Cavanagh. The first special went to Mike Collins with Eileen Carroll winning second.

A novelty number was a quiz game between four boys and four girls. The boys who went down to defeat were Herb Hennessey, Art Crough, Harold Flood and Malcolm Cavanagh. The girls who downed the boys by showing their superiority in solving conundrums and in their knowledge of plain facts were Margaret Crough, Ella Murray, Agnes Crough and Julia Marie Hickson as the last surviving member of her team the prize went to Julia Marie.

A much enjoyed contributed number as a piano selection by Norma, the small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Crough. Norma is a music pupil of St. Joseph's Convent Peterborough, and displays unusual talent for her age. Other numbers contributed were a vocal selection by Irvine Twomey; step dancing numbers, Jim and John Harrington; two comic songs by Angus Twomey. The final number, a "Pop-Drinking" contest, was a high-light of the humorous side of the entertainment. Taking part in this novel contest were Joe Sullivan, Herb Hennessey, John Collins, Malcolm Cavanagh and Art Crough, the prize winner being John Collins.

Accompanists during the evening were Mrs. Thomas Gannon, Mrs. Frank Cavanagh, Mrs. Dan K. Crough, Misses Mary Killen and Nell Conway, Leo Scollard, Tom Morrissey, Irvine and Earl Twomey.

At the conclusion of the evening's program, and to show their appreciation of the patronage given them, the club provided a dainty lunch for all. This portion of the evening's activities was under the convenership of Miss Margaret Sullivan, the lady representative on the executive, assistants were Mrs. Ed. Crough and the Misses Marie Sullivan, Ella Murray, Mary Killen, Agnes Crough and Helen Maloney. President Leo Scollard and the remaining members of his executive, Joe Sullivan, M. J. Cavanagh and Kenneth Kyle also lent assistance at the lunch hour. With them were Herb Hennessey, Fergus Crough, Bill Gannon, Harold Flood and Keneth Crough.

CORONER IS ILL

Dr. J. C. Smith of Lakefield, chief coroner for Peterborough county is ill in St. Joseph's Hospital. Dr. Smith is reported to be making good progress and is expected to be discharged within a week. His condition is not serious but merely a run down condition requiring complete rest and a build up.

SHORT-CUT ALMOST IMPASSABLE

Motorists reported to-day that Highway No. 7A running west from Highway 28 to Port Perry is in bad condition. Motorists bogged down in snow drifts and it was necessary to employ teams of horses to release the cars in some places, according to reports.

MUSKRAT POACHING

A resident of Burleigh Falls reported today that he had seen several muskrat houses on Stoney Lake which had been smashed open by poachers during the past few months. Evidently this is being done by men who are systematically checking the district as other residents have reported muskrat houses being destroyed on Lovesick Lake about six weeks ago.

INDIVIDUALS—NOT FAMILIES.

In the story of Rotary President James Dutton's remark to the Rotary Club Monday it was stated that a check-up showed that in the last three years 650 families from outside had come on the local relief lists. Mr. Dutton has asked The Examiner to state that if he said families he meant to say individuals—in other words the number of families would be in the neighborhood of 160.

TWO CHIMNEY FIRES

Firemen were among those who hated to see zero weather come to Peterborough again today. Twice this morning, early, they were called out to halt chimney fires and they were thankful the blazes were not more serious. Pumping ice cold water into a blazing building on a day like today is no one's idea of fun, particularly when a stiff wind is ready to whip the water back into a fire fighter's face as he plays the hose.

GOOD NEWS.

Provincial Traffic Officer Lloyd McClure has advised that driving permits purchased in 1938 are good until March 31, 1939. By an Order-in-Council passed in November, 1938, all driving permits were changed from the calendar year to the same term as the licence plates, or the Provincial fiscal year. Therefore, our information as contained in this column on Tuesday night was incorrect, and it will not be necessary to renew a driver's permit until new markers are obtained up to March 31, 1939.

SCOTS ON MAIN ST.

Along main street this morning Scots were preoccupied with the heart warming inspiration of Burns (Bur-r-rns) prototype of Scotia's invincible democracy. Sassenachs could only be envious of the fraternal spirit that will reach a climax to-night in song and perhaps a strathspey, and the piping in of the Haggis. From beyond the pale, others could share in the bardic tunes from beyond the Border, the challenging "Scats Wha Hae" that loses its potent appeal in actual English, the lovely melody of "Annie Laurie" and the minor of "Mary Morrison." And some might still assert that for all of Burns' music, it has nothing to excel that grand battle cry of "Bonnie Dundee." The Germans called the Highland battalions "The Ladies From Hell," foemen's tribute to a soldiery whose dour quality of courage and undefeat, even when the battle was going against them, was captured in words for British posterity by one of Scotland's poets, a woman at that: "Though the King's crown go down There are crowns to be broke."

There's stimulus for the dark hours in those lines that refuse to admit defeat.

Radio Owners Are Disgusted With Reception

Radio owners in the city are unanimous on three points, are indignantly voiced their opinions when questioned today on what they thought of radio reception from CBL, the Canadian Broadcasting Commission key station, on the radio license fee, and on the quality of the CBC programs.

Citizens claim it is absolutely impossible to get good reception from Toronto station CBL, particularly after six o'clock in the evening when most radios are tuned in, and as a result the citizens tune in CFRB, privately owned station or else switch to American stations. These with whom the reporter talked declared the radio license fe of $2.50 was a "hold-up" and they agreed Canadians were getting nothing for their money, and were forced to sit back and hear of the Commission officials banning speeches from the air which the radio owners wanted to hear. The feeling was general that the programs as provided by the CBC were inferior to those broadcast before the formation of the CBC.

George V. Low, Rogers street—"We are paying $2.50 to the CBC to provide programs and good reception and the conditions are so unsatisfactory everyone is tuned in on American stations. If we were paying the United States the $2.50 there would be some sense to it. When a man wants to talk over CBC network the privilege is denied him. It should be the privilege of the radio owner to tune in to whatever program he wishes to listen to, and not have a commission dictating the radio menu. I can't get anything over my radio from CBL with any degree of satisfaction."

R. P. Wellman, 221 London street—"I realize that supervision of programs is necessary but why Canadians should pay $2.50 for programs they can't even listen to strikes me as being ridiculous. Before the CBC came into existence the programs were much better than they are now."

Harold Chate, 64 Hunter street—"A radio listener in this city can't get a program over CBL after six o'clock at night with any degree of success because of interference from other stations. The Radio Commission is giving those buying licenses nothing for their money."

Norman Elliott, Drug store manager—"The CBC brought a man from England to tell Canadians what they ought to listen to on the radio. Why could not a Canadian have done this work much more satisfactorily. I never tune in CBL any more because it is impossible to get good reception, and furthermore I can't see that radio advertisers are getting their money's worth using a station that people are not listening to."

G. K. Fraser, Burleigh Falls—"This radio licensing is a plain hold-up. If CBL were the only station a person could get 25 cents would be too much to pay for the license."

R. H. Rogers, Barrie, Ontario—"The people should be given a chance to vote on whether the CBC should continue in existence or not. I'm sure their dictator policy would get mighty few votes."

Dave White, Burnham street—"We are getting nothing for our $2.50 CBL is worse now than it ever was before, and I find I must tune in on an American station if I am to get the programs clearly. On Saturday night when a hockey broadcast is on, it comes in better over CFRB which I am told is a privately owned and operated station, than over the CBL station.

Ken McCannan, Simcoe street—"Radio programs as dispensed by the CBC are lousy, and moreover the CBC by licensing radios are stagnating the retail radio business particularly on small sets. Car radio sales are almost negligible, all because of the license fee. I know for a fact that nine-tenths of the radio owners in Peterborough have their sets tuned in to American stations all the time, except when they switch to Canadian stations for the newscasts. It is generally believed the radio fee is to cover expense of locating and correcting interference but in this city, certainly nothing is done to improve conditions and one in the business section particularly can't get any station at all without interference. Since the change in location of the CB transmitter and station from Bowmanville to Hornby the reception has been worse instead of better, and at the same time we must remember the power of station has been increased many times. Time and again customers have used the argument of poor radio reception when an agent tries to sell them a new set. Everyday we hear people say, 'It's a funny thing a man must sit up until midnight if he wants to get decent reception from the Canadian stations.'"

Warden Of Victoria Known In Ennismore

(Examiner Correspondence.)

ENNISMORE, Jan. 25.—Particular interest was shown by many here in the election of Joseph Guiry of Emily to the warden's chair for Victoria county. Not only has the newly elected warden many friends here, but Mrs. Guiry (formerly Eliza Flood was born in Ennismore and attended the Continuation school here. Later she moved to Toronto with her parents where she resided prior to her marriage to Mr. Guiry. Mrs. James Harrington, Jr. of Ennismore is a sister of Mrs. Guiry's.

100th Crossing

School Girl Is Attacked By Unknown Man

Police in the district to-day are endeavoring to round up the young man who made a dastardly attack upon a twelve year old school girl on the county line road to Westwood Tuesday afternoon.

The girl, the daughter of a well known farmer was on her way home from school in company with a six-year-old sister and when only a short distance from her own house was accosted by a man who stopped his car as he drew up alongside the children and attacked the elder girl, grabbing her in his arms and disarranging her clothing.

The screams of the children apparently frightened the cowardly assailant for he suddenly released his victim, jumped into his car again and drove off in the direction of No. 7 Highway.

The children ran home and informed their father of what had happened and he at once notified the city police, who in turn passed the information on to Provincial Traffic Officer Gordon Broughton, who began an immediate investigation. The elder girl was able to give a good description of her assailant and the car he was driving and police hope to succeed in apprehending him. He was described by the girl as between 25 and 30 years of age.

Charges of indecent exposure and of assault will be laid against the man.

Reckless Driving Charge Dismissed

"This is one of those border-line cases and I am going to give the accused the benefit of the doubt," declared Magistrate E. A. Gee in police court this morning is dismissing a charge of reckless driving against George E. Whipp, arising out of a traffic accident on Dublin street on December 6.

W. J. Arthur Fair, who defended Whipp, said at the beginning of the case that the charge had originally been driving without adequate brakes and he added that when the police couldn't make that stick they had switched to the reckless driving charge.

The chief witness against Whipp was Clifford Clark, bread salesman who said that he was driving his horse-drawn bread wagon west on Dublin street and had just passed a parked car when Whipp, driving an automobile came along in the centre of the road, struck the bread wagon and then hit the parked car driving its rear wheels up on the sidewalk. Clark said he was on his own side of the road when hit and estimated that Whipp was driving more than 30 and perhaps 40 miles an hour.

To Mr. Fair, Clark said the light on the bread wagon was not lit at the time of the accident.

Constable Archie Menzies said he tested the brakes of Whipp's car after the accident and the emergency brake was no use, while the other brake was fair.

In his own behalf Whipp said that it was dark, there was no light on the wagon and he did not see it until it was 15 feet away from him. He declared that he was on his right side of the road and travelling at between 20 and 25 miles an hour at the time.

A provisional school of instruction in infantry has been commenced at Madoc for the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, and will continue for the next two months.

Fish Are Being Carried Inside Overcoats By Poachers Who Are Offering Them For Sale

Fairly reliable reports reaching this office indicates that poachers are still plying their trade of selling fish to city residents during the winter months, and their methods of carrying the fish shows ingenuity.

Last week a woman was peddling fish in the village of Bobcaygeon and when she approached one housewife, she pulled back the flap of her coat, and displayed a neat row of fish, all nicely cleaned. They were suspended by a string around her neck.

It is also said that a man from the northern section of this county dresses as a woman and visits Peterborough whenever he wishes to dispose of a load of fish. He strings the fish, which are usually bass on a wire around his waistline and strutted nonchalantly past everyone until he reaches the place where the fish are sold.

Maude E. Abbott Doctor, Writer To Visit City

Peterborough will be honored by the presence of one of Canada's most distinguished women, Dr. Maude E. Abbott of McGill University, on February 13, when the University Women's Club of this city holds its annual banquet at the Empress Hotel.

Known throughout the medical profession on this continent, she is even more widely recognized in Europe, where her books are acknowledged as important.

Maude Elizabeth Seymour Abbott was born an unbelievable number of years ago—in 1869—at St. Andrew's East, Province of Quebec, where her grandfather was Anglican rector. She is a grand-niece of Sir John Abbott, first Canadian-born Premier.

Her awards have been as numerous as her accomplishments: McGill University conferred on her the degree of Bachelor of Art and honorary Medical Doctor; she received her M.D. degree from Bishop's College in 1894 and her LL.D. from McGill in 1936; she has been Assistant Professor of Medical Research at McGill since 1923, as well as curator of the Medical Museum and lecturer on the history of nursing; and the Medical College of Pennsylvania knew her from 1923 to 1925 as Professor of Pathology.

She was the founder, with Sir William Osler and others, of the International Association of Medical Museums, and editor of its Bulletin since 1907. Edinburgh University conferred on her the degree of L.R.C.P., and she is an F.R.C.P. Canada.

Authority on Heart Disease.

In 1899 she consulted Osler about the history and nature of an extraordinary specimen of a congenital heart lesion in the McGill Museum. He constantly encouraged her to pursue this subject, with the result that for many years she has been acknowledged as the greatest authority on congenital heart disease. Her many publications on this subject include an "Atlas," 1936, and the standard articles in Osler's "System," 1908, and "Nelson's Loose-Leaf Medicine," 1932.

Other books and monographs of hers are on the history of McGill, 1902, Florence Nightingale, 1916, the history of medicine in the Province of Quebec, 1932; and she compiled the valuable Osler Memorial Volume in 1926, containing her Classified Bibliography of Osler, of which she is now engaged in bringing out a revised separate edition.

Dr. Abbott is noted for her colossal industry and enthusiasm, and for the bigness of her heart. Under the new rule at McGill she was superannuated in 1937, but is working as hard as ever, and has lately enjoyed the rare distinction of having two scholarships founded in her honor. The gods seem to have endowed her with perpetual youth. She has proved herself unkillable. The only cattish thing about her is her nine lives, of which some have already been forfeited to fatal illnesses and encounters with Montreal taxis and a New York lorry. After one of these accidents, in hospital with a fractured skull, she was forbidden to do any intellectual work, so she borrowed a pencil and wrote poetry, which was mere child's play to her.

Her appearance in Peterborough is on the occasion of the second annual banquet of the University Women's Club and her address will be on her favorite subject, "Sir William Osler."

FROST CLINIC

Fall Kills Skipper

DUNKIRK, N.Y., Jan. 25—(AP).—Captain James J. Ward, 83, who sailed on the Great Lakes for 52 years without an accident, died last night of injuries received when he broke his hip in a fall over a chair.

Before he died, Captain Ward declared:

"I sailed on the Great Lakes for more than 50 years, many times working high up on masts during the worst weather imaginable, but it remained for a fall over a chair to cause me serious injury."

Cheese Factory Is Offered To Its Patrons

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Jan. 25.—George A. Gillespie of Peterborough addressed a gathering of more than fifty farmers and others interested in Lynch's Hall here Tuesday afternoon and urged them to purchase the Ormande Cheese factory for themselves by forming a company. He told them that they could probably operate it under more satisfactory system to themselves if they controlled it.

Mr. Gillespie is present owner of the plant and is desirous of selling it to the farmers rather than a private individual. Walter M. Fowlds presided as chairman at the meeting. Nine men were appointed to investigate the possibility of forming a company and selling shares.

Reeve Congratulated

Hearty congratulations have been extended Reeve Lewis Kelley by members of the Hastings council on his apointment as chairman of the board of management of House of Refuge at United Counties council. The appointment is for a two year period. Also on the board are Warden T. A. Reid of Clarke township and Reeve Edmunson of Bowmanville. Mr. Kelley attended the first meeting of the board in Cobourg Tuesday afternoon.

Cottage Broken into?

A reported break in at Clifford Tunbridge's cottage in the village was discovered to have been the aftermath of strong winds a few days ago according to local police. Constable W. Wellman said he found the front door wide open but nothing was disturbed inside. He believes the wind probably sprung the light structure to the extent that a rim lock on inside of the door gave away.

Businessmen Urged Police Radio Cars

When the Police Commission meets this afternoon its members will be faced with a request from the Peterborough Businessmen's Association that a two-way radio system for police cars be installed in this city.

The association executive, meeting at the Hotel Champlain on Tuesday night heard Constable Clarke explain the way in which the two-way radio system operates and its advantages. Then they passed a resolution asking the Commission to have such a system installed in this city.

Another resolution passed will see signs erected at Gooderham and Bancroft advertising and pointing the way to Peterborough. Another sign will be erected at the east side of Port Hope showing that by way of Peterborough is the shortest and most scenic route to Callendar and the quints. These signs will be placed in view of the new highway to be erected through the north. The meeting was under chairmanship of J. W. Watson, president.

Human "Polar Bear" Fined For Obstructing Police Officer In Town Of Ingersoll

A man can't take a cold bath in Ingersoll in winter—not in the Thames River. Krikor Hekimian of Belleville, the "polar bear" who sent shivers up and down the spines of hundreds of Peterborough people last winter when he plunged into Little Lake from the George Street wharf, found that out Tuesday when a magistrate fined him $26 in all at Ingersoll.

Hekimian, who makes his living showing people how he swims in icy waters, faced three charges. They were vagrancy, bathing within the town limits in prohibited hours, and obstructing a police officer. He pleaded guilty to the obstruction charge, was fined $10 and $16 costs. Police dropped the other charges.

Hekimian made his plunge into the Thames River in defiance of a police warning that bathing in the river in daylight hours was banned by by-law, and a near-riot resulted when police halted proceedings. Even after he had paid his fine, Hekimian was still on top. The crowd paid out $40 to see him swim, so his net profit was $14. At Tillsonburg earlier on the same day the collection was reported to be more than $50.

Peterborough was more kind to the "polar bear." Photographers took pictures of him perched atop a block of ice eating ice cream cones, and police just shivered when he plunged into the icy water.

Witness Hoists Bag Of Flour On To Shoulder

The spectacle of a crown witness, Eric Pearse, hoisting a 100-pound bag of flour unto his shoulder, at the insistence of Defence Counsel W. J. Arthur Fair, who was seeking to demonstrate the difficulty of the feat and the impossibility of it being performed without covering one's clothing with flour, featured the trial of Joseph Johnston, Harvey township, before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in the afternoon session of the police court Tuesday.

Johnston had pleaded not guilty to stealing the flour and a case of matches from the George Street Dominion Store on the night of Saturday, January 14.

Mr. Fair sought to have the same demonstration carried out by Constable Archie Menzies, another crown witness, but Chief Constable Newhall made a succesful objection.

"Don't do it," he said to the officer, "you'll spoil your uniform.

The defence counsel did not press the point.

Manager Testifies

John Ernest Bottrell, manager of the George Street Dominion Store was the first witness called by Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry. He testified to Johnston having been in the store on the night in question and of afterward missing a carton of matches and of notifying the police department. Afterward he said he saw Johnston in a car on the market square. He identified the carton of matches and the bag of flour that were put in as exhibits as goods that had been taken from his store.

Cross-examined by Mr. Fair Bottrell said that he identified the matches by the fact that "Dominion Stores, Peterborough" was written on the carton but admitted the possibility that the box could have come from the Simcoe Street Dominion Store. He was positive as to the flour however, stating that it was a bag that had been returned and was placed on a radiator away, from the rest of the flour because the bag was stained. The matches he said had been in the hall leading to the rear door.

Eric Pearse, an employee of the store, gave similar evidence as to Johnston's being in the store on the Saturday night in question and of seeing him leave the place by the rear door which he said opened on to the market. He said the carton of matches put in as an exhibit was the same as were kept in the store and identified the bag of flour by its dirty condition as a bag that had been returned and had been placed on a radiator at the back of the store.

Witness Lifts The Bag

It was this witness who at Mr. Fair's orders lifted the bag of flour and in so doing got his clothes fairly well sprinkled with some of the contents of the bag.

Constable Archie Menzies said that as the result of a telephone message he had gone across the market square at 10.45 o'clock and about the rear of Jopling's store he saw four or five men around a car. One of them was Johnston and when witness asked him who owned the automobile accused had said it was his. On examining the car he had found the flour, matches and two bags of sugar in the car and Ivan Bolton was in the back seat. Constable Menzies said all the men had been drinking and they were brought to the police station.

Constable C. J. McGillen gave similar evidence as to what happened on the market square when he and Officer Menzies investigated a report from the manager of the Dominion Store. He corroborated Officer Menzies' evidence as Johnston's stating that the car was his and as to the finding of the flour, matches and sugar in the car.

Cross-examined at length by Mr. Fair the witness stated that he had not seen any flour on the clothing of any of the men they found on the market square.

"We were not looking for flour," he said. "At that time we did not know that any flour had been stolen."

Chief Newhall's Evidence

Chief Constable Samuel Newhall stated that on the night in question he had come out of the back door of Jopling's store and he had seen Johnston and another man coming out of the rear entrance to the Dominion Store. He testified that Johnston was carrying the carton of matches in one hand and he and the other man were carrying the bag of flour between them, and they started to put them into a car. At that time he said he thought nothing of the matter but after he had walked across the market square and had just about reached the back door of the police station Officer Menzies had run out, followed by Officer McGillen.

Chief Newhall said that afterwards a man had come into the police station and said that his groceries were in Johnston's car. This man had declared that he had heard a robbery being planned and had taken his son-in-law away because he did not want him implicated in the affair. Later he had repudiated his previous statement.

Sergt. W. E. Wigg was called to corroborate the latter part of the Chief Constable's evidence as to the statements made by this man whom the Chief accused of denying completely what he had said a short time previously.

This concluded the Crown's case and the court adjourned, Johnston being remanded on his own bail until Thursday morning when the defence will be heard. On another charge of stealing 200 pounds of sugar from E. F. Mason he was also remanded until Thursday.

Ivan Bolton, charged with theft of the matches, flour and sugar and also with being drunk was remanded until this morning.

Honor of inaugurating transatlantic air service by Britain's Imperial Airways will go to Capt. J. C. Kelly Rogers, ABOVE, former flying boat instructor in the Royal Air Force, whose appointment to command the new flying boat Cabot, was announced recently. The service will probably be started sometime this year.

Ask Estimates On 3 Barns For Exhibition

Although crimped around the edges by the county council's refusal to build a cattle barn for them, the directors of the Exhibition Tuesday night decided to get estimates of the cost of three barns. Tom Brown, president, said all of them were needed, but Torrance Lillico, Orme Ball, D. B. Falkner and some others advised that one new barn should be sufficient investment for this year. The members of that committee are R. Denne, J. O. Ball, Fred Robson, Gordon Hancock, E. F. Mason, and the directors of the sheep and swine committee. They were asked to get a report ready for the next meeting.

Some of the working committee were appointed with the following chairmen A. E. (Bert) Middleton, dairy cattle; Thomas H. Graham, heavy horses; Chris. G. Graham, light horses; Col. F. E. Birdsall, beef cattle; W. H. Young, flowers; Fred Robson, poultry; Frank Savigny, sheep and swine.

It was suggested by members of the sheep and swine committee that its two groups should have their own executives, and that idea may be carried out later.

Gordon Hancock's motion, seconded by R. T. Lillico, was adopted authorizing field crop competitions in both wheat and oats this year. A special appeal will be made to farmers to ensure the success of the oat crops section which is being resumed after a lapse of some years.

The young directors were appointed to committees. Harry McIntyre joining T. G. Graham's heavy horse section, and Clarence Mann going to Bert Middleton's group.

Man Given 15 Days On Drunk Count

Ivan Bolton, who is also charged with the theft of sugar, flour and matches, pleaded not guilty in police court this morning to a drunk charge after Magistrate Gee had finished hearing the evidence of Chief Constable Newhall, Constable Archie Menzies and Sergt. W. E. Wigg to the effect that the man was intoxicated on the market square on Saturday night, January 14 and had heard the accused admit that he had four glasses of beer in a beverage room shortly before his arrest, a conviction was registered.

Bolton was represented by H. S. Balfour.

Magistrate Gee made the alternative to a fine 15 days in jail but dated it back to the 14th as Bolton has been in custody ever since. On the two theft charges there was an journment until to-morrow as the Crown Attorney did not wish to proceed until the Johnston case, arising out of the same circumstances, is finished.

Chief Newhall 43 Years Police Officer

It is an interesting coincidence that when he presents his 19th annual report as head of the Peterborough police department today Chief Constable Newhall will also be celebrating the 43rd anniversary of his becoming a police officer.

It was just 43 years ago today that Chief Newhall became a member of C Division of the London Metropolitan Police and he had nearly ten years service on the London and Liverpool police before returning to Canada. Thirty-three years ago he was appointed a constable on the local force, then under the command of Chief Roszel until that officer's death and then under Chief Daniel Thompson, in the meanwhile being promoted to the rank of detective. When in 1921 Chief Thompson resigned his post here to become chief constable of Windsor the chief constable's post was awarded to Detective Newhall and he has carried on ever since.

During his association with the Peterborough police department Chief Constable Newhall has seen some startling changes in police work and has figured in many important cases. Possibly the outstanding coup was the round-up of one of the most notorious gangs of pickpockets on the continent, the Phelps-Bradford-Goldfarb gang all with long records who were caught red-handed during a circus day visit to Peterborough. Disguised Chief Newhall trailed the crooks on numerous trips on street cars watching their operations until he had evidence enough to convict them. Other gangs of pickpockets also fell into Chief Newhall's hands and the last one of note was a "dip" named Grant who was caught working in a crowd that had gathered here to listen to a political speech by Sir Robert Borden.

Dominion President

Dominion honors have come to Chief Newhall since he became head of the local department for he has had the distinction of serving as president of the Chief Constables' Association of Canada.

When he joined the local force, bicycles were the fastest form of transportation available to the force. Arrested persons were as a rule brought in on foot and if they were unable to walk a passing horse-drawn vehicle would be commandeered to tote them to the station. The automobile has changed the whole picture but while it has eased the work of police in one direction it has also provided the crook with the chance to cover large stretches of country and to make sudden and unexpected raids from large centres into the hinterland.

No better proof of the change that has come over police work in the 33 years Chief Newhall has been a member of the force here could be offered than the fact that his report today to the police commission recommends the equipping of the department with a two-way police radio system.

DEATH AT THE MANOR

By M. E. CORNE

READ THIS FIRST:

Elsie Ritter, a beauty shop operator, taking the place of her friend, Kitty, for a week in the private salon of Mrs. Horace Witherspoon, Sr., is disturbed by queer things she finds and odd people she meets at the Manor, the luxurious Witherspoon home. She finds her employer is an eccentric old woman with sadly misplaced vanity. She meets her granddaughter, Daphne; her daughter-in-law; Della Craig, an actress, who is a house guest, and the various servants of the household. Elsie overhears a violent argument between Daphne and her mother, during which the girl criticizes her grandmother. After meeting some of the other house guests, Elsie gives a manicure to old Mrs. Witherspoon's sister, who converses in riddles. While Mrs. Witherspoon, Sr., is under one of the four hair driers in the salon, Phil, Elsie's friend, drops in to see her and telephones from downstairs. Elsie goes down to see him. When Elsie returns to the salon, she faints when she finds that the old lady has died while under the drier. After being revived, Eliza, the maid, accuses her of stealing Mrs. Witherspoon's emeralds, which are missing. She succeeds in convincing Horace Witherspoon that she knows nothing of the missing jewels.

(Now Go On With The Story)

CHAPTER ELEVEN

"WERE YOU absent from the salon—a long time? Mr. Witherspoon asked me. There was a sharpness to his tone that startled me. I glanced quickly at him. But he looked so uncertain and uncomfortable in his role of interrogator that I decided I must have been mistaken in what I had heard.

'Thirty minutes," I confessed, miserably. "I'd give anything if I hadn't gone;—but I didn't know!" I broke off unable to continue.

"Naturally not, Miss Ritter, naturally not. You mustn't condemn yourself." Awkwardly he patted my shoulder. "It was her time to go and she—she went. You couldn't have saved her."

"You are very kind. Very. I shouldn't have left her; I realize that now. Perhaps she called to me when she felt herself—going! Perhaps—"

"Please, Miss Ritter! You'll make yourself ill! Heart trouble such as mother had is incurable. We knew, all of us, that she would die suddenly and without warning. I'm convinced she never knew what happened to her. She—she just closed her eyes and slept! That knowledge, Miss Ritter, comforts me greatly."

"Oh, I do hope you are right!" I said fervently. "I do hope so!"

"I am right!" he said positively, and his dull, colorless eyes lighted strangely. "Years ago I studied medicine; I was going to be a great doctor, a great scientist!"

"But you gave it up?" Curiosity on my part got the better of discretion.

"I gave it up, yes." The light died and something incredibly sad and bitter took its place. "I putter," said Mr. Horace, slowly, "I putter about upstairs in my laboratory."

For some unknown reason I felt embarrassed, as though I had stumbled onto a secret, long hidden, and now, under stress, impulsively revealed. I lowered my gaze, loath to look upon a soul so naked.

"Mr. Witherspoon!" I burst forth presently.

"Yes?"

"If Mrs. Witherspoon died while I was in the pantry, I couldn't have stolen the emeralds!"

"You couldn't?" Plainly he did not follow me.

"No! Don't you see? They were on the table when I left the room; they were gone when I returned! Someone must have entered the salon and—" I clapped my hand to my mouth, my eyes widening in dawning horror.

"—and stolen them after my mother was dead," he concluded for me.

"Oh, I don't mean to accuse anyone!"

"Quite all right, Miss Ritter." He smiled faintly.

"Of course," I added hastily, "it is possible that they have been mislaid."

"Yes, it is possible," he agreed, rising. His shoulders sagged limply. "I shouldn't worry, my dear girl. In the morning we will discuss the matter further. I—I must go and notify the others and call the doctor."

"The doctor?"

"There is a law of some sort which requires certification of the body."

"Oh!" The body—that was the flowered bundle in the anteroom. She is still—there?"

"Yes."

"But you arn't going to leave her there overnight?"

I thought then he would put me in my place, but he only sighed and said: "Arrangements will be made for removal, Miss Ritter."

I breathed in relief. "May I go to bed now, please?"

"Of course. You must be tired. You won't be needed until morning."

"Thank you—and good night." I crossed the lobby and stepped out into the corridor. A man rushed past me and came to a halt a few feet away. It was the count and he was in a great state of agitation. His breath was labored and his brow damp and perspiring.

"Have you seen Madame Witherspoon?" he demanded. "Everywhere I look and nowhere she ees!"

"Who is there?" Mr. Horace peered over my shoulder.

"Eet ees I, Count Orsini!" exclaimed the count, pushing his way into the salon. "I come for the Madame Witherspoon!"

"Madame Witherspoon?" Mr. Horace groaned aloud. "My God!" he said. "My dear God! It is the hour to announce the engagement and my mother—is dead!"

From somewhere below stairs the strains of a waltz drifted fitfully to where we stood, the three of us, spellbound!

The morning following Mrs. Witherspoon's death was the usual nightmare that follows unexpected death, with here a certain undefinable something that showed itself in the uneasiness of the household and the strange, unnatural silence that hung heavily over all the Manor. It was the sort of silence that wears on your nerves and makes you see things that are not there and hear things that are not said. It all began at breakfast, which I took in the housekeeper's dining room. I noticed something was amiss immediately I entered the room.

"Good morning," I said, and the five faces of the five persons seated about the table turned briefly toward me and then turned away. I slipped into my place and filled my plate.

Upon my right a black-haired girl in uniform stirred her coffee round and round. When, accidentally, I knocked her elbow she jerked quickly away and began to whisper softly to Mrs. Greely. That worthy individual, serene as ever, methodically munched her toast and bacon.

Across the table, Tim, the chauffeur, dunked his rolls into his coffee. Now and again he glanced at me and smiled furtively as though he had been forbidden to do so. As the meal progressed my uneasiness increased. No one spoke to me. I felt my face turning red and white and red again. Hurriedly I swallowed my food and told myself that servants were a silly, superstitious lot. They believed, I supposed, that death in a house foretold ill luck.

"Listen, kid"—Tim had slid from his chair and followed me to the foot of the rear stairs—"don't let it get you! They don't mean nothin', that bunch!"

"But why the cold shoulder?" I demanded tearfully. "What have I done?"

"Shucks! You ain't done nothin'." He chucked me under the chin. "Fact is," he grinned shamefacedly, "fact is, Henrietta, that's Mrs. Horace's maid, well—she don't like you none too well!"

"Henrietta? You mean the girl who sat next to me? But I don't even know her!"

"Yeah, I know, but Henry an' me — well — we're sort of engaged like an'—"

"Oh!" A great light dawned upon me. "She's jealous!"

"That's about the size of it," he admitted sheepishly. "She thinks I'm kinda soft on you."

"So!" I did not know whether to laugh or cry. "She needn't be worried!"

"Now don't be sore, baby. She didn't mean nothin'. I'll fix things."

"But why did the others snub me?" I wanted to know. Had the affair of the missing emeralds reached the kitchen despite Mr. Horace's precautions?

"Well," he scratched his head. "They sorta got an idea that it was your fault the old girl kicked off. Goin' away like you did an' leavin' her."

"I see." I felt oddly relieved. Then—then the emeralds had nothing to do with it.

"Tim!" A girl's voice summoned him.

"So long, kid." He glanced behind him. "Got to scram now, but remember I'm for you!"

"So long." I said and went on up the stairs.

DOROTHY DIX

The Lot Of Women Is Hard Indeed When Compared to That Of Men, For They Do Not Enjoy One-tenth Of The Privileges Extended To The Male Sex.

LITTLE Maudie, who is 5-going-on-6, is about to celebrate her birthday, and her rich and adoring grandfather asked her what sort of a present he should give her in commemoration of the august occasion. Whereupon she cast a blase eye around her nursery, which looked like the understudy of a toy shop on Christmas Eve, and replied: "Just make me over into a boy. That's all I want."

"Wise child," commented a woman present, "but I wonder how she found out at her age that men get most of the cakes and ale in this world? I suspect that ninety-nine women out of a hundred, if asked their hearts' desire, would say with Maudie 'make me over into a man,' for men do get the best of everything. That's why we try to imitate them, steal their clothes and fill their jobs, but it is no good. No matter how many pairs of pants we put on we never look like a man. No matter how we drink and swear and how many of the commandments we break, we are never a picturesque roue. We are just a streetwalker wading in the gutter. For when a woman ceases to be a lady she isn't a man. She is still a woman, with what few advantages and perquisites she had thrown away.

"Of course, nobody is to blame for this sad state of affairs, unless it is the Creator. For even with Him woman was an afterthought and apparently not included in the original plan. He ony made Eve after He had finished Adam and given him the pick of everything; and that is the way things have gone ever since. That is why it makes us green-eyed even to take a glance at the good things that accrue to men just simply because they are men and at which we never get a look-in.

"Take clothes, for instance. What wouldn't we give to have a few tubular garments that we could jump in at a moment's notice instead of having to bother with a lot of flummeries with mysterious openings that it takes a safe-cracker to break in. And what an economy to be able to wear the same evening clothes to all the parties we went to—maybe for years and years—instead of having to have a new frock for every occasion. And, oh, my suffering sisters, think of the luxury of pockets where you could stow your duffel instead of having to lug it around with you in a handbag. Why a woman's efficiency is cut in two by having to give the exclusive use of one hand and most of her brain to carrying around a wristbag and trying not to forget it.

"Then consider the blessed privilege of being as homely as the Lord made you, without trying to improve on the job. Man has the monopoly on that. If a man is a gentleman; if he is intelligent and well-mannered, no one cares a hoot about his looks. Employers don't put him through a beauty test when he goes looking for a job. They regard only his competency. Women don't demand that all men should be Robert Taylors before they step out with them.

"But every woman is required to be beautiful though ugly. The first question a man ever asks about a woman is not whether she is intelligent or a good talker, but if she is a good-looker. When a girl applies for a position in a store or office it is better for her to have wavy hair and blue eyes than to be an efficiency expert. Every day you see girls gladly stepping out with fat, bald-headed men, but you can't even imagine a man dating a fat, bald-headed girl. The only thing that reconciles me to death is that in the next world I hope to have naturally curly feathers and be freed of the beauty shops.

"Then there is the right that men alone have to pick out their mates. That's the thing we women envy them most. Not being afraid of being a wallflower. Not having to sit at home and suck our thumbs when we would like to be out with some nice lad. Not being scared of being overlooked in the matrimonial round-up. Not having to marry some man who is our opportunity instead of our preference.

"Just think what it would mean to a girl to be able to date some young fellow she fancied, or to be able to frankly pop the question to the man she loved and who looked like he would make a desirable running mate for the next thirty or forty years. There is nothing in her whole life that means so much to a woman as getting the right husband, yet it is the one thing in which she has no active say-so. All she has is the veto power. So, considering all these things, it is no wonder we echo Maudie's wish that we might be made over into men."

By MAX TRELL

Jub-Jub, the monkey, now lived in the children's playroom with all the other toys. When he was wound up his tail whirled 'round and 'round and he went scooting across the floor on little wheels. He was very friendly with everybody.

He would say: "I'm Jub-Jub, the monkey, and everbody loves me!"

But he had one enemy in the house. It was the cat. One day she determined to get rid of him. "He makes too much noise," she said to Knarf and Hanid, the two shadows. "He darts around the playroom like a mouse. And he isn't a mouse. He isn't even half as good as a mouse. He's just a monkey stuffed with straw. I don't like him. He's got to go away from here."

Protests.

"But the children like him,' Hanid said.

"They'd miss him very much if he went away," Knarf added.

The cat didn't answer. But her eyes looked very green. "I'll get rid of him to-night after everyone goes to bed."

"I don't like him!"

That night, after the children were in bed, Knarf and Hanid crept down into the darkened playroom. There they found the cat standing in front of Jub-Jub. She was talking to him in a low voice.

"Come with me," she said. "We'll go exploring. I'll take you to a place where you've never been before."

"Where is that, Mrs. Cat?"

Ah-ha!

"Where there are lots of little monkeys like yourself. You'll like it much better than in this house. You'll be able to climb trees and eat cocoanuts and swing on your tail from branch to branch. You'll have the most fun in the world. Just come with me. It's not very far from here."

"Don't go, Jub-Jub....don't go!" the two shadows cried.

But Jub-Jub wanted very much to go.

"You don't even have to walk there," the cat went on craftily. "I'll push you." So she got behind him and pushed him along on his little wheels.

"Hooray!" he shouted. "I'm going to a place where all the little monkeys play!"

Do you know where the cat was going to push him? Right through the back door, down the garden steps and down the long hill where he would roll into the brook and be swept away. She had just given him a push through the door. "Now! Go away — and never come back! We want no monkeys in this house!" the cat said. Suddenly Jub-Jub knew that she had been fooling him. She wasn't his friend at all.

How he tried to come back! But he couldn't whirl his tail. He couldn't make the wheels turn back. Someone had to push a little button first. "Help me! Help!" he shouted.

And at that moment Knarf darted forward and pushed the little button. Jub-Jub's tail began whirling. The wheels turned and he rolled right back through the open door. He rolled into the playroom and bumped square into Mrs. Cat's nose. She had laid down to sleep in the corner where he always stayed. She sprang to her feet and rushed off as fast as she could.

I hope she's ashamed of herself for not loving a funny little monkey like Jub-Jub.

Looking Back
On This Date

This evening all over the world where are there not?—gatherings of one sort and another will be held to commemorate the birthday of Robert Burns the Bard o' Scotia. And this year is the 108th anniversary, since he was born on Jan.25, 1759, a few months before the brave Highlanders scaled the cliff at Quebec and aided in the victory on the Plains of Abraham.

It was not until long years after the poet's death that the custom of meeting in his honor was inaugurated, but the custom soon sped to Canada, and there are records of such gatherings at Halifax, Pictou, Quebec, Montreal, Toronto and Niagara early in the 19th century, while the men of the Hudson's Bay and Northwest companies always drank to "Rabbie" on Jan. 25.

Scots, men and women alike will tonight sing Burns' immortal.

Should auld acquaintance be forgot,
And never brought to min'?
Should auld acquaintance be forgot
And days o' auld lang syne?

Actually they will be singing an error, because in the original the word "auld" did not appear.

At the same time as they toast and sing, let them remember that, while Burns wrote: "It's guid to be merry and wise, it's guid to be honest and true", he also told the eternal truth that "Man's inhumanity to man makes countless thousands mourn", and also that "An atheist's laugh is a poor exchange for Deity offended"; and

"From scenes like these old Scotia's grandeur springs,
That makes her loved at home, revered abroad;
Princes and lords are but the breath of things;
An honest man's the noblest work of God."

Forgetting all his human frailties, we all, whether of Scottish blood or no, can unite in this yearly tribute to the man whose poems live eternal while the words and deeds of many of his contemporaries are forgotten.

NEW GOLD FIELD

BOMBAY—(CP).—Gold has been discovered near Godhra and the Indian Government has granted a mining lease over five square miles. A research syndicate is satisfied the desposits are workable.

No Wonder You Are Constipated!

What do you eat for breakfast? Coffee, toast, maybe some eggs? What do you eat for lunch and dinner? Bread, meat, potatoes? No wonder you're constipated... due to lack of "bulk." And "oulk" doesn't mean the amount you eat. It means the kind of food that forms a soft, bulky mass in the bowels. It's this mass that helps your bowels move.

The common sense thing to do about it is to eat Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast. This ready-to-eat cereal will give you just the "bulk" you need. And it gives you, in addition, Nature's intestinal-tonic, vitamin B1. Eat a generous portion of All-Bran every day, drink plenty of water; and life will be brighter for you! All-Bran is made by Kellogg in London, Canada. Sold by every grocer.

BABY FRETFUL?

FRETFULNESS is not natural. It is a sign of trouble. A warning alarm to which you must quickly respond.

Read how Mrs. George Mitchell responds: "I have found Baby's Own Tablets so helpful when my baby gets irritable and upset. I give him one or two tablets and in a short time he is relieved and sleeps so soundly."

And Mrs. Stewart McEachern says, "When my baby shows signs of fever or fretfulness I give her Baby's Own Tablets which change her to a good baby."

Baby's Own Tablets also bring quick relief from diarrhoea, colic, upset stomach, simple croup, colds, constipation, teething troubles, summer complaint and simple fever.

Quick, sure and safe in their action. Free from opiates and stupefying drugs. An analysts' certificate in every box. Get a box today. Sickness so often strikes in the night. 25 cents. Money back if you are not satisfied.

For Quick Cough Relief, Try This Home Mixture

Splendid Results. Saves Money. Easily Mixed.

You'll never know how quickly and easily you can overcome a bad winter cough, until you try this well known recipe. It gives you four times as much cough medicine for your money and you'll find it very pleasant and dependable, for real relief.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed—it's no trouble at all. Then put 2½ ounces of Pinex (obtained from any druggist) into a 16 oz. bottle. Add your syrup and you have 16 ounces of medicine that will surprise you by its quick action. It never spoils, lasts a family a long time, and tastes fine—children love it.

This home mixture takes right hold of a severe cough. For real results, you'll say it's splendid. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and quickly eases soreness and difficult breathing.

Pinex is a compound containing Norway Pine, in concentrated form, well known for its soothing effect on throat membranes. Money refunded if it doesn't please you perfectly.

How Women in Their 40's Can Attract Men

Here's good advice for a woman during her change (usually from 38 to 52), who fears she'll lose her appeal to men, who worries about hot flashes, loss of pep, dizzy spells, upset nerves and moody spells.

Just get more fresh air, 8 hrs. sleep and if you need a reliable "WOMAN'S" tonic take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made especially for women. It helps Nature build up physical resistance, thus helps give more vivacity to enjoy life and assist calming jittery nerves and those disturbing symptoms that often accompany change of life.

Pinkham's is WELL WORTH trying.

Hastings Beats Westwood 5-3

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Jan. 25 — Hastings Bushwhackers defeated Westwood 5 to 3 here Tuesday night in an East Peterborough Rural Hockey league game. Witnessed by the largest crowd of the season, it was a wide open game with play getting rough at times.

Hastings went on the offensive to open the game and after 3 minutes of play G. Scriver gave Hastings the lead. He stick-handled through the entire Westwood team and blazed a hard one past Richardson. W. Mortlock for Westwood drew the first penalty of the game when he was given the gate for tripping. Hastings put on the power play and Crate put them two up when he scored on a pass from Brownell. Westwood got their first goal after 10 minutes of play when Chapman beat Kelly on a long shot. Washburn shot one in a second later but it was disallowed. G. Scriver made it 3 to 1 for Hastings when he scored his second goal of the period. This one on a pass from McKee.

Hastings sent every man up to start the second period, but Graham returned before any damage was done. After seven minutes of play G. Scriver sank his third goal of the game on a pass from McKee, to give Hastings a 4 to 1 lead. Three minutes later McKee carried the puck into Westwood territory where he was bodied and knocked down and while sitting on the ice scored Hastings' fifth goal. Five minutes later Chapman got his second goal to bring Westwood one closer..

Westwood sent every man up and gave Kelley plenty of work in the third. B. Mortlock finally netted the puck to pull Westwood to within two of Hastings. G. Scriver, Crate, Kelley and McKee starred for Hastings. For Westwood Morris, B. Mortlock, Chapman and Ross were outstanding. The teams:

Westwood: Goal, Richardson; defence, Morris and W. Graham; centre, B. Mortlock; wings, J. Graham and Sargent; subs, Thompson, Chapman, Ross, Thomas, W. Mortlock.

MUSSING UP THE MAPLES

J. Field of the Merchants' League heaved off the best three game score in last night's league bowling. Field's count was 691, Harold Freeman of the same loop was next with 685, Lalonde 627, J. Anthony 608, Bennywith 608, J. Russell 610, and R. Penrose 602. The highest game for the ladies also went to the same group when Mrs. R. Penrose tipped over 594 (250); Miss Grant nailed the evening's best single 265, while Miss Moore got in three good games for a total of 532.

Two Bankers' teams were present, Colley and Perdue of the Dominion finishing with 660 and 624, and LeClair of the Montreal 637.

In the mixed Mercantile League W. Clark counted 640, H. West 627, W. Moorhead 617, J. Leith 600. Margaret Wyllie led the girls' section with 494, June Best had 480, and a good 207 single was marked up by Helen Quinlan in her 471. A 305 single by R. Wilson was high for the night.

With several of the C.G.E. trundlers crowding the 600 mark only eight of them got over the hump. D. Munro 634, J. Dunn 624, A. Millard 619, M. Hill 613, S. S. Shaughnessy 604, H. Winterbottom 602, and V. Craig and A. Metcalfe 600 each. Two games by G. Robertson gave him 437.

Plans Comeback On Reaching 63

NEW YORK, Jan 25—(CP)—Mighty Matt McGrath, whose 40 feet 6¾ inches heave of the 56-pound weight at Montreal in 1911 still stands as a North American record, is planning a comeback to competitive athletcis when he retires next year—at 63—from the New York police force.

One of the greatest athletes of all time and still iron-thewed and oak-chested in spite of his years, Matt specifically has his eyes on the 1940 Olympics in Finland. If he makes the grade it will be his fifth set of Olympics In 30 years of competition, he has won 21 United States weight-throwing championships and his 1912 Olympic record in the hammer-throw stood until the Berlin games in 1936.

Strictly speaking it won't be a comeback as McGrath never allowed himself to get out of condition. Today, he says, he's "right at 220 pounds—just what I was when I entered the force of 1908."

"I still go out of a Sunday tossing the weights about," he told an interviewer recently. "And I have a feeling that if I were to take three or four months free of business and work back to the level of real competition—then I could earn a place on the Olympic team."

Not Boasting

"Now I don't want to seem like boasting—I don't say I could win over the strong young fellows coming along now—but I think I could make a spot on the team," he added.

McGrath was born in Ireland and came to New York at the age of 21. His first mix-up with weight-throwing and the police force, which led him to fame in the sports world and to an honorable career in which he rose to inspector, might easily have landed him in jail, he tells with a twinkle in his keen eyes.

"I hadn't been here a week," he laughed, "when I wandered up into Central Park and thought I was out in the country. I took my shoes off, and made two marks on the ground and began to toss some rocks back and forth, just to limber up. And after a while I felt like a swim in the lake.

"Now there was a mounted policeman near by, and he rode up wagging his head, and he said, 'Man, it's clear I've got to arrest ye. Ye've broken every park ordinance there is, and this is too much.' But I explained how it was, and he understood. After that I thought to myself, 'Well, now, he was a fine fellow, and if the rest are like that I'd better join up'."

McGrath is married and six years ago he and Mrs. Grath adopted a three-year-old Chinese orphan Bobby Lou.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

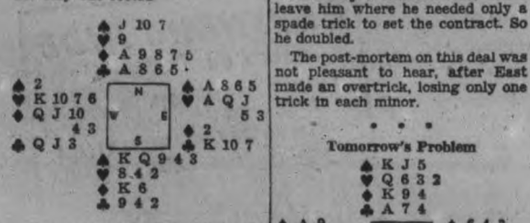
"The Authority on Authorities"

WATCH THE TRICKSTER

INCORRIGIBLE psychic bidders can sometimes be made to pay heavily for their fancy didoes if opposed by players who keep a canny watch on them. Sound use of the natural meanings of bids and doubles will usually reveal the true situation to the opponents and may leave the psychic bidder's partner the only one foole...



(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

Holding the North cards of this deal was a player known to be plagued by too much imagination. After his partner's pass, he visualized the opponents having a sure heart game, so decided to forestall it with an opening psychic bid of 1-Heart. East doubled, South redoubled and West passed.

North couldn't stand that redouble, so bid 2-Diamonds. East bid 2-Spades, South doubled and West made the whole situation clear to his partner with 2-No trump. This showed hearts and diamonds amply stopped and also probably a bit of something in clubs, a perfect picture of his holding.

News about his partner's heart stoppers was all East needed to know to see that a heart game should be in the cards for his side, so he leaped to 4-Hearts without further ado. Now South thought he saw a winning defense. A lead of his diamond K, then another to the A indicated by his partner's bidding, followed by a diamond ruff, would leave him where he needed only a spade trick to set the contract. So he doubled.

The post-mortem on this deal was not pleasant to hear, after East made an overtrick, losing only one trick in each minor.

Tomorrow's Problem

(Dealer: West. Neither side vulnerable.)

If the first three tricks against South's 4-Heart contract are the spade A, spade 9 to the K and heart 2 to the J, K and A, why should West next lay down his diamond A?

Too Many Garages

COBOURG, Ont., Jan. 25—(CP) Cobourg town council has been approached by local members of the Garage Operators Association for municipal action to restrict the number of garages and service stations in Cobourg. It was pointed out a total of 987 motor vehicles in Cobourg meant only 18 of such vehicles to a gas pump in Cobourg. With business as it was if any more garages or service stations opened up in Cobourg it would make the situation worse it was claimed. The council has advised the local garagemen to furnish the council with some legal authorities for such restrictions.

Unusual Play Is Presented In Warsaw Hall

WARSAW, Jan. 25.—An interesting and very entertaining play of an unusual sort was presented by the members of St. Mark's Anglican Church, Warsaw in the town hall on Friday evening.

The evening opened with a short address of welcome by the Rev. R. T. F. Brain, in charge of St. Mark's. This was followed by a play which was a real surprise to the audience. Instead of the usual "come over the hill" type of drama or the slapstick comedy usually seen at amateur plays, they were greeted by witty repartee, that was cleverly given and held the attention of the audience throughout the three acts.

The play, "For Pete's Sake" by Jay Tobias deals with the attempt of two college youths, Peter Pepperdine played by Earl Tye and Bill Bradshaw played by Elias Thompson, to spy on their girls during the summer and see if the girls remain true to them. Having got Peter's aunt, Miss Sarath Pepperdine played by Mildred Murray, out of the way by sending her to The Holy Land and the cook Jasmine played by Mrs. E. Tye, obedient to their orders by inventing the fictitious ghost of Grandfather Pepperdine they rent Miss Pepperdine's country house to the mother of their girlfriend's, Mrs. Clarkstone played by Milo Payne, a society loving lady who is endeavouring to capture the two richest men of the town, John Bolivar played by Mr. V. Jackson, and Dupont Darby played by Mr. E. Cooper for her daughters.

Peter and Bill force Thorndyke Murgelthorpe played by Mr. C. Tye, the nephew of the Dean of the college, and who is tutoring Peter for the summer to help them. The trio dress up as servants and Peter disguised as a butler tells Mrs. Clarkstone that they are the old servants of Miss Pepperdine.

The comedy commences in earnest when Mrs. Clarkstone invites John Bolivar, Dupont Darby and Dean Murgelthorpe played by Mr. T. Davis, whom she has set her cap for to dinner. John Bolivar and Dupont Darby proceed to propose to Mrs. Clarkstone's daughters, Madine played by Mary Bell and Peggy played by Merle Bell. Peter and Bill prevent the proposals from being completed by interrupting constantly. They succeed but are thrown into consternation themselves by Melvina Potts played by Mrs. E. Cooper, a reporter who smelling a rat proceeds to inform the police, and by the return of Peter's aunt who cancels her trip. However all ends happily for the boys, and they are permitted to marry their girls. High spots are when Dupont Darby tries to kiss Madine and instead kisses Bill disguised in a set of whiskers that make him look like a bolshevik, and Peter and Bill are found by Mrs. Clarkstone beating Thorndyke who is disguised as a maid.

Entertainment between acts was provided by Misses Scott and McIlwain who gave several guitar numbers and by Mr. Victor Coleman who sang two vocal numbers. The cast are planning to take the play to Douro on the 31st.

Society Brothers Revealed As Robbers

While Cleveland and New Orleans police hunted them as robbers, Peyton (LEFT) and Quentin Wilson, brothers who posed as society aviators, calmly lived as guests in the Cleveland home of Captain Julian Inglefield, former British air force officer and now an official of the National Air Races. The two brothers smiled and talked their way into the smart set of Cleveland's aviation circle and allegedly carried on their criminal escapades also. When their identity was revealed, they confessed to numerous Cleveland robberies. Police said they must also face 27 charges in New Orleans.

The cub pack witnessed there presentations when Jack White, Robert Adams and Allan Paterson received their first stars. Clare McDougal passed his Union Jack.

In the competition, the White Six are ahead in points.

The troop held a camp fire program, at which all the cub officers were invited.

Akela Brooks, Scouter Rose and Assistant Scouter Tomkins were the song leaders.

Gordon Blackwell played a guitar solo, accompanied by Scouter Rose. The Camp Fire Quartete were the Scouter, Troop Leader Bill Kemp, P.L. Lloyd Williamson of the Beavers, and Second Jack Macdonald of the Eagles. The Eagle patrol at present holds the honor flag. It was this patrol who put on the skit about a young man who bought an old open car for one dollar and after a series of mishaps the rest of the scouts had to push the junk pile off the road.

The Wolf patrol will put on the skit at the next camp fire program.

The Beaver patrol are requested to be out in full numbers at the next meeting as the P.L. has something special to carry out.

The rover crew were few in numbers at the regular meeting and took in the local hockey game as guests of the skipper.

On Sunday, a meeting was held in the home of Skipper Cutmore, and the following officers were elected:

Chaplain, Rev. Canon Paterson; Rover Mate, Gordon White; Secretary, Walter Dunford; Treasurer, F. Simmons; Librarian and Historian, Stan. Brooks; Music Master, George Brooks; Sports Director, Ted Tomkins; Camp Chief, Art Rose; Assistant Camp Chief, Wallace Booth; Galley Master, Chas, Dobbin; Representative to rover council, Walt. Dunford and Fred Simmons.

It was decided to postpone the regular meeting this week as the annual banquet will be held in the central headquarters on Saturday, January 28, at 5.45 p.m.

Promotion was given to P.L. Bill Kemp of the troop, when he was made troop leader, filling the vacancy made when Frank Stewart went to the rover crew.

At St. Paul's.

The pack will not meet next Friday owing to their quarters being taken for a concert. Doug. McCullough passed his hopping test. A game of floor hockey was enjoyed last week, and on Saturday a good number turned out to a skating party in Jackson Park.

With Sacred Heart.

Vincent Kubica, who joined Sacred Heart from the St. ePter's pack, was presented with his second star by District Cub Master Gordon Clegg. Messrs. Lyburn and Ottowell were visitors at the Red Flower program.

A low attendance was on hand and the parents would assist the leaders by urging their boys to attend.

The new "Do Your Best" competition opened last Friday.

On Thursday evening several older boys and troop committeemen met and it was decided to form a senior patrol, who will meet every Thursday after the cub pack has dismissed. This was thought the best method to retain the older boys in the troop.

St. John's.

Grant Howard left the cub pack and entered the troop in a going-up ceremony.

Jack Paterson passed his second class fire fighting and compass. The rover crew held an open air meeting; some skiing, other skating; finishing up at the skipper's for coffee.

Vancouver To Nip Building Racket

VANCOUVER, Jan. 25—(CP). — Joint action by the Dominion Government and Vancouver City Council to curb any contractors or real estate operators from defrauding home owners under the National Housing Act was discussed at the City Hall yesterday by Aldermen and F. W. Nicholls, Dominion Director of Housing.

After the meeting the Civic Building Committee appointed a sub-committee to study complaints of badly-built houses. Later Nicholls announced that, apart from anything the committee may do, the Dominion Government in future will limit contractors under the Housing Act to "reputable contractors."

Meanwhile J. L. Northey, president of the Building Contractors' Association, said the housing director had agreed to set up a "white list" of reputable contractors at a conference with the association.

"Only firms on the list will be allowed to build home under the Housing Act," Northey explained.

Nicolls told aldermen that certain Vancouver contractors have been "blacklisted" under N.H.A., but added that he had discovered cases in the city where a "blacklisted" contractor got contracts by signing another name to the application form.

This, he alleged, had been done in "collusion" with real estate firms.

Nicolls told the meeting that "rackets in building exist in this city and, as far as I know, this is the only city in Canada."

Vegetable Growers Fight Immigrants

TORONTO, Jan. 25—(CP).—The new Canada-United States trade treaty has dealt a "staggering blow" to the vegetable growing industry, President George G. Reeves of Islington told the 34th annual convention of the Ontario Vegetable Growers' Association here today.

The agreement which went into effect Jan. 1 had left the growers "with a protection which will be of little or no value," he said. "The Dominion government should be strongly censured for their action."

(Under the new trade agreement, the tariff on vegetables entering Canada from the United States was reduced from 15 to 10 per cent, with seasonal valuations reduced in many instances.

Discussing what he said was the possibility of refugees from strife-torn Europe coming to Canada and settling on farms, Mr. Reeves urged the association to "take a strong stand." He added "we feel that any further immigration of peoples to be placed on the farm would be placing still greater hardships on the whole agricultural industry."

It was a "positive fact" that unless something was done to bolster vegetable prices or lower production costs the growers would be unable to carry on for many more years. A larger membership would aid the association in its efforts to improve the lot of vegetable growers and the president urged the members to give the association "added strength to attack our problems."

Double Holdup In Grimsby District Nets 3 Gunmen $13, Watch, Coats

ST. CATHRARINES, Ont., Jan. 25 (CP).—Striking at opposite ends of Highway No. 8 in Lincoln County early today, gunmen held up two men, stole approximately $13 in cash, a gold watch and chain, an overcoat and a fedora and assaulted one of their victims.

The robberies occurred 35 minutes apart and to accomplish the holdups police believe the trio, travelling in a light model coupe, drove nearly 60-miles-an-hour over ice-covered highways during a blinding snowstorm.

The first robbery occurred near the Michigan Central Railway viaduct between St. Davids and Queenston on Highway 8. Fred. Black, of Queenston, was proceeding towards his home from St. Davids.

He was alone in his car and travelling at moderate rate of speed when a coupe drew alongside him and forced him into the ditch.

Three men, armed with revolvers, surrounded his car. While two of the men took his wallet containing $4, driver's license, a gold watch and chain, and a light grey overcoat and grey fedora hat, the third bandit ripped the wires from the ignition and disabled the car. The three gunmen jumped into their car, turned around and started back towards St. Catharines. Black ran to a nearby farm house and called Provincial police at Niagara. Constable George MacGuire, who responded to the call, notified Constable I. R. Robbie at St. Catharines, and though Constable Robbie patrolled the highway between this city and the scene of the hold-up, he found no trace of the auto.

The Second Job.

Exactly 35 minutes later a couple pulled up in front of the radial dinner stand on highway eight two miles east of Grimsby. Two men walked from the auto into the stand. A patron was in the stand talking to Jack Hoey, a waiter, and former Olympic swimming star.

The men ordered a bottle of pop each, and when the lone patron stayin the stand, they ordered a second bottle of pop each. When the customer left, one of the men walked towards the cash register and Hoey believing he was about to pay for the pop also walked to the register.

The man flashed a revolver, backed him into a corner and asked for his money.

Hoey tried to put up an argument but the man slugged him across the face with the butt of the gun, saying he meant business.

Hoey gave him $3 in the cash register and $6 he had in his trousers. While the hold-up was underway the second bandit walked to the end of the stand and ripped the pay telephone off the wall. Their task completed the men ran to the auto and drove away.

Hoey ran down the highway to a farm house and telephoned Chief William Turner at Grimsby. At the moment Chief Turner was patrolling the main street in Grimsby. Hearing an auto approaching at a terrific speed, the chief stepped into the highway and attempted to stop it, but the coupe swerved past him. He ran into the police office to telephone Hamilton and the highway patrol and found the police phone ringing. The caller was Hoey to report the robbery.

Provincial Constable Charles W. Wood was summoned and together with Chief Turner a check up was made of the district.

Widow's Hens Stolen

BRANTFORD, Ont., Jan. 25—(CP)—The traditional "meanest thief" invaded the chicken coop of the widows' home at West and Sheridan streets last night and stole ten chickens.

The loss will be keenly felt, as the chickens were generous contributors to the meal table for the elderly ladies at the home.

Adjudicates Will

Judge J. Allan Simpson is pictured here in his Racine, Wis., court reading the disputed $9,000,000 will of Mrs. Maybelle Horlick Sidley, malted milk fortune heiress who died at the Toronto home of W. Perkins Bull, Toronto barrister. William Horlick Sidley, only son of the late heiress, is seeking to break the will on the grounds that his mother was mentally incompetent and under undue influence when she executed the document. Judge Simpson will adjudicate in the hearing.

Ransom Is Income

When Murray Humphries, (ABOVE) appeared in a Chicago court to face charges laid by the United States government he heard a government attorney charge, in effect, that he owes income tax on his share of an alleged ransom from a $50,000 kidnapping. Humphries, once dubbed Public Enemy No. 1 by Chicago police, is said to be a former friend of Al Capone.

Aylmer Jobless Get Work Again.

AYLMER, Que., Jan. 25—(CP).—Relief work that will start tomorrow has solved the pressing problem of 148 families who have been living on donations of food and money from fellow townfolk since the first of the year.

A meeting of town council last night heard from George Auger, Union Nationale M.L.A. for Gatineau, that the Quebec government will resume work that was halted Dec. 30, depriving 800 persons of their only source of revenue.

With the town treasury empty they have been living on food and fuel donations of merchants, townspeople and district farmers who filled the fire station with tons of farm products and groceries when Mayor W. J. Lavigne called for aid.

Mr. Auger told the jammed meeting that engineers would arrive from Quebec today to map out a relief program.

There is still enough food in the fire station for the needs of the 148 families until the first cheques arrive from Quebec but Mayor Lavigne said that hunger was a r[illegible] possibility of the decision to resume the work had not been made.

OTTAWA, Jan. 26 (CP).—Shattering all previous peacetime figures, Canada's defence estimates for 1939-1940 top the $60,000,000 mark. That amount will be needed to speed up Canada's armament program during the forthcoming fiscal year.

New airplanes for the Royal Canadian Air Force and new hangars wherein to house them, an increase in R.C.A.F. personnel, another warship for the naval service, guns, ammunition, buildings and magazines for all branches are provided for in the estimates tabled in the Commons yesterday. For the training of air force pilots alone, $6,000,000 is to be provided.

The total vote for the Department is $63,435,175, against $35,966,524 for the current year. Of the total, $29,405,102 is shown under capital account and this will be amortized over a 10-year period under a policy announced Tuesday. The sum of $3,477,175 is provided for liquidating the loan and to take care of interest and sinking fund, leaving $60,058,000 for actual expenditure by the Department.

Looking Ahead.

In addition to the total vote parliament will be asked to approve commitments for future years of $22,062,606. They cover armaments and equipment, air force stores and ammunition. The commitments are shown in the estimates in brackets before the items to which they relate and it is assumed that when the items are adopted approval will be given the commitments automatically.

Those who have followed defence matters closely believe that somewhere in the $6,000,000 amount for training pilots there is a sum earmarked for the training of pilots in Canada for the Royal Air Force. This matter loomed large six months ago and then appeared to slumber. It is known, however, that negotiations have been continuing, that innumerable complex details have already been ironed out and expectation is that Defence Minister Mackenzie will announce the scheme to the House of Commons soon.

64 More Planes

For the R. C. A. F. another 64 airplanes are being provided. Taken with those already delivered and in course of construction, this will jump the number being acquired by that arm of the service to approximately 250 first-line service machines.

The new program is understood to provide for more bombers, fast fighters, observation, army co-operation and training craft.

Particular attention is being given to aerial coast defences. Large sums are being spent on both the Atlantic and Pacific. Heretofore neither Sydney nor Truro has figured much in the Nova Scotia sphere of aerial activity. But this year's estimates set aside $570,000

Ottawa Orders Boy Let Out Of County Jail

Father and son met for the first time in 18 months at the Peterborough County jail this morning and walked away arm in arm, apparently completely reconciled.

The Minister of Justice brought the schoolboy's long absence from his home to a nend when he remitted half of 15-year-old David Hutchinson's ten-day vagrancy sentence to allow him to rejoin his father, Henry Hutchinson. The parent came to Peterborough yesterday in search of his boy after a woman had seen an account of his sentence in the pages of the Examiner. She wrote to the father and he came immediately from Lake Penage, near Sudbury, to see the boy.

"I won't force the boy to come home if he doesn't want to," Hutchinson said yesterday afternoon as he waited at the jail for the release to come through. "If he wan't come, at least I can grubstake him so he won't have to steal to live."

"This youngster has pluck," he said. "He has never whimpered in his life and I'm only afraid his pride won't let him come back with me. But if he doesn't, I can only hope to God he will write to us. His mother worried terribly."

But apparently the lad decided home was best after all because the two of them left the jail together, walking arm in arm down the street.

Martin Resigns From C.I.O.

NEW YORK, Jan. 26 — (AP). — Formally severing all ties with Chairman John L. Lewis of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, his former mentor, Homer Martin opened a legal battle to-day to retain his post as president of the United Automobile Workers of America.

Martin, "impeached" recently by the same 15 U.A.W. board members he "suspended" in a factional battle, resigned from the C.I.O.'s executive board in a letter he made public here yesterday terming Lewis a dictatorial "betrayer" of labor.

His action followed the recognition by the C.I.O.—through Vice-President Philip Murray and Sidney Hillman—of the 15 "suspended" members as the U.A.W. ruling board and R. J. Thomas, instead of Martin, as president.

Lanphier To Buy Time On Air Show Up Reds

TORONTO, Jan. 26 — (CP). — Rev. Charles B. Lanpier said to-day he planned to purchase a regular half-hour period of broadcasting time and offered his "fullest co-operation" to Dominion Government authorities "in enlightening all people to the facts about communism in Canada."

Addressing the Canadian Progress Club, the Catholic priest said the proposed broadcasts would be "complete, distinct and separate from the present Catholic Hour "a broadcast on which he formerly spoke. They would enable the people "to discern a communistic united front organization from a real sound organization."

Though Father Lanphier, banned from the air Jan. 5 by the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation for o breach of C.B.C. regulations respecting election broadcasts, had received permission to broadcast his address today, this was not done. Club officials said insufficient time precluded making broadcasting arrangements.

"In brief, I am offering my fullest assistance to the government of Canada, with no string whatever attached," said the priest. "In order that no obligations, restrictions and impediments may in any way interfere, my broadcasts wil lbe paid from the radio league of St. Michael, which is really the public funds."

Father Lanphier made no direct reference to C.B.C. action in banning him from the air but he asked that no irritating restrictions and impediments" be placed upon any individual or section of society "that is honestly striving to deal with this problem in a tangible, practical way."

OTTAWA, Jan. 26—(CP).—Exports of meats from Canada during 1938 totalled $36,308,801 compared with $42,161,377 in 1937, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today.

Other exports with figures for 1937 in brackets: Asbestos $10,872,435 ($10,972,852); hides and skins $2,967,954 ($4,019,587); soap $1,394,753 ($1,240,872); and living animals $10,641,148 ($19,695,426.)

178 Canadian Volunteers Are Missing In Spain

LONDON, Jan. 26 (CP Cable)—A party of 178 Canadian volunteers has been "lost" in Spain while another group of 292 passed over the French border enroute to Canada.

According to meagre reports reaching London today the "lost legion" became detached from the main party at the French border when French authorities ordered the train to proceed. Officials here are trying to round them up.

The main party will arrive at New Haven from Dieppe and leave from Liverpool aboard the liner Duchess of Richmond Friday. Major E. Cecil-Smith of Toronto is in command.

Back from beleaguered Barcelona where he arranged for repatriation of the Canadian combatants, A. A. Macleod of Sydney Mines, N.S., president of the Canadian League for Peace and Democracy, with headquarters at Toronto, he was worried over the plight of 178 Canadians still in Spain.

However, he was happy over the results of a consultation with foreign office officials, which assured the immediate transfer of 33 Canadian prisoners held a Burgos and their eventual embarkation for home.

He said the 292 Canadians were embarking in the Duchess of Richmond at Liverpool during the night, sailing for Canada possibly Friday

First Ice Bridge Of '39 Forms Across Niagara

Niagara Falls, Ont., Jan. 26 (CP)

THE FIRST ice bridge of the season was formed in the Niagara River today, completing it below the falls. It extends from the base of the horseshoe falls on the Canadian side to the Niagara Falls power house on the United States side. There is a noticeable decrease in the amount of water flowing over the falls. So far the grinding ice is not piling up on each side, cause of the collapse of the falls view bridge and damage to power houses last year.

Kingsley Wood Extends Call For Volunteers To Fill Auxiliary Air Service

LONDON, Jan. 26—(CP Havos).—Opportunities for men to serve Great Britain by enlisting for auxiliary work in the Royal Air Force were emphasized yesterday by Air Secretary Sir Kingley Wood as he inspected the Royal Air Force's new information office here.

He said the appeal issued last June to increase the number of persons in the administrative services of military aviation had brought very satisfactory results.

Sir Kingsley added: "We continue to have a large number of vacancies for short service officers, air observers, and tradesmen such as wireless operators and flight commanders.

Barcelonans Cheer Conquerors

Hail Moors, Italians As Food Trucks Reach Fallen City

HENDAYE, France, Jan. 26—(AP)—General Franco's Spanish Moorish and Italian troops marched into Barcelona at noon today with flags flying and bands playing, formally taking over Spain's largest city after 2½ years of civil war.

The government defence had collapsed. Insurgent dispatches said there was little or no resistance at the end. The government army was forming a new defence line somewhere to the north.

Insurgent account of the entry said the people of Barcelona flocked from their houses to greet the victorious army whose planes for months have been raining death in their midst.

Today it was another thing. Dispatches reaching the border said the Barcelonans cheered wildly as the troops paraded through the palm-lined streets.

To them Franco's victory meant something other than triumph for the insurgent cause. It meant food and an end to the bombings.

Government Moves North

Meanwhile ministries of the Republican government had fled to Northern Gerona province, near the French border, where they were spread through several towns. The government's supporters insisted the war would continue both there and in the central zone, where the government still holds Madrid and Valencia.

Truckloads of provisions rumbled up behind the Barcelona army of occupation to bring relief to the population after months of privation inflicted by the insurgent air and sea blockade. In the last turbulent days, especially since insurgent troops reached the outskirts Jan. 24, the city's supply lines were reported to have failed completely, leaving a half starved population.

A great part of the city's inhabitants appeared to have remained stoically to await the arrival of the conquerors.

Refugees Swarm Coast.

However, well to the north-east columns of refugees fleeing the insurgent conquest swarmed toward the French frontier along the road hugging the Mediterranean coast, the last avenue open to traffic. Even that route was under the bombs of the insurgent air force.

Franco was understood to be planning to move his capital to Barcelona, Spain's greatest city, from the smaller city of Burgos, which has been his base.

In the fastnesses of the mountainous north-eastern corner of Spain, just across the frontier from France, Premier Juan Negrin and his ministers were reported intending to open up new defensive operations along a hastily thrown up line.

Earlier to-day insurgent despatches said Franco's columns, having virtually encircled the flaming, war-scarred city, were waiting at Barcelona's gates for orders to move in. It was not clear then whether the entry would be a triumphal march or an advance through bitterly contested streets.

Foreign Troops Lead.

Three picked columns of troops which have seen some of the most savage fighting of the war—the Moroccan Legionnaires, the Navarrese Army Corps, and an Italian "arrow" division—were given the honor of leading the entry into Barcelona.'

Two of its major strongholds, the grey stone fortress of Montjuich on coastal heights in the southern quarter of the city and the bare steep 1,745-foot peak of Tibidabo, rising on the western outskirts, fell before the entry began.

Insurgent advices said Montjuich and Tibidabo were taken after a brief attack. It was indicated there was only slight resistance at those points. Their fall was the signal for the start of the march into the heart of Barcelona.

The Plaza de Catalunya, central square of Barcelona, and its most important buildings, such as the telephone building, had long been barricaded behind sandbags, but most of the government defenders had been evacuated to the north.

Doctor Snowshoes For Four Miles To Beat Out Stork

Sutton West, Ont., Jan. 26 (CP) DR. M. O. BEATTIE played stork today on snowshoes to deliver a baby girl in Baldwin, four miles south of here, when he found the town cut off by drifts.

The York County doctor started out in 12 below zero weather on a sleigh for the home of Mrs. Robert Nicholson. He covered the first three miles out 10-foot drifts blocked the remaining mile.

The doctor donned snowshoes and arrived in time. Women in the village of 100 inhabitants acted as nurses. Mother and baby are "doing well."

Fear Chile Toll May Reach 12,000 Dead

SANTIAGO, Chile, Jan. 26—(AP).—First government reports today gave more than 4,000 dead and the total may go above 12,000 in the earthquake that spread ruin and terror through central Chile Tuesday.

The government communique was the first official tabulation of the death and damage and it was far from complete. Estimates of 12,000 dead came from aviators who flew over the regions hardest hit, 250 miles south of Santiago in the heart of the agricultural belt, from refugees who came out by air and from amateur radio operators.

The communique also confirmed that the ancient city of Chillan, associated with early Chilean history, was destroyed. More than 300 were killed in a theatre collapse and the total dead there was put at between 3,000 and 4,000. The population is 40,000.

"Sixty per cent" of Concepcion—known to tourists as the city of the perfumed plaza because of its beautiful linden trees— was destroyed. The communique gave no estimate of dead among the population of 77,000. Aviators and a manufacturer who flew out agreed that 2,000 was a likely figure.

Talca, with a population of 65,000 and known as one of the proudest cities in South America, suffered heavy damage. Five dead were listed there.

Dead In Score of Towns

From more than a score of towns came reports of dead, of homes and jails that collapsed, of fire, of lack of water and light, and of food shortage.

The quake was felt through a 450-mile strip from Valaparaiso, north of Santiago, south along the coast. The Concepcion - Tacla - Chillan region, 250 miles south, was the most seriously affected.

Many of the houses in the region are of ancient brick, some walls six feet thick, with heavy tile roofing. Only in recent years have the larger cities required quake-withstanding construction of steel.

The government announcement said that a hospital collapsed at Cauquennes, town of 6,500 noted for its mineral springs, killing 20. Seventy died when the jail fell.

San Carlos suffered heavy damage and Longavi was nearly demolished, but from these and other towns death tabulations were lacking.

To speed rescue operations, the government ordered the military to take over radio stations. Special trains, destroyers, planes, trucks and vessels sped to the stricken region with doctors, nurses, food and medicine.

Some officials gave credence to estimates the dead in Chillan alone might total 10,000.

60% Homes Ruined.

Cesar Mendila, a shoe manufacturer who came from Concepcion by air, told The Associated Press:

"Concepcion presents a pitiful aspect. With groups of friends I visited the whole town and can say about 60 per cent of the houses are in ruins.

"A serious situation was created by lack of lights and drinking water. Carabineros and soldiers have been busy all day Wednesday removing debris to search for victims. They managed to rescue many.

"The Teatro Campo Club and the Concepcion hospital were among important buildings seriously wrecked. In the course of the day six large planes arrived with medical supplies and other material urgently needed.

"I share the belief of others that the number of dead is about 2,000."

France, Britain Ready For Italian Threat As Duce Boasts Romans To "Pass Again" As Barcelona Falls

Chamberlain Calls Conference On Spanish Case

PARIS, Jan. 26 (AP).—Premier Edouard Daladier announced today that France and Great Britain had agreed to take "the necessary steps" to meet an Italian threat if the Fascist forces fail to leave Spain at the close of the civil war.

The Premier said precautions have already been taken to protect French and British communication lines in the Mediterranean, where warships of the two powers now are on training cruises.

Mussolini Boasts Again

ROME, Jan. 26—(AP).—Premier Mussolini raised cries of "Tunisia" from a wildly cheering crowd of Fascists tonight by declaring Italians would "pass" again as they had in the conquest of Barcelona.

Referring to the Spanish government slogan "no Pasaran," Mussolini said "we passed, and I say to you that we will pass."

A crowd estimated at 50,000 clamored for Il Duce until he appeared on balcony of the Palazzo Venezia. He described the capture of Spain's largest city as a "splendid victory" and called it "another chapter in the new Europe we are creating."

Britons in Conference.

LONDON, Jan. 26 — (AP). — Prime Minister Chamberlain called his Cabinet Ministers into conference to-day immediately after word of the fall of Barcelona reached London.

They reviewed the European situation in the light of Spanish developments. This was also the subject of conferences at the Foreign Office between British leaders and the Ambassadors of France and Government Spain.

French Ambassador Charles Corbin was reported to have urged immediate conversations between the French and British ministers.

A French Warning.

PARIS, Jan. 26 — (AP).—Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet gave Italy a solemn warning to-day to keep hands off the French colonial empire while south of France's Spanish frontier Italian troops were aiding the insurgent conquest of Barcelona.

"France cannot permit anyone to touch the empire she founded with her blood," Bonnet declared in the crowded cheering Chamber of Deputies.

His speech concluded two weeks of foreign affairs debate just after the government called 80,000 young men, six months ahead of schedule, for service during the coming months when Italy's demands for a share in the French Empire are expected to reach a climax.

Labor, Youth Organizations Protest Canadian Corps' Plan Concentration Camps

TORONTO, Jan 26—(CP)—Opposition to the demand of the Canadian Corps Association that the Federal government half its works projects plans in favor of camps for unemployed youths was voiced in letters and telegrams to Ottawa today.

Church organizations, labor groups and youth organizations forwarded messages to Premier King.

"The 1,500 members of the United Electrical Radio and Machine Workers of America protest against the plan of the Canadian Corps for segregation of our unemployed youth into concentration camps away from the democratic influences of community life," read a wire over the signature of C. S. Jackson, general vice-president of the union. "Our organization calls upon you to proceed immediately with the program of works projects at union wages and application and extension of the Dominion youth training plan, the only practicable and democratic solution to the problem of unemployed youth."

The Steel Workers' organizing committee, representing 10,000 Canadian workers and their families, also protested. Their wire was signed by Richard Steele, general secretary. The telegram requested the government to "ignore the demands of certain militarists that you delay your plans for federal works and youth employment programs."

Not The Only Plan.

Opposition of the Canadian Youth Congress was expressed in a telegram signed by Kenneth Woodsworth, national secretary. "It is absolutely untrue to say that the Canadian Corps' plan is the only program that has been advanced," it said. "The Canadian Youth Congress at its first session in Ottawa in 1936 advanced comprehensive and

Duce Seeking 4-Power Pledge

LONDON, Jan. 26 (CP-Havas)—The Daily Mail (Independent) reported today that Premier Mussolini is awaiting the fall of Barcelona to call a new meeting of the "Munich powers" to decide the future of Spain. According to the newspaper, Il Duce will submit the following proposals to Great Britain, France and Germany:—

1. Immediate steps to spare Spain further bloodshed.

2. A plan for making the Spanish people "masters of their own destiny with the consent of Germany and Italy, who have helped Franco."

3. A four-power guarantee "to prevent re-establishment of any Communist or popular front government" in the parts of Catalonia and central Spain still controlled by the Spanish government.

(It was stated in official quarters in Paris yesterday that France in no circumstances could consent to a second "Munich conference.")

Press Uneasy

Fiancial newspapers continued to express concern over the international situation and suggested that the end of the Spanish conflict might provoke a new continental crisis.

Coast Guards Walk Floes Two Miles, Hike Another 20

CHEBOYGAN, Mich., Jan. 26 — (AP). — Five United States coast guards missing since Tuesday morning walked into Cheboygan to-day and told how a night of desperate effort to protect their motor-powered lifeboat averted disaster in ice-choked Lake Huron.

Charles Bontekoe, chief boatswain's mate, said they walked two miles to shore last night and hiked 20 miles to reach this city. He said the boat's motor failed late on Tuesday and the men, drenched by spray, spent that night chopping ice from the boat to prevent its sinking among grinding ice cakes in sub-zero weather.

Surfmen Thomas Golden, Fay Jewell, and Robert Hartwell suffered frostbitten feet. The other crew member was Fred Merritt.

The men had set out for Bois Blanc Island to search for three fishermen missing on an ice floe. The fishermen later reached Drummond Island safely.

Prison Keeps Diabetic Alive For Chair Then Governor Orders Life Term

ALBANY, N.Y., Jan. 26 (AP)—Governor Herbert Lehman today commuted to life imprisonment the death sentences of two of the five New York City "east side boys" sentenced to die tonight in Sing Sing prison for the slaying of a detective.

The youths whose lives were saved are Isidore Zimmerman, 21, and Philip Chaleff, 27, a diabetic, kept alive in the death house of Sing Sing prison by insulin injection.

Chaleff, desperately ill with diabetes, submitted to insulin treatments with the hope that his sentence would be commuted to life imprisonment.

Prison guards said he had recovered sufficiently to walk to the chair unaided. They expressed the belief that, without diligent treatment, he might have died before his execution day.

The five men were convicted of killing Michael J. Foley, New York city detective, in April, 1937, during a restaurant holdup.

The mothers of the five condemned prisoners offered to forfeit their lives—in exchange for those of their condemned sons.

Stevens Is Back In Tory Fold Behind Manion

OTTAWA, Jan. 26—(CP).—Parliament to-day has formal notice of the return of Hon. H. H. Stevens, former leader of the Reconstruction Party, to the Conservative fold which he left in 1935 after a quarrel with Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett.

Yesterday Mr. Stevens assured the House he would be a loyal supporter of the new Conservative leader, Hon. R. J. Manion, declared his pleasure at being associated with Dr. Manion and his admiration for the leader's approach to economic and social problems.

Speaking in the debate on the speech from the throne, Mr. Stevens touched only briefly on his return to the party in which he once served as Minister of Trade and Commerce, and did not mention his temporary severance with it.

"To certain gentlemen opposite who have expressed curiosity about the move I have made this session I have no hesitancy in saying that I look forward with a good deal of pleasant anticipation to our times together when I shall be a loyal supporter of my friend, the leader of the Opposition," he said.

Sees Trouble Ahead.

Serious conditions existed in Canada and were daily becoming worse, said Mr. Stevens. The government in its reliance on the expansion of foreign trade was not coming to grips with them. The new United States trade agreement would add to distress and discontent in Canada

Canada's whole tariff policy was in need of revision, particularly with regard to most favored-nation treaties and to arbitrary rulings by the Department of National Revenue. Under most favored nation treaties concessions were given to 32 countries for which nothing was obtained in return. There was too much uncertainty and tinkering about the tariff.

The prime minister had advanced world appeasement as justification for the abandonment of certain concessions in the British market under the United States treaty

"I wonder," asked Mr. Stevens, "which is likely to contribute more to the betterment of world conditions, an economically emaciated Canada or a strong, virile, united Canada? One associated with the Motherland and the British Commonwealth of Nations or one in no man's land, where we seem to be drifting?"

Women Shock Troops To Feed Barcelona

ZARAGOZA, Spain, Jan. 26—(AP)—Hundreds of General Franco's women "shock troops," many of them daughters of Spanish grandees, awaited orders today to enter Barcelona and set up soup kitchens and bread lines.

Members of "Beneficenia de Guerra," these women were picked and trained with care. They knew the exact addresses where they were to set up food stations after the expected fall of Barcelona and precisely how much food they were to take with them.

These and other arrangements for the civil reorganization of the former capital of government Spain were worked out to the last detail. Huge food stores have been collected for months and earmarked for Barcelona. Even last fall shop owners were complaining they could get no canned goods because they were being saved "for Barcelona."

The women were instructed that when they entered the Catalonian capital they were to hand out packages containing bread, chocolate and canned meat or fish. These were made ready in trucks bearing such signs as "From Navarre to its Brothers in Barcelona."

Meanwhile Auxilio Social, the regular social aid organization operating in the wake of the women shock troops, prepared to open free restaurants.

France Calls Up 80,000 Men 6 Months Early

PARIS, Jan. 26 — (AP). — The French Government, facing the possibility that new international complications may arise if the insurgents win the Spanish civil war, today ordered 80,000 men up for military service in April—six months ahead of schedule.

The War Ministry order calls up four divisions of men who normally would start training in October.

The conscripts are those born in November, 1918, plus a smaller number of specialists—doctors, dentists and students whose military service had been postponed previously for professional reasons.

The order, issued personally by Premier Edouard Daladier, specified that all professional men who have reached the age of 27 without fulfilling required military service would be mobilized into training camps.

In addition, those whose preparation for professional career entitle them to ask for postponement will be requested on patriotic grounds to join the army this spring.

Training Period Holds

The proposal to reduce the mandatory two-year military service period, first approved by parliament in March, 1935, was rejected by the military affairs committee of the chamber of deputies.

Consideration is being given to another measure to compel foreigners under 30 living in France to serve in the army.

With new secret army regulations and a revision of the mobilization system, the French acknowledged they were preparing as quickly as possible to defend the Empire against all dangers.

Diplomatic quarters, government officials and the press made little effort to hide concern over the calling of 60,000 Italian reserves into military service. Explanations in Rome that this was not an abnormal order did not dispel the anxiety here. (France has been much concerned by Italian press clamor for a colonial adjustment in Africa. Concern has been expressed that this Italian agitation may be increased if the Spanish insurgents, whom Italy supports, finally win the civil war).

OTTAWA, Jan. 26—(CP).—Main estimates for the fiscal year 1939-1940 were before Parliament today, calling for a total vote of $457,241,915 for the costs of ordinary government. That compares with a vote for the same purpose of $430,328,510 for the year ending March 31 next.

Finance Minister Dunning tabled the estimates in the House of Commons late yesterday but later in the session he will bring in supplementary estimates for extraordinary expenditures such as the railway deficit, relief and work projects for which he asked $95,000,000 last year.

The vote for national defence provided the highlight of the estimates, with $63,447,175 asked for as compared with $35,966,524 voted last year.

Of this amount $29,405,102 will go for buildings, stores and equipment considered capital expenditures for which a sinking fund is set up, providing amortization in 10 years.

Public Works Curtailed

The usual long list of public works was greatly curtailed and the vote under this heading, $12,457,532 less than the total ordinary vote of last session. But plans of the government in this repect remain to be shown when the supplementaries are brought in and the total to be expended on public works, including relief projects, will probably run to double the figure mentioned in the main estimates.

Procedure with the estimates in the House of Commons is to bring down first, early in the session, the total, detailed estimates of the cost of running the Dominion under ordinary conditions.

Then, when a nearer approach to the fiscal year is reached, supplementary estimates are brought in national youth administration, submitted last April to the Minister of Labor. There is nothing in the Canadian Corps proposals, except for the idea of establishing camps, which is different in essence from what the federal government has been attempting to do in the past two years and which the Youth Congress approves.

"The Canadian corps has accused the government's plans as being only temporary palliatives. It seems to us that, on the contrary, nothing could be quite so temporary and makeshift as a system of work camps; and that the government's proposals are taking the long view and offer an effective approach."

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Jan. 26 — (C.P.). — Weakness at Chicago near the close of the session brought out a little late selling on Winnipeg wheat futures market to-day, causing prices to slip from gains scored in early trading. Final quotations were ⅛ cents higher to ⅛ cent lower, with May at 63¼, July 64 and October 64¼ cents.

Export sales of Canadian wheat were estimated around the 500,000-mark. Firmness at Liverpool and a fair export demand lifted prices fractionally in early dealings but a nervous tone developed as the session progressed due to unsettled European political conditions.

practical proposals in the form of the Canadian Youth Act.

These proposals have been further developed in the form of a brief on night. In the meantime, if General Franco's guns take a respite in the strafed district where the remaining Canadians are billetted, they will make a dash for Liverpool in an attempt to catch the ship.

Prisoners To Be Exchanged.

If they miss the Duchess of Richmond they will take the next Canadian Pacific Steamships sailing and probably will be accompanied by the 33 prisoners of the insurgents. Sir George Mounsey of the Foreign Office told Mr. MacLeod that the Burgos authorities had agreed to exchange the Canadians for a similar number of Italians held by the government in Spain.

These men will be rushed to the French frontier, from which the Spanish government, paying the cost of repatriation, will put them in a train for Liverpool and home.

Mr. MacLeod said the nondescript band of soldiers carrying the scars of the Spanish war, were being whisked through France to England in a "sealed train." Strict precautions were being taken to prevent the men from retraining before their destination is reached.

He said a dozen of those still in Spain are stretcher cases and that some are limbless or sightless. This was the chief reason, he said, why no serious effort was being made to run the gauntlet of General Franco's fire.

"Country Store" Sale Planned By Sewing Club

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Jan. 26 — The stitchcraft club met on Saturday at 3 p.m., Mrs. W. C. Thorndyke extending the hospitality of her home on Park Roadway for the fourth gathering since organization for 1939.

Ruby Fallis, president, occupied the chair, and Ethel Belch fulfilled the secretary's duties. The roll was answered with "Accessories I have chosen for m; bedroom"; and following this the club decided to make donations for the country store which the local branch of the Women's Institute is holding in the new community waiting room on Saturday, the members of that organzation having helped the girls with their similar undertaking recently, at which they made $9.07; the money goes toward a fund to send two girls to the annual convention at the O.A.C., Guelph, next summer.

Mrs. J. W. Hilton, assistant leader to Mrs. W. G. Armstong, was appoined to convey the thanks of the girls to the W.I. for their welcome help.

Faggoting was demonstrated by Mrs. Armstrong and Mrs. Hilton and dresser scarves, with a variety of materials and manner of finishing, were also studied. Bias trim, mitred corners, and battlement style were among the edgings and features of importance that were illustrated in practical manner.

The home assignment, for the next meeting which will be on Saturday, February 4, was the continuance of the study of accessories suitable for individual bedrooms, and instructions to make a record of what has already been studied in this new course, with small duplicate articles, to be entered in the individual record books. The roll will be answered with questions about the work, and Mrs. Armstrong distributed samples of linen.

The vote of thanks to the hostess was moved by Martha Bech, seconded by Henrietta Wood, and heartily endorsed.

Pair Of Child Brides Worry Detroit Police

DETROIT, Jan. 26—(CP)—Police authorities here worried today about two child brides, Caroline Giallella, 14, and Grace Taylor, 14.

Miss Giallella married Earl Bourassa, 24-year-old theatre usher, and police are holding the groom on a charge of falsifying a marriage license and juvenile authorities have the bride in custody.

Grace Taylor eloped with Walter Massey, 16, aided by the best man, Jerry De Lisle. After they returned from the marriage in Kentucky, De Lisle was arrested, charged with stealing $138 from a grocery to finance the elopment and the bride and groom were held as material witnesses.

Police said the Giallella-Bourassa marriage would likely be annulled, but the Taylor-Massey wedding likely could not be annulled, because child marriages are legal in Kentucky.

Famous Paintings Are Described

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 26.—An illustrated lecture on famous paintings was presented as the chief feature of the weekly meeting of St. John's Y.P.U. on Monday evening. Harold Kitney was the speaker, and he dealt in a highly interesting manner with the paintings, which included sluch works of art as Leonardo de Vinci's "Last Supper." The program opened with a brief period of games directed by Donald Holmes followed by a short sing song and a vocal solo by Miss Mae Stotts. Gladys Stephen and Dorothy Henson contributed a piano solo and towards the close Donald Holmes, who attended the winter school in Belleville, gave a verbal report of the week" activities. Mr. Kitney, Christian Culture convener, arranged the program.

MacMillan revealed that an assignment of $30 for missionary work in India had also been tabled for the group. A most successful year's operations were revealed in the report of the treasurer. Nazis Air Force Said Overrated

LONDON, Jan. 26—(AP).—C. G. Gray, one of Great Britain's best authorities on fighting planes, said today that Germany's air strength is only "something over 3,000 machines."

Describing as "bunk" a statement attributed to Colonel Charles Lindbergh that Germany has 9,700 fighting planes to Great Britain's 1,500, Mr. Gray said he had "too much respect for Charles Lindbergh's intelligence and honesty to believe he told a story anything like that."

Mr. Gray, co-editor of the authoritative directory, "Jane's All the World's Aircraft," made his statement's in the magazine "Aeroplane."

He said it was a "joke" to put Great Britain's fighting air strength at 1,500 planes and added "I do know on quite reasonably good authority of one particular type of British high speed bomber of which more than 1,000 have been delivered and there are several others of which production already runs into many hundreds."

3,500 Planes For Italy

He also said that "possibly Italy has 3,500 machines and France must have more than 600 even if half of them are in poor condition."

Stating that the United States rearmament program is "definitely a good thing," Mr. Gray said "I would not mind betting that the United States have a good deal more than 1,500 airplanes" and concluded that "in quality if not in quantity, American air power has been equal to anything in the world."

Lindbergh, here to get his plane relicensed, was said on high authority to have decided against returning to the United States to report to Congress on the state of European airplane rearmament. Representative Carl Vinson, had announced he would askd Lindbergh to break his four-year exile to make such a report.

The Late Harry B. Muir

The death of Harry B. Muir, President of the Examiner, has taken away an energetic and a kindly individual at a time when his capacity for usefulness seemed to be at its height. The Examiner believes it is right to say Mr. Muir in part brought about his own collapse by trying to do nearly everything for which his services were so much in demand. He had an undoubted ability for leadership; his judgment was sound and the amount of energy which he would thoroughly devote to any cause which attracted his interest was such that success was assured. Outside of his newspaper interests he was in demand; when the Housing Scheme was under way he served Ontario and served it well, but the demands on his time were too great. In his own city he was on many boards and committees.

One of Mr. Muir's regrets was that he was not able to spend more of his time in Peterborough after he and his associate W. Rupert Davies, came into possession of this paper. Always was there something else which had to be attended to. He had fixed and wholesome ideas regarding the part which a newspaper should play in the life of the community which it served. He was considerate always for the welfare of those associated with him in business. Essentially Mr. Muir was a home-loving man, and his home in Kingston facing out on the spot where Lake Ontario merges with the St. Lawrence, was the place he loved best of all.

Put First Things First

There is a tendency for public opinion to be too easily centred around things which after all should be placed in secondary rank. We have a fair enough example of that before us right now. In parliament and in newspapers there is a great deal being said regarding the regulations which shall govern broadcasting in this country. There have been discussions about it in the House of Commons and there have been plenty of editorials about it. Probably too many, and even the preachers have been at it in their Sunday services telling the folk that their freedom is at stake.

We have not the least doubt that the whole thing will settle down to its proper place after a bit and things will go on much the same as usual. People will kick about paying their $2.50 fee for a radio and they will continue to listen to what they prefer and that's about all there is to it.

We have heard much about the Bren gun report. Plenty of people who would not know a Bren gun from a book-jack have been making addresses and writing plenty of material in the newspapers, and we are told it will all come up for debating in the House of Commons. And here again the main point is that if we need some of these guns in this country—and apparently we do—then we should decide who is going to make them and at what price and go ahead with the business.

There is a danger of our parliament getting clogged up with these secondary issues while the greater questions stand to one side waiting for treatment. We do not believe parliament has ever made a sincere effort to settle our railway business. The members realize a bad bargain was made at the beginning and we have been paying for it ever since. Evidence submitted to the Senate last year made it plain that the proposed cutting off of duplicating services had been half-heartedly approached. That problem is greater than our radio regulations and Bren gun business combined and it should not be sidetracked.

Nor can this country look forward with safety to the policy of paying a bonus for the production of more wheat than we need or the world needs, and that question is greater than radio or Bren combined. With relief bills as they stand today we have not $50,000,000 a year to pay for growing wheat. What we are actually in need of in this country is getting first things first.

How To Show a Decrease

Ald. Bradburn presides over the affairs of the Legal and Reception Committee of the City Council, and the manner in which the estimates for this particular committee were brought down to $3,500 when $9,401.21 was spent last year is interesting. The actual appropriation for 1938 was $11,425.52. Cutting an appropriation of that size down to one of $3,500 dimension required a technique which was deft.

It was also ingenious. There was a salary of $2,000 paid for the services of the city solicitor, and that amount was taken from the legal committee and placed on the regular salary list of the city. Then there were a number of things which came under the general heading of miscellaneous items, and these were transferred to the tender care of the Finance Committee. So after the changing-about process had been completed it was found the Legal and Reception Committees would need only $3,500 for the year's expenses and there the figure settles to take its place in the estimates for 1939.

Ald. Bradburn, should he care to grow expansive in some future election campaign, can well point to the manner in which the expenditure of his department was cut during the year 1939. He might even be inclined to point to other committee chairmen and suggest they should scamper off and do likewise. It seems to have been done by the easy process of paying it here rather than paying it there, but it leaves the door open for some one to step out and say that at least one committee had its appropriation cut to about one-third of what was spent last year.

Kindness In Cordova

Every employee of Cordova Mines, about 70 in all, signified willingness to donate a days' pay to David Johnston, a fellow-worker who lost four children in a fire which destroyed his home. In doing so they recognize they can make no compensation to Mr. and Mrs. Johnston for the loss they suffered, but human sympathy seeks to do the best it can, and the Cordova men know Mr. and Mrs. Johnston have to start over again in the making of a home, and on this account the method their sympathy took for expression was particularly practical. Then the other folk in Cordova have plans for donating household goods.

There will not be the usual joy in starting this home again. It will not need to be on a scale as large as the one which was destroyed. There will be fewer beds needed, there will be no need of so many chairs around the table. All these things will come to memory many times, and when they do there will be the kindness and the sympathy of the folk around to help along and make the going a little easier. Cordova is not a big pace as numbers go, but it is abundantly evident they have the right sort of folk living there.

Torturing The Parents

Two girls in Toronto, 15 years of age, started out for school, but they did not reach there because their intentions were to head off elsewhere. When they did not return inquiry was made and the police were notified. There have been several reports of people having seen them. It is claimed they were applying at the Y.W.C.A. in Brantford but had not sufficient money so went elsewhere.

Just what plans these girls have we do not know, but we are certain they have done a thing which is cruel and wrong. One of the girls looks after the house for her widowed father, while the other lives at home with her parents like any other schoolgirl might be doing.

The parents do not know where they are; when meal time comes around they do not know if they have anything to eat or not; when it comes night they have no idea of where they are putting up or what they are doing. If these girls had given the matter careful thought they could not have selected a process by which they could inflict more acute torture on their parents. Probably they would deny they had any such intention, but the result is the same. Just the same as though it had been deliberately planned.

A Reasonable Course

There was a lively dispute in a civic meeting in Toronto over cutting off of estimates to such an extent that the tropical conservatory in Toronto will have to be abandoned. There are tropical plants in the conservatory worth thousands of dollars which will now have to be abandoned or salvaged. The argument against the move was that the conservatory had an educational and cultural value and a city the size of Toronto could afford to maintain such premises as were necessary to house the exhibit.

It is quite true that cities like individuals have to make decisions. We are certain many individuals inside Toronto and away from it have had to make up their minds in recent years that certain household expenses would have to be curtailed, and in some places it has meant cutting the line rather sharply against old family preferences.

Toronto is in much the same position. There is constant reference to the size of the relief appropriation, and the city has been adding to its debenture debt by not being able to pay its relief charges out of current taxation. When there are such a number in that condition then it is reasonable and right enough that the government of the city in arranging its expenditures should reasonably reflect that same condition. The claim that a "city the size of Toronto should be able to afford" this and that really means very little. A city is exhibiting the greatest degree of common sense and good judgment when it seeks to get its bills down to the point where the people can afford to pay them.

Corns On The Feet

There is a strange case in court at Montreal where the Quebec College of Physicians and Surgeons has taken action against a man for "the illegal practice of medicine." The particular practice has been working on corns, bunions, callous spots on the feet and all such ailments as afflict that extreme section of the human frame. Counsel for the accused says the gentleman has been working at this for 18 years and among his clients are several wives of doctors.

It does look as though the doctors were cutting the thing a little too fine in trying to make it appear that fixing corns is actually in the field of practising medicine. Our own opinion (which may not amount to much on such a subject) is that the field is rather wide open.

Women use their husband's razors to cut sections from a pet corn or do a little excavating around a bit of callous. People have their own way of whittling and cutting and paring and soaking and anointing with plasters and ointment and it has been going on for a long time.

When a person has a corn which has grown with too much enthusiasm he does not generally call in a doctor. He'd go any place where he figured he might get the thing chiselled down. He might try the blacksmith shop to see what a rasp would do, or if he had a friend in the tinsmithing business he might drop in and ask if his shears could take a little off the top. Possibly a man with an electric drill in his machine shop could do the job as neat as could be. We doubt if a person in search of relief and trying any or all of these good people to find relief would be doing anything wrong or causing an individual to come to the point where he was transgressing the laws of the medical profession. People have been tinkering with their own corns, callous, bunions and ingrowing toe nails for generations and they will probably keep on doing so.

NOTE AND COMMENT

An Italian and a French editor are likely to fight a duel. The only point to be settled is whether they will use scissors or paste pots.

New recruits for the Ontario Provincial Police will be single men. But of course there is no law to say a man must stay single after joining the force.

Planes being made for France are reported to have shown a speed of 575 miles per hour in tests. If the pilot of a plane like that did not feel any special urge to fight he could get a long way off from trouble in a short time.

It is urged that people should plant a tree to mark the visit of the King and Queen to this country. Nice idea, but is it not a fact that it would merely mean taking a tree from one place and putting it in another?

Clergyman says that in Hamilton there are 70 hotels 40 clubs and 400 bootleggers. It is easy enough to count hotels and clubs but we had no idea it was as easy to take a census of bootleggers.

In Stratford a number of housewives said they no longer regarded Monday as being the wash-day of the week. They may be able to get away with such heresy as that today, but it would not have been countenance a generation ago.

Thieves in Brantford stole ten chickens from the coop at the Widows' Home and they are referred to as the "meanest thieves" in the district. We doubt it. When an individual sets out to steal he is mean according to the opportunity which presents itself.

L. E. Hedden has been engaged by the village council of Hensall, and his duties are: Manager and caretaker of town hall and park; constable, sanitary, weed and bread inspector, fire chief and fire department motor mechanic, water tank manager and general street duties. He is described as "utility man" and that seems to state the case well enough.

BUSY

(By A.R.K.)

¶ There's always something else to do, that keeps me from being clean all through, a new job waits for me; and every zero spell we get, I find I haven't finished yet, am busy as can be.

¶ I banked the house away last fall, there wouldn't be no draft at all, I'd sit in comfort there; when I was through at night I'd rest, the time of day that I like best, just sittin' in a chair.

¶ Where window panes were missing there, I knew we'd get the winter air, I fixed them best I could; I stuffed in rags and closed the cracks; I'd have the warmest of all shacks, and winter like I should.

¶ Some days it seemed almost too hot, I'd used more stuffing than I ought, 'twas stuffy in the room; the winter had no terror then, I thought with other hopeful men, we'd have our spring right soon.

¶ But when it comes to zero days, and on the window there's a haze, and wind comes like a shaft; 'tis then I start to search around, to see if new holes can be found, that cause a little draft.

¶ I've stuffed around the window glass, around the pipe where comes the gas, at stuffing I am through; I've stuffed the cracks about the door, I've stuffed the cracks along the floor—and stuffed the keyhole too.

Our Statesmen At Their Labor

(From Parliamentary Debates)

Mr. SPEAKER: Order. Will the hon. member put his question now?

Mr. FINN: I will ask the minister the question. I was going to relieve him of responsibly, out have been stopped, so therefore he will have to take it. I should like to ask whether the government of Nova Scotia, which has been interrogated many times, has given any final answer. In connection with that, I would ask the minister that all correspondence between the provincial government and the dominion government with reference to the reestablishing of the lobster fishermen be placed upon the table of the house.

Mr. SPEAKER: That is not a question which should be put on the orders of the day.

Mr. FINN: I cannot hear you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. SPEAKER: I said that this is not a proper question for the orders of the day. It should have been put by the hon. member on the order paper.

Mr. FINN: I was not so advised, Mr. Speaker, by the clerk of the house. I was advised the other way.

Mr. SPEAKER: It should have been put on the order paper as a notice of motion.

Mr. KINLEY: With regard to the difficulties of the lobster fishermen of Nova Scotia, may I ask the minister whether he did not make a suggestion or offer to contribute towards the relief of these men?

Mr. SPEAKER: That question should be placed on the order paper and not be asked on the orders of the day.

Mr. KINLEY: I asked the question only because I feared that there might be some confusion in view of the answer given the hon. member for Halifax (Mr. Finn).

Mr. SPEAKER: No answer was given the hon. member for Halifax.

Mr. KINLEY: Perhaps the minister would like to answer my question, Mr. Speaker.

Hon. J. E. MICHAUD (Minister of Fisheries): In order to keep the record straight, I understood you to rule, Mr. Speaker, that the hon. member for Halifax did not ask a question but asked for the production of papers. In reply to the hon. member for Queens-Lunenburg (Mr. Kinley) I may say that his statement is correct. An offer was made by the Department of Fisheries to the government of the province of Nova Scotia looking to co-operation for the relief of the situation in that province.

DID HE SAY IT?

Mr. ROGERS: Then I understand from the leader of the opposition that he does not intend that the dominion government should take over the relief burden completely?

Mr. MANION: I am going to make a statement of policy just now. I am discussing the subject which the hon. gentleman is discussing; I am not going to give in reply to a question the policy of the Conservative party.

Mr. ROGERS: Well, my hon. friend suggested that I was misquoting him. I quote from the Montreal Gazette, which at least would have no motive in misquoting my hon. friend—

Mr. MANION: I am not sure of that, even.

Mr. ROGERS: This is from a speech delivered by the leader of the opposition at Barry's Bay on August 10:

"The dominion government must assume the burden of relief costs, enabling a reduction in existing heavy municipal taxation which is retarding business recovery." Hon. R. J. Manion, federal Conservative leader, said in an address here today.

Mr. MANION: If I might interrupt, is that a Canadian Press report or the report of a representative of the Montreal Gazette?

Mr. ROGERS: That is a Canadian Press report.

Mr. MANION: I have many of the Canadian Press reports upstairs; I particularly checked them, and they do not say that I said that the Canadian government should take over the whole burden of unemployment relief.

Mr. ROGERS: I have simply quoted the dispatch as I have it here.

Mr. MANION: Is that the heading or the body of the dispatch?

Mr. ROGERS: It is the lead of the dispatch.

Mr. MANION: Never mind the lead; quote what I said.

Mr. ROGERS: This indicates what the correspondent understood was in the mind of the leader of the opposition on that occasion. I see no reason to continue this digression. I shall be glad to pass over the dispatch to my hon. friend.

DON'T CONTRADICT ME

Mr. MANION: I just wish to contradict that statement, without going into details at this moment.

Mr. MAYBANK: I might draw to the hon. gentleman's attention that I do not think he had any right to rise and contradict me in that fashion. If anything is said which is clearly an error of fact in some definite way, he may perhaps have the right to rise and contradict it. But to rise and make little short speeches of that sort, surely he has no right to do. I have a right to draw an inference from his conduct. I draw the inference from his conduct as Minister of Railways that the systematic sabotaging of the railway that went on during those years was largely attributable to him.

Mr. MANION: That statement is absolutely untrue. There was no sabotaging of the Canadian National Railways at any time.

Mr. MAYBANK: It was sabotaged from the day the late government came into office until the day it went out.

Mr. MANION: That is not true.

Mr. MAYBANK: It is absolutely true.

Correspondents Discuss Various Topics

FOOLING THE PEOPLE

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—There are some people who can see and there are others who either cannot or do not want to. We had a change of rulers in Ontario and at the start they were all for using the axe and cutting everything down, and then after while they are ready to turn around and shake hands and forget about it. They think the people are all asleep or have forgotten about it, and in doing that way they are making it easy for us to have some sort of a revolution.

Look at the sort of beer we are getting today; it is nothing like the sort we were promised, and the farmers are not getting a good market for their barley. And then they tackle the milk business and the first thing we know is that the consumer has to pay more for his supply but the farmer is not getting any more and in some cases less. The farmer can get along as best he can and when he is through they will toss him out.

Then they take the barber business and tell the people how much they are to be charged, and they can pay for their hair cut at that high price or else braid their hair and they do that even when they know that nearly half of Ontario has no money in its pocket. They start out by claiming they are going to cut down expenses and after a while they turn around and make expenses greater for the people and the people are expected to like it. I can tell you they don't.

We have lots of men in all our cabinets and they never have to go without their pay. In the province of Quebec they also had a change of government, but it is just the same thing as we have in our province. They change from one party to the other and get the same treatment all the time.

Let me ask you what has caused all the unrest in Europe and in our own country? It is the way we are being governed by men who are not awake to what the people need, but the people are not going to be fooled much longer.

THE LORD'S DAY

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—It was with regret that I read in Friday's edition of the Examiner of the indifference of members of the United County Council in dealing with the motion received from the Middlesex County Council, asking that the United Counties of Durham and Northumberland endorse its resolution against the Lord's Day becoming open to amusements.

Members of municipal governments have a responsibility over and above dealing with the business of the counties and surely there is nothing more important than helping create a better citizenship as well as to protect the youth of our counties from becoming pleasure seekers and victims to the snares of business men who are promoting the cause in order that they may commercialize on the Sabbath as well as the other six days of the week.

The Lord's Day Alliance has served a good purpose and instead of lessening the restrictions, it would be better for the country generally speaking, to enforce the law of observing the Sabbath to the fullest possible degree.

Thanking you for the privilege of using space in your valuable paper.

Sincerely,

Bailieboro, Jan. 24.

FRED BARNARD.

THE FAMOUS SCOT

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—I haved gained some information this last week, which has astonished me very much.

Being a newcomer to your fair city, I betook myself, the other day, for a little stroll through the business section, and coming north on George Street, my attention was attracted by the sound of two voices raised in dispute. I observed two gentlemen near me engaged in heated argument.

One was a short gentleman wear brightly polished shoes, and although the weather was cold, he dispensed with overshoes in a maner, that seemed, from his bearing, to hold in scorn the use of such an article. I also noticed that he wore a wonderfully patterned tie. It had a bright red background, but drawn across with narrow lines of white and yellow. It had blue and green in it too. His adversary was a tall man, in what I understood to be plus-fours, and I remember thinking at the time, he must use much care in the tying of his garters. They were red, and showed from under the down-folded tops of his chequered hose in elaborate folds. He was a dark man with grey eyes, a rather prominent nose and high cheek bones. Around his neck, he wore a scarf in something of the same pattern as his adverrary's tie, only the color being differently arranged.

Some of their words which I was able to overhear, gave me the impression that they were not native born Canadians. The tall man was requested, for some reason, to insert his "heid" on the "jaw-box." This no doubt, being some native ceremony.

On listening further, I discovered that the whole argument centred around someone whom I took to be either the king of their native land, or at least on of their high priests. I am inclined to the latter view as I heard the name "Rabby" mentioned by both with a kind of humble reverence. Of course, in English, this could mean no other word than Rabbi. As the argument progressed, there was a second name mentioned many times, which sounded to me like "Burrrns" and I discovered that both these names belonged to the same person.

Although high words prevailed between the two, they seemed to be agreed that this Rabbi was not merely one of the greatest men who ever lived, but absolutely the greatest, and the greatest who ever would live.

The tall man had much to say about "playing the haggis" which he seemed to consider a very important ceremony.

I have been wondering about all this. What kind of a musical instrument is a Haggis, and who is this Rabbi Burrrns?

CURIOUS.

Peterborough, Jan. 25.

IMPROBABLE.

Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., who follows the profession of observer and writer, expresses the opinion that the British Empire capital will in eighteen months be at Ottawa. The prospect, he says, will not please United States because "when Canada is the centre of Great Britain everybody will be after her." Mr. Vanderbilt is indulging in some improbable speculation. In eighteen months the British capital will be more firmly established in London than it is now, for time is working fast on the British side. Or: if things come to such a state that the capital must be hurriedly moved there will be no British Empire. It will have gone to pieces. Then Canada will not be its centre and "everybody after her."—(Port Arthur News-Chronicle)

AGE OF MANITOBA.

GEOLOGISTS have found a way of estimating the age of the earth by calculating the rate at which the metallic element uranium in pitchblende disintegrates into helium and lead. Judged by such measurements, pitchblende, discovered in Manitoba, is 1,770,000,000 years old.

Another test., using thorium, a rare earth metal which is also radioactive, gives an age for Manitoba rocks of 1,750,000,000 years. —(Winnipeg Tribune)

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

Then said Jesus unto them, when ye have lifted up the Son of man, then shall ye know that I am he, and that I do nothing of myself; but as my Father hath taught me, I speak these things. And he that sent me is with me: the Father hath not left me alone; for I do always those things that please him. As he spake these words, many believed on him.

Then said Jesus to those Jews which believed on him, If ye continue in my word, then are ye my disciples indeed; and ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free.—John viii, 28-32.

NOT SO POLITE.

Bar patrons in England seem to be losing the old sense of drinking politeness, so much so that a Broadstairs public house has to chain its tankards to the counter. Alas! In the palmy days of the saloon the customers were so considerate that on Saturday nights, when the rush came, short chaps were permitted to go right to the front while the medium-sized formed the second row and the tall ones reached out from the rear. Other times, other manners. — (Montreal Gazette)

RAY BEST RINK WINS MORROW TROPHY IN OPEN BONSPIEL HERE

Many Entries Of District Make Up Draw

Having had no intention of playing in the bonspiel yesterday, and gathering together, at the last minute, a rink just so the draw would be even, Ray Best of the Peterborough Curling Club successfully skipped his rink to once more win the W. G. Morrow Trophy.

Playing in sub-zero weather, the first open bonspiel held by our club this season was a big success. Rinks from Bobcaygeon, Lindsay, Millbrook, Campbellford, Oshawa, Cobourg, Norwood and Peterborough making up an even draw of 24 rinks.

And while most of the boys have been curling for sometime past, great credit must be given to S. Lane, Marmora; Bob Edmunds, Millbrook, and Fred Kemp, Norwood. These boys have no rink in their towns to practise on their their show was all the more creditable.

Play commenced around 9.30 yesterday morning and kept going until midnight, and no sign of a default. No. 8 was crowded at the finish. Stray Shots.

It was the first open bonspiel in forty years that our popular secretary, H. F. Foote, missed.

It certainly paid the Archibald, Richmond Co. to take a day off, each cashing in on the prize list.

Special mention must go to Ross F. Downey for his wonderful playing in his game against C. Frost, Lindsay. Without taking any credit from the rest of his rink, it was "R.F." who pulled the game out of the first to create a win.

No doubt there are many, many Downeys throughout the length and breadth of the land, but still we maintain that there is one, and only one Ross F. Downey.

The help given by many boys to place and remove the stones was greatly appreciated.

And while we were enjoying ourselves at the bonspiel we must remember some of our members who were not so fortunate; we refer to H. F. Foote, J. T. Braund, George Green, George Hall, and Tom Ryan. We know these boys were thinking of us and we can assure them we have been thinking of them.

A rink from Woodville started to motor yesterday, but telephoned they could not get through the drifts.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered to Fred Brown for the capable way in which he handled the draw

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

There is a lotta puck talent wrapped in the senior squad of the Peterborough Hockey Club this winter. It is not too light a team, and it packs plenty of speed, experience and battling spirit. We were looking at a group picture of the Petes yesterday and thought of all the hours of practice on all sorts of rinks around and about the country these chaps had done to reach their present point of efficiency on the ice. Al Gratton learned his hockey down around Ottawa, coming here via Clarkson Tech U. in Potsdam, N'Yawk. Red creighton is strictly a local but has played on a flock of ice surfaces, including up north a spell. Archie Weir shone with the junior St. John's here ere going to Niagara Falls and playing junior and senior. Don Crowe started in Toronto.

* * * * * *

Jack Gardner is a Peterborough product in junior, intermediate and senior O.H.A. company, and had a season with St. Mike's in Toronto. Lorne Gray hails from out Winnipeg way, his puck travels taking him as far as Germany. Don Coughlin is a local lad who inherits his hockey ability from Jerry Coughlin, his father. Joe McNulty played for St. Mike's, and up in Northern Ontario before coming to Peter's borough. Earl McNabb is an Owen Sound goalie, who looked good with our junior Colts last winter. Shrimp McDougall is a Peterborough player, who starred for Owen Sound around '27 and played pro later in several centres. Bun Kingdon and Eddie Starr are locals who sparkled several seasons in junior company and with the O.H.A. senior "B" semi-finalists here last semester.

* * * * * *

Not Raw Recruits

Doc Nicholls comes here from Hamilton, where he played plenty of good hockey. Honey Tompkins is a Deseronto chap, who played O.H.A. junior for Belleville and was with our Colts last winter—he looks like a pro prospect to us. Ray Harding is a good goalie and saw heaps of service for the Petes in their ice wars last year; he is a local puckist, too. Manager Tommy Miller played plenty of organized hockey in this town up till a few years ago. Coach Frank Buckland was a player and later worked with Coach Livingstone of the Toronto junior Lions. Yeah, these pucksters aren't raw recruits by any means, they have been around plenty in hockey.

* * * * * *

As we stated before, most of the Petes' feet are winged like Mercury, they know their way up and down the various ice surfaces and they don't mind swapping burping bodychecks or flying fists with anyone. In short, they'll play hockey or battle with anyone. And we rather imagine they'll take the scrappy Belleville Redmen here tomorrow night when they clash in an important O.H.A. senior "B" setto—with plenty of rivalry on tap between these teams. The husky Thomas crew bear absolutely no resemblance to blushing violets or gentle pansies—they tote several real sluggers on their squad. But the Petes can beat 'em at any style of hockey, and will cop a nod over 'em here tomorrow, or we'll eat the pink-striped shirt Aunt Hetty sent us for Xmas — the one we couldn't swap anywhere for anything since.

* * * * * *

Well, Of All Things!

It came as quite a surprise this morn when we learned the score of the Fliers-Belleville joust last p.m., the Redmen copping a 5-3 win. This rather puts the Quinte crew back in the thick of the scramble, at least until after Friday's fray here. Some of the wise gees around these parts have been thinking all along, and right out loud, that the Fliers might much prefer to playoff with Belleville instead of the Petes — and that the Airmen might not tear their wings off in zooming through Belleville. However, the locals can clinch a money spot by a win Friday. Incidentally, Hap Day may be sent here for this game — though Frank Buckland says he never kicked on Referee Joe Smith of Kingston, it being imagination on the part of the Quinte columnist.

Lakefield dropped an 8-1 intermediate decision in Whitby last night, a car accident putting Goalie Loyst out of the contest before it started—Loyst getting cut in the face. The team was upset and the classy Wings cashed in with eight counters, Blewett batting home one for the Legionnaires. A tough break, but Lakefield are still in third place, back of Sutton and Whitby. Oakwood is in Lakefield on Friday and this is an important clash as the O's are climbing dangerously close to the third slot. First four clubs in the seven-team group are in the playoffs, and it'll be dogfight from here on in.

Think They're Good

This from Oshawa: "Oshawa has an exceptionally strong junior 'B' team this year, comprised for the most part of last year's juveniles who won the all-Ontario championship in their division. In addition are several members of last year's Generals, Scotty Reid and Maxie Yourth. There are also several newcomers to the local O.H.A. hockey wars, a couple of local laddies who have developed fast lately and also a couple of newcomers to the city. We have a hunch that Oshawa's junior 'B' team will go a long distance toward an O.H.A. title this year." Well, we hope not, on account of Oshawa and our Colts clash in their first fracas on Jan. 31st. The Colts ought to be clicking in good style by then, and should give the cocky Motor Citizens a handful or so of battle before one squad is eliminated.

* * * * * *

Not a stitch of action lately in basketball here, no senior men's cage contests being billed for the Y.M.C.A. gym this Saturday night. As there is a volleyball tournament slated this weekend. Some good Toronto volleyballers coming here to tangle with local talent. Also the three P.C.I. squads are idle in C.O.S.S.A. tilts, and the ladies' circuit hasn't got started at the Y.W. so far. Maybe a Lakeshore Ladies' Loop game or two out of town, but the ossifers of that circuit keep it a secret except when playing at home. So there seems no hope for hoop followers here until sometime next week. So sorry.

Remember When—

Howie Morenz was traded to New York Rangers for Glen Brydson by Chicago Black Hawks, three years ago today. The great centre, who stared with Montreal Canadiens for nine years before going to Chicago, slumped after the trade. But back with the Habitants in 1936-37 he regained his old-time dash until death cut his career short in March, 1937.

The 1939 Edition of the O.H.A. Senior "B" Petes

Fighting to stave off elimination in their O. H. A. senior "B" grouping, the Belleville Redmen come here tomorrow (Friday) to play the Petes at 8.30 in the Brock. The battling visitors will be ready to do or die in this number and the Petes will turn it on in an effort to clinch a group playoff berth with the Trenton Fliers. On their season's play so far, the Petes have an edge on the Thomasites with two wins and one loss. While Belleville had an off-night on Quinte ice last Monday, as the Petes took a 5-0 decision, the locals looked better then and feel they can cop another here tomorrow, but they look for a hard scrap first.

Both clubs will be at full strength for this important tilt, and the game should draw another large crowd of fans. The last clash of these teams here, played before a big crowd, saw plenty of action—with the rivals smacking each other hard. The tough Bentley-St. Louis defence is the hardest nitting one in the circuit and they'll be bump-extra hard this fray. The game last Monday in Belleville saw a lively fist fight break out near the finish, and anything may happen here on Friday.

Stores Win, 8-4 Over Accounting

Stores defeated Accounting in a C.G.E. game on Wednesday at the Brock, 8 to 4. Primeau scored three goals, Menzies two, and Jobe one, this trio going good for the winners. Tranger with two, and Skitch and King with one aplece were best for the other side. The teams:

Stores— Goal, Kid Allen; defence, Turk Walton, Bill Floyd; centre, Curly Wood; wings, Joe Primeau, Norm Jobe; subs, Don Meredith, Irish Maloney, Larry O'Connor, Slappy Pilling, Flash Menzies, Red Riel.

Referee—Al Gratton.

Lakefield Team Lose To Whitby

WHITBY, Jan. 26. — The home team defeated Lakefield by 8-1 here last night in an O.H.A. Intermediate B game that was specially one-sided when Loyst, Lakefield's regular goalie, was unable to play. He was cut about the face in an automobile accident on the way here.

Goal getters for Whitby were Brown 2, Oke 2, W. Vipond, L. Vipond, Mayne, and Piper. Blewett netted the losers' lone tally.

Lakefield — Goal, Junken; defence, Burton and Whitton; centre, Chittick; wings, Blewett and Creighton; subs., O'Leary, Deetch, Chappelle, and Morin.

Whitby — Goal, Clarke; defence, Brown and Oke; centre, Piper; wings, Mayne and Phillips; subs., L. Vipond, W. Vipond, Heard, Bagnell, and Watson.

Referee—Ernie Wortley, Toronto.

Puckists' Mishap Affects Contest

Enroute to their O.H.A. intermediate "B" game in Whitby last night, one of the Lakefield hockey team's cars was involved in an accident with a truck and another car on the highway near Newcastle. Two of the Legionnaire's goalies were in the car, Loyst suffering a cut on the forehead (requiring medical attention at Newcastle), and Junkin having his hand cut. Others in the car were shaken up.

The team took the ice in Whitby and their accident affected their playing. Junkin went in goal, despite his injured hand, and the Legionnaires held their own for over half the contest, but Whitby finished strong to gain the decision. The players are convinced that the auto mishap caused their downfall later on the ice at Whitby.

Ski Notes

It has been found necessary to again postpone the night jumping exhibiton scheduled for Friday night at Nassau. We still have hopes of running this event some time before the spring break-up, but when? Nobody knows.

To-night. — Regular instruction class at Victoria Park, followed by club run from the cabin in Jackson Park. If you haven't been out yet for one of these Thursday night "do's," treat yourself to one to-night.

Just one last reminder about the club championships to be held this coming week-end. Make your entry now and get your competitor's card. These technicalities are necessary and we want a large entry list. Tell your friends about it, too; they'll all want to see these events.

Peterborough was well represented at the Ontario Zone Ski School, held last week-end, at the Chicopee Ski Club, Kitchener. Our instructor, Jack Holland, was there at the request of the Zone Committee, to assist them in conducting the school. He rates as a first class instructor, so if you are not taking advantage of his classes in the gentle art of navigation on skis, you're missing something. Veteran Otto Laderach and our genial secretary, Lahring Parsons, also attended and they are ready to pass on their extensive "learning to the rest of us. Ott had a chance to brush up on German conversation, but 'tis rumored it did not all concern skiing—ask him—we don't know.

Skiing Courtesy.

Give the courtesy you expect. It is your duty to avoid a collision even when you are in the right. The measure of a good skier is his ability to dodge obstacles by means of turns. If he collides with a slower skier, or an ascending skier, he is to blame. Except when jumping or racing, the slower moving party has the right-of-way. Be courteous—ski sensibly.

There is food for thought in the following tabulation of average speeds in sports:

Swimming—Six feet per second.
Rowing—Eighteen feet per second.
Ice-skating—Thirty-seven feet per second.
Downhill Skiing.—Fifty-two feet per second. (The fastest speed ever recorded on downhill running was 132 feet per second on the 'flying kilometre," at St. Moritz, Switzerland).

Next Monday don't be saying, "Why didn't somebody tell me the club championships were going to be run over the week-end?"

MUSSING UP THE MAPLES

Some furious pin-spilling was recorded at Duffus Alleys last night, when the C.G.E., Quaker Oats and Automobile leagues, and mixed Westclox office bowlers took part.

Tonight the City League will take their fling at 8 o'clock. A hot session for the pin-boys is expected.

Plan Presentation To Dit Clapper?

HASTINGS, Jan. 26. — Rumors are current that a public presentation may be made Dit Clapper by residents here when he appears with the Boston team in Toronto, February 25. Dit was born in Newmarket, Ontario, but has resided here for a good number of years.

This information was not obtained from an official source but one business man admitted the subject had been discussed. William Clapper, father of the Bruins' defenceman, said he had been aporpached by a spokesman as to what might be a suitable gift.

A similar agitation took place last winter but applications to Maple Leaf Gardens officials were received too late as the time would have run out to the play-offs.

BOXER ON BACK

ALTRINCHAM, England—(CP). —Bernard Bennett, who set an amateur cycling record in 1937 by riding 45,801 miles, has turned professional and will tray to beat the pro record of 62,657 miles of the Australian, Ossie Nicholson.

Sports Iron Man Ed Oatman 32 Years In Hockey

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., Jan. 26 -(CP)- Eddie Oatman, whose 24 consective years in professional hockey is nine years better than his closest rival, Eddie Shore of Boston Bruins, is playing his 32nd year in hockey with Duluth Zephyrs of the Amateur International League.

With the exception of 1932 and 1934 when he acted as referee and 1936 and 1937 when he coached Yorkton, Sask., Terriers, he has been an active player since 1903 when at 14 he joined the Tillsonburg, Ont., juniors. He is now 49.

Last year Eddie applied for his amateur card and went to Prince Albert as playing-coach of the Mintos, Northern Saskatchewan League. When they disbanded he was called to Duluth to bolster the Zephyrs' defence.

His name is most closely associated with Western professional hockey, the Western Canada and Pacific Coast leagues. He was selected on Western All-Star teams for ten consecutive seasons.

Oatman competed in four Stanley Cup finals, most famous of which was the series of 1915-16 when the West, represented by Portland, made its first challenge for professional supremacy, meeting the Canadiens in Montreal. Portland won the first game but lost out three games to two.

Interviewed here the wiry 155-pounder explained why, nearing the half century mark, he can return to active hockey. He said his endurance was due to physical fitness and a sturdy pair of legs, result of clean living and good condition the year round and an excellent foundation in the game 20 years ago "When a player was expected to play 60 minutes without skipping a breath."

Asked for a comparison between the fast skaters of yesterday and those of today, Oatman very definitely votes for the Old Timers.

"The Old Timers were just as fast and what's more, they could keep up that pace a full game. The trouble with the young fellows today is they train to play three minutes at a stretch and after their time is up their tongues hang out and they're hollering for relief."

MEDLEY RELAY MARK

CHAMPION JOE BLASTS CHALLENGER WITH K.O. IN FIRST ROUND

Joe Louis Retains His World Title Flattening John Henry 3 Times In 2 Minutes, 29 Seconds

By Gayle Talbot
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

NEW YORK, Jan. 26 (AP) — Quest for a worthwhile opponent for Joe Louis begins to seem downright silly after last night's farce at Madison Suare Garden, when the tan terror reduced John Henry Lewis to a battered, helpless hulk of a man in two minues and 29 seconds.

When poor John Henry went down under the Louis onslaught for the third and last time, the thought must have struck every last one of the 17,500 fans in the arena that here was a fighter who stood alone.

The Brown Bomber, defending his world heavyweight title for the fifth time, was not struck a real blow as he shuffled in and knocked the daylights out of Lewis. Not a glove had yet been laid on Joe when Referee Arthur Donovan lifted the glassy-eyed John Henry to his legs and yelled to the knockdown judge "That's enough."

Lewis, who spotted the great champion 20 pounds, received as terrible a beating as Joe dealt out to Max Schmeling in 2:04 last summer. Lewis showed no serious ill effects in his dressing room afterward and insisted he had not been badly hurt when the fight was stopped.

A Real Slaughter

The spectators didn't agree with that. Some said they feared another Louis right might have broken the challenger's neck. He had been down twice before, for counts of two and three, and each time reeled to his feet with his guard dangling uselessly. The last time Joe gave him the works, it was a right to the jaw with all of the champs 200 pounds behind it. Lewis was groping around on his knees, his eyes rolling and his face contorted, when the count reached five and Donovan interceded.

Well known fight managers were heard to say solemnly: "He would have knocked out Dempsey."

Though he has reason to be pleased with the $102,000 he took in last night, Promoter Mike Jacobs' mind must be filled with some serious doubts today about digging up ed the champion. He has seriously that May opponent he has promisbeen considering a Louis-Tony Galento fight.

The Louis of last night surely would have made a chopping block of rotund Tony.

Chain Mail Spat As Foot Protector Latest Of Art Ross' Inventions

NEW YORK, Jan. 25 (CP)—Art Ross, the big idea and invention man who has more than a mere fatherly interest in Boston Bruins, popped up today with a new hockey wrinkle which may mean National Leaguers will do battle protected by aluminum spats.

Amiable Arthur is the man who brightened the last National Hockey League governors meeting here with information he had developed an unbreakable hockey stick of tubular steel. He introduced the hockey spat to the same august body yesterday.

The spat is made of chain mail, designed to protect players' feet from skate gashes that cut through the boots. Art's ice goloshes are of light aluminum mesh and cover a skating boot completely, strapping under the sole.

Much to the satisfaction of the Bruins' manager, the other league governors were considerably impressed, so much so they suspended temporarily a league rule to allow a test of Art's metal protectors. The rule bans the use of any metal protection for players.

Canadiens Lose Protest

Aside from considering Ross' invention and doing the usual amount of stewing-about, the league governors tossed out Montreal Canadiens' protest against the goal which gave New York Americans a tie here Jan. 15.

President Frank Calder said the report of Linesman Norman Shay declared the scoring play was not offside, as alleged by the Canadiens and the board agreed to back up the official.

In view of complaints from several managers about refereeing in recent games, some action against officials had been expected but Calder said the board, having heard the complaints and considered the circumstances surrounding them, voted confidence in the officials.

The board also adopted a new rule coupling a $25 fine automatically to any 10-minute misconduct penalty.

Drafting Squad Wins Puck Tilt

In a secondary division C.G.E. shop hockey league game at the Sacred Heart rink on Tuesday night, Drafting defeated Dip and Buff by a 9-4 score. They had a 3-1 lead in the first frame and a 5-3 edge going into the third. Dunfield scored four, Rooke two, Condon two and Hough one for the winners; with Padgett and Heal getting two apiece for the other side. The Hough-Dunfield-Rooke line looked good and the Padgett-Heal pair. The victors had a neat passing attack in a fast, clean contest. The teams:

Drafting—Goal, Mason; defence, Pakenham, Palmer; centre, Hough; wings, Rooke, Dunfield; subs, Shiner, Preston, Ellis, Allen.

Dip and Buff—Goal, Peel; defence, Riel, McKinstry; centre, Bowen; wings, Padgett, Heal; sub, Smith.

Referee—Cy Whatley.

Making It a Habit

Off to a lucrative start on the 1939 golf trail is Dick Metz, above, of Chicago, smiling as he plucks the ball from the hole after another birdie. Dick defeated Horton Smith in the 36-hole final of the San Francisco match play open to earn $1,000, after having taken the Oakland 72-hole open less than a week before. The latter added $1,200 to the Metz coffers, and he's away with a good lead for the money-winning title captured last year by Sam Snead.

Lakefield 'Spiel Is Won By Mrs. Spence

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 26.—The open bonspiel of the Lakefied Ladies' Curling Club brought out seven rinks of ladies, including many anxious to try their luck at the game before throwing their hats into the ring for the full season's bouts.

Oshawa Larrups Red Birds By 7-4 Score

OSHAWA, Ont., Jan. 26.—(CP)—The strong Oshawa club, most feared by Toronto Goodyears as the team to upset them in the playoffs, appeared today to have clinched second position in the senior "A" division of the Ontario Hockey Association.

Oshawa defeated the lowly Brantford Red Birds 7-4 here last night after a tough struggle. It was the Birds' best game on Oshawa ice in two seasons.

The win gave Oshawa four more points than the third-place Port Colborne Sailors, curently on a tour of the Eastern, United States Amateur League. Oshawa have three more games to play before the regular schedule ends Feb. 7. Port Colborne has two. The undefeated Goodyears can't be ousted from the top slot.

Jerry Cooper, Oshawa winger, topped marksmen with three goals against Brantford, who have won but one game this season. Lex Chisholm, previously tied with Toronto's Johnny O'Flaherty for point-getting honors, went into the league lead once again with a goal and two assists for 35 points.

Goals by Jack Kelly, Ossie Storor and Len Wilkes tied the score at 3-3 early in the second period but Oshawa drew away after that. Tony Torti, bruising Brant rearguard, scored the other counter for the visitors.

Port Colborne, playing Baltimore Orioles in the first game of their tour, lost 5-3. The winning points count for Baltimore in the Eastern U.S. Amateur League.

Baltimore, largely made up of Canadian players, hasn't been beaten by a Canadian team this season. Captain Vince Upper, Gal Gallinger and Old Bill Long scored for the Sailors. All Port Colborne goals came in a last period rally.

Canadien Casualty

Having kept a fairly consistent line-up together through his team's last few games, Cecil Hart, leader of Canadiens, last place team in the N.H.L. had his plans thrown out when it was found that George Mantha, ABOVE, left wing, had a chipped ankle bone and will be out of action for a couple of weeks at least. Louis Trudel was brought up from New Haven to replace him.

Famed Umpire Emslie Now 80

ST. THOMAS, Ont., Jan. 26.—(CP)—Robert D. (Bob) Emslie, who started his baseball umpiring career in 1887 when a shoulder injury ended his pitching days, will mark his 80th birthday tomorrow at his home here.

For 35 years Emslie was a member of the National League's umpiring staff, returning every winter to St. Thomas to indulge in the sport of curling. Now he bowls and plays golf and renovates antique furniture.

Born at Guelph, Ont., Bob broke into baseball at nearby London and joined the old Harriston Browns of Toronto when 18. He moved to St. Thomas to play for the Atlantics, a club which toured the Eastern United States and brought Emslie his chance to turn professional with Camden, N.J., in the Inter-state league.

He pitched for Camden and for Baltimore of the American Association, then for Philadelphia Athletics. His shoulder injury affected his work in his years with Syracuse and Toronto of the International league and he ended his playing career with Savannah, Ga.

THE SPORTS ROUND-UP

By EDDIE BRIETZ

(Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, Jan. 26—(AP).—Gents, things have reached the stage where you've got to get there ahead of time to see the finish of a Joe Louis fight. . . Last night Joe's old pal, John Henry Lewis, got his before you could say Jack Robinson. . . . Bam, bang and a wham or two and the shooting was over. . . . The boys are supposed to be the best of friends, and Joe proved it by putting J. H. out of his misery as soon as he could unwind his right. . . .

Sonja Henie almost stole the shot. . . . Everybody quit looking at a red hot prelim when she tripped in . . . Until then the John Barrymores were getting the photographers' business. . . Sonja was dolled up fit to kill. . . . One guy said, 'She don't mind her ice surrounded in platinum, does she?" . . .

One big New York hotel will make a bid for the World's Fair trade by installing a huge blackboard which will list the daily scores of every major and minor league team in the country.

Chief Newhall Urges Radio System

The establishment of a two-way police radio system at a cost of $2500 was strongly recommended in the 19th annual report of Chief Constable Samuel Newhall presented to the police commission at Wednesday's meeting.

Earlier in the meeting a letter was read from the Peterborough Business Men's Association unanimously endorsing the proposed police radio.

No action was taken in view of the absence from the city of Mayor James Hamilton and consideration of the Chief's report and of the estimates for the current year was deferred until a special meeting of the commission to be held next Wednesday.

Included with the Chief's report were estimates which showed a total of $33,475.00, including $2,500 for the radio system as against the $29,848.69 actually expended by the department last year, which incidentally means an overdraft of $23.69.

The Chief Constable's report was as follows:

"During the past year Peterborough with added police protection, 'but still inadequate,' for the size of the city, finds an increase in crime, drunkenness, disturbances, thefts, etc., the majority of offences being committed outside the regular patroled areas. No signal system whatever, but in spite of all these handicaps this force with the excellent cooperation of many other forces, particularly Toronto, was able to bring a large percentage of the offenders to justice and to recover the stolen property to the value of $25,235.82.

Traffic

There was a decided improvement in this important and ever increasing problem due no doubt to having an officer on that duty alone. The parking conditions athough showing some improvements, coud be greatly improved, and with the passing of the new traffic by-law, together with the proper signs, and with the assistance of painted areas, and more electric signals at the dangerous corners, red reflectors, etc., I trust will have the desired effects.

Discipline

During the year 1938 the majority of the members of the department discharged their duty in a very creditable manner and under some very trying circumstances. I had to reprimand one officer for misconduct during the year.

Recommendations

I strongly recommend that a two-way radio be established in this city. The system recommended has been tested out under unfavorable circumstances and was most satisfactory. It enabled the officers on duty in the station at any hour, day or night to communicate instantly with the patrol car no matter what part of the city the car was patrolling. The result being that the police were on the scene of complaints in marvellous time as demonstrated recently

This system and cars equipped can be installed for $2500.00 with the assistance of Constable Clarke, who after having the experience of helping to build same will be abe to service it.

I also recommend that your Chief Constable's salary cut be restored viz. to $2600.00. That the police matron's be increased by $100.00 as set out under the heading of recommendations for 1939. Further that proper parking signs be put up in all parts of the city. Time and again charges have had to be dropped when people charged with a violation of the traffic bylaw complained that there were no signs to notify them of bus stops and no parking. There should be painted strips for parallel parking and bus stops, also a no parking strip in front of the police station, aong with several other place in the main section of the city. That some system of venlation be placed in the police station and cells, such as a suction and discharge fan. By so doing a great deal of the sickness amongst the officers could be limited, as a great deal of it is directly caused by the unsanitary conditions existing. Over 25 transients and prisoners have been accommodated in one night, the smell being terrible when the pace is heated. Prisoners have complained time and again ,especially when they cannot get bail.

"In conclusion allow me to express my appreciation of the kindly cooperation which has been extended to me by the members of the legal profession, the Children's Aid, the provincial police and the loyal support of the members of the force including the police matron."

ESCAPE INJURY

HALIFAX—(CP).—Three members of the cast of the London Repertory Company narrowly escaped injury as they were taking curtain calls at a Halifax theatre. A weight attached to the drop curtain struck the concrete wall, breaking off three pieces of concrete which fell near the players.

PAINFUL PILES

Can Be Quickly Relieved.

If you think there is no way to relieve the misery of piles, it's because you don't know of HEM-ROID, an internal medicine, from a prescription written by Dr. Leonhardt, a western physician.

The real cause of piles is on the inside—bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel, with the tiny rectal veins full of stagnant, impure blood.

Dr. Leonhardt decided the way to relieve piles was internally, with a medicine which would ease the congestion of blood in the veins of the lower bowel and help to heal and restore the sore, tender spots. After many tests he wrote the prescription which has been so successful in giving quick relief from pile misery, it is now offered to you with our promise that you may have your money back if you are not completely satisfied after using one bottle.

No matter what kind of piles you have or how long you have had them, HEM-ROID must show you the quick, clean way to get rid of your pile misery or your money will be given back to you. McDermid & Jury and Bond's Drug Stores or any druggist can supply you with HEM-ROID and will back up this promise.

Rev. Hollingsworth Invited To Stay At Marmora St. Andrew's Church

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, Jan. 26. — Preceded by a sumptuous banquet served by the members of St. Andrew's Women's Association, the annual congregational meeting of the church took place in St. Andrew's Hall on Wednesday evening, with Rev. C. W. Hollingsworth presiding.

Presenting his report, after minutes of last year's meeting had been approved, Rev. C. W. Hollingsworth mentioned that the membership was practically the same as a year ago. Baptisms were: Adults, 3; children, 26. There were 13 weddings and 14 burials. In conclusion, the pastor testified to the pleasure it gave him to work with the people of St. Andrew's congregation.

Finances Up to Par

W. A. Sanderson followed with the treasurer's report, which showed a prosperous year for the church financially. He mentioned that $653 had been received from the Women's Association. Practically $463 were received in response to the anniversary appeal.

H. W. Sabine, superintendent, gave the Sunday school report which showed a slight decrease in attendance. Mrs. W. Kerr gave a musical selection, "Sweet Hour of Prayer," after which Garth Sabine, Sunday School treasurer, in giving his report, showed the financial condition to be slightly better than a year ago.

Rev. C. W. Hollingsworth showed that receipts for the Missionary and Maintenance Fund amounted to $125, a small increase over the previous year.

For the year's activities of the Women's Association, reports were handled by Mrs. H. W. Sabine, secretary; Mrs. F. S. Sweet, financial secretary, and Mrs. F. R. Wells, treasurer. Miss W. Sabine then briefly reported for the Young People's Asociation, showing continued interest in the activities of the organization. W. A. Sanderson reported on the welfare of the choir and Rev. C. W. Hollingsworth voiced his appreciation of the services of the choir at this juncture. Mrs. H. R. Haacke chose a very pleasing reading, "The Juggler."

A break in the usual order of business was made as Rev. C. W. Hollingsworth carried out the installation of the officers of the Women's Association who are headed by Mrs. W. J. Pack as president

New Officers.

Election of elders and stewards followed with the following being elected: Elders—E. J. Gale, W. A Sanderson, H. W. Sabine, Dr. D. L. Curtis, A. Sweet, G. B. Airhart, H R. Haacke, H. O. Loveless. Stewards—J. W. Richardson, F. R. Wells, R. E. Neal, W. J. Pack, G. Jarvis, E C. Prentice; this number to be added to at the board meeting.

The invitation was then extended to Rev. C. W. Hollingsworth to remain as pastor for another year. In expressing thanks for the invitation, the pastor mentioned that he would complete seven years as pastor of St. Andrew's at the end of next June.

Mrs. W. Kerr then gave another selection, "He Will Roll the Sea Away."

French Village Is Bombed

PERPIGNAN, France, Jan. 26. — (AP). — An unidentified Spanish warplane dropped six bombs early today near the French village of Formiguieres, 15 miles from the frontier town of Bourgmadame. The bombs landed in woods and field close to the village. Mobile guards said there were no casualties.

Immediately after the bombing witnesses said they heard machine-gun fire above, indicating at least two planes engaged in aerial battle over French territory.

The planes, about 2,000 above the village, wheeled after a few minutes of fighting and roared back across the Spanish border avoiding Bourg-Madame where French gunners manned anti-aircraft guns and searchlights.

An investigation was opened immediately by French authorities to determine which side in the Spanish civil war was responsible.

Poultry Feeding Discussed At Keene School

If anomalies are news, and frequently they are, it may be permitted to mention the fact that although experts of the Ontario Department of Agriculture lecture about the virtues of cod liver oil in the dietary of poultry, nothing is officially said about the oil's benefits to man as a reinforcement against winter colds.

Vitamin D in the oil of the cod's liver for pullets and cockerels especially as a preventive of colds and coryza and similar ills of winter in the hennery,—there is nothing new about that. Jesse F. Francis of the staff of the Ontario Agricultural College told the young men of the short course in agriculture at Keene Wednesday afternoon. And while men have highly appraised the oil for many years, only recently has it come into general use in fluid and pellet forms, but no one goes around the country urging its values the whole year round, but especially as an aid in resisting colds.

Mr. Francis came to Keene Wednesday as a special lecturer on poultry topics, and covered quite a wide range of the subject in his afternoon assignment.

Vitamin D For Chicks

Modern poultry feeds have kept up with the vitamin procession. Mr. Francis said that cod liver oil in proper measure will increase egg production 5 to 10 per cent, boost hatchability 10 to 20 per cent and reduce colds in the flock 50 per cent. A good grade of oil contains 20 to 120 vitamin D units a gram, and sells from 85c to $1.10 and $1.20 a gallon. A pint and one-half of that grade should be used to 100 pounds of mash. If the producer is trying to increase hatching of eggs earlier in the season he might boost that quantity to one quart. Mr. Francis said it worked out about half a teacupfull for one hundred hens.

Profitable Production

Mr. Francis read the following reference table as a guide in answering the question which might arise some time as to whether a flock of hens is yielding enough eggs to pay for its feed.

Feed, hard grain and mash, costing $2 per hundred pounds and eggs selling at 20c a dozen,—a flock of 100 hens should lay at least 27 eggs to pay for their feed.

At $3 per cwt. and eggs 20c the same flock should lay 40 eggs.

With eggs selling at 25c a dozen and feed at $2 the number of eggs should be 22; and with the $3 feed 32 eggs.

If eggs were selling for only 15 cents, the flock of 100 hens, on $2 feed, should lay 36 eggs; on $2.50 feed 45 eggs; and $3 feed 54 eggs.

Mr. Francis advised that five should be added to each number of eggs if the table was applied to Barred Rocks, because they had greater capacities for food.

Grain Feeds

One of the adult men of the township who attended the meeting enquired about the comparative values of wheat and barley as grain.

"I said he would be well advised to feed two or more kinds of grain," Mr. Francis continued, and concluded by stressing the desirability of ground corn. "A few years ago we mixed up fairly good chick starters using single grains. We had in mind that people were using home grown grains, with one exception that is chick starters, because chicks grow so rapidly during the first ten or twelve weeks. If they get a set back from poor feeding, over heating or chilling during that period it will be reflected in their growth for the first year.

For the first hundred pounds use a commercial chick starter rather than a home mixture. There are probably just as many chicks started on home mixtures as on commercial starters, but I believe the commercial gives better results in growth, especially for the first three months, than by pinning them to one or two grains to start with. You want big pullets in the fall if you are after size and number of eggs. The commercial feed men have put more effort into making good feeds than the chicken men have done to produce good chicks."

Wheat, oats and barley, used separately as a base for a home mixture including milk, meat and fish powder was pasty, but that condition could by the addition of ground corn. Corn, wheat, oats and barley used in equal proportions, about 25 per cent each, resulted in a low death rate of chicks during a period of twelve weeks, and the loss from "dirty mouth," due to pastiness, was also low as compared with results from the other mixtures in which the three grains had been used separately without the corn content.

Mr. Francis said that grains ground fine are less palatable to chicks than are the rolled grains. They are fond of rolled wheat, oats and barley.

"Don't make a change of feed when pullets are coming into production. Try to carry on the feed they are accustomed to. If you want to force moulting, shut them in for a week in May or June and give them little wheat and water. Take the green feed and mash away from them. Then, at the end of a week be as good to them as you know how. Come on with the mash. By early moulting you get them back into production by late summer and fall. However, don't try that with three year olds. It is all right with yearlings that you are not going to carry over after Christmas or use for breeders."

Mr. Francis discussed proteins in milk, fish and meat, and said "if you can get a flock of 100 hens to consume 25 to 30 pounds of milk a day you are providing enough protein." He added that buttermilk seemed to show better results in hatchability than did skim milk. Some of the makers of chick starters were beginning to put forth a claim that milk powder produced from June milk was better than that from February milk. "Probably you are going to hear more about the chick starter with June powder. Some of the feed men are beginning to capitalize on it."

"Unless a pullet goes to roost with a full crop you are not likely to get an egg the next day. I think the best plan is to give them at night all the hard grain the hens can eat. You know there is enough if there is some left over. Have mash in the hopper all the time, but it might be advisable at this time to close the mash hopper around three o'clock so they'll eat more grain for supper."

"If you want to keep up size of egg you have to keep up size of bird. If you want size and number of eggs from Barred Rocks don't use a cockerel weighing less than eight pounds at seven months, and pullets not less than six pounds at seven months."

Swansea Ousts Chief Martin

TORONTO, Jan. 26 — (CP). — Swansea Police Chief B. B. Martin, suspended recently after Toronto and Provincial police raid on a betting clearing house in the village adjoining Toronto, has been asked to resign by the village council, it was announced to-day.

Reeve Clarence Downey, describing the council's "painful duty," said the resignation was asked as a result of the raid and also because of the failure of a raid on an apartment because the premises had been vacated the day before.

The reeve's statement said, "We have not reached our decision merely because of public clamor, or to make ony one the goat for the disgrace brought upon our municipality. Our decision was made strictly on the evidence before us."

Appeals had been made "not to be too harsh on the chief, in view of the fact that large gambling establishments are being operated in Toronto, one of the biggest being near the City Hall, and no one has been fired," the statement added.

Mayor Ralph Day of Toronto, commenting on the Swansea statement, agreed that a handbook establishment had operated within view of Toronto's City Hall. Police raided it several times but could never get evidence on which to base charges.

Authorities said constant police surveillance had driven the place out of business.

Ousted From Mexico

Seen upon his arrival in Texas is Frank L. Kluckhorn, Mexico City correspondent of the New York Times, who was ousted from that country "as the butt of a general program of cracking down on foreign correspondents," according to his own words. Mexico police questioned him then gave him 24 hours to leave the country, he said.

sprung any leaks. There were some serious leaks in it.

"You should know. You scuttled one ship," said a Liberal member.

"Unfortunately I did not catch that joke but probably I will hear about it later," said Mr. Stevens when the members laughed.

The new trade arrangement with the United States would not injure any legitimate Canadian industry, said Trade Minister Euler. It did not imperil the British preferences for if the new agreements lapsed the preferences would be restored as before and the United States for the first time recognized the propriety of special preference agreements between the parts of the British Commonwealth.

The new agreement strengthened rather than weakened the imperial preference system. Little or no benefits would be conferred on Germany, Japan and Italy through the extension of concessions granted to most favored nation countries.

Italy's trade with Canada was small and Japan did not produce the high-priced cotton textiles on which concessions were given the United States. Germany could benefit only on specialized machinery and a certain acid, neither of which were produced in Canada.

Main Estimates

covering additional amounts the various departments find they will need under the same headings as those covered in the main estimates.

In addition, the government presents the so-called special estimates, covering cost of grants-in-aid to the provinces for direct relief, works projects and farm rehabilitation, and the annual deficit of the Canadian National Railways. These are expenses of comparative recent origin and are not considered ordinary costs of government administration.

Thus the total of the ordinary estimates tabled yesterday, $457,241,215, may be compared to the $430,328,510 which was the total voted last year under the same headings.

But in addition to the last named figure there were last year special supplementaries amounting to $95,149,382 which brought the total money voted for all purposes for the year 1938-39 to $525,477,892.

Indication has already been given that the government will engage in extensive works projects looking toward providing employment, including encouragement to civic improvements on a share basis with the provinces and municipalities. It has also been announced the federal share of direct relief will be increased.

Debt Costs 134 Millions

Of the total vote the cost of interest and carrying charges on Canada's debt will require $134,000,000, taking up the bulk of the finance department vote which totals $191,803,859 and includes $30,000,000 for old age and blind pensions and $19,000,000 for subsidies and grants to the provinces.

Pensions and national health will require $59,203, 608, an increase of $905,000. Pensions to Great War veterans will take $40,750,000, a slight drop, while war veterans' allowances will require $5,800,000, an increase of $900,000. There are numerous increases in votes for public health services.

The postoffice vote of $37,835,667 is an increase of $1,314,532 of which about one-third is for additional air mail services.

For the Department of Mines and Resources the total vote is $15,542,380, an increase of 1,190,000 which reflects the recently announced proposal to increase coal subventions from $2,250,000 to $3,500,000.

The vote for national revenue was $12,392,495, a slight decrease from last year attributable to economies in administration costs.

There was a decrease in the agriculture estimates which were fixed at $9,756,310, a drop of $181,281, mainly due to appropriations for last year remaining unspent.

More For The Mounties.

For the Royal Canadian Mounted Police the vote was $6,779,095, an increase of $463,268.

The Department of Transport estimated $16,826,463, an increase of $728,095, on ordinary expenditure, and $4,976,440 on capital, an increase of $96,640. Operation and maintenance of airports and airways and aerial services generally will require $433,084 more than last year, canal service an extra $66,928, and marine services $210,931.

Estimated needs of the Trade and Commerce Department amounted to $9,164,776, an increase of $538,938. Administration costs will be up $133,880, the Canada Grain Act costs $63,380, Dominion Bureau of Statistics $189,845, publicity in the United Kingdom $135,120, and the National Research Council $135,850.

For the Justice Department the vote of $5,827,212 is an increase of $241,823, largely accounted for by increased cost of penitentiaries.

To provide for travelling expenses of the King and Queen and their party in Canada next summer, a vote of $350,000 was included in the Transport Department estimates and for general expenses of the visit $75,000 was placed in the estimates for the Department of Secretary of State.

A total of $418,509,607 of maturing debt was shown with the due dates, apart from short term treasury notes, ranging from July 1 next to March 1, 1940.

Canada To Buy

for the former and $258,500 for the latter.

Additional hangars are to be built at the Dartmouth air station and improvements made at Yarmouth. In all more than $1,800,000 is to be spent in Nova Scotia for air defence.

On the Pacific extensive works are to be undertaken, not only on the British Columbia mainland but also on Vancouver Island and Queen Charlotte islands. At Patricia Bay hangars, runways and barracks will cost $654,000; buildings at Vancouver are being provided out of an appropriation of $229,000; works at Prince Rupert, Alliford Bay in the Queen Charlotte Islands and at Kamloops will take approximately $400,000.

Air force personnel is being increased by 231 all ranks to 262 officers and 2,305 airmen. At the same time the non-permanent air force will be given 19 new machines.

Warship For Pacific

A flotilla leader will be bought from the British admiralty for the Royal Canadian Navy. While no announcement has been made in this connection, the probability is that it will be stationed on the Pacific, bringing the Canadian fleet at the Esquimalt base up to one flotilla leader, four destroyers and two minesweepers. A total of 21 officers and 363 ratings is being added to the naval force. The vote for the naval service is $8,500,000, which compared with $6,639,232 last year.

The reserve arm of the navy is to be expanded by creation of a fishermen's reserve on the Atlantic coast, similar to that which came into being some months ago on the Pacific. Forty skippers and 160 seamen will be organized into this reserve.

A new departure is the projected R.C.N. reserve, which will be formed from personnel whose service in the navy has expired. They will go on the reserve for five years after discharge.

Most of the money allotted to the militia will be taken up in purchasing armaments and munitions. The vote for personnel in both the permanent and non-permanent forces remains the same as last year. The total militia vote of $20,775,600 is $4,046,580 greater than last year.

Erection at Camp Borden of buildings for a tank training centre indicates development along these lines. Numerous other camps and military centres are being improved with regard to quarters and field equipment. The estimates indicate the department contemplates reopening of the Lindsay Arsenal and keeping it running throughout the year with shell case operations.

Continue Army Khaki

Substantial increase in the purchase of clothing and camp equipment will be made, with a view to outfitting the militia in new uniforms. Service khaki will continue to be worn. It was declared that training of both permanent and non-permanent militia will be maintained "at the increased level reached during the past three years."

Considerable work will be done on camps and buildings during the year. Following are some of the larger militia items:

Niagara Rifle Range, $10,000; Winona Rifle Range, $10,000; Camp Borden (commencement of buildings for armoured fighting vehicles and army service corps training centres), $100,000; Kingston Artillery Park, $36,000; Vimy Barracks, Kingston, $50,000; Montreal St. Bruno Rifle Range, $45,000; St. John's, Que., Barracks, $23,000; Fort McNab, Halifax, $26,500; Bedford Joint Service Magazine, $40,000, Shilo camp, Man. $25,000; Victoria, B.C. Armory, $10,000; Esquimalt, Joint Service Magazine, $73,215; Kamloops Magazine, $20,000; Dundurn Camp, $22,000; Petawawa Camp, Ont., $15,000; Connaught Rifle Range, South March, Ont. $10,000.

Heavy expenditures are contemplated for construction of buildings and works for the Royal Canadian Air Force. More than $1,000,000 will be spent in British Columbia.

In Ontario $185,000 will be spent in various construction works at Trenton air station, while at Ottawa a new hangar and other buildings will cost $300,000. A sum of $250,000 is being set aside for a central repair depot at a site to be determined later.

Lanphier Broadcast Sanctioned, Foiled

TORONTO, Jan. 26 — (CP). — Dr. Frank Wood, president of the Canadian Progess Club said Wednesday although Canadian Broadcasting Corporation had granted Rev. Charles Lanphier permission to broadcast an address at a club luncheon to-morrow the broadcast would not be made because no arrangements for time on the air had been decided.

Father Lanphier was banned from the air on January 5 for a breach of C.B.C. regulations dealing with political broadcasts on or any two days previous to any election day. The C.B.C. announced yesterday the priest had been granted permission to broadcast to-morrow.

Dr. Wood said that because of a lack of time to make broadcasting arrangements, it was not possible to have the address broadcast. Officials of the station (CKCL) which usually handles the club's luncheon addresses said time on the air during the scheduled luncheon period had been disposed of and the station could not accommodate Father Lanphier.

Meanwhile, the priest said he could not interpret the C.B.C.'s ruling "any other way" than that the ban "against my broadcasting has been lifted." He was unable to say immediately whether he would resume his regular Sunday broadcasts, "but I would understand from the C.B.C. decision that I could broadcast over their stations as well as private stations."

FROZEN PIPES

Three of the twelve emergency calls for plumbing service received early this morning at Fred Goodfellow's shop were from homes encountering for the first time the domestic trouble of frozen pipes. "At that it wasn't as bad as Monday and Tuesday," Mr. Goodfellow said.

TWO SOLDIER-VETERANS.

Joe Hill, war veteran and member of the 21st Battalion, remarked to-day that only two war veterans have held the position of Warden of Peterborough County since the war and both were members of the 21st Battalion. The first was Russel Hales, Reeve of Chandos, and this year James Milby ,Reeve of North Monaghan, is Warden of the County.

COLD INTERFERES

The cold spell slowed up the wheels of justice in police court today. Joseph Johnston, of Harvey who was to have gone on trial this morning at 10.00 o'clock could not get his car started for some time and as a result he was late in arriving. Magistrate Langley wished to complete the case before tackling any new business so the proceedings were delayed.

COLD HOT WATER

It was so cold Wednesday night that the hot water pipes in one citizen's dwelling were found to be frozen solid this morning. The home owner is a little bewildered over the situation. He claims that at midnight steaming hot water gushed out of the tap, so he just left the cold water tap drip figuring the hot water section would be safe. This morning the cold water tap was still dripping but the hot water was ice.

JUST A REPAIR JOB

A suggestion that a noiseless typewriter be purchased for the officer Constable Gordon Puffer on the ground that operation of the present machine disturbed court proceedings was turned down by the Police Commission Wednesday. Magistrate Gee said the sound of the typing did not disturb him and it was decided to have the old machine repaired, rather than purchase the new one.

A COMPROMISE.

Many school boys who claimed they would go through the winter without wearing a hat are beginning to weaken. Yesterday when the thermometer was looking down in the mouth, several of the bare-headed crew were noticed wearing specially-made ear muffs held in place by a band that passed over the top of their heads. Workers in the downtown section chuckled as the men hurried by with red noses and bare heads.

ORION OVER MAIN STREET.

Orion stalked the streets last night with frosty breath, and with his jewelled gad chased most of the lads and lasses indoors. And then he set about huffing and puffing around the houses, and although he didn't blow any of them down, he made the thermostats on their automatic stokers and oil furnaces work overtime. If you really know Orion from nightly greetings, you will not be surprised when he puts his big thumb on the mercury column and depresses it into the sub-zero regions of the thermometer. He is the gorgeous giant of the winter skies, and should be accepted as the 35 Below Zero Reported In Belmont Twp.

Peterborough county and city shivered in a wintry blast that put the mercury on the toboggan overnight and a survey of the district shows thermometer readings all the way from 29 below at Mount Julian to 18 below in the city. Ballieboro was 22, Omemee 28 below, and Havelock 25 with farmers from the northern part of Belmont township reporting government tested thermometers showing a below zero reading up to 35 below.

The thermometer was still looking down in the mouth at nine o'clock when the mercury said ten below and pedestrians who hurried along with coat collars up to the ears, examined the thermometers and swore they were cockeyed, because it felt like forty below.

Garage men were kept on the double quick all morning but the bulk of the business was merely the "shove to start" variety. Motorists who left their defroster or oil heaters on all night had plenty of trouble trying to get their cars underway this morning, and battery dealers did a brisk business.

The sudden cold wave embarrased one Douro township man who drove to the farm of his girl, only to run out of gas as he started for home. He was forced to spend the night at the farm and in the morning he found the car almost buried beneath a snowdrift in the lane. The girl's father towed the car into the city for garage attention before it would start.

Householders encountered the most distress from the cold snap, as water pipes froze in many homes for the first time. Plumbers using a new electrical contrivance which eliminates the necessity of tearing up portions of the floor soon had the water flowing freely again, but were hard put to meet the demand.

Usually fourteen cars are parked in the lot near the Examiner office but this morning only four arrived, and strange as it may seem three of the vehicles that arrived are veterans and include a 1928 Chevrolet. All the others refused to start and the workers hoofed it to work.

Taxi Bylaw Becomes Law February 1

Peterborough's taxi by-law, long under discussion by the Board of Police Commissioners, was finally passed by the Commission at Wednesday's meeting and will come into force on February 1. It regulates and controls the taxi cab business, provides for a tariff of fares in two different zones and outlines the duties and responsibilities of owners and employees. The provisions of the by-law have already been published. The most contentious feature of the by-law as originally proposed, that requiring taxi owners to carry insurance, was dropped when it was found no taxi by-law in the province imposed such a condition.

patron of the coal and wood industries. You first see him about two o'clock in the mornings of early September, appearing down in the eastern sky. Last night he was overhead at eight and nine o'clock, and by March he will have faded out of the heavens until next fall. And so he dominates his realm in all the brilliance of his constellation, and when a tantrum comes upon him he can make the verandahs crack, pipes freeze, and men turtle their necks into the collars of their coats, and hump along the streets with new pace.

HAROLD B. RYE ILL.

Overcome by a sudden attack of weakness last Sunday, Harold B. Rye has been confined to bed at his home, Sherbrooke Street West, in North Monaghan, throughout the week, and he has been ordered by his physician to take a rest he has long neglected. Mr. Rye's many friends throughout the city and county will unite in the sentiment of good wishes for his early and complete recovery. Some of them remarked at Warden Milby's dinner to the County Council last week that Mr. Rye was looking particularly well, and for that reason the news of his illness has been a pronounced shock.

BUSY DAY AT KEENE

Keene town hall was entirely occupied with activity yesterday. The council of Otonabee township was down to business in their room; the girls' class in home economics was concluding its course in clothing, including the making of dresses, and the young men's class was taking notes on a poultry lecture by Jesse Francis of the O.A.C. in the main hall down stairs. The clothing course ends today with the completion of dresses, and Miss Lulu Rowe of Woodstock will terminate her engagement and leave for other appointments. Meanwhile Miss Jean Scott is carrying on through the final month of February in charge of the girls' group. With Mr. Francis yesterday were Robert McKercher and Donald Bell.

ARTHUR RINGER PASSES AWAY ILL A FEW WEEKS

Effects of severe injuries in his war service in France led to the fatal illness of Arthur Albert Ringer of the city's assessment department who died Wednesday night at his home 261 Sherbrooke street. Mr. Ringer enlisted with the 93rd Peterborough battalion, was promoted to the non-commissioned rank of sergeant, crossed to France from Otterpool with the 1st Battalion and at Vimy Ridge was gravely wounded by the explosion of a shell above his head. A deep scar on his face was the exterior mark of the permanent disability he suffered.

In September, 1919, Mr. Ringer was appointed assistant to W. J. Henry, assessor, continuing his work until some weeks ago when a recurrence of illness compelled him to go to Nicholls Hospital for treatmen. To what extent Mr. Ringer's disability was a handicap to him in his work was known only to himself. Something of his physical impairment was realized by his friends, by his associates at the city hall, and by members of successive councils.

"He was a faithful worker. You couldn't find better. I don't think there was ever a cross word between us in all the years Mr. Ringer worked with me," Mr. Henry remarked to the Examiner today.

Born In England

Mr. Ringer was born in England, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ringer, and was sixty-one years old. He came to Canada and Peterborough with them fifty-eight years ago, received his education here, and was employed at the Peterborough Canoe Company prior to his enlistment in the 93rd Battalion. As a youth he was a member of the city's volunteer fire brigade in the years preceding its change to a permanent and professional department. He was a member of Otonabee Lodge I.O.O.F. and Peterborough Lodge A.F. & A.M.

Mr. Ringer is survived by his widow, one son, George Richard, of the Northwest Mounted Police, one daughter Marion, a nurse at Belleville General Hospital, and one brother, John, of Kamloops, B.C. He was a member of St. John's Church. The funeral will be held on Saturday at 2.30 p.m. from the family residence, Sherbrooke street, to the Little Lake Cemetery. The service will be conducted by Rev. R. T. F. Brain and Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt.

Patrons Of Indian River Cheese Factory May Be Given Option Of Buying Plant

The co-operative dairy enterprise advocated by R. H. Mayberry at the Holstein Club's dinner last week and also at the concluding session of the County Council has come upon two practical opportunities of advancement this week.

It has already been announced that G. A. Gillespie has offered Ormonde Cheese Factory to its patrons to be acquired by them on a co-operative basis, and it is understood that Mr. Gillespie has made a similar proposal to the patrons of Indian River Factory.

The Ormonde project is farther advanced than its companion at Indian River. Patrons on both sides of the Trent River at Hastings have been advised that Ormonde will be sold to them if they can form a company to take it over and operate it. The Indian River plant has not yet been offered to its patrons, but its purchase has been suggested to some of them as an idea to think about in the months before the new season opens.

Mr. Gillespie confirmed both intimations today. "If the patrons don't buy Ormonde, I don't think it will be operated this year," he said. "There is nothing definite yet about offering Indian River factory to its patrons, but I would like to dispose of both of them. We have no further need of them. We can take care here in Peterborough of all the milk we handle."

Whether the agricultural committee of the County Council would be interested in promoting the purchase of either of these cheese factories as a co-operative investment will be for them to decide. According to W. J. Moore, dairy instructor, they are desirable properties, efficiently equipped, and are among the best factories in his district.

U.F.O. Approves Of Plan To Make County Co-operative Conscious

An attempt to make Peterborough county co-operative got under way at a meeting of the U.F.O. of this county, held at the Paragon Hall Wednesday night, when members accepted a proposal to bring teams of young men and women into this district to speak to farm groups throughout the entire district. They will attempt to bring down to every man and women in the county the advantages of co-operative buying.

The plan followed a proposal by Harvey McDougall, educational secretary of the U.F.O., and assistant editor of the "Rural Co-operator." The plan, adopted unanimously by the Peterborough association, will set up a fund of $200 for the purpose, all but $50 of which will be provided by the Co-operative Company. The Peterborough association will supply the $50.

Six young men and two young women will travel throughout the county, commencing about the middle of February, addressing meetings in school houses, farmer's homes, explaining the merits of co-operation. They will travel in groups of two, the girls addressing groups of women, men groups of men. They will be picked from leaders of known ability from outside points and their lectures will extend for two weeks. It is hoped they will reach every man and woman in the county, and that Peterborough will become keenly co-operative.

Farm Supply Co-operative

At the conclusion of this project, members hope enough enthusiasm will have resulted to permit them to establish a "Farm Supply Co-operative" with membership so large that considerable savings will result. Such co-operatives usually take the form of warehouses in which are stored most of the supplies required by farmers—such as binder twine, oils, grease, coal, tractors, and a hundred other items, all purchased co-operatively. The teams who will tour the county will not sell subscriptions in the Co-operative, but will merely point to the advantage of such a system.

Last night's meeting was poorly attended, only about two dozen being present. Chairman Clarence Mann attributed failure of many to come to blocked roads, cold weather.

Mr. McDougal showed interesting slides on the co-operative system as it has grown in the United States, said the same could be done in Canada. A co-operative movement is not, as many people claim, doomed to failure from its start, but can be highly successful if its members -to f- [illegible] work at it and believe in it, he said.

DISGRUNTLED LISTENER.

Most disgruntled listener to the Louis-Lewis fight last night was Dick Raine, who had a ringside seat in his shop on George Street. Dick was just starting to enjoy the show when it ended. He took a cigar from his mouth, surveyed it sorrowfully, and muttered: "And here I had just lighted a good ten-cent cigar."

Lakefield Fears For Native In Chile

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 26.—Fear is expressed here for the safety of a Lakefield girl, now resident in Concepcion, Chile, where 40 per cent. of the houses have been destroyed by earthquake, and 2,000 are known to be dead.

She is Mrs. Reginald Spillsbury-Pocock, wife of the manager in Concepcion for the Shell Oil Company. They have one child. A daughter of Colonel Fred Lefevre, she was born and brought up in Lakefield. She is a niece of Mrs. G. Evans Atwood of Toronto.

Col. Lefevre, a Canadian engineer many years resident in Chile, lives in Iquique, but it believed he is not in the earthquake zone.

Wants More Beauty

Baldur von Schirach, presiding at the first anniversary of the "Faith and Beauty Movement," now boasting a membership of 500,000, who, as Germany's youth leader, declared that German female beauty must become even more beautiful, while its manhood is to be kept to a high pitch of physical perfection.

Invitation To Wedding Of 'Tiger's' Daughter Is Held By Emile Baumer In Peterborough

An interesting souvenir was brought into the office to-day by Emile Baumer, 567 George street and former resident of Alsace-Lorraine.

The souvenir is an invitation from the late Monsieur Georges Clemenceau, former Premier of France, to attend the wedding of his daughter, Therese Clemenceau to Monsier Jules Jung, a lawyer, on the 31st of July, 1918, in Paris. Jules Jung, was also a soldier and was killed before the war ended on November 11, 1918, a few months after his marriage.

Mr. Baumer relates that Jung's parents had a summer home in Alsace-Lorraine which his father and mother used to take care of and Emile would play with Jules when both were very young. The friendships thus formed endured through the years, even though Mr. Baumer moved to Canada, and the wedding invitation is one of his cherished possessions.

FAIL TO SOLVE HOW FLOUR GOT INTO CAR

The mystery of how a bag of flour and a carton of matches which Joseph Johnston, Harvey township, is accused of stealing from the Dominion stores, got into his automobile on the market square on the night of Saturday, January 14, is still deep, though there have been already two long police court sessions.

On Tuesday Chief Newhall testified that he had seen Johnston and another man carrying the flour and matches out of the rear entrance of the Dominion Stores. The articles had been found in Johnston's car when it was searched by the police that night.

This morning W. J. Arthur Fair, who is defending the accused called a number of defence witnesses and their testimony only added to the confusion. One of them, Ivan Bolton, who is also accused of stealing the flour and matches, swore that while he was sitting in the car two men he did not know and concerning which he could only give a meagre description, came along, ordered him out of the machine and put in two bags and a carton and then "beat it", as the witness put it.

William Sage was first called by the defence and he denied that he had said in the police station on the night of the affair that he had heard a couple of men plotting a robbery.

Ivan Bolton, who said that he had been given a ride into town that day by Johnston and had met him again tht night in a beverage room swore that he went over to the car on the market square somewhere around 11 o'clock and got into the back seat. He had not been there long when two men came along and told him to get out. When he did so they put two bags and a box into the automobile, Bolton, who admitted that he had had some drinks and had been convicted Wednesday for being drunk that night said that neither of these two men was Johnston or the other man mentioned by the Chief Constable.

Bolton could not remember anything about the 100-pound bag of flour which Johnston is accused of stealing and that was found in the car when the police searched it.

W. Bocock, the man mentioned by Chief Newhall as being the other man he had seen with Johnston carrying the goods out of the Dominion Store, denied that he had had anything to do with the affair except that he had been with Johnston in a beverage room and had accompanied the accused into the store while he purchased some groceries. He was to get a ride home with Johnston and was waiting around with the others when the police came. He stated that was the closest he had been to Johnston's car and he kne wnothing about the goods found therein until he had seen Constable Menzies pull a box out of the back seat.

Witness admitted to Crown Attorney McElderry that on the Monday after he had pleaded guilty to being drunk that night and paid a fine.

The defence was not complete when the court adjourned for luncheon.

The services were conducted by Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, who spoke of the loss of a father in the home and expressed his sympathy to the bereaved family, all of whom were present.

The wealth of floral tributes and letters and telegrams of sympathy as well as the many who called at the home and attended the funeral gave testimony of the high esteem which Mr. McEwen enjoyed throughout the district, where he spent his entire life.

Interment was made in Little Lake Cemetery, beside his son Jack, who predeceased him in 1929. Acting as pall-bearers were Leonard Adlam, Russell Henry, Charlton McBride, Peter Jarvis, Garnet Jarvis and Norman Sullivan.

The Rambling REPORTERS

WAS IT AN ACCIDENT?

Donald Mackay, salesman for the Sawdust Burner Company, George street is beginning to think that he acted as a good Samaritan to the meanest man in the province. On Sunday night he found a car in the ditch on Highway No. 7 east of this city. He stopped and attached his tow-rope to the front of the marooned vehicle, and was able to get it back on the road. The other driver disconnected the tow-rope and shouted "Okay" to Mackay who drove on. Two miles further on his own car slid into the ditch, and he was astonished to discover that the tow rope was not in the rear compartment when he searched for it, with the result that he had to hire a tow truck. If the owner of the Oldsmobile car who was towed out of the ditch happens to have this tow rope he might return it.—McG.

CAREFUL PEOPLE

There must be something to that old saying that the Scots are a thrifty peole. At last night's annual Burns' supper held in the Moose Hall, Robert Hendry pointed to four signs on the walls, each the title of a poem composed by Burns, and he said the signs had been made in 1913 and had not missed a Burns' supper in the city since. It was learned that Hendry had the signs made 26 years ago, and after every supper takes them down and carefully stores them until another anniversary rolls around.—McG.

DRUNK DRIVER GIVEN 10 DAYS

Hubert Lovelace whose home is in Belleville, but who has been visiting Peterborough for some time, was sentenced by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning to ten days in jail, after he had entered a plea of guilty to a charge of drunken driving.

Lovelace stated that the car was the property of his wife and Magistrate Langley made a direction that it was the duty of the police to impound machine for three months.

The accused's driving permit is automatically suspended for six months.

"My information is that this man was driving east on Brock street and almost collided with a police car," said Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry. "Constable Clark who was driving the police car was forced over the sidewalk to avoid a crash. The officer followed the accused's machine to George street and arrested him."

Chief Newhall stated there were cars parked outside the Brock street rink during a hockey match at the time.

"If he went through that lane of cars without hitting any that was good driving," commented Magistrate Langley. "I have difficulty in getting through there myself sometimes."

WANT AIRDROME

NORTH SYDNEY, N.S.—(CP). — North Sydney Board of Trade has named a committee to press for construction of an air base at his Cape Berton town, scene of a seaplane base during the Great War.

TWO SCOTS MEET BROTHER FROM OLD TOWN

A tall happy-go-lucky Scot walked into the Moose Hall Wednesday night just as the annual Burns' supper was starting and purchased a ticket. He was warmly welcomed by William Petrie who placed the stranger alongside Tom Hendry at the table.

"Where do you hail from?" asked Hendry, with the familiar burr of the Scot.

"Ruthergien," answered the stranger.

"Why that's where I was born and I left there 35 years ago," replied Hendry who shook hands again to show the warmth of his heart for a stranger from the home town in the old land. In a minute Hendry walked the length of the banquet table and brought his brother, Bob Hendry, down to add his greetings to the tall friendly Scot.

Told About Supper

"I arrived in the city late this afternoon and when I called into Coleman's store the girl recognized me as a Scot and told me about the supper," said the stranger. He chuckled as he remarked on the fact that there were in all probability only two persons from the town of Ruthergien, Scotland, among the 140 present and it was his good fortune to sit down beside one of the two.

The stranger is Alex Cardow, six-foot tall war veteran with a melodious voice that did full justice to the songs of old Scotia that were sung by the crowd. His clear tenor voice carried above the others while the Hendry brothers and the reporter who happens to be Irish standing alongside gave their support and that particular section of the room rang with the words of Loch Lochmond. Before very many minutes had elapsed Bob Hendry was drawing a diagram on the back of a program to prove his statements that he still knew the streets of Ruthergien and where some of the older people lived.

Travels The World

Cardow is a salesman, and he travels the world selling—of all things—Christmas stockings and Christmas crackers, with novelties inside from very small ones to some so big it would take two people to make a neat job of cracking them, cotton snowballs with holly leaves on them, imitation plum puddings, toq jewelry and Christmas candy.

Today the reporter accepted an invitation to visit his sample room in a local hotel and it seemed funny to step out of an 18 below temperature into a room that reflected all the gaiety of Christmas.

Cardow is known throughout the islands of the South Atlantic as "the man who brings Santa Claus." Down in the West Indies the colored lads who trundle his bulky sample cases gave him this name. Turbaned porters in far off India give him the same title in a variety of dialects.

And he in turn sometimes gives them Christmas stockings filled with weird and wonderful creations, such as game they cannot make head or tail of, toy automobiles and false whiskers. Today "the man who brings Santa Claus" was in Peterborough for a short visit and is gone on his way.

Cardow leaves Glasgow with five large trucks packed with samples, travels to Newfoundland, then Canada as far west as Vancouver, then across the States to New York where he takes a boat for Bermuda. In the south he covers Trinidad, the Barbadoes, Cuba and all of the main islands bringing with him the spirit of Christmas regardless of the time of year. He reports in to headquarters in Glasgow only once a year and while in Ontario makes Toronto his headquarters.

Every year no matter where he happens to be on January 25th he finds where a Burns' supper is being held and attends and he remarked last night in every corner of the world, the Scots get together, maybe there are only two, or perhaps as many as 200 in a community to revere the name of Burns.

He was royally entertained at the celebration here last night and stayed after the dinner to dance, showing as much ability at the Scottish folk dances as he had singing the songs of his native land.

Bad Chimney Fire

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Jan. 26.—Fire extinguishers from the fire hall were used to combat a bad chimney fire at the barber shop of Lewis Myles, here yesterday. The blaze occurred during strong wind and might easily have developed quickly had it not been that Fire Chief Fred Dodd was in that vicinity and had it under control in a few minutes.

DEATH AT THE MANOR

By M. E. CORNE

READ THIS FIRST:

Elsie Ritter, a beauty shop operator, taking the place of her friend, Kitty, for a week in the private salon of Mrs. Horace Witherspoon, Sr., is disturbed by queer things she finds and odd people she meets at the Manor, the luxurious Witherspoon home. She finds her employer is an eccentric old woman with sadly misplaced vanity. She meets her granddaughter, Daphne; her daughter-in-law; Della Craig, an actress, who is a house guest and the various servants of the household. Elsie overhears a violent argument between Daphne and her mother, during which the girl criticizes her grandmother. After the meeting some of the other house guests, Elsie gives a manicure to old Mrs. Witherspoon's sister, who converses in riddles. While Mrs. Witherspoon, Sr., is under one of the four hair driers in the salon, Phil, Elsie's friend, drops in to see her and telephones from downstairs Elsie goes down to see him. When Elsie returns to the salon, she faints when she finds that the old lady has died while under the drier. After being revived, Eliza, the maid, accuses her of stealing Mrs. Witherspoon's emeralds, which are missing. She succeeds in convincing Horace Witherspoon that she knows nothing of the missing jewels. The chauffeur tells Elsie that the servants blame her for Mrs. Witherspoon's death because Elsie apparently neglected her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER TWELVE

I had not entered the salon since the evening before, but now I resolved to go there. I was determined to find the emeralds, and the salon, it seemed to me, was the logical starting point in my search.

The lobby was untouched. Whoever it was who cleaned the place had not done so this morning. There was the divan with the plied pillows where I had lain and there was the curtained anteroom where Mrs. Witherspoon had breathed her last. Fearfully I parted the curtains, more than half expecting to see the dead, staring eyes of the old lady peering at me from the windows of the drier. But the booth was quite empty—and still—Well, I shivered, all the while telling myself not to be a silly goose. There was nothing here to harm me. Nothing, oT prove it I advanced bodly. The sound of my heels on the tiled floor was like a cannon's boom.

There was a cushion askew upon one of teh chairs, and I lifted it by one corner and shook it furiously. There was nothing concealed in or under it. In turn I repeated the performance on each of the five cushions in the room, to meet the same result.

On my hands and knees I examined every inch of the floor. I did not find what I was looking for, of course, but I did find something—a thin piece of paper the size and shape of the tissues used by smokers of hand-rolled cigaretes. It lay across the tiles from the driers, half ridden by the fringed tassels that dangled from the silver curtains. From habit, as one does when one comes upon a bit of waste paper, I crumpled the tissue and stuck it in my pocket.

When I had looked at every possible nook and cranny without success and was about to call it a day, I had a sudden bright idea. The driers! Perhaps the thief had thrust the emeralds into one of the unoccupied driers, intending to return them at a time when the hue and cry over their disappearance had died down.

Exalted by my own perception I literally tore these driers to pieces to find—nothing. I was so disappointed I could have cried. Half resentfully, half angrily, I kicked the main switch that controlled the current of the four driers. The familiar hum restored my good sense and a measure of my good humor. I drank in that noise as if it were a Brahms symphony.

I do not know how long I stood listening before it came to me there was something not right. Something decidedly wrong. The humming—it was fainter, thinner than it should have been.

Puzzled, I lifted the hoods one by one and poked my head inside. The second drier, the one under which Mrs. Witherspoon had died, blew its blast of hot air full into my face. The remaining three did not blow at all. They were all of order.

It was logical enough to suppose that one drier might suddenly cease to function, but three.

I thought, the rich get "taken in" as well as the poor. Here Mrs. Witherspoon had paid out her good money for an expensive apparatus that got itself broken when you needed it most. I made a mental note to call Mrs. Greely's attention to the trouble and turned off the current and returned to my room.

At ten o'clock just when I was beginning to egt good and jittery sitting around by myself, the phone rang and I jumped so high I almost hit the ceiling. It was Mr. Horace calling from the library.

He inquired: "Could you come downstairs for a moment, Miss Ritter?"

I said that I could and he hung up. I had no idea of the exact whereabouts of the library, but I would make a stab at finding it. I went through the hall and down the front stairs—I was not going through the kitchen if I could help it.

The front stairs was divided into two parts through the medium of a wide landing halfway between the first and second floors. On this landing I heard voices which came from the corridor below. I could hear the voices plainly, though I could not see who was speaking. They must be standing, I thought, directly beneath the landing. Later when I passed this place I discovered my surmise was correct. The landing formed a sort of shallow alcove in the lower hallway, and it was from this shelter that the voices came.

"You make me sick!" a woman's voice came in a harsh whisper, like a stage aside, "You haven't got the courage of a rabbit! Your worries are over now, big boy, and you'd better think of that and stop your beliyaching!"

"For God's sake, leave me alone!" The Second voice was male, and very fretful. "You have what you came after. Now get out!"

"Always a pantywaist, eh, sugar?" the woman sneered and laughed, shortly. "Maybe you aren't dry yet behind the ears!"

"Get out!" The mans voice rose. "And soon—before I change my mind and give us both up!"

"Listen, dearie!" The woman was mad, plenty mad. "Were even now, and we're gonna stay that way! One peep outa you and it won't go so nice. I'm no chump, honey chile! I got another ace up my sleeve. How would, you know who, like to find out—" Her voice stopped abruptly as if it had been stopped for her.

"Shut up!" the man said. "No one is going to find out—not if I have to—"

I coughed discreetly. Listening was not my game.

"Someones coming!" The man sounded panicky. "Run!"

I descended slowly, but as I rounded the banister at the bottom step I caught a glimpse of a bright blond head as it bobbed along at the far end of the corridor. Unless I were greatly mistaken, and I did not think I was, I had waved that golden head no later than the day previous. I recognized the sleek, scultured tresses of the girl Toots! Of her companion there was not the slightest trace.

The library, which I finally found after what amounted to a Cook's tour of the premises, was one of those dark, dreadfully dreary rooms which make one wonder how anyone could willingly remain in them for the pleasurable purpose of reading. It resembled a church with its mission furniture and its high, stained windows and somber velvet hangings. Mr. Horace, who admitted me, appeared smaller and slighter than usual mid such gloomy grandeur.

"The coroner will be here shortly," he said, placing a chair for me. "It will be necessary, I'm afraid, for him to question you."

"The coroner?" I was surprised. I had always had the idea that coroners dealt exclusively in murder.

He nodded. "Dr. Richards, my personal physician, whom I called last night, informed me that in the case of sudden death, and where the deceased had been medically unattended, it is required by law to have the body certified by the coroner before burial."

'I see." It all sounded very complicated and red-tapey to me. Old Mrs. Witherspoon was dead and she had died of a bad heart, and that plainly, was that. Still, the law was the law, and the whole affair none of my concern.

"I've been thinking matters over" he continued hesitantly, "and I've decided it best not to mention the loss of the emeralds. Publicity, you know," he added, noting my lifted eyebrows. "We should have the house filled with police—"

"But how will you recover the jewels?" I interrupted. I was not anxious to become involved with the police, but I did want the emeralds found, and soon.

"I—I dont know." He passed his right hand before his face. "I'm—I'm just a bit confused, Miss Ritter. You must forgive me. My mother's death has been a shock, and there are the—the funeral arrangements. If you will bear with me until after tomorrow—"

"Of course." I felt heartily ashamed of myself. "Of course."

"Thank you. There is something else—"

DOROTHY DIX

DEAR MISS DIX—We have been married a little more than five years and have a fine 3-year-old boy. Because of our insufficient income and the need of more money I took on night work in addition to my job soon after the baby was born, without realizing that I was taking time that I should have spent with my wife. Also I am a reserved man and failed to tell my wife how much I loved her and admired her. I simply took her for granted.

When the baby was about 8 months old she told me that she didn't know why, but she was growing cold toward me. Later on she left me and went back to her mother, saying she had to get away and get a perspective on our marriage. Since she has been gone I have been studying up on the marriage relationship and realize that without knowing it I must have been stupidly selfish and inconsiderate. I have told her that I am aware of this and that I will be a changed man if she comes back. But she turns a deaf ear to all my pleas to return to me.

If she decides on a divorce should I consent in the hope that a later reconciliation can be made? Or should I make a final plea for a trial reconciliation? Or should I try to persuade her to return and maintain a separate residence so that we can both see the boy and trust that time will finally bring us together? I worship my wife and boy, and life without them is not worth living. RICHARD.

ANSWER:

I am sorry for you, Richard, but I think that you simply have to face the fact that your wife no longer loves you, and that you are absolutely helpless in the matter. Perhaps she is equally helpless, but the heart is an unruly member we cannot control. We cannot bid it do its duty and love where it should love. Nor do any of us know why we love, or why we cease to love.

It is as unexplainable as why the fool we relished yesterday we loathe today. Or why pleasures we once enjoyed have palled upon us. Or why the people we thought so brilliant and interesting come to bore us.

Furthermore, when once love dies it is the deadest thing in all the world. There is nothing you can do about it except just accept the situation with what courage and philosophy you can and quit wasting your time and energy trying to blow dead ashes into flame.

Your wife left you for no reason at all except that she had just lost her taste for you. Nothing you did or left undone had anything to do with it. A woman doesn't cease to love her husband because he is working night and day to make a living for her and her child. She loves him all the more for it.

Nor does a woman fall out of love with her husband because he is not Clark Gable. Mighty few American men possess the technique of a great lover. If all wives left their husbands because they took them for granted and said it with beefsteaks instead of orchids, the country would be filled with divorcees.

Be that as it may, however, if you are still bound and determined to get your wife back, you will have to alter your tactics. You are being too humble. You are making a doormat of yourself and she can't resist giving you another kick as long as you are down. Get up and have some backbone. Tell her that you are going to divorce her for desertion and that you are going to demand the custody of the child, as you have done nothing to forfeit your right to him. That will throw a scare into her.

Don't overpersuade her to come back to you. That will bring you no happiness unless she comes of her own accord and because she wants to. It would be torture to you if you knew that she was only doing it because she thought it her duty and that she loahed you and was bored by your society. It is no good having a woman's body without her soul.

* * * * * *

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—Two weeks ago we were given notice by the government to vacate the home we have been trying to pay for for fifteen years. Now my father wants to buy another home and he wants to take every cent in the world we have, which only amounts to $150, for a cash payment. He barely supplies us now with the absolute necessities of life, and if he buys the house we will have to go without food, clothing, warmth and school supplies, and I will have to leave school to help earn a living. As it is, there are many days when we have nothing to eat. If it were not for the neighbors, we would probably starve to death but Father says a home is more important than food and therefore worth dying for. My sister and I are high school students striving for an education. She wants to be a criminologist and I a physician. What should I do to make Father see the desperate situation he will put us in? TILLIE.

ANSWER:

Go to the library and get a book called "If I Had Four Apples" and get him to read it. That tells the story of a man, like your father, who spent his whole life and sacrificed his family trying to pay for a house he bought because he had an obsession about owning his own home. If that doesn't cure him of the home-owning complex, nothing else will.

But I think you and your sister seem to be as impractical as your father. You are in immediate need of money and you should be fitting yourselves for something that will make you a living quickly instead of dreaming of entering professions that require years and years of training and that cost small fortunes to prepare oneself for. To be a doctor, for instance, you must first have a college education. Then you must have a medical education. Then serve an interneship. Then sit and wait for several years before you get a practice. I have seen it estimated that for a man to prepare himself to be a doctor required from ten to fifteen years in time and cost at least $10,000.

So my earnest advice to you is to take up beauty culture, or stenography, or filing, or dressmaking, or clerking, or something where the returns are quicker.

* * * * * *

DEAR MISS DIX—What are the cause and effects of hasty marriages? COED.

ANSWER:

The cause of hasty marriages is the lack of common sense and judgment. And the effect of them, nine times out of ten is divorce.

GOODNIGHT STORY

By MAX TRELL

That night, after the children had gone to bed, Knarf and Hanid, the shadows, slipped out of the house. They glided along the garden path past the flower beds (the flowers were all sleeping deep under the ground until the spring should come 'round again). Finally they reached the stone wall. And there was the Snow-Man!

The children had made him during the afternoon. He was round and jolly and wore a stove-pipe hat and leaned on a cane. In his mouth was a corn-cob pipe. His eyes were two black stones and he had a moustache made of twigs.

"My doctor's name is Jack."

But when the two shadows came upon him now he didn't look very jolly. His feet had begun to melt and his hat had slid down over one ear and if it weren't for his cane, he might have toppled over altogether.

Send for a Doctor!

"I feel bad," he said in a low voice. "I need a doctor."

"A doctor!" the shadows exclaimed. "But doctors don't treat snowmen!"

"My doctor does."

"What is his name?"

The Snow-Man sighed. "That's just the trouble. I can't remember his name. I've got a snow he... you see. It isn't very good. I can hardly remember anything. But he is my doctor."

The two shadows tried to think who the doctor could be.

"It seems to me," said the Snow-Man at last, "that his name—his first name—is Jack. Yes, I'm quite sure it's Jack. Oh, I wish you could think of his name for me. I'm afraid if he doesn't come to me quickly I'll be all melted by the morning, and the children will never recognize me. I'll just be a heap of snow."

Guess Who!

Suddenly Knarf shouted: "I know whom you mean!" The next instant he dashed away.

Can you guess whom he returned with?

Dr. Jack Frost!

And the next morning the Snow-Man looked as jolly and round as ever, and his stove-pipe hat stuck tightly on his head again, and he held his cane so gaily that if you looked at him (as I wish you could) you would have said: "That Snow-Man is going to walk away!"

Molyneux Shows "Feminine" Hats

Molyneux only touches on the highish crown theme in sports shapes, and for one or two tip-tilted town hats of the type which last year would have had only the shallowest of crowns, but this year show them 3 inches high. Here, as at Schiaparelli and elsewhere, even though the crowns may be an inch or so higher than those of last spring, they continue to be narrow, so narrow the head cannot enter them.

There are even more tiny discs without crowns at all, worn tilted well forward and frivolized by flowers, little wings, and especially veils, for veils continued to be much used here, often in two shades of one color, as cyclamen red and pink, very seldom long, but wrapped around the hat and caught into a knot at back with ends falling. In this same spirit are small disklike berets, half an inch thick.

By far the greatest number of hats are in this style, which has been such a successful one with Molyneux, meaning the Edwardian, very feminine style of tiny hat perched forward and trimmed in pretty colors, with flowers and veils. In direct contrast, however, are some youthful, unsophisticated off-the-forehead hats, illustrated by a model in white panama which can be described as a baby bonnet with the front turned back in a deep cuff all around the face, showing the curls above the forehead. A few round berets are also tilted back, on narrow bandeau across the top of the head.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Friday, January 27.

It seems, judging by the astral influences, as though this day might find social, domestic, artistic or sentimental matters paramount. This may result in neglect or entanglement in busines sinterests. In the latter there might be a difficulty or involvement concerning a writing, contract or document. Read all such carefully and be watchful in all correspondence. Much gaiety and pleasure are signalized in the private life.

Those whose birthday it is are assured of a year of much joy and gratification in their personal lives, with social, romantic, domestic, or cultural functions demanding paramount attention to the neglect of business. In this much care is enjoined regarding letters, contracts or documents, since trouble is portended in this domain.

A child born on this day will be socially or culturally endowed to attract success and much happiness in public life, where its ambitions seem to lie. It would not be amiss to give it early ideals as to integrity and stern probity, since a too clever use of tongue or pen might involve it in misunderstandings.

Reduce Varicose Or Swollen Veins

A Simple Home Treatment.

The world progresses. To-day many minor ailments that took weeks to overcome can be helped much more quickly. If you have varicose veins or bunches, start to-day to bring them back to normal size and if you are wise you will do so.

Just get an original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil at any dispensing pharmacist and apply it night and morning to the enlarged veins. In a short time the veins should begin to grow smaller and by regular use soon approach normal.

People who want to reduce varicose veins or swellings, should not hesitate to try a bottle at once. It is so penetrating and economical that a small bottle lasts a long time.

932 City Cases Dealt With In Police Court

No fewer than 932 city cases were dealt with in police court here in 1938, according to the annual report of Chief Constable Samuel Newhall presented to the police commission Wednesday afternoon. Of these 611 concerned residents of Peterborough, the remaining 321 involving outsiders.

Married and single persons ran almost about even on the year's record, the figures showing that 447 of the men and 22 of the women charged were married and 440 men and 23 women were single.

By far the greatest number of cases dealt with were breaches of the Liquor Control Act, 326 in all while breaches of the traffic bylaw were responsible for 101, and the Highway Traffic Act 80. The fourth largest group—and this was largely the result of raids upon a number of gaming places—was made up of "found-ins" in disorderly houses, a total of 36 cases.

The most unusual charge of the year was that of being drunk in charge of a bicycle.

Liquor and gasoline, according to the figures, were the main factor in 507 cases of more than 54 per cent. of the total.

Many Young Offenders

There is food for thought in the ages of those accused. Twenty were juveniles—that is under 16 years of age. In the 16 to 20 group there were 124 and the biggest group of all consisted of those from 21 to 30 years—264 in all or 28 per cent. of all offenders. The 31-40 division was also large with 211 persons and the 41 to 50 group showed little improvement with 190. From 51 to 60 there was a sharp falling off, the total being 83 while those in the 61 to 70 age category numbered only 40. There were but two offenders over the 70 mark.

Of the 932 charged here last year, the great majority—815 to be exact were natives of Canada, 40 were English-born, 22 Scottish, 17 Americans, 12 Polish, six Russians, five Irish, five Italian, four Greeks, and three Chinese. There was one Hungarian, one Norwegian and one native of Wales. By religions the biggest divisions were Roman Catholics, 321; United with 268, and Church of England and Presbyterians with 126 each.

Dealing with the activities of the police department for the years there were some interesting figures given. During 1938 city police investigated and reported on 243 automobile accidents in which there were 76 persons injured and two killed. There were 16,221 telephone calls during the year, and 1,777 lodgers were given shelter at the station.

Twenty arrests wer made for outside departments and 300 summonses served.

During the year 29 children were recovered by members of the department and returned to their homes. In 200 cases police found doors or windows of stores and of offices open or insecure.

Fines Total $4,411.97

Police court fines and cost collected in 1938 amounted to $4,411.97. The total value of property reported stolen during the year was $32,374.00 and $25,335.82 of this was recovered and returned to the proper owners. The big item in stolen property recovered was $21,315.00 worth of stolen motor cars. There were 39 stolen and 39 recovered.

The epidemic of bicycle thefts that began last year is revealed by the fact that 164 were stolen in 1938, 122 of them being recovered. The total value of the stolen wheels was $1,813.00 and it is estimated the bikes recovered were worth $1,377.

HALL'S BRIDGE, Jan. 26. — On Monday evening the annual vestry meeting of St. Matthew's Anglican Church at Hall's Bridge was held in the church hall, with the Rev. C. E. Moore presiding, and fifteen members of the congregation being present. The wardens for the present year were then selected, Mr. Moore re-appointing Dr. Willis as his warden and R. It was proposed and carried unanimously that the wardens be thanked for the splendid work in the past year, and assured that everything they had done was approved of and appreciated.

Moved, seconded and carried unanimously that Mrs. Willis be accorded a very hearty vote of thanks for her loving care of the altar and her help in generally beautifying the church.

The Rev. Mr. Moore then gave a short address dealing with the duties of the officials and the individual members. 3 out of 4 WOMEN Prefer CONCENTRATED SUPER SUDS in Sensational "Masked Soap" Test

1,000 Canadian housewives were given different granulated soaps packed in PLAIN boxes, identified only by number. These women were asked to do their washing with these granulated soaps and then to write which soap they liked best—and why! 3 out of every 4 women expressed an overwhelming preference for "Soap No. 1", CONCENTRATED SUPER SUDS. These letters tell the story. We quote from a few of hundreds.

"No. 1 GAVE BETTER SUDS WITH LESS SOAP and held the suds longer. It certainly washed the dirt out of my clothes."

"NO BOILING OR SCRUBBING WAS NECESSARY when I used No. 1 soap; just the least rub of the fingers to the most soiled spots, and a thorough rinse."

"MY WOOLLENS WERE SOFT AND FLUFFY after a washing in No. 1 soap; It softens water best and dissolves most quickly, and goes FARTHEST."

"WASHABLE COLORS STAY BRIGHT AND GAY when washed with No. 1 soap. It rinses out easily. Very EASY on your hands."

"No. 1 SOAP IS GRAND FOR DISHES. It leaves them sparkling."

You owe it to yourself to try Concentrated Super Suds, next washday. This superior granulated soap contains MORE SOAP, that's why it gives you MORE SUDS. Safe for your clothes and gentle to your hands. Washes your clothes Hospital-clean. Most germs dangerous to health are killed or removed in the washing process. Very economical! Being concentrated a little goes a long way!

With The Girl Guides.

Usual guide meetings were held last week, with two companies holding jolly skating parties. Second company held their's Friday on Sacred Heart Rink, afterwards enjoying refreshments in the club house. First Company went to Jackson Park on Saturday night, Captain made her debut on the ice—she's no Sonya Henie, but she has promise (?). Her performance has, however, inspired other non-skating leaders, who were to be seen hiking to the park carrying skates—whether they did any more than carry them, I have not yet been informed.

Mothers' Auxiliaries for every company have now been formed — the annual meeting is to be at eight o'clock in the Lyceum on Thursday, February 2. All auxiliaries and members of local Associations, also every Guide and Brownie leader, please make an effort to be present. Mothers, too, are invited. There will be refreshments.

Officers elected for these Auxiliaries are as follows: 1st Company, president, Mrs. F. Gray; treasurer, Mrs. Pollard; 2nd Company, president, Mrs. Reilly; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Sullivan; 3rd Company, president, Mrs. W. Carter; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. F. White.

Brownie mothers, please notice. We expect to go to Toronto on May 22 for the visit of Their Majesties, and Brownies are asked to bring money each week from now on to pay their fare, which will probably be seventy-five cents.

IT'S YOUR IRISH LUCK

By PRUNELLA WOOD

For going away, for the races anywhere, and for right here in town or country, Irish tweed comes to the rescue of those who are weary of present wardrobes.

Unlike the matched three-piece suits of a year ago, this one plays plaid against a sharp mixture of crossbars in the jacket, and flecks in the skirt. Color, rather than fabric, is the harmonizing factor, in pink and green tones.

Spring's bringing on separate and suit topcoats styled on loose-fitting lines. Some have tuxedo fronts like the model sketched, others button full length.

Annual Stag Party Held By City Life Underwriters

On Wednesday evening the Kawartha Golf and Country Club House was the scene of the annual stag party of the Peterborough Life Underwriters Association. With Ken A. Jones in the chair, 41 members sat down to an enjoyable dinner. At intervals Morley Plunkett lead a lively sing-song.

E. L. Sackville, for the past three years a member of the Dominion Board of Life Underwriters, gave an inspiring account of the annual meeting held in Toronto last Friday. In his remarks he also made reference to the many ways in which the Dominion Board assists the conditions of the life insurance agent in the field. He bore the good tidings that in the membership drive during the past year, Peterborough Association won the McConkey Trophy, a silver cup to be held for one year by the local association retaining the largest percentage of old members and adding the largest percentage of new ones. The old trophy had outlived its usefulness and beauty, so a new one is being made for presentation to the Peterborough Life Underwriters at an early date.

Although John I. Allen has retired from active service, he will always retain an active interest in the work of the association. He spoke of the days back in 1909 and 1910 when the Peterborough Association was first organized and of the difference in working conditions then as compared with the present.

Both speakers urged all life insurance agents to support their local and Dominion associations, not only with their memberships, but by actively furthering the common interests of all field men in the life insurance business.

The balance of the evening was given to bridge, euchre and table-tennis. Prize winners were Jack Kirkwood, Les Munden, S. J. Hickey, C. W. Nicholson and Ken. A. Jones; they received handsome boudoir lamps and vases.

One and all voted the occasion among the best ever held by the Peterborough Life Underwriters.

The officials for 1939 are Ken A. Jones, president; Harry Tudhope, first vice president; W. J. Ferguson, second vice president; C. N. Hall, secretary-treasurer; executive committee, W. A. J. Giles, immediate past president, L. C. Bateman, T. J. Best, J. Kirkwood, M. Pringle, W. C. McCreery, W. E. Wolfe.

"I DO" IN PLEATS

By ALICE ALDEN

It's "pleats, please," day and night, for the simplest street frocks and most enchanting evening gowns, and even for "I do." Nicole de Paris' interpretation of pleats in white chiffon, for example, is for a southern bride's six o'clock wedding. It was recently modeled in Manhattan's Ritz-Carlton, the "bride" carrying Irene Hayes' breath-taking arm bouquet of shocking pink gladioli blossoms on silver wire, with a flower or two in her coiffure. The gown is designed with a diamond-shaped inset in the triple trained skirt to give a smooth line to the centre front. A brilliant clip holds the bodice shoulder drapery, which extends in two long streamers down the back gracefully released when the fox-trimmed cape is removed.

Business Girls Inaugurate Club At Banquet

A delightful spirit of friendliness and enthusiasm which augured well for the future of their club was apparent at the banquet which business girls throughout the city attended last night for the purpose of forming a Junior Business and Professional Women's Club. They were addressed by Miss Muriel Abbott of Toronto, president of the Toronto Junior Business and Professional Women's Club, who outlined the purpose of the Toronto organization and its method of conducting meetings.

Miss Abbott told of the growth of her club from a small group of six girls to an enthusiastic organization which has now become affiliated with the Senior Professional Women's Club, and briefly outlined its activities. She stressed the benefit of such a club from a social angle, speaking of the value of friendly contact with other business girls, and the pride which the girls feel in belonging to a separate organization of their own. Miss Anne Jamieson, past president of the Business and Professional Women's Club, who, with Miss Trucie Pearson, was instrumental in bringing the young women together, graciously presented the speaker.

The girls were welcomed by Miss Rachael Young of the Children's Aid Society, who urged them to organize with the serious thought of uniting for the purpose of furthering the interests of business and professional women, a purpose which could only be accomplished by getting down to facts and figures and equipping themselves with a thorough knowledge of the part women play in public life.

Admirably fitted to address the gathering because of her constant contact with young people, Mrs. E. M. Leeson of Nicholls Hospital was also a guest speaker. "I am glad that the young business and professional girls are considering the forming of a club," she said. "Meeting with others, exchanging ideas, talking over difficulties straightforward and unafraid, makes for the greatest growth of character." The forming of such a club teaches a great lesson that is badly needed at this time—that of living in peace and harmony with others, she remarked. We forget to be petty. It is the small, unimportant things in life that make differences. Like the irritation of a pin prick, the longer it goes on, the more nervous and irritable we become. However, when a big calamity threatens, we stand together and meet it with courage and fortitude.

Mrs. Leeson advised the girls, once their club was formed, to do all they could to help. "Your first duty is, of course, to your employer," she said, "but if you have time and energy to spare, don't be sparing of giving to the club. If asked to do something, say 'I will try,' or give a very good reason why you cannot. Do not stand ready to criticize, but to make suggestions."

Miss Young and Mrs. Leeson were introduced by Miss Birdie Dawson, president of the Senior Business Women's Club, who acted as chairman. The thanks of the girls to the senior members whose interest had made the get-to-gether possible, was expressed by Miss Louise Spriggs, and a vote of thanks to Miss Abbott and the guest speakers was moved by Miss Margaret Lytle.

Miss Abbott presided during the election of the executive officers as follows: President, Miss Margaret Lytle; first vice-president, Miss Amy Soulby; second vice-president, Miss Margaret Skitch; recording secretary, Miss June Best; corresponding secretary, Miss Margaret Smart; treasurer, Miss Jean Cowling. Arrangements were made for the first club meeting on February 13.

Piano and saxaphone music was provided by Miss "Mickey" Foster and Mrs. D. Quinlan. Miss Betty Lytle was the capable leader for a number of popular songs at the beginning of the banquet and between courses.

Daffodils and tulips, lighted green tapers, and yellow and green favors of crepe paper made effective decorations for the banquet tables. Miss Vera Hayes and her committee were in charge of the supper and table arrangements. The banquet was sponsored by the Business and Professional Women's Club.

Large Party of Women From Scotland To Visit City On Their Tour

A large party of women from Scotland, members of the Women's Rural Institute are planning a tour through Quebec and Ontario during July and August of this year and will spend some time in this city and at Bobcaygeon enjoying the scenic beauty and recreational facilities of the Kawartha Lakes.

Miss Winnifride Wrench, Editor of the "Scottish Home and Country" is organizing the party which will arrive in Montreal on July 20th and leave Ontario by way of Niagara Falls for New York on August 9th. The party is expected to arrive from Perth via bus at Peterborough on August 4th and arrangements are being made by the City Council to have them stop over for a city tour and dinner.

J. G. Perdue, Immigration Agent for Canada at Glasgow Scotland and a former resident of Ennismore writing to E. A. Outram, deputy city clerk concerning the visit said in part: "Miss Wrench advises me that the party would reach Peterborough on August 4th, and would like to meet you and the Hon. G. N. Gordon, K. C. if he happens to be available at that time". Miss Wrench is a sister of Sir Evelyn Wrench, Head of the Overseas League.

Another letter received by Mr. Outram from Miss Wrench, voices thanks for the offer of hospitality expressed by the Deputy City Clerk in an earlier letter. Miss Wrench in her letter says the party would be particularly interested in historical associations in the district, especially if there are any Scottish Settlements. She also hopes to meet Dr. and Mrs. Gordon of Brock Street when she visits Peterborough who are old friends of hers.

Polish Recipes Adaptable To Canadian Produce

To Polish people in both high and humble stations cookery is an art—almost and Pole is a "gourmet" to some extent and their recipes are readily adaptable to Canadian produce.

Zupa Grochowka
(Soup of Dried Peas)

Two quarts stock (vegetable stock will do although meat stock is preferable), one pound cleaned dried peas, ¼ pound gammon (ham), ¼ pound Frankfurt sausage (what we know as "wienies"), 5 tablespoons potato flour, ½ an onion, 1 or 2 sprigs of marjoram, salt and pepper. Clean and soak the peas for 12 hours in cold water. (If you have no stock soak the peas in 3 quarts water and use what is left on them after soaking in place of the 2 quarts stock required.) If you have stock drain off the soaking water, put the peas in soup pot, add the stock, bring to boiling point, add the onion and simmer peas until tender. Rub through sieve (some cooks prefer to leave the peas in there more or less whole shape) and return the puree to the stock. Mix the potato flour with a little cold water and stir it into the soup until it thickens (this flour is not necessary—it only makes the soup, which is all ready thick, thicker. Season with salt, pepper and marjoram. Slice the cooked meats thinly, simmer for a few minutes longer and just before serving stir in the ½ cup of sour cream which is so essential to Polish cooking—it is excellent soup—a one-dish meal.

Flaki (Tripe)

Clean the tripe and wash well. Blanch it in boiling salted walter, drain, and wash again in cold water Put the tripe in a saucepan of boiling water and simmer for at least 2½ hours Remove from the water and cut in 2-inch lengths. Melt 6 tablespoons of butter in a saucepan, stir in ½ cup flour, and when brown, dilute with a few tablespoons stock. Add this "roux" to 2 quarts of the stock, with 2 carrots, 1 onion, 2 sticks of celery, all sliced, mixed herbs—a little ginger, nutmeg, cloves, salt, pepper, and cayenne. Bring to boil and simmer 15 minutes. Then add the tripe, cover and simmer as long as you want to—in ½ hours it will be ready—but in Poland it is often given 2 or 3 hours in this spiced stock. Serve with chopped marjoram and grated Gruyere cheese.

Bigos (Sauerkraut With Meat)

This dish is typically Polish and very popular through the country. It keeps well and is a favorite for shooting expeditions, as it can be warmed up readily over an open fire.

Two and one-quarter pounds sauerkraut, ½ pound any kind of mixed cooked meat (which may be beef or mutton or poultry or game), ¼ pound pork sausage, 1 or 2 apples cut in dice, 4 tablespoons lard, 2 tablespoons flour, 2 tablespoons tomato puree, 1 onion, 1 cup vodka, ½ cup either red or white wine.

Wash the sauerkraut and blanch it in boiling water, and drain. Melt the lard in a saucepan and when hot fry the chopped onion till brown, adding the flour. Then add some of tomato puree, vodka, and wine. Mix well. Put a layer of the sauerkraut in an earthenware casserole, cover with a layer of the different meats and sausage, cut in small slices and the diced apples. Moisten with a little more of the tomato puree and wine and continue the process until the casserole is filled. Cover closely and simmer for 2 hours, shaking the casserole occasionally. Set aside and use as required. Unlike most dishes this improves the oftener it is reheated.

Racuszki Z Kartofli
(Potato Pancakes)

One and one-half pounds potatoes, ½ pint or a little more of milk, 3 eggs, 2 tablespoons butter, cinnamon and sugar.

Boil the potatoes, rub them through a sieve into a bowl and mix with the milk, the yolks of eggs, grated cinnamon, sugar to taste, and the whites beaten to a stiff snow. Beat into a light batter, and cook in the same manner as very thin pancakes. They are sometimes made without sugar and sprinkled with grated cheese.

Kisiel Owocowy
(A Fruit Juice Sweet)

This is a typically Slav dish and is found in all Slav countries. It consists of fruit juice (preferably cherry, strawberry, or other tart flavored juices) thickened with a little potato flour. This is added to a light syrup made by boiling together sugar and water. The mixture is stirred continuously over a slow fire till it is easily detached from the sides of the pan. It is then put in a glass dish and when cool, put on ice. It is served with cream and sugar.

RED FOX DOES IT!

By ALICE ALDEN

With the emphasis on fox, there is much demand for that tawny beauty, red fox. It is a delightful fur for spring wear and it allies beautifully with beige and green tones. Although used mostly for sports and casual wear, there are smart evening coats made entirely of red fox. Paulette Goddard comes through with a very smart outfit that is lavishly furred. The suit is of soft beige tweed and the fur, besides trimming the suit, makes the hat and camouflages the matching tweed bag.

British Nurse Shortage Is Alarming

LONDON, Jan. 26. — Because of the grave shortage of nurses, Battersea Maternity Hospital, S.W., may have to close. So said Dr. G. MacDonald, Battersea's Medical Officer of Health. "There is a national shortage of nurses, and the reason is not difficult to find," he said. "Nurses get a mere pittance as wages. The hours are often too long.

"They have to wait until they are 21 before they start training. This means another four years before the girl has finished her training and become a nurse.

"The job is much too dull-looking these days to attract young women.

"There is a lot of talk of doing something about it. Something should be done. Only people who are really in love with nursing will suffer the present-day conditions in England.

"In a national emergency they will be crying out for nurses. If we are to be prepared, now is the time to improve the nurses' lot."

Dr. MacDonald added that in some hospitals they are working shorter hours. This needs more nurses, but they can't be found.

This is what the nurses want:

A day off every week; four weeks' holiday a year; more freedom and privacy in off-duty hours; facilities for entertaining visitors in nurses' homes; adequate catering by a trained dietician; facilities for sport and recreation; more comfortable and up-to-date uniform.

These points are favored by the Student Nurses' Association, which consists of more than 7,300 young people.

Winners Are Announced In Temperance Contest

"Alcohol, Children and Youth," was the subject of the splendid address given yesterday by Rev. G. S. Easton, of Trinity United church to a group of interested W.C.T.U. workers.

This January meeting was held in the Green Room at the Y.W.C.A. with a fair attendance, despite the storm.

The usual devotional service was led by the president, Mrs. H. T. Rehill, who ably presided throughout, with Mrs. Campbell and Mrs. J. Fairbrother assisting in the service, in scripture reading and prayer.

Business included the appointment of Mrs. W. Boorman as delegate to the Ontario Temperance Federation convention in March, and Mesdames Rodney and Boorman were named representatives to the local council women. On Frances Willard day in February will be held our next meeting or group of meetings, which are being planned in memory of the founder of the W.C.T.U.

A prayer service will be held in each of the sections of the city, making convenient places for all members to meet.

An interesting contest recently held by the Temperance workers in Sunday Shool departments having been completed, Mrs. J. Fairbrother, the superintendent, announced the winners as follows:

Juniors, under 9 years—Hazel McIntosh (7), Sprinville; Jack Preston (9), Springville.

Juniors, over 9 years—Blanche Quinn (11), Murray Street Baptist church; Shirley Delahaye (11), George Street United.

Intermediates — Joan Smedmore (12), Murray Street Baptist; Raymond Kelk (14), Springville.

The treasurer reported a balance of $25 in the treasury, from which the union voted $20 to the budget fund, for work by the field secretaries.

Child Not Overlooked

Rev. Mr. Easton said that the child of today is not being overlooked. Our people are vitally interested in all young people. The moving picture shows and liquor interests are looking to our youth for their future market. Beer parlors, he claimed, are schools where the youth of our land are taught to drink. Mr. Easton spoke from a medical point of view on the dangers of the use of alcohol by our youth from the human view point and from that of personal liberty, all of which show the harm being done to these young individuals.

Closing with a plea that the women of the W.C.T.U. use all their influence and prayers to remove these dangers from the path of our children, and all children, for, the moderate drinker, he declared, is one of the most dangerous we have to contend with.

On behalf of the union, Mrs. Rehill voiced their sincere thanks to Mr. Easton for his timely message.

A delightful piano solo by Miss Eleanor Glover was a pleasing number on the program. An appropriate hymn and the benediction brought to a conclusion this first successful meeting of the New Year.

France's Chefs Made High Mark In Royal Lunch

(By the Canadian Press.)

Canadian chefs who prepare food next summer for King George and Queen Elizabeth will have to work hard and skilfully to duplicate or excel the "lunch of the century" prepared for their Majesties and distinguished company last July 21, at Versailles, as guests of the French government.

The King and Queen arrive at Quebec May 15 on H. M. S. Repulse.

The nine courses and 14 wines at Versailles made connoisseurs of good food regard the meal as the greatest lunch of modern times. Ten of France's most renowned chefs prepared it. Caviar was flown especially from Moscow and asparagus was raised unseasonably under glass to complete the menu which follows:

Iced melon from Limoges green houses; Caviar
Mackenzie grand reserve Amontillado sherry
Salmon trout in white wine with shrimp butter and mushrooms
Le Chevalier Montrachet 1926 (white burgundy)
Lamb chops with mixed vegetables
Le Magnum du chateau la Mission Haut-Brion 1920
(claret from the chateau nearest the city limits of Bordeaux)
Quail mousse with foie gras and champagne sauce
Hospice de eBaune "Cuvee Charlotte Dumay" 1915
(Red Burgundy sold only at collectors' auctions)
Sliced breast of duck with cherries and mixed salad
Coice of
Le Corton Francey 1919,
Magnum du Chateau Mouton Rothschild 1918,
Le Granite au Lanson
(Burgundy, claret or champagne)
Chicken and asparagus
Le Chateau Yquem 1921 (Sauternes)
Perigord whole truffles, larded with goose grease and baked in oiled paper.
Le Magnum du Chateau Latour 1904
(A red Bordeaux which many experts considered the best drink of the meal)
Pineapple mousse in candy sugar baskets, iced Montreuil peaches and small cakes
Coice of
Le Magnum Champagne Pol Roger 1911,
Le Magnum de Champagne C. H. Mumm 1911,
Le Champagne Louis Roederer, 1904,

....Two feminine skiers dressed both for beauty and comfort—one in a navy blue wool suit with red sash and trimmings, its hood trimmed with soft white fur, and the scarlet color repeated in her ski socks and leather mitts; the other in a white sharkskin parka with fur-trimmed hood, and navy blue wool trousers.

....Have you noticed that lady skiers are going in for two-purpose garments this season? The new jackets have detachable hoods and detachable linings. When the snow goes the ski jackets can be stripped down and used for golf or other sports—sensible idea, don't you think?

....A survey of the style scene against the snows shows also that there is a definite trend to off-shades. Bright reds and yellows, for instance, are being replaced by dull wine and burnt orange. Ladies' suits are departing from the bright red and strong green of men's Hudson's Bay garments and moving into pastel blues, roses, etc. The white angora sweaters worn over blue slacks make a pleasing combination.

....Fabrics with a rough surface are a pronounced trend among the newest materials. Nubby cottons and linens, beautifully tailored in the simplest sport styles, are trimmed with amusing buttons—nothing is too far fetched to trim a new sports dress—miniature gin and whisky bottles; a Scotch punch bottle; fruits and vegetables, an old Dutch shoe—all are used to prove that the more whimsical the buttons, the smarter the dress.

EAGER AFTER ALGAE

LONDON — (CP). — Miss E. A. Flint, student at the University of London, takes a boat out on the Barnes reservoir once a week to study algae (sea-weeds). She hopes to find a remedy for the choking of reservoir filters by the weeds.

SNOW FOR GOOD LUCK

ACTON, England—(CP).—Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Strong received a telegram of congratulation from the King and Queen when they celebrated their diamond wedding anniversary. They were married in 1878 in a snowstorm.

Scots Urged To Help Eradicate Bitter Class Hatred Found Existing In Canada Today

It is the duty of every Scot to promulgate the doctrine of sympathy and peace which characterized the life of Robert Burns, and thus strive to not only eradicate the bitter class hatred which exists in our own country, but also to take steps in the prevention of war between nations, Thomas J. Carley, K.C., told 140 Scots gathered in the Moose Hall on Wednesday night to celebrate the 180th anniversary of Burns' birth, with the customary Burns' supper.

"One cannot help but wonder today if we are not departing entirely from the spirit of Burns in our daily lives when we tolerate not only war between nations, but class hatred in our own country. Burns' love knew no national boundaries, and I would urge you to follow in his footsteps to the extent of putting his doctrine of goodwill into practise," Mr. Carley said.

Mr. Carley as speaker was called on to respond to the toast "The Immortal Memory," and he said: "Our sense of humility increases when we recall it is 180 years since Burns was born, and yet his fame seems to grow with the years rather than diminish. No poet of any age was so beloved by the people of his own nation. It is difficult to analyze greatness, but with Burns, the poet, his greatness can be expressed in one word, "sympathy." Thomas Carlyle has said sincerity is the main attribute of a great man, and he lists Burns among the notables.

Burns Lived Frugally.

From birth until death, with the possible exception of two years, the spectre of want hovered near Robert Burns. He was born of poor people and his entire life was one of hard labor, yet in spite of all the heavy menial tasks, he found beauty and inspiration in even the farm duties and produced his great poetical works. His works run the whole gamut of human emotions.

Mr. Carley spent some time on each of the main characteristics of Burns, dealing briefly with his closeness to nature, his humor, his intense love for Scotland, and also mentioned the songs composed by Burns.

His Virtues Killed Him.

"Poems in the Doric" composed by Burns in 1795 when he was a member of the Dumfries Volunteers reflect the conditions that exist in Britain to-day, Mr. Carley said, and in referring to Canada's greatest problem, namely unemployment, he said: "To-day we see hundreds of men begging for the opportunity to work, which is denied. We should not be too harsh with the Government, but should strive to find a solution ourselves. Many great problems have been solved by the people.

"It was Burns' virtues that killed him. His conscience was so alive to his shortcomings that it plunged him into fits of melancholy which sapped his strength. The keener and quicker a man's conscience is, the quicker it drags him down.

"There are some who would paint a halo around Burns' head, while others can see only his faults. It is unfortunate that we have the fault-finders in this world.

A Religious Man.

"We would be making a mistake if we were to say that Robert Burns was on irreligious man, even though some of his writings shocked the staid elders of his time, and his rebellious attitude caused the righteous predicted he was headed for damnation. He was a true patriot, a lover of his people, and a man of deep religious convictions. It is with a deep debt of gratitude that we honor his memory to-night."

Hail the Haggis.

The time-honored custom of carrying the haggis in a platter around the banquet hall with a piper in advance was duly executed, Robert French bearing the dish and Alexander Milne, official piper for the Caledonian Club, playing the pipes. The Address to the Haggis was made by William Petrie, in Highland garb.

William May, president of the Caledonian Club, was toastmaster, and in a few words he paid a warm welcome to the Scots, the guests, and the speakers.

Alderman G. N. Gordon, K.C., was called on to respond to the toast to The Twa Countries, and in the course of his remarks he paid tribute to that indomitable spirit of the Scottish race which has kept up in their courage in the face of oppression, and was an outstanding characteristic of the hardy Scottish pioneers who with the Irish and English settled this part of Canada.

We are gathered tonight as Scottish folk to revere a man who was not only a great poet, but a statesman and one who taught us the meaning of the words "social justice."

Mr. Gordon mentioned the fact that the Empire has a Scottish Queen, that Lord Tweedsmuir is a Scot, and he described the late Ramsay MacDonald as one who will in time be regarded as one of the greatest English statesmen.

City Well Managed.

Dr. J. J. Craig called on short notice responded to the toast to "Our City." "At this time I wish to add my words of tribute to Alderman G. N. Gordon for his work in the interest of the city. No citizen has worked more zealously for Peterborough." Dr. Craig pointed to the fact that Peterborough's sound financial position is reflected in the price of its bonds, and the fine way the relief situation has been handled. He said the cost of education was high, but he felt the people were getting value for their money. "Peterborough is a gem set down in the Dominion, and I am proud to be a citizen of such a beautiful city."

The Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr was called on to reply to the toast to The Lasses, and his remarks provoked much laughter from the gay throng. Dr. Barr, although a regular visitor to the Caledonian functions and one who is heard often in speeches, never fails to bring laughter to his listeners, and his remarks last night sparkled with wit, while at the same time he paid gallant tribute to the beautiful women of Scotland and to those present.

Musical Numbers.

Alex. Milne delighted the gathering with a recitation of "Tam o' Shanter" without reference to any book, and his delivery and enunciation were excellent. Mrs. A. H. Radford's beautiful voice was heard to advantage in the old favorites, "Comin' Through the Rye" and "My Love is Like a Red, Red Rose." She played her own accompaniment. John Anderson, in a rich tenor voice, sang "There Was a Lad" and "Scots Wha Hae." Miss Isobel Duthie sang two songs; "Ye Banks and Brates" and 'Afton Water," with Mrs. Radford playing the accompaniment. The highlight, perhaps, of the entertainment, was the dancing of Alexander Burgess, who was dressed in full Highland costume of Macfarlane tartan. First he danced the Highland Fling and as an encore his nimble feet sped through the intricacies of the Sword Dance.

Toast to The Club.

Alexander D. Clark spoke on the toast to The Club, and said the 25th of January was not only the anniversary of Burns' birth, but also the anniversary of the local Caledonian Club, which was formed 28 years ago. He lauded the new officers, saying the club had a combination of youthful vigor and the steadying influence of experience supplied by the veteran members. 1939, he said, was a revival year, and he predicted the membership would be doubled before the year was out.

Vote of Thanks.

Bob Hendry, the Scot who never grows old, and whose sparkling wit improves with the years, was called on to thank those who helped make the affair the most successful yet held. During the course of his talk he asked Alexander Cardow, a visitor to stand up and said this man had just arrived in the city, was a native of Ruthergien his birthplace, and by mere coincidence had sat down to supper alongside Bob Hendry's brother, Tom Hendry.

Arms Useless On a Wet Day

Rheumatic Pains Relieved by Kruschen

Here is a noteworthy instance of the manner in which damp weather can affect the joints of one who is subject to rheumatic pains.

"I had been suffering from rheumatism very badly," a man writes, "and had such pain in my joints that I could hardly bear it, on a wet day especially. It pained me terribly to use my arms, and I was hardly able to work. I tried two different remedies, but I was still as bad after the treatment.

"Then I was told to try Kruschen Salts, which quickly brought relief. So of course I have kept on with it, and I am now much better and have never felt so fit for years. I used to feel so miserable and sluggish, but now it is a pleasure to be able to work."—S.B.

The pains and stiffness of rheumatism are often caused by uric acid crystals in the muscles and joints. The numerous salts in Kruschen assist in stimulating the internal organs to healthy, regular activity and help them to eliminate excess uric acid.—advt.

Murray Street Reports $10,061 Givings

The annual meeting of Murray Street Baptist church following the church supper heard reports of the year's work and made plans for the future. There was a gain in membership of eleven during the year, bringing the present membership to 475. Total givings to all funds during the year amounted to $10,061, being an increase of $621 over the previous year.

The pastor, Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe, presided at the business session, together with the church clerk, L. H. Ingram. Total receipts for the debt reduction fund were shown to have been $1,808, and apart from individual subscriptions the Women's Association had been the largest contributor to this cause. It was announced that in February the common service would be held at an evening instead of as usual in the morning.

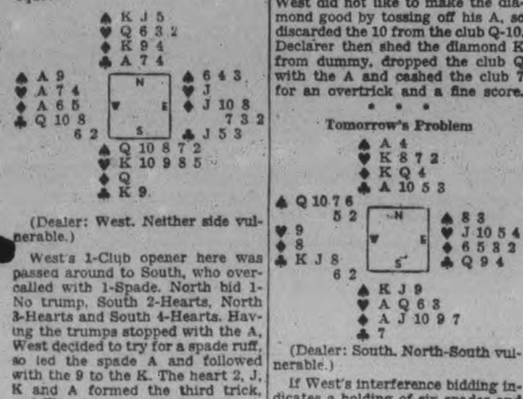
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER
By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

DON'T PUT IT TO BED

WHO DOESN'T HATE to "go to bed" with an ace? That is likely to happen to any player who doesn't keep his eyes open, and of course to some who do. Your aces are in particular danger whenever the declarer seems to have a good trump suit and set-up side suit, so that he is pretty sure to run a fair-sized string of consecutive tricks. He may discard the losers in a suit which contains your ace, or he may render it worthless by means of a squeeze.



(Dealer: West. Neither side vulnerable.)

West's 1-Club opener here was passed around to South, who overcalled with 1-Spade. North bid 1-No trump, South 2-Hearts, North 3-Hearts and South 4-Hearts. Having the trumps stopped with the A, West decided to try for a spade ruff, so led the spade A and followed with the 9 to the K. The heart 2, J, K and A formed the third trick, and West was now at his crisis.

Seeing no sure way to put his partner in the lead, since the club A was in the dummy, a far-thinking player would have noted the danger of being squeezed out of his diamond A. Since the game was duplicate, the taking of that ace might have meant the difference between a good and a bad score. But West tried to get his partner in by leading the club 6. Dummy ducked, East played the J and the K won. Next came seven consecutive major suit tricks. When the last trump was played, South also had a club and a diamond, and the dummy had the diamond K and club A-7. West did not like to make the diamond good by tossing off his A, so discarded the 10 from the club Q-10. Declarer then shed the diamond K from dummy, dropped the club Q with the A and cashed the club 7 for an overtrick and a fine score.

Tomorrow's Problem

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

If West's interference bidding indicates a holding of six spades and five clubs, how should South play for 7-No trump against a lead of the spade 6?

Bishop Enthroned

FREDERICTON, Jan. 26—(CP).—Stately Christ Church Cathedral was a scene of ancient Church of England ritual to-day for the consecration and enthronement of Very Rev. William Henry Moorhead, Dean of Fredericton, as "a bishop of the Holy Catholic Church with jurisdiction in the diocese of Fredericton." In becoming the fourth bishop of Fredericton and spiritual leader of New Brunswick's 50,000 Anglicans he succeeded the late Archbishop J. A. Richardson.

Peterborough City, County Held Up As Example By Duffus In Commons

"Proof Budget-Balancing Smart Managing"; B.C. Member Asks No More Delay On Jobless Insurance Because Of Provinces

OTTAWA, Jan. 27 (CP).—Unemployment insurance should not be further delayed because of the refusal of Provincial governments to agree to constitutional amendments in the opinion of Howard Green (Con., Vancouver South).

Speaking in the House of Commons address debate last night he urged action at the present session of parliament to establish unemployment insurance on a joint Dominion-Provncial basis, similar to the old age pensions scheme. This was only one of a series of suggestions he advanced as part of a program for dealing with unemployment and internal economic conditions generally.

J. J. Duffus (Lib., Peterborough West) told the House of the happy financial position of Peterborough city and county. The city had cut its debt almost in half since 1933, had no debenture issues in recent years, had met all relief costs from revenue and steadily reduced the tax rate. "That is tangible proof that when spending bodies deliberately plan to balance their budgets they can do it," said Mr. Duffus.

Conditions in all departments of anada's economic life were not as satisfactory as might be desired, Mr. Duffus said. "In this connection I would urge the government to introduce legislation to control the orderly marketing of all farm products."

Some Other Points

Besides unemployment insurance, other points in Mr. Green's program were:

Provision of old age pensions for persons over 65 years of age as against 70 at present.

Amendments to the housing act to make the low cost housing scheme effective.

Immediate creation of a national employment service.

Uniform residence standards applicable to transients in all provinces, the Dominion to assume full responsibility for transients not legally resident in any province.

Establishment of warm hostels for older burned-out transients, to take them off the employment market.

More active measures to complete the trans-Canada highway.

Assumption by the Dominion of full responsibility for the relief of all unemployed war veterans.

The government had ignored conditions in Canada in its zeal for expanding foreign trade. It had buried itself with the making of trade agreements which might be all to the good but would not correct internal conditions.

Million On Relief

"Now that these agreements are concluded I urge the government to give its undivided attention to conditions in Canada and particularly to the problem of what is to be done about Canadians on relief, ranging from the month to month from approximately 750,000 to as many as 1,000,000," he said.

"The government should also face the problem of what is to be done for those other Canadians, numbering no one knows how many thousands, not actually on relief but very near it, in fear of what the morrow may bring forth. Both these groups are without security for future happiness and without much incentive to enthuse over

Franco Settles Barcelona; Troops Go On

BARCELONA, Jan. 27 (AP). — Part of a vast insurgent "army of occupation" worked to restore this captured capital to normal conditions today while other columns advanced northeastward up the coast on the heels of the retreating enemy.

As insurgent cheers and the Fascist salute swept through the great industrial city, the conquerors moved to consolidate their triumph.

By decree of General Franco, General Alvarez Arenas was appointed to the supreme command of all Barcelona's military and civil services—merged into one. Citizens were ordered to surrender their firearms immediately.

Franco's columns, meanwhile, advanced rapidly north of Barcelona, striking further blows at the fleeing government forces.

One column was reported to have taken the town of Moncerda, about eight miles away on an inland highway leading to Northern Catalonia, presumably cutting off the retreat of soldiers and refugees.

Mop Up As They Go.

At the same time, supporting troops moved down the Llobregat River, west and south of Barcelona, cleaning out government pockets left by the swift advance of the insurgents into the former capital.

(Government troops were said to be establishing defence lines closer to the French border. Perpignan reports said Premier Juan Negrin and other government officials conferred at Figueras yesterday on the military situation.

(Reports from Madrid said government forces had repulsed attacks both in Southwestern Spain and on the Valencia front between Teruel and Sagunto. Madrid's populace apparently was not yet aware of Barcelona's capitulation).

Barcelona remained calm and orderly, with food kitchens rushed in yesterday to feed hungry residents. Electric light and telephone service already was restored.

2 Die In English Train Wreck

LONDON, Jan. 27—(AP).—Two persons were killed and eight dangerously injured today when a fast passenger train crashed into the rear of a stationary train on the London and Northeastern Railway's main line two miles north of Hatfield, Hertfordshire.

Two cars telescoped in the crash, attributed to a defective signal system caused by yesterday's heavy snow fall. Snow drifts hampered rescue workers and disrupted rail and road communications throughout England.

Trains were delayed and went on reduced schedules because of the crippling storm. Two derailments were reported but passengers escaped with bruises.

In the west of England roads were blocked, with automobiles buried in snowdrifts, and house roofs in some places collapsed under the strain. Telephone wires were down throughout southwestern England. Floods threatened low-lying villages as the thaw began.

Sixty-mile-an-hour gales whipped the southern and western coasts. Lloyd's still sought a trace of the missing Glasgow steamship Wilston with 32 men aboard. Some believed wreckage found on the rocks near St. Ives, Cornwall, belonged to the Wilston.

Britain's Plane Production Doubles In '38 See It Trebled In Coming Year

READING, England, Jan. 27 (CP-Havas). — British airplane production has doubled in the past year and there are hopes it will be tripled in 1939, Sir Kingsley Wood, air secretary, said today at the opening of a new plant and airdrome here.

He thanked the workers for their aid "in these critical moments."

"Let no one feel unduly disturbed," he added, "when I use the word critical, because we in this country know how to keep our heads and all the preparation you are assisting in here are made for the purpose of maintaining peace, which we hope will be kept throughout the world."

Young Man Passes

Leading Britons Send Hitler Plea On Peace

LONDON, Jan. 27 (CP Cable)—A group of 18 of the most prominent British leaders outside political life tonight issued an appeal to Chancellor Hitler and the German people "to join with us in a supreme effort to lay the spectre of war and enmity between nations."

The appeal, which was broadcast in German, reflects the growing alarm in Great Britain over the rapid deterioration of European affairs. Its primary object is to influence Hitler before he speaks at the opening of the German Reichstag Monday.

There is no doubt that the British government shares the increasing concern over affairs in Europe and reports are current tonight that Prime Minister Chamberlain will choose stronger and more explicit language than he usually adopts when reviewing foreign affairs in a speech at Birmingham tomorrow.

Just Fed Up

INGERSOLL, Ont., Jan. 27—(CP)—On a large "Welcome To Ingersoll" sign at the town's entrance, some wag, evidently a bit fed up with his home town, posted an almost equally legible sign 'We Are Dead. Inquest Tonight."

Panama will issue a special stamp to commemorate the 150th anniversary of the Constitution of the United States.

No Peace Call Yet From Loyalists

Leaders Optimistic Backs To Wall At French Border

By Robert Okin
(Associated Press Foreign Staff.)

PERPIGNAN, France, Jan. 27—(AP).—A cold drizzling rain added another touch of misery to-day to tens of thousands of Spaniards milling about in Northern Catalonian towns homeless and hungry after having been evacuated from the Barcelona area.

When I left Spain late yesterday streams of travel-worn, bewildered refugees were pouring northward in one of the most tragic phases of the 2½-year-old civil war.

The Government of Spain was slowly reorganizing after the stunning blow it received when General Franco captured Barcelona, the former capital.

President Manuel Azana was reported to be still in Catalina. Premier Juan Negrin and Foreign Minister Julio Alvarez Del Vayo were located in a town which they asked not to be identified. (Negrin was said by French border officials yesterday to have gone to La Junquera, close to the French frontier.)

From tiny crowded rooms in small villages they began again to administer the affairs of Government Spain which until this week they had directed from luxurious offices in Barcelona.

Negrin set up his office in a small room. Over the door was scribbled in red pencil: "President of the Cabinet of Ministers."

No Plea For Peace.

The government's plans still were uncertain. Its leaders said they were optimistic, pointing to the Valencia area as the centre of government hopes. Observers were convinced there would be no suing for peace in the immediate future.

In the little farm towns of northern Catalonia was being enacted one of the most heart-breaking migrations Spain had even seen. Families, scattered by the suddeness of the government's flight, wandered aimlessly along roads and in fields.

Conveyances of every description jammed highways. Trains of boxcars or ancient windowless coaches, gorged with weary refugees, slowly crawled to the north through insurgent aerial bombardments.

Their pitiful freight was dropped in towns that could not find room for their own war-swollen populations.

Barcelona railroad platforms were packed with thousands Tuesday night before I left by automobile.

I carried with me a family which had left Madrid in the early months of the war when their home was wiped out by a bomb. They had moved to Valencia and Barcelona and now were on the move again.

Britain And Empire Undefeatable Is Warning Hoare Hands Europe

SWANSEA, Wales, Jan. 27.—(CP) — The British government served notice on Europe today that Great Britain and the Empire, armed and bulwarked by the world's most powerful fleet, are "undefeatable."

Coming to this Welsh seaport after a long cabinet meeting in London yesterday, Sir Samuel Hoare, home secretary and member of the "inner cabinet" delivered the warning at a political meeting.

No air attack would "ever destroy our will to resist," he declared. "When I say that this great country and this great Empire can never be defeated, I am stating a fact."

"Let the world ponder on these things, and particularly let those ponder on them who say that we have grown weary with age and feeble in power," he declared. "So they thought in 1914. They had a rude awakening."

Britan was armed with the most modern and most effective types of anti-aircraft guns, the home secretary said He did not accept "exaggerated statements of the overpowering effect of air attack.

"Even if I were wrong and an air attack inflicted all the destruction on us that critics have claimed, no such attack would ever destroy our will to resist," he said. "On the contrary, any such attempt would increase a hundredfold our determination to vanquish the aggressor."

In an European war, aviation would not be able immediately to strike a mortal blow," he said.

Good On Counter Attack.

"No country can afford to send more than a part of its air force on raiding expeditions, and it is not to be supposed that any enemy air force would be left free to attack these shores.

"The modern fighter pursuit planes) is a very formidable instrument of defence compared to the fighters in the Great War and, apart from actual defence, there is always the great effect of the counter-attack, the form of air warfare in which we have always excelled.

'Confidence and preparedness are the two great national needs, and our preparations on land, sea and

Moonshiner Prefers Jail To Taking Temperance Pledge

Pittsburgh, Jan. 27 (AP)

WHEN it came to a showdown between giving up whisky or going to jail, Mountaineer John Gary never faltered. Gary pleaded guilty yesterday in court to operating an illicit whisky still in the western Pennsylvania mountains. "If you promise to quit drinking, I believe the proper penalty would be probation," offered Judge F. G. Schuunmaker.

"Never, sair," said Gary firmly.

"Six months and $500 fine," snapped the judge.

Famed Smithy Shut

ESSEX, Conn., Jan. 27—(AP).—The forge was cold and the anvil silent today at the oldest of the United States artisant establishments, the 261-year-old Pratt blacksmith shop. Mrs. Jenny Lyne Pratt, 82, widow of James Lord Pratt whose death last October ended a line of direct descendants which had operated the shop since 1678, died yesterday at her home. Since her husband's death, Mrs. Pratt had kept the business going at the famous Smithy.

On Way Home "We're on our way home at last," said Henry Hutchinson of Lake Penage as he sat in the smoker of an out-going train shortly before five o'clock Thursday night. With him in this picture, smiling widely, is his 15-year-old son, David, who was freed from prison yesterday by the Minister of Justice after serving nearly a week of a ten-day vagrancy sentence. It was the first time in 18 months that young David had ridden on the seats of a train although he had travelled by rail thousands of miles in that time. (Examiner Staff Photo.)

Land Of Plenty Where Millions Are Starving Is Picture Nazi Minister Paints Of U.S.

BERLIN, Jan. 27 — (AP). — Walther Darre, Minister of Agriculture, to-day pictured the United States as a land where millions are starving in the midst of plenty.

Opening the annual agricultural fair, he told Germany's farmers that in the United States "everything is to be had in stores, but 10,000,000 unemployed and their families are starving."

National Socialism, he said, considers it "better that the entire nation be protected from hunger" rather than have such a situation.

Bren Gun Case Is Branded Worst Of Political Patronage Deals

OTTAWA, Jan. 26.—(CP)—Climaxing the most bitter denunciation a government department has been dealt this session, C. Grant MacNeil (CCF Vancouver North) yesterday demanded a House of Commons inquiry into the facts cited in the Davis report of the Bren Gun contract and reorganization of the National Defence department.

Applauded by all parties in the opposition group and speaking before a thin attendance of government supporters, the young Vancouver war veteran predicted in the House the Bren Gun contract would "yet prove the most humiliating experience" in the career of Defence Minister Mackenzie.

"It was one of the rankest and most bare-faced political patronate deals ever foisted upan a long-suffering public," he said.

The minister was not in his seat but Hugh Plaxton (Lib.-Toronto Trinity) who was mentioned in evidence at the Royal Commission probe of the Bren contract by Mr. Justice H. H. Davis, was present.

Wasteful Department

Mr. MacNeil devoted his entire time to attacks on the defence department which he described as "most wasteful and inefficient."

A request for nationalization of armament manufacture was coupled with Mr. MacNeil's demand for a Commons Bren Gun inquiry and reorganization of the department "to accomplish greater efficiency and coordination."

"It is now evident something more than huge appropriations are needed to guarantee defence against external dangers," he declared. Between 1918 and 1937 about $300,000,000 was expended on defence yet in 1937 the minister had declared it had been so neglected Canada was without any defence.

"Apparently the trifling sum of $300,000,000 entrusted to the general

Barcelona Goes Wild Two Days

BARCELONA, Jan. 27.—Exultant troops and hundreds of thousands of Barcelonans waded through streets littered with government paper money today in a climax to wild, two-day celebration of the insurgent occupation of Spain's greatest city.

From curb to curb on broad boulevards there were great heaps of torn peseta notes issued by the departed government—worth nothing in Insurgent Spain.

In the litter also were scraps of the "no pasaran" (they shall not pass) posters which Premier Juan Negrin's regime had plastered through the city.

Crowds swept pell mell over the streets and boulevards, chanting "Franco, Franco" for the insurgent general.

They surged through the great Plaza de Catalunya, where blue-helmeted military bandsmen played the insurgent national anthem and over while thousands raised right arms in stiff salute.

Tanks and anti-tank guns roared through the streets.

Loud speakers added harsh voices to the din, shouting out Franco's promise of "work and bread."

Barelegged women dodged through the throngs with sacks of flour balanced expertly on their dark heads.

The celebrations have been continuous since yesterday noon when Franco's warriors occupied the city.

Every store has been closed tight; awaiting the re-opening order from the offices of the new Barcelona city council and the military governor.

Lines seven blocks long of men, women and children wound along the Paseo Gracia and other streets to receive food from Franco's women's organization, the Auxilio Social.

Toc H now has 1,500 branches and 40,000 members.

Arson Charge Is Dismissed Against Herman

Judge Sheldon Smoke dismissed a charge of arson against Nathan L. Herman, manager of the Pattenick's Department Store in the court house at 10 o'clock this morning when he gave judgment on the case heard a week ago.

In his summary of the evidence Judge Smoke said there was strong evidence given to show the accused might have a motive for commission of the offence, but there was no evidence to directly connect the accused with actual setting of the fire. In dismissing the charge, he did not discharge the accused who is being held in custody on a further charge of theft from his employer.

Started In Basement.

The fire started in the basement of the Pattenick store, which is the building occupied for years by the Peterborough Hardware Company and the alarm was rung in about 6.20 on the night of December 12th. Following investigating of the fire by inspectors from the Fire Marshall's Dept., Nathan Herman, the manager was placed under arrest on a charge of arson.

After reviewing the events leading up to the time the firemen arrived at the blaze, Judge Smoke said, "The evidence indicates the fire had started some distance from the furnace; that there had been a wood fire in the furnace in the morning; that about 1.15 p.m. a new fire had been kindled but that no further fuel was added thereafter; that later in the afternoon the store had cooled down so that some of the clerks noticed it; that the doors of the furnace were closed; and generally that if there had been any semblance of fire left in the furnace it had nothing to do with the fire. The evidence further indicates that the electric wiring had been inspected a short time before the fire and that an inspection after the fire failed to indicate that there might have been a "short circuit."

France Given Free Hand On U.S. Planes

Orders To Open Plants Says Roosevelt, Aid His Program

By J. F. Sanderson
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27—(AP).—President Roosevelt said today that American aircraft manufacturers had agreed, with the United States government's knowledge, to supply France with an undesignated number of airplanes.

Mr. Roosevelt was asked at his press conference whether steps had been taken to facilitate French purchase of planes. He said he would have to reply in the negative as the question was put, but added that since many of the American plane factories were idle it would be a good thing if they accepted French plane orders and got them substantially under way before the larger American air program got started.

Mr. Roosevelt said the matter had been considered by the cabinet. He added six major plane factories in the United States were closed and one large engine company had laid off 1,500 men.

In view of that, he said it would be desirable to get new orders and have these plants going by the time the American program was about to get under way.

No U. S. Money Involved

No American governmental financial assistance was involved in the French orders, he said.

Asked why a French observer was aboard a bomber plane being tested for the army when it crashed in California, the president replied that the war department had no objection to other counteries ordering planes from private manufacturers. He added the plane that crashed had not bee naccepted by the United States government.

Earlier president Roosevelt asked the United States congress for an immediate appropriation of $50,000,000 to be spent largely for new airplanes in the government's national defence program.

He sumbitted the request in a note to speaker Bankhead of the House of Representatives which asked that the money be made available for expenditure during the remainder of the current fiscal year and through the year starting July 1.

Mr. Roosevelt said the money would provide, in part, for the defence program he recommended to congress Jan. 12. At that time he suggested a $300,000,000 army airplane procurement program and said approximately $50,000,000 should be made available immediately. Today's request for the air corps was $46,442,829. The administration said that would obtain 565 new combat airplanes.

Bennett Sails For New Home

SAINT JOHN, N.B., Jan. 27—(CP)—Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett sailed today for his new home in England.

A throng of well-wishers greeted the former prime minister of Canada with cheers and cries of "Bon voage" as he boarded the liner Montclear early this morning.

Accompanied by his brother, Captain Ronald V. Bennett of Sackville, N.B., who will disembark at Halifax, Mr. Bennett boarded the boat after attending a luncheon tendered by Lieut.-Gov. Murray MacLaren of New Brunswick.

"Are we sincere when we say governments must economize," Mr. Bennett asked in his impressive address, broacast over the national network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation. "I know something about it. Once, in another place, tried a little economy, and there were 14,000 votes registered against us at the first opportunity."

The dominions must unite with the mother country "for the defence of our civilization and our common democracy," said Mr. Bennett. "If we unite to defend our civilization and our democracy we can defend the world's peace."

He attacked the evils of patronage, chargeing the attitude of the electorate was to vote only for those they felt could bring them political favors and declared that a "sane" solution to Canada's railway problem had been foiled by the consideration of how many votes such a solution would cost.

Seeing He's Caught Youth Gulps Bad Cheque, 2nd Follows As Teller Offers Trade

CHICAGO, Jan. 27 (AP)—Robert Frycek, 16, spent the night at the juvenile home digesting the turn of events—and two cheques.

Robert presented a cheque for $20 at the cashier's window of a department store last night.

Detective Frank Pape related subsequent developments as follows:—

The clerk noticed the signature on the cheque was that of Robert's father — but it had been made with a rubber stamp. He left the cage to telephone Mr. Frycek. Robert heard the conversation.

When the clerk returned he saw the cheque disappearing in Robert's mouth. Hoping to retrive it by a ruse the clerk waved another cheque and said "You're eating the wrong one."

Robert's hand darted through the cashier's window and came back with the second cheque. Both cheques disappeared as Robert swallowed twice.

At the police station the clerk said he didn't know the amount of the second cheque or where it came from. He "just grabbed it up."

Robert said the cheques tasted alike to him.

Test On Tuesday In Grilling Of Chamberlain

By J. F. Sanderson
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

LONDON, Jan. 27 (CP Cable) — Prime Minister Chamberlain will face an uproarious Labor and Liberal opposition at the reopening of the House of Commons next Tuesday when he is called upon to explain why Great Britain refuses to sell arms to the hard-pressed Spanish government.

The House adjourned Dec 22 for the Christmas recess and Mr. Chamberlain since then twice declined the Labor party's request to reconvene to discuss foreign affairs It was generally believed the session will lead to a general election in the autumn, or perhaps earlier

The government's agricultural policy is expected to be overhauled during the session in the hope of silencing growing criticism by farmers before the election comes

The prime minister may announce several changes in his government early in the session. Lord Maugham, the lord chancellor is expected to resign and be replaced by Sir Thomas Inskip who has been criticized continually for his work as minister for the co-ordination of defence.

There is as yet no indication who will replace Sir Thomas who is expected to remain in the cabinet with a seat in the House of Lords.

Indicating the rapid deterioration of the European situation in recent weeks, the House will change its prearranged program for opening day to discuss foreign affairs.

Jitters For Europe.

Meanwhile, London expects Europe to have the jitters until Mussolini shows his hand at the end of the Spanish war. If he removed his troops, planes and armaments, and left General Franco free to start rebuilding on the foundations of a ruined Spain, all might be well.

If he did not, anything might happen.

The fundamental difference between the Government and the Opposition is faith in Mussolini's pledges. The Prime Minister believed Il Duce. The Opposition remembers Italy's signature to the non-intervention treaty and her subsequent dispatch of Italian armed forces to Spain amid open jubilation in Rome.

They also fear a Spain dominated by the Fascist nations, perhaps hitched to the Rome-Berlin axis, as a base for submarine attacks in wartime, with guns pointed from the north and south at Gibraltar, Britain's naval bulwark in the Mediterranean, and as a third frontier for France to defend.

There is also the question of Chancellor Hitler's intentions for 1939 which may include demands for colonies or even a big slice of the Ukraine, but Spain likely will be the Opposition's main point in foreign affairs at the start of the session.

Children's Coughs Quickly Relieved

It is hard to keep the children from taking cold; they will run out of doors not properly clad; have on too much clothing and get overheated and cool off too suddenly; they get their feet wet; kick off the bed clothes at night. The mother cannot watch them all the time, so what is she going to do?

Mothers should never neglect the child's cough or cold, but on its inception should procure a bottle of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. It is so pleasant to the taste the youngsters take it without any fuss.

Evidence Circumstantial

"The evidence which might implicate the accused is purely circumstantial.

"Much evidence was adduced to show the accused had a motive for the crime. It was shown to my satisfaction that there was a shortage in the stock of the store, for which stock the accused as manager was responsible. It is suggested this shortage might be accounted for, had the accused an opportunity to go over the books, but of this I am doubtful. There are also certain suspicious circumstances having to do with the cash receipts and particularly having to do with the disappearance of the receipts of the store for the Saturday preceding the fire. I certainly have no difficulty in finding that the accused might have had a motive for the commission of the offence.

"The accused together with Stevens, Miss Walsh and Miss Cohen all left the store together on the afternoon in question some few minutes before 6 o'clock. According to Stevens, the time was three or four minutes to six. The young ladies suggest it was ten or fifteen minutes to six. They all proceeded northerly on the east side of George street to Hunter. At Hunter Stevens says a clock struck six while Miss Cohen is just as positive that when she arrived home some three blocks away, it was just six o'clock then or a minute after. If Stevens estimate of time is correct, then some of the estimates given by other witnesses cannot be. On the other hand the time set by Miss Walsh and Miss Cohen more or less fits in with the times when other witnesses are sure they saw the accused. I have accordingly come to the conclusion that the estimate given by these witnesses as to the time when they left the store is more nearly correct and I accept it as such. Were I to accept the times given by Stevens and assuming that the accused might have returned over the same course and at the same rate of speed at which they went from the store to Herman's home, this would place the accused as arriving back at the store at about 6.17 and 6.18 two minutes only before the alarm was received at the fire station. Apart from the fact that it would seem impossible for the accused to have proceeded to the cellar start the fire, return to the streeet and disappear, it would seem impossible for the cellar to have filled with smoke between the time accused would have been able to set it and 6.21 when the firemen arrived. If the only evidence with respect to the time when they left the store were Stevens I would have no difficulty in determining that there was no possibility of his having set the fire in the time suggested."

Judge Smoke accepts the evidence of the various witnesses and says in his judgment he is satisfied Herman was on George street south of the Pattenick store prior to the time the firemen arrived.

Tried To Assist Accused

"Stevens apparently tried to assist the accused by telling a story which would indicate that the accused was not in possession of the key of the store at the time. He says the accused gave him the key case as he turned to go into his home. Stevens says he did not open the key case and that he later returned it to the accused as they were proceeding to the fire. At the preliminary enquiry he was asked many questions as to the various times he had had the key of the store and he also made a statement to the fire marshal's officer and at no time did he ever make mention of this before. According to his own evidence in the police court, which was read he had only had possession of the key of the store on a few occasions when the accused was out of the city. There is no suggestion that he had ever been entrusted with the duty of turning out the lights at night. I am accordingly of the opinion that this portion of his evidence is made out of whole cloth and I treat it as such. The accused had the key in his possession when he locked the store and it necessarily follows in my opinion he was still in possession of it after he left Stevens.

"Assuming that the accused left his home at approximately 6.00 p.m. which in my opinion would be about the earliest time, at which he could leave and assuming that it would take him 10 minutes to travel to the store, he would arrive at approximately 6.10. He would then have to unlock the door, go down cellar kindle the fire after having applied an accelerant and then retract his steps to the street and walk down past one store in front of Mr. Stenson's before he would be seen by them. Surely he could not do this in less than two or three minutes and this would place the time when Mr. Stenson and Miss Wals saw him at approximately 6.12 or 6.13.

"There is no evidence that there was any accelerant available; that there was any trace of accelerant about the premises after the fire; or even that there was a container in the premises which might have had any substance in it. Nor was any such container found after the fire.

"From the evidence of the Fire Chief, it would have been impossible for a fire which had reached the proportions of this one to have started in less than half an hour unless there was an accelerator present. Accepting his evidence as I do I am unable to say that the evidence is such as to connect the accused with the fire, as to rebut the presumption of innocence to the extent that it demonstrates guilt in the sense of excluding to a moral certainty all hypotheses (not in themselves improbable) inconsistent with guilt.

"There is not sufficient evidence upon which a finding could be made that the fire was started by the accused prior to his leaving the store before six o'clock. In the absence of some evidence which inicates the possibility of an accelerant being used, I am unable to determine that the fire was started later as it is suggested.

"With much hesitation I am accordingly of the opinion that the Crown has failed to make out a case. The charge must accordingly be dismissed."

Lakefield Citizens Hold Burns' Night

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 27—Lakefield citizens of Scottish origin commemorated the 180th anniversary of the birth of their ancestral nation's most quoted poet and bard, Robbie Burns, when they attended the annual Burns' supper held in the Sunday School room of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, Lakefield, on Wednesday evening.

The haggis—"Great chieftain o' the puddin 'race" — "warm reekin' rich"—formed the piece de resistance of a bountiful banquet served by the ladies of the Women's Association promptly at 7 p.m. Immediately following the banquet a program of Scottish selections, many of which were the products of Burns' facile pen, paid fitting tribute to the memory of the immortal poet.

The haggis, which was prepared by Mrs. Ben McCoy of this village, was carried in by Mr. Allan H. Clark with Mr. Jack Smith of Peterborough providing the accompaniment on the bagpipes. Mr. J. M. Simpson read Burns' poem "To a Haggis"—"Well are ye worthy of a grace, as long's my arm"—and Rev. J. Young, pastor of St. Andrews church, gave the well-known burns grace, as the final note to the traditional Scottish ceremony.

After the guests had partaken of the haggis, beef-steak pie, etc., provided by the ladies, the program was presented, following the community singing of a number of Scotch songs. Rev. Young acted as chairman.

Mr. A. H. Clark gave a euphonium solo, "Loch Lomond"; Mrs. O. E. Kingdon read a Scottish number, "Haranguing the Haggis"; Miss Nancy Spring played a violin solo; Mr. Jack Smith of Peterborough sang two Scottish selections; a group of five girls including Misses Nancy Spring, Pearl Hockaday, Evelyn Moore, Hazel Moore and Pauline Blewett, sang two numbers, "The Bluebells of Scotland" and "The Keel Row."

Mr. Roger Davis gave a short sketch of the life of Robert Burns, following which there was more community singing. The evening drew to a close when everyone joined in "Auld Lang Syne" and the National Anthem.

Canon Baynes-Reed Claimed By Death

TORONTO, Jan. 27.— (CP).—Canon William Leonard Baynes-Reed, 68, for 42 years rector of St. John's church, Norway, in Toronto, died to-day in hospital. He was born in London, Ont., of United Empire Loyalist stock.

Canon Baynes-Reed suffered a heart attack several weeks ago. Though not fully recovered, he rose from his sick bed to attend the funeral of his brother, C. Edmund Baynes-Reed, here last week. He sufered a chill and pneumonia followed.

He was educated at London, and was graduated in theology from Trinity University here in 1895. In 1897 he became rector of St. John's.

During the Great War, Canon-Baynes-Reed served in France as chaplain of the 75th Battalion. He rose to the rank of Major and was twice mentioned in despatches. In 1918 he was awarded the Distinguished Service Order for conspicuous bravery in bringing in the wounded at the Battle of Amiens.

At the front, Canon Baynes-Reed had the reputation of doing much of the work of the ordinary soldier. He was beloved by the ranks and a popular figure at veterans' re-unions.

He was active in the Masonic order, the Sons of England, was Grand Abbot of the Crusaders, and chaplain of the Toronto branch of the United Empire Loyalists' Association.

The rector's condition became critical and he was taken to hospital, halting plans of Crown authorities to hold a special sitting of police court in his east end home for the trial of Frank Barbara, 52, charged with forgery and fraud. Barbara is on remand until Jan. 30 on bail of $5,000.

Police Risk Lives To Nab Suspect

TORONTO, Jan. 27 — (CP). — Policemen climbed out to a fifth-storey window of a downtown hotel, late last night, and arrested a man as he balanced on the edge of the roof behind a cement pier. They charged John Skinner with attempted housebreaking.

A guest in an upper room of the hotel notified the house detective that a man was walking around the roof. The officers went up, but the prowler apparently heard them unlocking firedoors to get out to the roof. He darted behind a pillar at the edge of the wall.

Not seeing the suspect, the officers went up a few floors and watched from an emtpy room. They alleged they saw the man open a window leading into a suite, whose occupants were dancing in the ballroom.

City police were called and P.C. Mackie with the hotel detective went to the roof and seized the man. They say he again risked his life to hide behind the pier.

Hohenzollerns Rally As Kaiser Passes 80

DOORN, The Netherlands, Jan. 27 (AP)—Former Kaiser Wilhelm, radiant with health, today celebrated his 80th birthday at Doorn Manor. Scores of guests and his immediate family gathered for the reading of felicitations and a religious service, which are to be followed by a gala dinner tonight.

The occasion brought together the largest assemblage of Hohenzollerns since Wilhelm celebrated his 70th birthday.

Dr. Bruno Doehring, in a birthday sermon, declared the former kaiser's heart and prayers were still with the German people and that he had "never renounced his duty."

Although he received many gifts, there were none of any consequence from Germany.

Under the rules of the four-year plan, no object of value unless it be part of one's personal travel needs may be taken across the border without special permit.

Despite the difficulties, however, his children and grandchildren from Germany managed to obtain permission to bring as their joint present a big silver loving cup on which fascimile signatures of the entire family were engraved.

Gifted Pianist Is Heard In Fine Recital

If Reginald Stewart, eminent Canadian pianist who knows and loves good music and has done so much to teach other Canadians to know and love it, had played nothing more in his concert in the Collegiate Auditorium Thursday night than Schumann's dynamic Toccata, that striking succession of four-note figures, the second in the series of concerts under the auspices of the Peterborough section of the Canadian Concert Association would still have been a glittering success.

As a demonstration of virtuosity that tremendous number was the highlight of a brilliant performance —a convincing demonstration of the fact that Mr. Stewart had climbed the peaks in his chosen field and has the musical tools with which to interpret perfectly a concert study that is regarded as probably the finest movement written by Schumann. It was an exacting test of technique and the artist was always equal to the demands made upon him.

Scarcely less impressive — and probably many listeners may say it was more impressive—was Mr. Stewart's rendition of his own arrangement of Bach's D Minor Toccata and Fugue, which he himself described as one of the greatest works of the greatest musician of them all. This number, written originally for the organ, and designed to exhibit the technique of the performer, was another challenge to the virtuosity of Mr. Stewart and he again rose triumphantly to the occasion, making his execution of this rhapsodic and forceful Bach composition a truly memorable performance.

These two numbers were perhaps the gems of a long and varied program in which Mr. Stewart and his artistry held a big audience in rapt attention. With an attack as crisp as the January air outside, and a technique that sparkled like the fresh snow under the gleam of the street lights, and with the ability of the true artist to subordinate his own brilliance to a faithful portrayal of the mood of the composer, he ran the gamut of sixteen programmed and two encore numbers and made every one of the eighteen offerings register to the fullest degree.

Dipping deeply into the classics for his first two groups and including Mozart, Bach, Chopin and Schumann in the composers to be exemplified Mr. Stewart swung toward the modern field in his final half dozen offerings, as modern indeed as Maurice Ravel, and these closing numbers, all different in style, mood and musical structure, made an effective contrast to the works demonstrated in the first two groups.

The program opened on a quiet and simple note, Mr. Stewart selecting Mozart's Sonata in G minor, written originally for the harpsichord, as a fitting beginning to a long list of good things. Its charm and beauty were effectively presented by the pianist. Then came the first Bach numbers, this time an invasion into the field of church music, as Mr. Stewart presented piano transcriptions of two chorale preludes written for the organ and based on tunes taken by Bach from the Lutheran hymn book. The dignity of "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring" and the joyousness of "Jesus Christ, the Son of God" found masterly expression at the fingers of the artist.

Next in order followed the two big numbers already described, the D Minor Toccata and Fugue of Bach and Schumann's Toccata, the latter opening the second group.

Four Chopin offerings were strung out like four pearls after the Schumann movement and while this reviewer found the quiet rhythm so effectively offered by Mr. Stewart in the Berceuse made that the most pleasing of all four, there could be no quarrel with any one who preferred the varying moods of the Ballade in A flat or the beauty of the Etude in A flat major or the dreamy softness of the Prelude in F minor, all of them played charmingly.

As a fireworks ending to the second group Rubinstein's dazzling Staccato Etude, a number written by one of the greatest pianist of all time was taken full advantage of by Mr. Stewart.

The third division got away to a happy start with a little bit of nonsense, "The Little White Donkey," written by the modern French composer, Ibert, and Thursday night's artist saw to it that none of the humor was lost in the rendition. Then followed Stojowski's Love Song, ending with a couple of musical questions and a decisive musical answer, a brilliant execution of the Minuet from George Bizet's "L'Arlesienne," Ravel's modern descriptive work, Jeux d'Eau, quite different fro many of the other music played by Mr. Stewart but as effectively offered, the lively Russian dance Gopak, taken from a Moussorgsky opera and finally a Chabrier valse.

The applause at the close of the third group was so insistent that Mr. Stewart, after being recalled several times, responded with the ever popular Chopin Nocturne in E minor, the ethereal beauty of which was so delightfully portrayed that the audience clamored for more and the artist graciously complied, this time with the equally popular—although in a widely different style and mood—Fifteenth Rhapsody of Lisst, one of the most brilliantly played numbers in the long program and a fitting climax to an evening of thorough enjoyment.

During the evening Dr. J. J. Craig, president of the Concert Association, appealed for 200 more members for the organization next season. The final concert of the 1938-39 season is to be given on March 17.

Progress Made In Departments Of Campbellford Congregation

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 27.—"It is a pleasure to report the progress made in many departments during the year," said A. G. Thompson, in presenting the auditors' report at annual meeting of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church. Referring to the improvements in the books over the previous year the auditor stated he was sure every treasurer in accepting the position realized he held a position of trust and urged that the newly-elected officials should "fully understand the books you are taking over. Start right and you will find it easy," he declared.

The following officials were re-elected: Board of managers, Walter Badgley, A. B. Stephens, Chas. Milne; auditors, A. G. Thompson, Wesley Stephens; treasurer, Andrew Milne.

Rev. B. Simpson Black who opened the meeting with a brief devotional period spoke of the losses sustained by the congregation during the year owing to the death and removal of valued members. During his remarks Rev. Black intimated that some action should be taken toward the organization of a young men's usher club which would serve as a means of introducing a large number of young men in the congregation of this type of work. Later in the meeting the organization was formed with Rev. Black himself being placed in charge.

For the business period J. R. Battisby was elected chairman. A. Milne was elected secretary. It was the report of clerk of the session, Harold Dunk, which disclosed the changes in membership during the year and indicated that losses from death had been exceptionally heavy. On behalf of the session Mr. Dunk thanked the various societies for the co-operation during the past year and expressed the hope for its continuance.

J. R. Battisby outlined the work done by the board of management and paid tribute to the part played in financing the church by the Ladies' Aid. During the year the ladies had undertaken the payment of all repairs to the church and manse furnaces and in addition had donated a substantial cheque for general church purposes.

Balance On Hand

There had been no special drive for funds during the year and in view of this the report given by the treasurer, Andrew Milne, bore special significance with all operating expenses for the year having been met and a substantial balance being carried forward. It was suggested that members had given their whole-hearted support giving "unstintingly" at all times. J. C. Anderson gave the report of the trustees.

The report of the Mission Band, "a young and thriving" organization with a membership of forty, was presented by the secretary, Frances DeCarroll, and the treasurer, William Thompson.

The treasurer's report indicated the varied interests or the organization. "We are happy to tell you this has been our banner year, in that it has exceeded all other in the matter of receipts having doubled the previous year," he said. Jack Thompson presented reports of the secretary and treasurer of the Sunday School which during the year had maintained and average attendance of 65 members. Liberal contributions to missions had been made from this branch of the church it was disclosed. The report from the Seymour West Sunday school was presented by Ray McCulloch and showed the finances to be in sound condition. This group operated as a branch of St. Andrew's Sunday school was begun little more than a year ago and is under the capable direction of Ralph Rutherford. All obligations had also been met by this branch which was able to carry over a sizeable sum to the next account.

Paid For Own Music

The report of the choir read by Miss Hazel Atkinson showed that many activities and several popular programs had been offered during the year. Finances were in a satisfactory condition with a balance being carried forward after paying for all music. Mrs. M. McFarlane gave the report as secretary for the Ladies' Aid Society and Mrs. B. Frederick, treasurer, also read her report. Expenditures disclosed approximately $228.00 had been spent on repairs to the furnaces and to the general fund for the church. Here also a small balance was being carried over. The Young People's Society have a membership of fifty-seven. The secretary, Miss Muriel Milne revealed that the society had again this year returned from the Cobourg rally possessors of the coveted Dutton Banner. The treasurer's report was presented by M. McFarlane.

The secretary, Mrs. Harold Spencer and the treasurer, Miss Winnifred Hay reported for the Young Ladies' Mission Circle which has a membership of forty.

Some forty-eight members were listed on the roll of the Women's Missionary Society which sent two large bales of magazines and books in February and November last year in addition to three large bales of clothing. The society's aim for 1939 is to increase interest and membership. The treasurer, Mrs. B. P. Nelson gave the report.

$1,000 Placed In Estimates For New Scales

Three committees of the council added $51,662 to the estimated expenditures that are now in process of compilation for the 1939 budget which will determine the year's tax rate.

Alderman McCannan's dual responsibility in charge of the market and city property committee accounted for $5,832 of the evening total requisition that goes on to the Finance Committee for final review. Estimates for the market this year are $3,500. The comparative estimated expenditures for last year totalled $2,368 and the money expended amounted to $2,432.93.

The expenditures on city property are estimated at $2,332 as against $2,977.25 for last year when the actual amount spent was $2,725.45.

The sum of $1,000 was included in the market appropriations to provide new weigh scales if the committee decides during the year that the old scales should be replaced. Alderman Dutton sai dthat signs were pointing to the retention of the present market site for this year and probably longer, and in that case some attention should be given to the increasing need of new scales.

Market Estimates

Market estimates amounted to $3,500 as compared with $2,368 last year when the actual expenditure was $2,432.93.

The items of expected cost this year were: Salaries — Caretaker, $1,040, assistant $520; repairs to scales, etc., $125; rest room supplies $650; light $75, water heater $25; for locking building at night, $90; new scales, $1,000. Total $3,525, less $25 from phone in rest room, leaving $3,500.

Property Upkeep

Expenses charged to city property for 1939 are estimated at $2,332. Last year's estimate was $2,977.25 and actual expenditure was $2,725.45.

The details for this year are: Wages of one man at Simcoe street dump $780; repairs, etc., to city offices $500; ice for drinking fountains $180; insurance on city hall clock $7; repairs to city hall clock $35; power for water heater $35; insurance on car barn $180; taxes on car barn $375; rent city treasurer's office $300; incidentals $100; repairs to market rest room $25. Total, $2,517, less $185, leaving $2,332.

$7,900 For Parks Committee

Alderman Stocker, chairman of the Parks Committee, asked for $7,900 for the care of the city parks, public skating rinks, tourist camp and Inverlea Park bathing beach. His appropriation last year was $7,465 and the expenditure $7,483.59.

The items for the parks totalled $6,500 as against $5,625 appropriated last year when the expenditure was $6,418.65. Wages last year aggregated $4,324.73; plants, trees and shrubs $827.75; trucking expenses $439.10; tools and sundries $827.07.

For the skating rinks the amount sought is $1,700. The similar requisition last year was $1,750 and the actual expenditure on the rinks was $1,661.30.

For the tourist camp the estimate is $350 as compared with $500 last year and its actual expenditure of $302.40.

The Inverlea beach appropriation is $300. It was $290 for 1938, and money expended was $236.72.

From the totals of committee's appropriation should be subtracted receipts allowed for drawing wood for the relief committee and also a transfer from a special grant. The same deductions should be made from the appropriation and expenditure in 1938.

Judge To Call In Wife For Decision On Dance —Whether Nude, Or Creative Variety

DETROIT, Jan. 27 (CP) — Judge Charles Rubiner, faced with the legal problem of whether a dancer was doing nude or creative dancing, planned today to witness a demonstration to get first hand information.

Rubiner is trying a suit by Zorine, a nudist dancer, against her manager Frederick Miller, whom she is suing for breach of contract because he is sponsoring another dancer, Dorothy Henry, although she has a contract for his exclusive services as a manager of nude dancers. Miller's defence is Miss Henry is doing creative dancing.

Unable to determine from evidence, Judge Rubiner adjourned the case yesterday. He said he would get his wife and watch Miss Henry's performance.

Wins 10-Year Fight Against INDIGESTION

Do you have to deny yourself such wholesome, tasty foods as bacon, delicious "frys" and similar dishes because you know stomach pain will result? That was the case with Mr. E. H., of West Bromwich. In ten years of chronic suffering from stomach trouble he was operated on twice. No treatment seemed to make any difference. But just four months before he wrote of his recovery, he began taking Maclean Brand Stomach Powder. "Now," he says, "I am always ready for my meals."

Maclean Brand Stomach Powder employs exactly the same four alkalies prescribed by stomach specialists. It attacks and neutralizes pain-causing excess acid almost instantly. And then, because it lays a protective coating over inflamed stomach walls, it soothes and helps the disordered stomach to recover health and strength. Try this great powder. Get a bottle of Maclean Brand Stomach Powder. Look for the signature "Alex. C. Maclean" which must appear on bottle and carton. Nothing is genuine Maclean Brand without this signature. In bottles in cartons, 75c. Never sold loose. 124

FRIDAY, JANUARY 27, 1939

In Our Own City

The annual report of Peterborough Police Department shows there were 932 cases dealt with during last year, and of these 611 were local.

It is also a fact that of the 932 the number of Canadians was 815, so we cannot blame the outside world for troubling us over-much. It narrows the situation down to the point where we are dealing with our own people.

It has been stated a good many times in a good many places that the age of crime is decreasing, and our local report shows this to be the case to a degree which is not at all pleasant.

Taken in age groups those who have appeared in court can be listed this way:

Under 16 years	20
From 16 to 20 years	124
From 21 to 30	264

We hope people living in Peterborough realize that this is something which has been taking place right here in our own city. We live in a rather select community; we have a number of organizations here which deal with boys and young men; we have facilities for entertaining them, for trying to interest them in useful things. We have not a shortage of such organizations and what we refer to as boys' work is common property of a good many of our service clubs and kindred societies. And yet we have too many of them who eventually find their way to the local police headquarters.

To the sincere element in the community there is a personal and a direct challenge in such a situation no matter whether the local ratio is higher or lower than the general run. The proper way is to regard it as too high. Perhaps you have never done anything about it; perhaps some young man looking around for some place to go or something to do has never had the door of your home opened to him. Whatever the reason those figures are not pleasant, and they have been recorded right in our midst, in the city where you live.

Father And Son Go Home

It is not often that an item of news coming from magistrate's court is a welcome thing because such reports invariably tell of trouble, of fines or days in jail and so on.

There was something different following the printing of a short item in the Examiner saying that a young chap had been given ten days in jail here on the charge of vagrancy, a charge which is becoming common enough now because it applies so often to people who have no work and therefore no visible means of support.

When the item was printed it stated the boy gave his address as White Fish, Ont., and a woman in the city reading the report, was aware that a family living there by the same name had been looking for a son for 18 months. Wanderlust had seized him and nothing had been heard of him since leaving home. Very sensibly the Peterborough woman sent word to the father at White Fish, which is about 28 miles from Sudbury.

The father acted like any other father would under similar circumstances. He started out at once, making the first part of his trip on skiis across the frozen lake, and then finding a friend who would drive him to the railway station where he could get a train which would bring him to Peterborough. There was some slight delay because the lad was in jail and people cannot walk out of such a place even if father does arrive. However, that was settled with little trouble and father and son are now on their way home, and all because there was an item in the paper and an intelligent reader who took the trouble to make use of the information contained there.

How many other young men there are in similar circumstances we do not know, but it cannot be that this one youth from White Fish is the only one on the road who actually has a home to which he could go. It may be claimed a good many times and with truth that there is nothing for them to do when they get there, but they would be much better off there than wandering around the country, and they would have a better chance of finding something to do in their own neighborhood than in places where they are not known and where they would have to report that they were among the unemployed.

The Earthquake Toll

Chile, that country with such tremendous length along the west coast of South America, reports an earthquake, or rather a series of them. Concepcion, a city of 50,000, seems to have been the centre but partial reports mention a number of other places as being disastrously affected.

Once more the scientist explains that the earthquake is a settling down of the outer crust of the earth during the process of cooling, and states also that part of the cause may be due to the attraction of other bodies. Quakes come in mountainous countries mostly, and particularly those which are near to deep ocean water. They are not known in lands where there are great stretches of plain or prairie country, and if such places ever do feel a tremor it is certain the centre and chief point of damage has been many miles distant.

Japan is an earthquake country, and records kept there showed 8,000 distinct shocks between the years 1885-92. Italy is another, where the Neapolitan quake of 1857 took 12,000 lives, while at Messina in 1908 the loss of life was 77,000.

The shaking period of an earthquake is said to last not more than a minute, but there may be recurrence and a number of them at short intervals. Buildings in countries where earthquakes can be expected are generally erected low and wide and long, but even so the loss of life is always extensive because the earthquake gives little warning of its approach. There is only a slight or serious rumble and then the quake with sufficient power to crack open the earth or split mountains. A drunken, reeling sensation it is called. First reports say the loss of life in Chile has been 10,000 and if that is so they would all have been killed within a few moments.

Money To Spend

After all it is a funny old world and there are many things in it which are hard to explain. There were 17,350 attending a prize fight in Madison Square Garden in New York city, and they paid admission fees totalling $102,015.43.

They went there to see Joe Louis, the champion fighter, knock out John Henry Lewis. Both men are of the colored persuasion and Joe was some 20 pounds heavier than John Henry.

John Henry was soon put out of the way, the time being 2 minutes and 29 seconds, about as long as it takes to make a piece of toast. It did look as though any man who might have been picked from the crowd could have stayed with it that long.

But for that very poor performance John Henry will receive a number of thousands of dollars, and Joe Louis without a lump on him goes home to add more thousands to his already adequate stock of cash on hand.

Pass the hat for some worthy cause and see what you get, but bring on a prize fight and $102,000 is dropped at the gate even if the show lasts for less than three minutes.

Worrying Over a Surplus

The Legal Committee of the City Council has started the year 1939 doing some worrying about the City Trust. That is something which was inherited from the previous year, and it seems to run that way. The cause of the worry is that the Trust has a nice surplus of $330,000, and that is indeed a good deal of money.

There have been suggestions that it be used for paying part of the tax rate, but there is no regulation of which we are aware by which the money could be used that way, and it is correct also to say that the ratepayers of Peterborough had nothing to do with creating the surplus. They have not contributed toward it and they have not been overcharged for local improvements or any other service in order that the surplus might exist.

The surplus came into existence because the City Trust invested city sinking funds in securities which were earning more than the specified four per cent. That was in the days when money for issues with government backing was earning five or even six per cent. The surplus has grown because the City Trust apparently had at all times been aware of when and how to deal in the bond market. It is in the position of an investor who has been successful and who has avoided taking on investments which had too much of the element of risk in them.

It might be well for the alderman, even for the sake of diversion, to remark now and then that the City Trust has been a capable body. After having looked at the annual statements of a number or organizations in this province as reported in government blue books, it is safe to say there are plenty of them which might well wish that their choice of investments for their funds had been as skilfully made as those of the Peterborough City Trust. If there were a deficit of $330,000 there might be something worth worrying about.

Admits He Did Wrong

A gentleman who for four years has been treasurer of a township near Windsor is now in court charged with having stolen $7,229 of township funds. It is a strange case because the former treasurer has none of the money and never at any time has he taken any of it for his own use.

In the four years during which the treasurer has been operating on his own basis he has found a number of farmers who were hard up and he knew they were not far removed from being on relief. Some of them had small holdings and had about concluded it was not worth while trying to carry on any longer. When they paid their taxes the treasurer handed back all or part of their money and gave them receipts in full. He wanted to encourage them to keep on working and not to apply for relief, and it is stated his plan was successful in a number of cases.

This treasurer admits openly in court that he knew what he was doing was wrong, but he says he could not have done his work any other way because the people were so desperately hard up. His theory was that those who had money should help those who had so little. Apparently he operated on somewhat the same general principle as Robin Hood who is credited with having plundered the rich in order to aid the poor.

This treasurer appears to have been sincere enough, but his blunder was in remaining as treasurer. He was trying to achieve a laudable purpose but he was doing it in a dishonest way. He had named himself as the relief or charity committee of the township without the sanction of those who had engaged him, and was operating in his own way without their knowledge of his methods.

And yet it is a peculiar case; it shows the working of a mind which was intensely human and sympathetic, the actions of a man who was doing something wrong without benefit to himself but with the idea of helping others. We can think of a number of things which would be easier than naming the proper sort of sentence for such an offender.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A man may find it hard to get out of bed and start going on a below zero morning, and often enough he finds his car feels the same way.

On a recent cold night in Toronto there was but one burglary and no hold-ups. Old Man Zero seems to know how to handle the situation more effectively than the police.

One Peterborough resident says that radio programs are lousy. Of course the meaning of that is easy to grasp, but it might sound a trifle better to refer to the programs as pediculous.

In Saginaw, Mich. traffic court has adopted a sliding scale for speeders based on the speed at the time of the offence. After which under this sliding scale the offender's hand goes sliding into his pocket.

Girl in Montreal hospital is being fed absorbent cotton in the hope of catching a safety pin at present lodged in the stomach. Cotton would taste all right but the real trick would be in knowing just how to swallow the stuff.

Man charged with being drunk in Oshawa complained that an officer handcuffed him and shoved him about when taking him to the station, and the bench asked, "What did you expect him to do—tickle you under the chin?"

One newspaper in Prague has been closed because it criticized the government of Czechoslovakia, claiming it should be more determined in dealing with Germany. The little country lost part of its territory and it may also be losing its spirit.

Young man in court at Quebec said he meant nothing wrong when he fired through a window at his girl and wounded her. He only wanted to make her jump. Court may find it a little difficult to properly understand his playful moods.

Col. Lindbergh reported in Britain that Germany had 9,700 fighting planes, and one English authority replied "That's all bunk." So that word which is of humble origin and without much tradition or breeding, is making its way into high places.

There have been various ways of describing how thoroughly a building has been burned. Some writers say "it was burned down," while others say "it went up in flames." Reporter on the London Free Press says "The house was burned right to the ground," and we suppose when it reached that point it had to stop.

HONEST

(By A.R.K.)

¶ I grieve for foolish things men do, and wish the half of them weren't true, I read of one today; this chap worked on like how he should, and seemed to get along quite good, and always drew his pay.

¶ His bank roll never grew up fat, he took to wanting this and that, he never had enough; and so a fund he sought to raise, and did it in such funny ways, that it was crooked stuff.

¶ The germs got working in his mind, I guess they were the wicked kind, they riddled him clean through; he put wrong figures in his book, to cover up the cash he took, then swore how they were true.

¶ They placed him in the village coop, and fed him on stale bread and soup, they found out his arrears; the judge looked down at him one day, and most of all he had to say, "I'll give you seven years."

¶ And spring's not far away just now, when folk get out to rake and plow, and birds begin to sing; whole hours he'll spend inside a cell, where bloomng flowers and things don't smell, he'll hardly see a thing.

¶ The honest guy I guess is wise, who lives according to his size, and draws his honest pay; it's better far I think indeed, to have to live on humble feed—like artichokes and hay.

Our Statesmen At Their Labor

(From Parliamentary Debates)

Mr. E. E. PERLEY (Qu'Appelle, Sask.): I have here a statement as reported in the Regina Star of January 17: "Orders for relief were handed out on election day." This is a good one. In point the witness said that some of the relief orders were distributed to people when they came to the polls. He said his father had distributed relief vouchers at his home on election day, and there was a polling booth at his home. What do hon. members think of such a condition as that being allowed to prevail in this country?

Then I have here something that I regret to have to bring to the attention of the house. It is to the effect that the party men in that province decide who shall get the jobs. This is dated January 18 and states:

No jobs for other than Liberals, says Regina M.L.A.

The reference is to the new member-elect of the provincial house and that is the statement he made to the Liberal council when he thought it was behind closed doors. The report continues:

In future, said Mr. McDaniel, "no appointment will be deemed to be properly made unless it bears the initials of Mr. Hogarth (senior member elect for Regina), Mr. McNiven (federal M.P. for Regina), or myself."

I submit that it is a sorry state of affairs when no one in that province can be considered for a position in the service, temporary or otherwise, unless he has the O.K. of these men. I do not think the hon. member for Regina (Mr. McNiven) would be a party to that; I know him too well. But he owes it to this house to make a statement repudiating this, or as to how he appears in the favoured committee that has to O.K. these positions. I think he should repudiate Mr. McDaniel's statement, and I hope he will do so. I should not like to think that he is a part of this political machine, but I have quoted that to show that there is a real machine operating in that province

Mr. McNIVEN: Read Mr McDaniel's explanation, given in the same report.

Mr. PERLEY: His explanation I have here. He stated that he thought it was behind closed doors, that his reference was only to post office appointments, and that he did not think there was a reporter present. The reporter comes back and says he shook hands with ten of the council and was in the building.

An hon. MEMBER: Read it all.

Mr. PERLEY: I cannot read it all, but I give the date of the paper and hon. members can look it up; perhaps the hon. member for Regina would like to read it all. I hope he will make a statement to clear himself from any business of that kind.

We have also a statement here that tokens have been handed out by merchants in the northern part of the province: that these tokens were taken to pool rooms, beer parlours, barber shops, and that they come back to the merchant who gives goods and cashes the tokens in Regina.

Mr. McLEAN (Melfort): Who is responsible for that statement?

Mr. PERLEY: I have the authority right here of men who have seen the tokens and young men who have used them. If hon. members want to know, all they have to do is to appoint the commission that I am going to demand this afternoon, and I will give the information.

Mr. McLEAN (Melfort): You are not giving it now?

Mr. PERLEY: I have it here, but I do not propose to give it right now. But I think this has been going on in the district of the hon member, and he can tell the house about it.

Mr. McLEAN (Melfort): I deny that.

Mr. PERLEY: I ask the hon. member to keep his seat.

Mr. McLEAN (Melfort): On a question of privilege, Mr. Speaker, I deny that at any time to my knowledge have tokens been given out and used in that way or in any way in the district I represent, and I ask the hon. member to withdraw that statement.

A LITTLE TOUCHY

Mr. MARTIN: Where is the evidence of that?

Mr. DOUGLAS (Weyburn): I did not say there was any. I think the hon. member is a little touchy. There is an old saying that when you throw a stone into a pack of dogs and one yelps, he has been hit.

Mr. MARTIN: Surely the hon. gentleman is going to withdraw that remark.

Mr. MANION: It is a general statement.

Mr. DOUGLAS (Weyburn): I have nothing to withdraw. I merely made a general statement.

Mr. MARTIN: I ask the hon. member to withdraw that remark if it is intended with reference to any hon. member of this house.

Mr. DOUGLAS (Weyburn): Certainly, in reference to any hon. member of this house.

Mr. MARTIN: I ask the hon. member to withdraw that statement.

Mr. DOUGLAS (Weyburn): I have already done so. I said I withdraw any reference to any hon. member of this house.

ORDER THREE TIMES

Mr. DUPUIS: May I be allowed to answer that question now?

Mr. SPEAKER: Order.

Mr. DUPUIS: The Minister of Transport said—

Mr. SPEAKER: Order.

Mr. WALSH: I want to continue.

Mr. DUPUIS: —the union station will be built there—

Mr. SPEAKER: Order.

Mr. WALSH: I am always willing to have anyone ask a question.

Mr. DUPUIS: The hon. member asked a question.

Mr. WALSH: But I do not want hon. members to make speeches at the expense of the few minutes I have left.

• The Mayor Takes Up His Pen

AN itinerant swimmer who makes his living by giving exhibitions at various places in cold weather ran into hard going at Ingersoll where the chief of police placed him under arrest. The affair created quite a deal of interest and Mayor Edmonds of Ingersoll had a number of phone calls about it and was vigorously attacked by several letter writers in the press. His worship writing to the Sentinel-Review of Woodstock answers his critics this way:

May I have sufficient space in your paper to answer the list of questions asked by Had Petrie in your issue of January 24?

In the first place I would like to remind Mr. Petrie that I have always tried to answer every query put to me during my tenure of office whether on the council or as mayor. I will continue to do so. But, I am not one who writes letters to the editor and for that reason will say that this is the only time that an answer through this medium may be expected.

The questions and answers are as follows:

1. Were you approached by anyone and asked to put the pressure on and stop this man's performance? No.

2. Did you give orders to the chief to arrest him if he went ahead with his show? No.

3. Why did you have him arrested for bathing between 6 a.m. and 9 p.m. when you know perfectly well they have been bathing at Memorial Park, Smith's Pond and a municipal swimming pool for years every day in the week?—I have not interfered with the police in the discharge of their duties.

While other places are bemoaning the fact that their police do not know their local by-laws, our chief has familiarized himself with the provisions of Ingersoll's by-laws and I consider he was but carrying out his duties. If these by-laws are not correct it is the fault of previous councils in allowing them to remain for the guidance of our officials. In the consolidated by-laws there are many sections that to be obsolete and with a view to bringing them up-to-date I shall recommend an overhauling by the council of 1939.

While I am writing this, my last letter to the editor, may I answer the many who have phoned my house or called out to me on the street the question: "May I have a bath tonight, Mr. Mayor?" My reply to you is "If you feel dirty enough, you have my permission."

ALEX. H. EDMONDS,
Mayor.

• "Relentless Publicity"—Where?

ON MONDAY night Mr. Mackenzie King spoke over a radio network to tell the part a Prime Minister plays in the government of the country. An interesting story told in an interesting way, there was one passage in it that puzzled us. Mr King spoke of the strain of having to carry on his work "in the glare of a relentless publicity".

Now as a good democrat, as one who certainly professes to be a good democrat, Mr. King can hardly have had in mind the ordinary publicity processes of a working democracy. He might not agree with Woodrow Wilson, says the Ottawa Journal, who certainly understood democracy's philosophy, that a "pitiless publicity" was democracy's safeguard. He would admit, we must assume, the people's right to know how their business was being carried on by those they send to Parliament for that purpose. Indeed, Mr. King, as a student of democracy, must know that this public right was a part of his covenant with the public when he asked for (and received the privilege of governing.

What, then, is this "relentless publicity" that Mr. King speaks of? In what respect does it go beyond the publicity he would deem necessary? Or desirable?

We ask the question because, having some experience with the publicity practices of governments, we believe that Mr. King suffers less from what he calls "relentless publicity" than the head of any other democratic State. In comparison with, let us say, Prime Minister Chamberlain and President Roosevelt, his official duties (not to speak of his private life) are a closed book.

Mr. Roosevelt holds two weekly conferences with the press. At those conferences he subjects himself to a ruthless cross-examination, enters into lively debates and discussions, bars no question. If Mr. Roosevelt goes to his home in Hyde Park, or on a vacation, or on a cruise on a battleship, the correspondents are with him. If he goes fishing (as he does very often), the correspondents go fishing, too; report faithfully how many fish he caught, and what sort of fish, or whether no fish were caught. Newspaper readers in the United States know that Mr. Roosevelt breakfasts in bed on shirred eggs; know that he reads the newspapers in bed and what newspapers he reads; know who his White House guests are and how he entertains them. If Mr. Roosevelt himself does not tell, Mrs. Roosevelt attends to it; writes a newspaper column called "My Day". Once, indeed, when the writer of this piece was in Washington, he heard son "Jimmy" Roosevelt on the radio telling what the White House guest of that day (President Herriot of France) had had for his breakfast. Mrs. Roosevelt's life, in fact, whether official or otherwise, is about as private as that of a goldfish. Mr. Roosevelt doesn't complain. He seems to manage to get a great deal done.

Mr. King, in comparison, is a mediaeval monk. He holds no weekly conferences with the press. Except after sessions of the Cabinet (and not always then) he seldoms sees the press. He is not bothered with cameramen. His interviews with the press are few and far between. No Canadian newspaperman nor any Canadian newspaper, attempts to invade the privacy of Mr. King's non-official life. What he does at Laurier House, who he entertains there, or sees there, is a closed book. When Mr. King retires to his Summer home at Kingsmere, he is as remote from the press and the public as a Trappist Father. The newspapers of Canada —and rightly—respect his privacy, regard his home, whether at Laurier or at Kingsmere, as forbidden ground.

What, then, is this "relentless publicity"?

• Thinks Our Youth Are Soft Lot

I see by this morning's paper that the limit has been reached in all this maudlin sympathy for modern youth. A Mr. Kirk is begging the government for money to teach our present crop of youngsters to hold their heads up and walk like men.

Twenty-five years ago writes Cecil Cox of Guelph to the Globe and Mail young Johnie Canada was a pretty decent animal; as I remember him he could hold his head up as a matter of personal pride and without any government help. Of course "the conditions" are supposed to be bad nowadays and we elders who are growing grey in harness are blamed for these baulky colts who can't find collars to fit them. In my opinion there never was a greater opportunity for young men to find their place in the world than the present time. Following my calling of civil engineer from one end of this province to the other I am continually asked by men of responsibility to find them men for certain positions and jobs. Sometimes I am able to find a young man to fill a job, but I am not always successful and I am sure that the number of opportunities for employment is greater than the number of worth-while applicants.

Most middle-aged men today can re call the days when they started their careers as wage earners. Five dollars a week was the standard wage. The writer was lucky; he started in at six dollars and walked three miles to work and three miles home again at day's end to save carefare. Offer those inducements (especially the walking) to the modern young jitterbug and see what you get. Most of them sponge more than that off their relatives in a week's time. By and large they are poor stuff. How many of them can shave with a straight razor or light a pipe in the wind?

And yet five dollars a week is all any young biped is worth when he leaves school. At that age the young male should have some idea of what calling he intends to follow and he should welcome the opportunity to gain knowledge in his chosen line of work at even a subsistance wage. We older men realized that in our own time and rolled up our sleeves. And most of us have still got them up supporting cheeky young cubs who haven't got the guts to work for what they are worth.

A friend of mine has just dispersed a choice head of Holstein cattle because he cannot obtain help to look after them properly. He plans to restock his farm with beef cattle, but first he must find a herdsman and he is talking of going to Scotland to look for one. This fall I had to coax an elderly man out of retirement to overhaul a ditching machine because all the worth-while young men were occupied. Understand me, I do not hold that all modern young men are incompetents, but I do claim that for the worthwhile young man the opportunities for employment were never better. And I do claim that there has been too much sympathy misplaced on this lackadaisical younger generation; they have been hitch-hiking long enough. The decent ones among them do not need "leadership" (whatever that means). Youth is an age of initiative, and as for the rest of them if we older men would all do our social duty by them and get behind them and give them all a good collective kick in the seat of the pants we would start the greatest "youth movement" this country ever saw.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

And it came to pass, that, as he was praying in a certain place, when he ceased, one of his disciples said unto him, Lord, teach us to pray, as John also taught his disciples.

And he said unto him, When ye pray, say, Our Father which art in heaven, Hallowed by thy name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done, as in heaven, so in earth. Give us day by day our daily bread. And forgive us our sins; for we also forgive every one that is indebted to us. And lead us not into temptation; but deliver us from evil. . . .

And he was casting out a devil, and it was dumb. And it came to pass, when the devil was gone out, the dumb spake; and the people wondered. But some of them said, He casteth out devils through Beelzebub the chief of the devils. . . .

But he, knowing their thoughts, said unto them, Every kingdom divided against itself is brought to desolation; and a house divided against a house falleth. If Satan also be divided against himself, how shall his kingdom stand? because ye say that I cast out devils through Beelzebub. . . .

But if I with the finger of God cast out devils, no doubt the kingdom of God is come unto you.—Luke xi. 1-4, 14, 15, 17, 18, 20.

To The Editor

EMPLOYING LOCAL MEN

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—As manager of the new Centre Theatre I should like to reply to the letter signed "Puzzled" in your January 12th issue, regarding the employment of local help by the Globe Construction Company.

Specific arrangements were made with the contractor that the only outside help would be foremen to supervise each branch of the work, such as: carpentry, plastering, tinsmithing, painting etc. All other help was to be local.

Since the above mentioned letter has been brought to our attention we have made definite enquiries and have verified the fact that our instructions have been carried out. Except for the foremen, all men employed by the general contractor are residents of Peterborough or its vicinity.

We should also like to state at this time that the staff for the New Centre Theatre will be local employees and that the building materials as well as all the carpeting are purchased in Peterborough.

We appreciate the space in your valued newspaper allowing us to correct this misunderstanding.

Yours truly,
SYD. GOLDSTONE
Manager,

PAPERS WERE CANDID.

IN THESE TIMES, newspapers are not as candid in their manner of presenting news as they were back in 1878. The following is an extract from an account of the golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Brooks, of Springfield, first published at the time of the celebration in January, 1878, and republished in The Times-Journal on Saturday.

"Mr. Brooks is seventy-seven years old, and both himself and wife are still hearty and robust. The daughters are by no means delicate and unsubstantial, as the eight of them were weighed and tipped the beam at 1,500 pounds, one of them weighing considerably over 200."

What newspaper could even dare to mention such a subject nowadays. Any touchy person referred to in that way in a newspaper article would regard it as holding them up to ridicule and probably make it hot for the editor.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

Chillan Counts Its Living As Toll Mounts

CHILLAN, Chile, Jas. 27.—(AP).—An endless file of ox-drawn funeral carts slowly made its way through the ruined streets of historic Chillan to-day.

In sombre despair men and women who had lived through the horror of earthquake limped and labored alongside the creaking carts to bury sons and daughters, mothers, fathers and friends.

The weary way led to communal graves—some of them ditches, some of them deep fissures with which the violent earth convulsions scarred the countryside Tuesday.

The military and those who could work dug int othe shambles for wore dead—so many that they cannot be counted. The living that remain of the city of 40,000 are being counted instead.

Mayor Silidoro Tapia believed 10,000 perished as the city fell on the trembling earth which similarly destroyed the old Chillan 100 years ago. Hundreds and perhaps thousands more were dead in nearby cities and villages.

Most of the streets of Chillan now are narrow paths winding through heaps of homes, stores and offices.

Theatres Death Traps.

Some of the dead were taken from the ruins of two theatres which cascaded into formless heaps of brick and masonry.

The dead of one theatre were patrons of a performance for charity, the need of which now is enormous.

The central plaza around which the carefree population once promenaded can be reached only after a dangerous scramble through what remains of the town"s tallest buildings.

The low moaning of injured pleading for water mingles with the calls of mothers for lost children. Under the ruins whole families are known to be buried.

The temblor was so sudden there was little time to escape the crashing roofs and walls.

Towns in the area north of Chillan presented much the same scenes.

San Carlos, a country seat, is in ruins. At Parral about 200 are dead and more than 500 injured. At Concepcion there were perhaps 2,000 dead and many injured.

Thousands Killed In Chilean Quake

This tragic scene of a former earthquake in Talca, Chile, was repeated on January 25 as the city, along with many other communities in several Chilean provinces, dug out from the ruins of a violent quake and took stock of the lives lost. Hundreds of thousands of inhabitants faced the threat of disease or famine as the death toll was placed at over 20,000.

Cradle Telephones Were Invented To Aid People Who Were Too Fat

Cradle type telephones, better known as hand phones, were invented to force subscribers to talk directly into the transmitter, because many people who were too fat might be forced to stand about two feet away from a wall phone and it would be difficult to hear what they were saying. J. Clark, of the engineering staff of the Bell Telephone Company at Montreal, told a gathering of engineers in the lecture room at the C.G.E. plant on Thursday night.

Mr. Grant explained that the new type cradle phone when placed to the ear, swung naturally into line with the lips of the person talking and the result was much better satisfaction to the operator and the person at the other end of the line. The person using a cradle phone would invariably have their lips within two inches of the mouth piece and would speak directly into it thus getting the best results.

Improvements.

Mr. Clark spoke on telephones and recent improvements in transmission of intelligence by means of telephone. Improvements, he said, had been made along two lines, namely in the volume of sound transmitted and in the trueness of the reproduction.

He traced the evolution of the telephone from the humble beginnings of Alexander Graham Bell, and showed exact models of the devices brought into existence by the inventor, particularly the transmitter. The new receiver, he said, had been greatly improved by the introduction of new magnetic alloys, including permaloy, which permitted the manufacture of smaller and more compact instruments with a very definite improvement in the efficiency of the instruments.

He explained that at the present time it is possible to have sixteen telephone channels over one pair of wires, or in the later type of system, 250 conversations may be carried on at the same time over one pair of co-axial lead pipe cables. Research men are at present working on a scheme which they hope will permit 500 channels on one transmission line.

Canadians Talkative.

He predicted that it was a strong possibility that the women in another 25 years would be able to talk for hours over long distance telephone at a very nominal fee if research workers are able to complete work on a scheme which will permit one million conversations to travel at the same time over a copper tube. Before this comes true new oscillographs, amplifiers ond regulating equipment will have to be perfected, but he felt certain the forecast was well within the bounds of reason.

Canadians are the most talkative people in the world, he stated, and told his audience that the telephone conversations per capita were greater in Canada than in any other nation.

Showing clearly the strides which had been made in giving improved service, Mr. Clarke said that in 1926 it took 5.2 minutes to complete a long distance telephone communication, whereas in 1935, this time had been cut down to 1.3 minutes. In 1937 and 1938 the time had been reduced a little more.

Dial Long Distance.

Other developments which he spoke of was first, the abolishing of the crank used perhaps to awaken an operator who might be stealing a snooze, then the arrival of the automatic dial. In Belgium and certain parts of France, automatic dialing had reached the point of development where it was possible to dial long distance without the need of an operator in either centre. In big cities automatic meters were being used to record the length of time taken by a person on a long distance telephone call, and the devices were fool-proof.

He showed several slides, a few of which illustrated the enormous strides being made in construction equipment. These included a mechanical post hole digger, a ditch digger, and another machine for filling the ditch. The trend, he said, was to use underground cables on telephone lines rather than the overhead wires because a more uniform temperature was obtained by this method with fewer breakdowns from changes in the weather.

Packing Houses Plan To Penalize Farmers For Marketing Hogs Which Are Overweight

A new penalty of three dollars for each over-weight hog brought in to packing houses is soon to be levied against farmers, W. M. Gordon, Government inspector here, told a group of boys studying at the Keene Short Course yesterday afternoon. He said that 22 carcasses out of every hundred marketed are of wrong weight to-day.

He branded ridiculous any attempt by farmers to increase their profits by allowing their hogs to become excessively fat before shipping them to market. Cost of adding weight to a hog after it has passed its first hundredweight mark steadily increases, he said, and after the animal weighs more than two hundred pounds a farmer would spend a great deal of money in increasing that weight. Proper weight is from 190 to 220 pounds.

He pointed out that while Canada ships only 56 per cent. of "sizable" hogs to Great Britain, Denmark ships 98 per cent. "sizable"—one reason why the Danish product is preferred.

He also condemned raising of black hogs for sale, urged boys to keep only the white variety on their farms. The black hog must be stripped of its rind and cannot be sold in Great Britain, he said. In Canada it can be used only with the rind removed and so has little market value, he claimed.

Due to drought in Western Canoda and light crops in the Eastern provinces in 1937, hog production in 1938 fell off some 700,000 animals, he said, and already this year production is 25 per cent. below the same period in 1938. The drop is a surprise to packing companies, and 'it looks as though the forecast for the first three months of 1939 is going to be away wide of the mark," he said. He attributed this "miss" to lack of co-operation by farmers, who failed to fill in cards sent them. Forecasts are made by means of these cards when their questions in regard to hogs to be expected, ore filled in and returned.

500 Million Stake In Badly War-Torn Spain Keeps Foreign Investors In Hot Water

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 (AP)—Foreign investors and exporters have at least a $500,000,000 stake in war-torn Spain.

Foreign investments in Spain in 1935, the last year of peace, were estimated at 3,700,000,000 pesetas, about $530,000,000. About 60 per cent of this investment was French, representing holdings in mines, shipping, industries, and agricultural interests.

British and Belgian capital was largely invested in mines and railways, including street transportation systems in Madrid and Barcelona, both of which have extensive subways.

United States investments at the beginning of the conflict amounted to about $80,000,000, according to the department of commerce. More than half of this sum represented the International Telephone and Telegraph Company holdings in the Compania Telefonica Nacional De Espana, which controlled the telephone communications' system in Spain.

OMEMEE HAWKS DEFEAT LINDSAY 9 TO 4 IN DISTRICT GAME

Hastings Wins 9 To 2 Over Roseneath

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Jan. 27.—Cecil Scriver led the local snipers last night in an intermediate hockey tilt here when he netted four of Hastings' nine goals against Roseneath. Hastings won the tussle 9 to 2.

Barely a dozen fans watched the fray in 16 below zero weather, and those who did attend spent most of their time in the Hastings dressing-room. Clarence Parker, Roseneath goalie, froze both feet during the first period, and was taken out of the game. He did not succeed in getting thawed out until some minutes after the game was finished.

Andy McKee, locals' wing man, was taken out in the second frame when he received a cut lip from a stick. Half an hour before, he had cut his lip during practice and left the game with both lips well cut up.

The locals scored five in the first, two in the second, and two in the third to clinch the decision. Roseneath scored one each in the second and third periods.

Standouts for Roseneath were Tucker, Arbor, J. Pacey, and Halstead, while Hastings stars were Montgomery, Cecil Scriver, Thompson, McCarthy, and Gerrard Scriver.

The jumping competition takes place at Nassau on Saturday afternoon, commencing at 2.30 o'clock.

At Bethany on Sunday morning at 11.30 a.m. the downhill race will start, to be followed immediately by the slalom.

All entries must be made immediately with the secretary and you must have a competitor's card before you can start.

The Fort William ski club has a new instructor this year in the person of Rupe Edwards, one of Canada's first-ranking slalom and downhill runners. He is enthusiastic about the club's site and predicts great things for the Dominion championships to be held there February 24th to 26th.

Ted Zinkam of the Toronto ski club left January 19th for Grindewald, Switzerland, where he will arrive January 30. After competing in Switzerland for a week or ten days, he will proceed to Zakopane, Poland, where he will represent Canada in the world ski championships. Ted made many friends here last winter and we all wish him the best of luck across the pond.

Noise it abroad that the Ontario provincial championships are being held in Peterborough February 11th and 12th. All your relatives and friends, here and out of town, will want to see this big meet so don't let them blame you for not telling them well in advance.

MUSSING UP THE MAPLES

Forty-three of the bowling men from the City and C.G.E. leagues pounded down 600 or better scores at Duffus' alleys last night. 806 by "Ol Poison" Marsden of the C.G.E. was the evening's best individual effort, while the K. of C. Bowling Alley entry in the City League broke out in another pin-spilling rampage to blast off a 3,621 team total. Along with Marsden's count, eight of the City Leaguers worked off in the big figures: Frankie Wood continued his great hitting streak with 797; Vince Anthony had 781; Reg Dyer 769; Fred Martin 756; Walter Firth 753; Fred Earle 721; Jack Playford 719, and Lefty Kearns 715.

In the C.G.E. League, following Marsden, Charlie Low tossed off 696; Bill Carter 694; Stan Adamson 679; Bill Ashmore 678; Bill Masters 664 (318); Art Hall 659; Bill Harris 657; R. Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

And it comes about that at 8.30 o'clock or so in the bump emporium on the Rue Brock this twilight, there will be a battle royal, called an O.H.A. senior "B" puck fixture. Betwixt the Belleville Redmen and the Petes, and customers take their own chances on copping a good seat if they wait too late. On account of these teams are battling it out down the stretch with playoffs near, and also on account of they have no more love for each other than two dogs with one hunk of meat! They fight it out on the iced surface every time they meet and, though the Petes have two wins and one loss in their three meetings this year, anything can happen with the Redmen—as witness their 5-3 win the other night over the high-flying Airmen of Trenton. Yes, siree.

* * * * * *

Those Jackson boys from Greater Belleville—a large area, indeed—are whizz-bangers on the offence, and Bent-Beak Bentley and Speedy (One-Punch) St. Louis are gosh-darners on defence. No fooling, at all. But on the other hand we have one sweet line of speed-demons in Starr, Kingdon and Tompkins; several first-rate alternate forwards, as well as two good goalies and a strong defence—even if the boys on the back fence don't always sparkle on home ice. It's a fact that the Petes play better hockey on the big Belleville surface, but they haven't lost a loop game at home this winter, either. Yeah, it'll be a thrilling senior battle and rates a huge crowd of cash customers.

And At Lakefield

There is an O.H.A. intermediate "B" game tonight up in Lakefield between Oakwood and the Legionnaires, and it might be a right interesting fray to witness. On account of the Lakefield lads aren't very far in the van of the O's in the scramble for a playoff berth. The Legionnaires lost twice the other night, once to a truck which whammed their car around on the highway—rendering Goalie Loyst hors de combat, as we say in Spain—and later to Whitby. But they'll be at home this eve, without risking any wreck perils, and will be tougher to beat than Joe Louis when he's mad. Whitby is there on Monday, too.

* * * * * *

We note an item from Bill Gaynon's column in the Niagara Falls Review where Jack Dyte is on the New Haven Eagles' negotiation list. We remember Dyte distinctly and distastefully when he was bouncing bohunks around on defence for Barrie juniors in those memorable melees with our Colts. And in those lamented local losses! He and Buck Jones, who now is Detroit Wings' property—yep, Barrie doesn't fool with imports. Dyte nearly came here to play football for the Orfuns, but picked on the Falls finally as being a better puck centre—they have artificial ice there. If Dyte goes with the Eagles, he may wind up yet with Canadiens in the N.H.L.—if that is any inducement.

Not A Pretty Penny

Gross gate receipts of the Redmen's win in Belleville over the Fliers on Wednesday totalled just under $65—yep, $65! And here's another odd angle, Skipper Eddie Thomas had just eight Bellevillains in uniform and yet this gallant gang of scrappers earned a 5-3 win over the speedy R.C.A.F.-ers. They tore in on fast, passing plays and came back quicker than bum money orders to check (or cheque) the Carling-Kelly patrol right into the frozen surface. Losers' defence looked bad and St. Louis split it so often and escaped unscathed that it resembled the "open door policy." He and Hot-Dog McCreary stayed on the ice 60 minutes, and Watt was sensational in the home cage. Lot of rough stuff in the struggle, we hear, but no fights.

Church Loop standings are in tonight. All Saints Bantams took a 5-2 win over Knox last eve and All Saints Seniors had an 8-3 chuckle over George St. In a juvenile joust, All Saints beat a shorthanded George St. gang by a one-sided score, but we didn't get the dope on it. Games Monday: George St. vs. Knox Bantams at six, Mark St. vs. Park St. Juveniles at seven, Trinity Juveniles vs. George St. at eight, and Murray St. Seniors vs. George St. come nine o'clock. St. Paul's play St. John's Bantams at seven Tuesday. And dat's de works at de moment.

Mr. Brooks Got Five

Millbrook couldn't make it to Omemee last e'en for their District Puck Loop tussle, so Lindsay met the Black Hawks instead. The Hawks copped a 9-4 win before a fair crowd in a neat number. Brooks was hitting the high spots for the homesters and notched no less than five juicy ones. This loop is now affiliated with the O.H.A., probably as an intermediate "B" gang, the league winner to go into playdowns. A few schedule changes are announced, and these are the next games: Jan. 30—Millbrook at Aces; Feb. 2—Aces at Lindsay; Feb. 6—Omemee at Millbrook; Feb. 9—Omemee at Aces; Feb. 13—Lindsay at Millbrook; Feb. 16—Millbrook at Omemee.

Cage fans here will have some of their sport to whoop over this evening, after all, the Ladies' City Basketball League opening its 1939 schedule with three contests in the P.C.I. gym. Westclox meets Quaker Maids at 7.30, St. John's play Y.W.C.A. at 8.15, and Quaker Aces tangle with C.G.E. at 9.00, the Quaker Debs having a bye. Looks like the Quaker maidens are going in for the hoop sport, instead of hoop skirts, eh? This league won't have its own gym available for a few weeks yet, and next week's schedule may be spotted from day to day. The gals generally dish up lots of keen cage action and deserve a crowd.

Collins, Conroy, Rennie Johnston and Jones were oustanding for the others.

CURLING

By HERB MARTIN

It's an ill wind that blows no good to someone. It seems that when Mr. Downey went home from the rink the other evening after being successful in the open bonspiel, his cat was treated to the second saucer of cream.

A couple of top notchers took a tumble last night when two undefeated rinks met their Waterloo—T. Ryan and T. McArthur both fell and incidentally were beaten by two "Green" rinks.

The scores in all games last night were somewhat one-sided, with no particular game being outstanding. So for to-day we pass up any special mention.

The junior boys are reminded of the meeting at 7 o'clock to-night. Skips and rinks will be chosen.

And then the bonspiel to-morrow at 1.45 p.m. The usual fee.

Madoc High Rally Ties Tweed 4-4

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, Jan. 27.— Madoc eked out a tie game with Tweed High school on Wednesday night by virtue of a last minute rally, having trailed by two goals until within five minutes of the end of the game.

The locals had a little edge over the visitors, but great work by Wagar in the Tweed nets offset this advantage. The period scores were 1-0, Tweed; 3-2 Tweed, and the final score was 4-4. Madoc received one penalty in the first, two in the third, and one in the overtime. Tweed received one in the third period. Kellar of the Madoc squad was the best man on the ice, while G. Wagar, Tweed centre, turned in a fine performance.

Tweed—Goal, J. Wagar; defence, Don Porritt and Fergus Doyle; centre, G. Wagar; wings, G. Luffman, A. Courneyea; subs, B. McCaw, M. Vance, G. Morrison, D. Connor, B. Price.

Madoc—Goal, B. Hawthorne; defence, T. Hawthorne, G. Moon; centre, W. Munro; wings, J. Keller, J. Nayler; subs, F. Stewart, J. Thompson, W. Thompson, D. McCaw, D. White.

Referees—D. Wytock, Madoc; E. Provost, Tweed.

Ace Swimmers Here Tomorrow

Peterborough swimmers face stiff opposition here tomorrow night when ace performers with the Toronto West End "Y" compete against them in the Y.M.C.A. pool. With the Toronto team will be such noted stars as Warren Wortley former Canadian junior diving champion; George Burleigh, British Empire 100 yards champion; Jim Prentice, Canadian breast-stroke champion; and Fred Sansone, one of the country's leading free-style swimmers. Wortley and Burleigh, a fine diver, will compete against Jerry Corbett, Stan McBride, Bill Wildman and Wally Farr. Tom Macdonald, local star, is out of competition a few weeks.

McBride may win the 40 yards free style and will go good in the 100 event and the 40-yard backstroke. He meets Dick Lough of Toronto in the latter. Ted Clarke, Wally Farr, Bill Wildman, Jim Hardy and Ralph Rogow comprise the rest of the free-style team, while Al Marshall and Jack Barnard, who is from the Toronto Broadview "Y" recently, will handle the breast-stroke chores. The meet starts at eight o'clock.

Roy, Latest of N.H.L. Conachers

Like ham and eggs and June and moon, National Hockey League and Conacher go hand in hand. Following in the footsteps of brothers Lionel (now an M.P. in Ontario) and Charlie (still in there sniping, with the Red Wings), is Roy, ABOVE, one of the classy rookies Art Ross has come up with for this year's edition of his Boston Bruins. Roy plays left wing on the line with Mel Hill, another newcomer, and Gordon Pettinger, and improves every time out. Coaches are predicting a bright future for the latest of the big time Conachers.

Millbrook Men Substituted By Lindsayites

Omemee Black Hawks took a 9-4 District Hockey League decision over Lindsay last night at Omemee, the Lindsay gang replacing Millbrook—who couldn't' make it. It was a fast, clean and interesting puck tussle all the way, before a fair crowd. The game was quite evening in the first period, but the Hawks had superior passing plays and more punch in the second to run up a safe lead. It was 2-2 in the initial inning and 6-2 going into the windup chukker.

Brooks was brilliant on the attack for the winners, netting the disc five times on fine work in close. Brockley, Jamieson, Ellis and others aided considerably on the attack, too, and Fisher shone in the victors' net. Mark looked good in the other cage, despite the nine tallies, his defence being none too strong. Irwin was the best of the losers' forwards, with Huston and R. Williams also effective.

The teams:

Lindsay: Goal, Mark; defence, Growden and Harper; centre, Irwin; wings, Huston and R. Williams; alternates, Murtha, Balfour, P. Williams, G. Williams and Hancock.

Omemee: Goal, Fisher; defence, T. Parsons and Johnston; centre, Gilbert; wings, Weir and Jamieson; alternates, F. Parsons, Prete, Brooks, Ellis and Brockley.

Referee, Art Williamson.

All Saints Win Over George St.

All Saints' Seniors copped an 8-3 victory over George St. in their Church Hockey League tilt at All Saints' rink last night. Wright and Hough scored for George St. in the first, Wright aiding the latter. Mortimer, McDougall and Seabrooke on one line got four goals in the second, each of the first two tallying twice on neat plays. Wright got the Uniteds counter on Hough's pass. The losers faded in the third, with Rusaw, Seabrooke, McDougall and Mortimer scoring. All Saints first line was a big feature of the fray, and Rusaw and Parnell went well defensively. It was rough at times with Meredith, Edwards, Williamson and Wright getting major penalties. Teams:

AMERKS AND DETROIT SHUT OUT RANGERS AND CHICAGO 1 TO 0

Red Wings Whip Hawks 1-0; Amerks Victors

By Jack Calder
(Canadian Prehs Staff Writer.)

The bright lights that hockey saves for its rookies who make good overnight was turned directly today on little Connie Brown, a stocky young gaffer with an engaging smile and a quick shift around the defence.

Manager Jack Adams of Detroit Red Wings has a habit of bringing up youngsters who make the National League grade right off. He picked on Eddie Wares last season and Wares popped in the winning goal in two consecutive games. But Wares' place in the limelight was nothing to the spot Adams chose for Brown, who led Cornwall Flyers to the Eastern Canada senior amateur title, last spring.

Up from the Pittsburgh farm club for his first big-league game, Brown fired the winning goal last night as the Red Wings whipped the Black Hawks 1-0 at Chicago, to slip past the Hawks into fifth position. Young Connie, evidently, will do as a pinch-hitter until Wares' kidney injuries have recovered sufficiently to let him return to the lineup.

If it hadn't been for Brown, the light would have been given over almost entirely to Tommy Anderson of New York Americans, who grabbed the goal as his club scored a 1-0 victory over its intra-city rivals, the Rangers, and tied them for second place in the standings. Anderson, an oldster who once was with Detroit, stepped into the lead among N.H.L. point-makers.

Toast Of The Town

But Brown pulled the Red Wings out of sixth place for the first time all season and out of the strain of a long battle to keep from falling into the cellar. His grin, his speed and what he has done to Chicago should make him the toast of the town on his first trip to Detroit as a member of the Red Wings.

He took a relay from Charlie Conacher and Syd Howe late in the second period and whipped the puck past Mike Karakas from close quarters. The Wings' record mounted to seven games with only one defeat. The Hawks, who gave in peacefully in one of the winter's tamest contests, have won only once in 10 starts and haven't beat Detroit this season.

Murray Patrick of the Rangers was in the penalty box when Anderson scored in the second period. The lean wingman shared honors on the night with Earl Robertson, Americans' goaltender, who continually stopped rushes as the smooth Ranger machine dashed right.

By assisting in Anderson's goal, Sweeney Schriner drew even with Johnny 'Gottselig of Chicago and Toe Blake of Montreal for second spot among the point-getters. Nels Stewart also got an assist on the power-play score and gained a berth just one point behind Schriner.

Ace Goal-Getter Dixie Dean Sold To Ireland

LONDON, Jan. 27—(CP Cable).—England's greatest goal-scorer ended an association of 17 years with the football league this week. Announcement of the transfer of W. R. (Dixie) Dean from Notts County to Sligo Rovers, an Irish Free State club, came as a shock to a legion of soccer admirers.

The veteran centre-forward scored 376 goals from 1923 until 1938, breaking a record set searlier in the century by Steve Bloomer, famous Derby County player. It was as leader of Everton's attack that Dean became known as one of soccer's greatest centre-forwards and during that time he was selected to represent England on 16 occasions.

Dean's transfer to Ireland was a real surprise. Only a short time ago he declared he intended becoming a scout for a famous English team.

Breaking into big-time soccer with Tranmere Rovers back in 1923, Dean went to Everton two years later, remaining with the Lancastrians until March, 1938, when he was transferred to Notts County, a third division team. An ankle injury early last year seemed to affect his play.

Grounds Hard Going

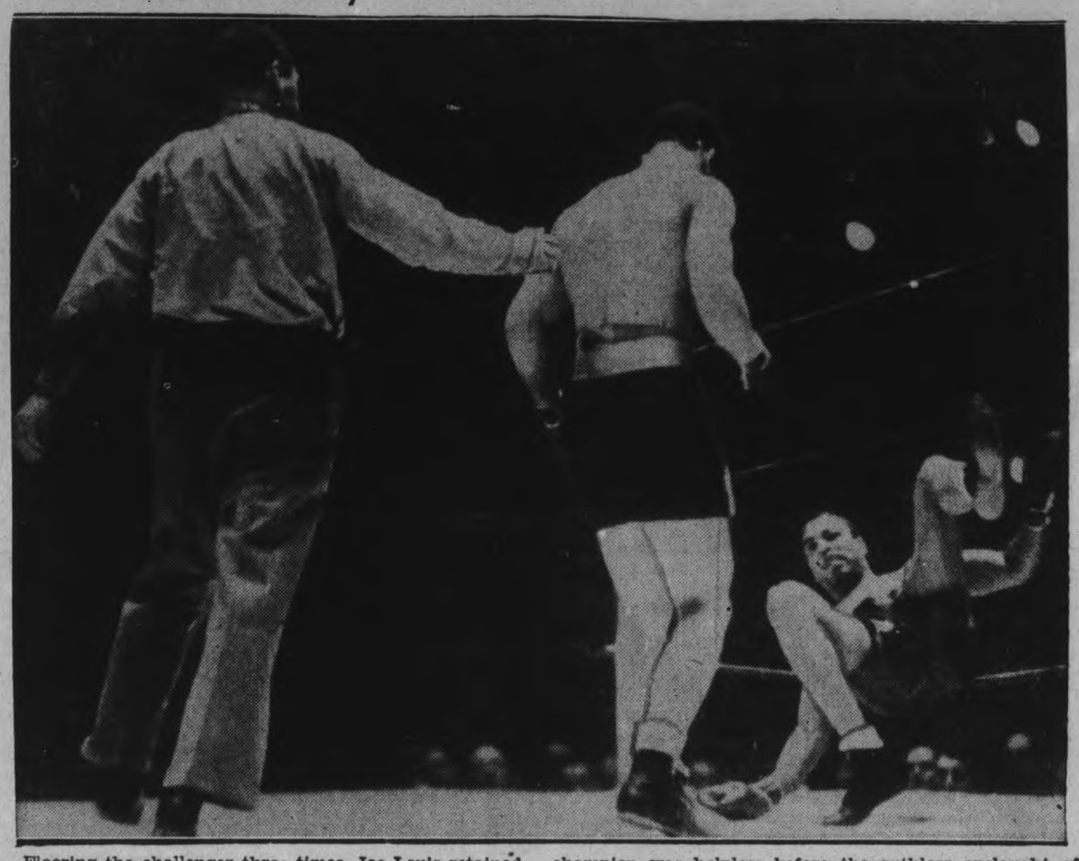
Snow which fell in midweek disappeared when a thaw set in yesterday and Saturday's games throughout the United Kingdom will be played on heavy grounds. Many clubs are deferring team selection until tomorrow as a result of a heavy list of Wednesday games.

Two straight losses in cup and league matches are not a bright augury for Derby County's match at Stoke tomorrow. The county, who transferred Dai Astley, Welsh international centre forward, to Blackpool a week ago, leads the league's first division with a three-point advantage over Everton. The toffee makers are expected to take maximum points from Huddersfield Town.

Up in Scotland most of the leading clubs are favored with home games. Rangers oppose Falkirk at Ibrox Park and the visitors may spring a surprise. Hearts, who trail the light blues by nine points in the championship race have an easier task against St. Johnstone in the Scottish capital.

Other attractive matches are scheduled for Aberdeen and Dumfries. The Dons should find the going fairly easy against St. Mirren at Pittodrie Park while Celtic hopes to defeat Queen of the South following its 4-1 victory over Albion Rovers Wednesday.

Joe Knocks Out John Henry In First Round



Flooring the challenger three times, Joe Louis retained his world's heavyweight championship when Referee Art Donovan stopped the fight in the first round to save John Henry Lewis further punishment. The light heavyweight champion was helpless before the ruthless onslaught of the Brown Bomber. The end came after two minutes and 29 seconds during which John Henry "never had a chance." The picture shows Lewis falling to the floor. The bout, held in Madison Square Garden, grossed more than $100,000.

Joe Louis' Left Jab Alone Enough To Beat Great Dempsey Says Donovan, Who Should Know

By Gayle Talbot
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

NEW YORK, Jan. 27—(AP).—Anybody who wants to get tough about the suggestion Joe Louis could have whipped Jack Dempsey when the old mauler was in his prime is invited to take the matter up with Arthur Donovan, who has refereed eight of the present champion's fighs, including the John Henry Lewis affair Wednesday night.

Donovan, a large, salty individual and a boxing instructor during business hours, says the Joe Louis of today is the greatest fighter who ever drew on a glove, and that he would have given even the Dempsey of Toledo a whaling.

"I still say I know more about what Joe Louis does to a man than anybody else because I've been right next to him while he was doing it," said Donovan. "Not only seeing it but hearing his blows land. I say the Joe Louis who smashed up Schmeling and John Henry Lewis could have beaten any fighter who ever lived, including Dempsey.

"What has he got that Dempsey didn't have? He has everything. Dempsey had only strength and speed and punch, but not a harder punch than Joe's. Dempsey was not a natural fighter. Why, that left jab of Joe's alone would have been enough to beat him."

Arthur was asked if he noticed that the champion didn't use his famous jab a single time against Lewis, but tore into him with savage hooks in the first skirmish and began rending him limb from limb.

"Yes he did use it," Donovan dissented. "He jabbed him a hard one on the nose inside the first five seconds."

The unanimous impression of the ringsiders had been that Joe's first tentative jab had fallen short an inch or more.

"That proves exactly the point I'm trying to make about Louis," said boxing's top referee. "You've got to be in there to realize how he tears a man up. That jab landed so hard I even heard it and it jarred John Henry clear to his heels, but I'll bet not two people in the crowd knew it. That's how fast that boy is.

'Same thing happened in his fight with Tommy Farr. Remember what a riding I got because I gave Joe 13 of the 15 rounds? He cut Farr to pieces with his left that night, but the crowd didn't see it. The crowd saw Farr making those big swings and thought he was smacking Louis around. Most of the blows were short."

Tight Tussle Here Tonight

Senior "B" standing to date:

Team	P	W	L	P
Petes	5	3	2	3
Fliers	4	2	2	4
Belleville	5	2	3	3

Belleville Redmen are here tonight (Friday) at 8.30 in the Brock for an important O.H.A. senior "B" fixture. A win for the locals will clinch them a playoff berth, practically, while a loss for the Redmen will make their chances very black. A local loss will tie the loop up tight. It may be the last showing of Belleville here this year.

Both squads will be at top strength and a great battle between these bitter rivals is expected. The Belleville 5-3 win over the Fliers Wednesday night on Quinte ice makes the Redmen a real threat again as the schedule nears its finish. The tilt here tonight should pack in the fans, who will remember the fine fray dished up here the last game—with hard bumping the order, Bentley getting his nose broken. The Petes feel confident they can take the Redmen, but they may get a surprise.

Extension port improvements have been started in Peru in the last 12 months.

Tweed Defeats Norwood 4-3

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, Jan. 27.—In one of the cleanest games of the season, which featured close checking, well combined passing, and relatively few penalties, Tweed defeated their rivals of the Trent Valley League, Norwood, by a four to three score, on Thursday evening, at the local arena.

In the first period Tweed went into a two to one lead over Norwood when J. Tummon took a pass from Wager to sink the first counter and Provost on a solo play put the home forces two up. However, N. Rogers on the visiting team scored a goal to cut the margin to one goal. R. Webb, Orr and Ibey went to the bench for tripping in this period.

Norwood tied the score in the second period when C. Puffer took a pass from Doug Brennan, former New York Ranger player, to put the teams on even terms. However, Courneyea took a pass from J. Tummon to put the home forces one up at the end of the period. No penalties were handed out in this period.

Five-Man Attack.

Both teams went out for victory in the third period, which was featured by close combination work and hard checking by both teams. Courneyea on a brilliant solo play made the score fou rto two for th home forces early in the third period when he drilled one from close in past McMaster. Norwood pressed hard to tie the score, after Brennan drilled one from the blue line past Reeves to cut the margin to one goal. However, with only two minutes remaining in the period following the last score, the Tweed boys, although two men short put up a splendid defensive game and held the five man attack off.

Six penalties were handed out in this period with N. Rogers, H. Leal, H. Provost, J. Tummon and E. Tummon going off for tripping and Brennan getting the gate for holding.

It was one of the best games of the season.

THE SPORTS ROUND-UP

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, Jan. 27—(AP).—Mike Jacobs has given up on finding a white hope . . . Any kind will do now . . . . Mike's best bet for a summer show is to toss the Messrs. Baer, Galento, Pastor and Nova at Louis all in one evening, then close up shop until Patrick Edward Comiskey sheds his swaddling clothes. . . . . Jimmy Wood of the Brooklyn Eagle thinks Joe could belt out 10 four of these gents at one sitting without once referring to the script.

It is no longer a mystery why so many heavyweights (King Levinsy and old Godfrey are the latest) are turning wrestlers . . . . Just look at these out-going cards: Schemling out—2:04; Lewis out—2:29.

San Francisco papers got their first peek at Larry MacPhail and found him "red-headed and full of pep." . . . . Whizzer White was guaranteed $15,000 to play pro football at Pittsburgh last year, but voluntarily returned $6,000 of it when he learned the Pirates finished in the red . . . . Well played Whiz . . . .

Tony Galento guest-starred for the World-Telegram on the fight. . . . . His piece was headed: By Antonio Galento, Author of "Tanks for Everything" and "Ten Nights in a Barroom."

News item: "Philadelphia Athletics will have the best lighted plant in the majors next season" . . . . so what? . . . . The better to see the seven American league clubs, my dears.

Sonja Henie and Bess Ehrhardt don't exactly belong to the mutual admiration society . . . . How they toss their pretty heads when their paths cross . . . . Some folks think it's because when Bess and her ice follies opened in Los Angeles, Sonja hit on the same night to pitch the biggest party of her dimpled career, and invited all the celebs. . . . . Naturally, the big shots couldn't be in two places at the same time and somebody's feelings were hurted.... We wouldn't know whose . . . . Anyway, those passing stars are—well, rather icy.

India's non-violence army is growing.

Canada or over Canadian institutions."

Unemployment insurance might be more workable and less expensive under exclusive Dominion control but it was now obvious the provinces would not agree Quebec, Alberta and New Brunswick would not consent.

"I suggest," said Mr. Green, "that at this 1939 session the government, while it still has the chance, take the first step towards providing unemployment insurance by passing an act authorizing the Dominion to pay to those provinces which set up a satisfactory unemployment insurance scheme either the whole or part of the cost. That was the way in which Canadians got old age pensions."

A creation of a national employment service had been recommended by the national employment commission but the government had done nothing.

"Probably this is the worst example of drift by this government," he said. "The folly of such inaction is best shown by pointing to the fine youth program, for which the government is to be commended. Yet there is no proper employment service to help these youths find jobs after they have completed their training."

Almost 20 p.c. Of Detroit Said Living In Slums

75,000 Homes Without Cellars Or Baths

DETROIT, Jan. 27 — (CP). — Nearly 20 per cent of Detroit's population live in slums, the Detroit housing commission report declared today. The commission reported 300,000 of Detroit's 1,800,000 people live under unsanitary conditions.

"This accumulated city of slums, has 75,000 dwellings without basements, baths or inside water," the report read. "The roofs leak, the floors and foundations sag, the porches are broken. Cheap partitions separate the rooms and children sleep in coal bins.

"Exposed pipes create fire hazards. Rats, cockroaches and bedbugs infest these places.

"In this area—tuberculosis averages 217 cases for each 100,000 of population compared to 74.3 for each 100,000 in the rest of Detroit; pneumonia averages 488 cases to each 100,000 of population in contrast to 76.6 cases in the city as a whole."

"In some instances the owners in these shacks are receiving as high as a 47 per cent return on their investment according to the 1938 assessed valuation of the property."

Golden Wedding Anniversary Is Observed By Emily Couple

(Examiner Correspondence.)

EAST EMILY, Jan. 27.—An event of special interest took place in Emily Township recently, when Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Franks celebrated their golden wedding anniversary.

The bride was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Deyell of Smith Township and the groom a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Franks of Emily Township.

They were united in marriage fifty years ago by Rev. Mr. Ewing of Mount Pelasant. They settled on the farm on which they are still residing, with them lives their only son, Herman, and his family.

They have two daughters, Mrs. W. Darling of Smith Township, Mrs. Lowery Brooks of Omemee, and fifteen grandchildren.

On this happy occasion they were surrounded by their family and fifteen grandchildren.

They were presented very quietly with a token of remembrance from the members of St. James' church and neighbors. Mrs. Franks with a gold cameo locket and chain and cameo ring to match, and Mr. Franks with a gold watch chain.

The Ladies' Guild of the church sent yellow daffodils as a form of congratulations. Mrs. Franks has always been a much-valued member of the guild since its organization. Other gifts were roses and kenwood blankets. Mr. and Mrs. Franks are enjoying wonderful health for their age, and the compliments of the entire community go out to them at this time, and wishes for many more years of health and happiness.

staff had gone with the wind. No one can understand where the money is going. The sums voted even in the last three years, approximating $90,000,000, should have made evident some effective measures of coastal defence.

"Must we conclude the clue to the mystery is to be found in the recent judicial inquiry into the Bren machine gun contract? One contract out of many was subjected to a searching inquiry and the most amazing circumstances have been disclosed.

"We have good cause to ask if the additional millions, requested from Parliament are actually for the defence of Canada or for the defence of the profits of a privileged ring of armament contractors. Guilt Edge Guarantee.

Mr. Macneil reviewed the testimony which disclosed the manner in which Major J. E. Hahn, head of John Inglish Co. of Toronto, had been assisted by the Department in obtaining a British War Office order of 5,000 guns to complement the Canadian order for 7,000.

"It was a gilt-edged guarantee of certain profits for one favored contractor," Mr. MacNeil said. "In the light of the evidence the House should hear from the minister the reasons why he did not call for competitive bids."

Mr. MacNeil referred to the "humiliating experiences' in war purchases during 1914-1918,' mentioning the Ross rifle, the Oliver equipment, the Bain wagon, motor parts and boots.

"Much was forgiven because of the emergencies of war-time. There can be no such excuse now for similar practices which may lead to results quite as iniquitous during crises of the future.

"Responsibility lies upon the government to deal severely with those who have been playing political ducks and drakes with defence appropriations. Defence purchasing must be freed entirely from political patronage."

Matthews, chairman of the Utilities Commission, will be the speaker at Monday's luncheon of the Peterborough Rotary Club. Mr. Matthews is vice-president of the Victorian Order of Nurses for Canada, and president of the Toronto branch of the Victorian Order of Nurses. He is expected to speak on the work of the organization.

STORE ROOM NEEDED

The necessity of a storeroom at the police station for the proper care of exhibits, confiscated liquor and other commodities of that nature has been evidenced during the last few days. A large bag of flour, a carton of matches, and two big bags of sugar have been entered in a case as exhibits and these article sare being shunted all over the building, for lack of a proper place in which they might be kept.

DEMAND FOR CLOTHING.

Cold weather during the past few days has sent members of the various Home and School associations scurrying about in search of heavier clothing for needy children. Each school's association has been providing clothing for needy children whose parents are not on relief, and an almost unprecedented number of requests for warming clothing has descended upon members this week. Response so far has been good, said Mrs. A. O. Phillips, convenor of the Queen Alexandra association, but there is still a heavy demand.

CLAIMS 70c a Day

The claim of E. T. Lush, market clerk, for 70 cents a day for the new theatre company's alleged trespass on the Market Square by using ground on which to pile debris from the interior was received with little comment by the property committee Thursday night. Several of the members said the temporary enclosure was on part of the street at the rear of the buildings facing George street. At any rate the committee passed up the Lush letter, and will probably forward it to the theatre management in Toronto.

Cable To England Closes Land Sale

Alderman H. J. McCannan's customary despatch in carrying on his real estate business surprised even himself the other day. He had listed for sale a property on Alfred Street owned by Percy Boxhall, who had returned to the Old Country a few years ago and is now living in a town in Surrey, England.

Mr. McCannan had received an attractive bid for the house and lot, and everything about it was so acceptable that he decided to submit it to Mr. Boxhall. However, instead of writing, he sent a night cablegram, filing it at the C.P.R. uptown office about 4.30 p.m. on Monday, and on Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock he was handed a reply of acceptance from the owner in far off Surrey.

The speed with which that deal was closed might not seem extraordinary in many branches of business in which cabling quotations and replies is an every day affair. But it is decidedly infrequent in local realty affairs, and incidentally affords new proof of the changes that have been become commonplace in the ways of business.

City Saves $100 In Purchasing Of Tulip Bulbs

If you were a member of the council what would you do on this minor question that received brief argument at Thursday night's meeting of the Park committee?

Alderman Stocker bought 10,000 tulip bulbs for the park last year from Holland. Alderman McCannan contended that they should be purchased through the "local trade."

"Do you know that it means an extra $10 on every thousand bulbs?" Ald. Stocker enquired.

"But we have people here who are in the business, and they have to pay taxes. It is hard enough in these times, and they need that business," Ald. McCannan said.

"Well, I'm no rubber stamp for grafters. You can take the whole thing if you like," Alderman Stocker replied.

Leave Bulbs in Ground.

Ald. McCannan said $204 was spent on tulips for the parks last year, and after their flowering they were taken up and sold at a small price. "I'm told that if you plant the bulbs six or eight inches you don't need to take them up. You can leave them there three or four years and save that money."

"I know who told you that," Ald. Stocker replied. "We've got to put in new beds as soon as the tulips are done, put the beds in shape, and what you say won't work out. You are talking about Darwins, anyway. No one can complain about the cost of our parks. Do you know Toronto is spending $1,400,000?"

Alderman Glover defended the Stocker policy, and said he had tried out the over-planting of flowers.

Alright For Small Bed.

"What Alderman McCannan says is all right for a little two by four bed," sad Ald. Stocker.

Ald. McCannan—I am sure if any money could be made, the chairman would make it.

Alderman Dutton commented that the value of the flower beds in the parks was incalculable. No one could estimate the intangible results the people received from the lawns and the flowers. It was something that appealed to the spirit and the sense of beauty.

Lay Out Nursery.

The first incident passed oger, and Ald. Dutton suggested that the committee should lay out a nursery on the sewage disposal plant property, and it wouldn't be long until the city would have all the trees it needed.

Ald. Stocker said he was afraid they would be stolen. He was dubious about the success of the idea, but Ald. Dutton said he could not see any reason why the city should not use the ground across the river for that purpose, and save the cost of new trees every year.

Ald. McIntyre declared that he was satisfied with whatever the chairman did, and expressed his confidence that Peterboro's parks were in good hands at small cost. Ald. Stocker agreed that the nursery proposal would be taken up by the committee some time, and it might be adopted. He also urged that a new springboard be built at Inverlea Park to attract the young people from diving off the bridge. "I'm always afraid somebody's going to be seriously hurt up there," he added.

Reserve Judgment In Johnston Case

Judgment was reserved until Tuesday by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning in the charge against Joseph Johnston of Harvey township, of stealing flour and matches from the Dominion Store on the night of Saturday, January 14.

"While I have a very definite opinion as to the verdict to be given the magistrate stated after counsel had finished their argument, "I think it advisable to defer judgment until I have had time to read over some of the evidence."

His Worship pointed out that there had been a very large amount of evidence taken and there had in addition been a lengthy argument.

Mr. Fair, who appeared for Johnston, argued that the evidence of Chief Constable Newhall should be carefully considered and declared that the Chief must have been suffering from a grievous delusion when he testified to seeing accused and another man carrying the bag of flour and a carton of matches from the rear of the Dominion store.

Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry declared that there was the positive evidence of the Chief Constable conecting Johnston with the theft and the fact that the stolen goods were found in the car that Johnston had possession of on that night. He pointed out that all the witnesses for the defence were drunk or had been drinking while the Crown witnesses were all sober and stressed what he said were discrepancies in the story told by the accused.

Johnston was remanded until Tuesday on his own bail for $500 and also remanded until the same date on a charge of stealing sugar from E. F. Mason.

Sixty Young People Attend Short Course At Keene

Hard at work these days are some sixty young people from Peterborough County, thirty of them girls, bent on making themselves good farmers. They have been studying for a number of weeks in a special agricultural short course at Keene, the boys learning what are good methods of farming and why, the girls learning to be good cooks, dressmakers and cultured people all. In the accompanying pictures some of the students were caught at work yesterday afternoon. (1) Margaret Manley, LEFT, and Hilda Armstrong are fitting a dress on Ruby Miller. They made the dress themselves. (2) Myrtle Patterson, LEFT, and Norma Stark, RIGHT, watch while their instructor, Miss L. A. Row, shows them some fine points in cutting of materials. The girls in (4) are receiving a criticism by their instructor, Miss Jean Scott, LEFT, of a cake that has just come from the oven. From LEFT to RIGHT the girls are: Rita Faux, Catherine Bolin, Phyllis Kempt, Margaret Thomson. Boys in (3) are learning fine points in judging grain. Their instructor, leaning over their shoulders, is Don Bell. The boys, from LEFT to RIGHT, are: Hugh Manley, John Fife, Jim Hope, Alex. Patterson. Telephone Rates To Increase With The Dial

Announcement was made to-day at local telephone headquarters that rates for telephone service will be changed when the dial system is introduced. The dial equipment for which the Bell Telephone Company is constructing the new building on Hunter Street will be ready for operation in September of this year (1939). At that time telephone rates will be increased by 25 cents a month for residence and 50 cents for business service.

"As a matter of fact, both the service and the rates are being brought up to date," C. B. Shaver, manager of the Bell Telephone Company, told the Examiner. "The new system will provide Peterborough subscribers with the most modern exchange service known to the telephone art. It wil lreplace the older type of equipment which has become inadequate because of the growth of the city. The great increase in telephones here in the last ten years or so has also advanced Peterborough to a higher rate classification and it is therefore logical that both changes should be made at the same time. We are spending about half a million dollars to bring better service to our subscribers here. The increase in charges to the individual subscriber is very small, and we believe will be regarded as fair and reasonable in view of the growth in the local telephone community and the greatly enlarged scope of the service for every user."

Present System Is Old.

The present system, the Examiner learned, was put into operation many years ago when the city was much smaller than it is to-day. As the city grew and the number of telephone subscribers increased, new equipment was gradually added to accommodate the greater demand for service. It has now reached the point where the company has to choose between a major addition to the old system and the installation of an entirely new one. It was decided that the more modern service provided by a dial or automatic system warrants the decision to discard the old equipment and install completely new apparatus.

The rates which are still in effect here under the company's tariffs were adopted with the approval of the then Board of Railway Commissioners in 1927 after an exhaustive examination into the company's operations. The rates then approved by the Board were part of a schedule which embodied the principle that telephone rates should vary according to the size of exchanges, low rates being appropriate for small places and a gradually increasing schedule being necessary to take care of larger places of varying sizes. At that time Peterborough was much smaller and was classed for rate purposes, with Belleville, Oshawa, Owen Sound, Stratford, North Bay, and such centres. Since then despite the growth of the local exchange, the rates have not been changed. However, Peterborough is now in the same telephone rate class as Kitchener, Brantford, and St. Catharines, and the new rates will be the same as the rates at present

Game Overseer Is After Poachers

Stanley Windsor of Apsley, newly appointed game overseer, arrived on Sucker Lake a day too late to catch four men, who were believed not to be Indians, who were fishing through the ice. There were plenty of signs to indicate that they had been carrying on fairly extensive operations with two sleighs. They were tracked from the lake until they reached the road going to Buckhorn.

A couple of weeks ago Mr. Windsor apprehended a poacher who was fishing through the ice in Loon Lake who was later convicted and fined.

It has been said that poaching has been going on for years in the Northern lakes including the taking of deer in the Crown Park Reserve. Mr. Windsor is determined to put a stop to this practice.

Teacher Heroine

PONTIAC, Mich., Jan. 27—(CP)—Residents here hailed Miss Mayme Kangas a heroine to-day. She led her class from the room immediately she heard the ceiling creak. As the last one got out, the ceiling fell damaging furniture. The Board of Education the day before had decided to rebuild the school.

The Rambling REPORTERS

COMFORT COMES FIRST.

On Thursday when the mercury was flirting with the 10 below figure a young man breezed past the Examiner office with coat collar high around the ears and hands thrust deep in overcoat pockets, but his appearance also showed he was a man of originality. From the top button of his overcoat at the front was hanging a coat hanger on which was a garment which had evidently just been dry cleaned. The long paper bag covering the garment flapped against the front of the man, as he hurried homeward with his face almost buried in his coat, totally oblivious to the fact that everyone he passed stood and stared at him. He was more interested in keeping his hands warm, and because of that had just slipped the neck of the coat hanger around the top button of his coat.—McG.

Plaster Collapses In I.O.O.F. Lodge Hall

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 27—Forty members of the Rebekah Lodge and I.O.O.F. narrowly escaped serious injury here tonight as a large section of the ceiling in their lodge room located on the third floor of the Ferris block collapsed. The members had adjourned from the ante room only a few moments before the accident occurred and W. Roy Loucks who had remained slightly behind the others was the only eye witness of the collapse of the ceiling which came down with such force as to be heard in all section of the block. The cause of the accident is not known.

First Break Through Death In 19 Years Occurs When Raybestos Foreman Passes

The death Thursday of George Davis, foreman of the treating department of the Canadian Raybestos Company represents the first break, through death, in the personnel of that company since it began operations in Peterborough nearly nineteen years ago, Robert Abbott head of the concern, states. Mr. Davis was engaged by the company when the premises were being put into shape for occupancy after being purchased by the company from the Lundy firm, and he had been continuously in the employ of the Raybestos Company ever since. Both because of his own fine qualities and because his death has constituted the first time the grim reaper has claimd a member of the Raybestos organization in the almost two decades it has been part of the industrial picture here, the demise of Mr. Davis has caused gloom throughout the plant.

Committees Named By Horticulturalists

Directors of the Horticultural Society organized their committees for the year Thursday night. Sandford Harris is chairman of the membership with special aid from Dr. Madill, Harry Beal, and H. H. Graham, and the assistance of all the members.

E. H. Watson is chairman of the show committee with Edgar Simmons, vice-chairman, H. Ball, secretary, and all other directors.

The premiums committee is composed of James Forbes, chairman, S. T. Harris and George East.

Committee to promote junior work is headed by Fred Dearborn with Dr. Madill first lieutenant.

Wm. Gracie is chairman of the beautification committee.

Finance—J. Stenton, chairman, S. T. Harris and H. H. Graham.

Publicity—W. C. Wilkes, chairman.

A special effort will be made this year to gain the interest of school children and others of intermediate age. The Society has recruited quite a number of young men and women who are actively engaged in all phases of its work, and it is believed that many others would be attracted to the objects of the Society if they realized how welcome they would be.

Guild At Apsley Sponsors Dance

(Examiner Correspondence.)

APSLEY, Jan., 27.—A dance and social evening was held on Friday in the parish hall when the ladies of the St. George guild entertained their husbands and married friends to a married couples' dance. Dancing of both square and round varieties was enjoyed until supper time when the ladies served a bountiful lunch afterwards.

Rev. F. McMulken thanked the guild on behalf of the guests and Mrs. F. Bullied and hoped they would have many more good times in the future.

Many of the old time dances were revived and a real good time was enjoyed. The main feature of the evening was the privilege of the ladies to ask the gentlemen for the dances. The music was supplied by Mr. Sid McCauley, Mrs. R. Scott, Mrs W. Staples, Mrs. H. Tucker and Mrs. Herb. Tucker

Purchase Price Of New Pumper In Estimates

Tentative estimates amounting to $37,930 were recommended as their prospective expenditures for this year by the Fire, Water and Light Committee of the council last night.

Corresponding estimates for last year totalled $36,575, and the actual expenditure was $36,374.96.

In submitting its present statement to the Finance Committee for inclusion in the council's composite budget, the Fire, Water and Light Committee has some hope of being able to finance the purchase of a 600-gallon pumper worth about $8,000 as a means of maintaining the efficiency of the fire department, and without increasing the tax rate beyond last year's level.

"If the new pumper means that we'd have to go beyond last year's rate, then I'd say cut it out," was Alderman Glover's attitude. "I don't want to see the tax rate increased, but we can let these estimates go on to the Finance Committee, and in the meantime Chief Gimblett can get us exact figures so we'll know exactly where we are at."

Members Sympathetic.

Alderman McIntyre, chairman of the committee, and Aldermen Stocker, Glover and Dutton and Mayor Hamilton all spoke in favor of making a special effort to buy the new apparatus for the department. "Neither wise men nor fools can work without good tools," was Alderman Stocker's approving quotation.

On the other hand Alderman McCannan was averse to the purchase on the ground that it seemed an unnecessary expense in a year that was not beginning favorably. Several times he asked Chief Gimblett the question, "Can't you do without it this year?" and the Chief's reply was in any circumstances of supply he would simply have to get along with whatever the council furnished him.

Every member of the committee expressed appreciation of the exceptionally low fire loss credited to the Gimblett department during the last two years, and the discussion clearly indicated a desire to provide sufficient equipment to do the work expected of the department.

A $3,500 Refund.

Chief Gimblett explained that three old pieces of equipment that had served their day might be turned in for $2,000 on the deal he suggested. Alderman McIntyre recalled that the Utilities Commission had turned back $3,500 to the council from the waterworks department, and that sum, he contended, could be applied to the proposed pumper fund.

It was agreed, too, that several items that had been approved could be dispensed with for this year in consideration of buying the 600-gallon machine. They were $700 for new hose, $350 for a deluge set, $250 for a hose expander and $25 for a hand pump and probably $400 from the appropriation for maintaining the fire alarm system. By the time those items had been added up, Alderman McIntyre expressed the opinion that the actual additional sum the committee would have to ask for would be about $1,500.

With reference to Alderman McCannan's suggestion that the purchase be deferred, Mayor Hamilton said he wanted to have the tax rate kept at the 1938 level, but the effi-

School Board Increased Its Estimates

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 27.—The town council threatened to appeal to the municipal board following a meeting at which members of the School Board brought in a budget forecasting additional expenditures of approximately $3,000 for 1939.

"We have been hoping to make a reduction in our tax rate but when we get this thrown at us there is more likelihood of an increase," Chairman of the finance committee, N. Alex McColl told councillors at a special meeting called for the purpose of bringing in estimates preparatory to setting the 1939 rate.

Board Has Not Met

Wesley Stevens, secretary of the School Boarg claimed that since there had been no meeting of the board yet this year and it was therefore impossible to give a definite estimate. He indicated an increase of about $500 would be necessary for public school requirements to bring the total for this year to $13,000.00. To the High School costs of $7,650.00 for 1938 it would be necessary to add another $1,250.00 to cover the cost of engaging an additional teacher.

"I understand that the county account will be down about $1,000.00 because although the total number of pupils at the school has increased the percentage of county pupils is down," he claimed.

Questioned by the council, F. C. Bonnycastle, chairman of the board of Education asserted that the extra for the high school had been demanded by the inspector who had warned the board that a reduction in grant and rating would be the result if this action were not taken.

"All the saving made by council will be absorbed by this additional expense," asserted councillor McColl.

Replying to the question of Reeve Calver, who asked if the Board had ever made any appeal to the Municipal Board to relieve their expenses, Mr. Stevens retorted "We have not been extravagant."

"I didn't say you were but it has been the experience of this council that expenses can very often be cut when it is known that a municipality cannot afford them. The county rate for any other school in the two counties (Northumberland and Durham) does not exceed forty cents per pupil per day but for Campbellford the cost levied on the county is seventy-two cents,' replied the Reeve. Mayor F. F. Long urged the representatives from the School Board to make every effort to pare down this additional expense at their meeting next Monday.

14 Apply for Policeman

If we are going to engage two policemen there should be definite hours for each of them and the night constable should be supplied with a uniform, the council agreed following the reading of a list of fourteen applicants for the position of night watchman.

The tender of William Normington who has been acting in this capacity since early last summer was accepted. The salary for the position was placed at $65.00 a

Company To Move Tanks To Cobourg

Intention of the Imperial Oil Company to remove their storage depot in Romaine Street from Peterborough was reported today from several sources.

It is understood the company intends to concentrate at Cobourg its entire equipment for distribution of gasoline and oil throughout Central Ontario. The port is open the whole year round, and is conveniently located for trucking to its retail agencies throughout the Central Ontario district.

Cobourg's lake front has been gradually developing importance as a centre for the storage of gasoline and oil. Several companies have erected large supply tanks during the last few years to the west of the docks.

An emergent meeting of Peterborough Lodge No. 155 A.F.A.M. will be held on Saturday, Jan. 28 at 2.30 p.m. for the purpose of attending the funeral of our late brother, Arthur A. Ringer. The brethren will assemble at the residence of our late brother, 261 Sherbrooke street. Brethren of sister lodges invited to attend.

DEATH AT THE MANOR

By M. E. CORNE

READ THIS FIRST:

Elsie Ritter, a beauty shop operator, taking the place of her friend Kitty, for a week in the private salon of Mrs. Horace Witherspoon, Sr., is disturbed by queer things she finds and odd people she meets at the Manor, the luxurious Witherspoon home. She finds her employer is an eccentric old woman with sadly misplaced vanity. She meets her granddaughter, Daphne, her daughter-in-law; Della Craig, an actress, who is a house guest, and the various servants of the household. Elsie overhears a violent argument between Daphne and her mother during which the girl criticizes her grandmother. After meeting some of the other house guests, Elsie gives a manicure to old Mrs. Witherspoon's sister, who converses in riddles. While Mrs. Witherspoon, Sr., is under one of the four hair driers in the salon, Phil, Elsie's friend, drops in to see her and telephones from downstairs. Elsie goes down to see him. When Elsie returns to the salon, she faints when she finds that the old lady has died while under the drier. After being revived, Eliza, the maid accuses her of stealing Mrs. Witherspoon's emeralds, which are missing. She succeeds in convincing Horace Witherspoon that she knows nothing of the missing jewels. The chauffeur tells Elsie that the servants blame her for Mrs. Witherspoon's death because Elsie apparently neglected her. Horace Witherspoon advises Elsie to say nothing of the missing jewels for fear of publicity that would accompany a police investigation.

CHAPTER THIRTEEN

"PERHAPS YOU had better not mention your absence from the salon to the coroner," Horace Witherspoon suggested.

"But," I protested, 'Eliza and Mrs. Greely both know that I wasn't present at the time of your mother's death!"

"Eliza and Mrs. Greely will, I think, remain silent. They have the welfare of the household at heart."

"Naturally," I agreed. "Naturally." I grew more and more befuddled. What difference did it make whether or not I had been in or out of the salon when the old lady died—now that she had died? It was too much for me. I shook my head slowly from side to side.

"Don't worry, Miss Ritter," said Mr. Horace, sitting opposite me. "I'm not asking you to tell—an untruth. The coroner will, I think, assume that you were in the room the whole time. Should he not, you must use your own judgment." He stopped as though searching for words.

"I'm—I'm not used to this sort of thing," he continued after a moment. "Perhaps I'm acting foolishly; perhaps not. You must understand that I'm trying to do what is best for the living as well as for the dead."

"I understand." I smiled reassuringly. "I'll do whatever you say." Poor little man! He looked ghastly. There were great circles beneath his eyes, and the eyes themselves were puffed and rimmed with red. He must have spent the night in weeping and worrying — he appeared not to have slept at all.

"Mr. Witherspoon, sir." Hawkins approached. "A Mr. Meacham is here from the funeral parlors."

"Oh, yes." The little man followed the butler to the door. "Please come in, Mr. Meacham," he said, and a tall, cadaverous looking individual in a black frock coat entered.

"Ah, Mr. Witherspoon," he said, appropriately solemn. "I am indeed sorry to intrude upon your hour of grief, but the fact is"—he hemmed and hawed nervously—"the fact is, I've been upstairs and something has come up—something not quite in my line."

"Well?"

"The deceased—she has something on her face—"

"The mask!" I cried.

"Exactly." Mr. Meacham turned his attention to me. "A mudlike substance. I have been trying to scrape it off—"

"Miss Ritter!" Mr. Horace came to my side. "I had intended to ask you to dress my mother's hair and make up her face—"

"Oh, I couldn't!" The words rushed out before I could stop them. I could not touch that dead body, I simply could not!

"Very well." He sighed, but did not press me further. "Perhaps Mrs. Greely can attend to the matter."

"I'm sorry," I began, but the sight of his wan, weary countenance stopped me. "I'll do it!" I said impulsively before I should change my mind. After all, I thought, half hysterically, I had been hired as Mrs. Witherspoon's private operator.

"Thank you." He bowed his appreciation. "If you will go with Mr. Meacham—"

"Yes, indeed! Come with me." The solemn Mr. Meacham rubbed his hands together and parted his thin, bloodless lips into what undoubtedly was meant to be a friendly smile, but which only succeeded in adding to his ghoulish appearance.

"I should like you to return here when you have finished," requested Mr. Horace and I nodded and passed through the door which Mr. Meacham held open for me.

Mrs. Witherspoon lay in her big bed, so calm, so quiet, she seemed to be asleep. When I had recovered from the shock of gazing upon that dead face lined and furrowed with hardened clay I got hold of myself and set grimly to work. In short order I removed the mask. As it melted into a muddy stream and was absorbed in the warm cloth in my hand I had an almost uncontrollable impulse to rush to the dressing table and seize the looking glass to wave it triumphantly before the unseeing eye of Mrs. Witherspoon. Death had accomplished what life and thousands of dollars' worth of cosmetics had failed to accomplish—the skin beneath the beauty mask was soft and smooth. Poor old lady! Beauty had returned to her and she was not here to welcome it!

I was arranging her hair when the door was flung open and Mrs. Horace, looking like a ventriloquist's dummy, came into the room. Her eyes gave me the creeps—they were dull and glazed like the eyes of a dog in mortal agony.

She did not speak to me, but moved slowly to the bed.

"I tried to save you," she said, bending above the dead body of her mother-in-law. "Even though you despised me, I tried to save you." The words came indistinctly in a sing-song intonation that chilled my blood.

"Mrs. Witherspoon!" I touched her arm. She revolved jerkily. She stared through and beyond me.

"I tried to save her," she said again. "I tried."

"Mother!" Daphne, her bright hair askew, burst in upon us. "Mother!" she cried and the woman stiffened and a shudder ran the length of her body.

"Why are you here?" she asked, and her voice was normal and faintly wondering.

"I've been looking everywhere for you," Daphne said, putting her arms about her mother. "The man from the shop is here with the mourning ensembles."

"Oh!" I thought Mrs. Horace would collapse. She turned a sickly green. "Black for sorrow; red for blood. Daphne, Daphne, how could you?"

"Hush, dear!" The girl guided her mother to the door. "You don't know what you are saying. Come—come with Daffy! She'll take care of you."

"Goodness gracious!" exclaimed Mr. Meacham, who had remained quietly in his coroner. "The lady was upset, wasn't she?"

"Quite," I replied shortly, and resumed my work.

When I returned to the library about twenty minutes later, the coroner, a pompous middle-aged man who gave the impression of reveling in the sense of his own importance, had arrived. Mrs. Greely, her hands folded neatly in her lap, also was present. She inclined her head briefly at my entrance.

The ordeal was short and to the point. Unawed by his surroundings, the coroner, one Dr. Didmore, put his questions in a bored off-hand manner which showed plainer than words that he considered the procedure a waste of time. The housekeeper in the absence of Eliza, who was confined to her bed with fever, described the finding of the body.

"I was in the kitchen overseeing the preparation of the buffet supper to be served at the grand ball when Mrs. Witherspoon's maid came in agitated. It was some time before she was able to tell me what was the matter. Finally she managed to mumble something about the salon. I accompanied her there and discovered on the floor of the third compartment the bodies of Mrs. Witherspoon, Sr., and of Miss Ritter."

Dr. Didmore yawned. "What did you do then?"

Mrs. Greely smoothed the folds of her apron: "I lifted Mrs. Witherspoon into a chair. I listened to her heart but could hear nothing. I was certain that she was dead. Eliza and I carried Miss Ritter into the lobby. I saw that she was breathing and attempted to revive her with cold water." She paused and glanced around as if waiting for some sign of commendation for such a trying situation. When none was forthcoming, she continued disdainfully: "Miss Ritter did not immediately regain consciousness. Therefore I phoned to the kitchen and requested Hawkins, the butler, to locate Mr. Horace and to send him at once to the salon."

"I see." The coroner blew his nose loudly. "At what time did the maid appear in the kitchen?"

"It was shortly past ten o'clock."

"Ah, thank you. That will be all." He turned to me and I suffered a momentary qualm of uneasiness.

"Please give a brief resume of the events preceding your fainting spell," he directed. I cleared my throat and began.

I told how I had shampooed Mrs. Witherspoon's hair and waved it, and applied the mask to her face. I told how I had lifted her to the drier and manicured her nails. And I told how, half an hour later, I had lifted the hood, and how the limp body had fallen forward upon my breast.

"And then," I concluded dramatically, "and then I fainted."

"You suspected that she was dead?

"No," I said, and held my breath. Surely now he would ask me whether or not I had remained in the room the entire evening. But, as Mr. Horace had predicted Dr. Didmore took it for granted that I had been present at the time of the old lady's passing. I was glad, for I am not a convincing liar.

"What did you think?"

"I don't think I thought anything," I replied cooly enough. "It was just the shock—having her fall on me the way she did."

"The deceased seemed quite normal to you during the shampoo, et cetera?"

"Well," I hesitated. "She was normal enough, I guess. Of course, I knew that she had heart trouble, and I wasn't awfully surprised when I learned that she was—dead."

"I see." He repeated blasting operations upon his nose, and arose. "I'll have a look at the body Mr. Witherspoon, before I issue the certificate.

"Hawkins will show you upstairs," said Mr. Horace. He seemed relieved to conclude the inquiry. Of course the whole business was worse for him than for me—the deceased (horrid word) was his own mother.

Good Table Manners Bring Dinner Dates

Have Poise in Public

Mary's manners fit her like a glove. So smooth, so easy. Her etiquette sense makes dining out with her a pleasure.

She waits gracefully poised by the table until Frank pushes her chair in place. When seated she lays her napkin in one or two folds across her lap, scans the menu and indicates her preference to Frank—not to the waiter. She breaks small pieces from her roll, does not gnaw it. Drinks bouillon from its cup after sipping a spoonful or two. If she's unfortunate enough to get a fishbone in her mouth, she removes it inconspicuously with her fingers—not behind her napkin.

Let our 32-page booklet help you win coveted dinner dates by teaching you the little niceties of table usage. Guide to eating trick foods—celery, lobster, artichokes.

DOROTHY DIX

If You Want To Be Liked Mix One Part Of Forbearance, Two Parts Tact, Three Parts Of Concentration On People's Virtues And Sweeeten With Good Humor

CONSIDERING that the gentle art of being able to get along with people without friction is the most valuable accomplishment that any of us can possess and the one that pays the biggest dividends, it is curious that we make so little effort to cultivate it.

All of us know that in an overcrowded world, that is getting more and more packed every day, that our happiness and our success depend upon our being able to keep off of our fellow creatures' toes. We may be the best doctor or lawyer in town, but we will have no patrons if we rub every one's fur the wrong way.

We may carry a nifty line of goods in our shop, but we will have no buyers unless we have first sold ourselves to our customers. We may be a gifted actor or a crackerjack accountant, but if we are always in a row with those with whom we work we will get nowhere. We may have married the finest man or woman on earth, but we will end up in the divorce court if we bump into all of our mates' peculiarities and prejudices instead of sidestepping them.

Hence the importance of learning to dwell in peace and amity with those with whom we are forced to rub elbows every hour of our lives. Yet parents who bankrupt themselves to give their children a college education never bother to even give them a kindergarten course in salve-spreading. Men and women who spend years fitting themselves for some learned profession never put in a moment in acquiring suavity and diplomacy in dealing with others.

We assume that being what is known as a "mixer" is a gift, like a tenor voice or having a bathing-beauty figure, something that Nature wishes on you at birth and that is grand to have, but which is not your fault if you lack it. To a certain extent this is true. There are people born with a fluid personality that enables them to adapt themselves to others without friction. But, for the most part, the art of getting along with people is something that any one can learn who has the will and the patience and the fortitude to make an intensive study of his subject.

Mothers should be the teachers in this most important branch of knowledge, and the instruction should start when children are in the cradle. When little Bobby has learned to smile when the visiting baby takes away his pink rattle, and later on when he has been taught to give and take when he plays with other youngsters—and not to grab the biggest slice of cake, and not to take his doll rags and go home if the other kids won't play his way—he has started on the way to being one of those who always find welcome on the mat before every door.

In reality, the rule for getting along with people is almost as simple as the recipe for making a sponge cake. It consists of one part forbearance, two parts tact, three parts concentration on people's virtues instead of their faults, and the whole sweetened with plenty of humor and good nature.

Granted it is hard to assemble these ingredients. It takes almost superhuman fortitude, for instance to force yourself to get along with other people instead of expecting them to get along with you. This is especially true as between husbands and wives. John and Mary quarrel and antagonize each other because John expects Mary to do the adapting and Mary thinks John should do it all. They could live together like turtledoves if only they would make an effort to get the other's point of view. Great is the reward of those who defer to the ways and tastes and habits of others.

Tact is a commodity that is almost as rare as black pearls. Yet it is a magic that enables us to get along with even the cantankerous. All we have to do is to gunshoe around their little peculiarities instead of bumping into them. All we have to do is to use a little finesse in dealing with them and, lo, they are eating out of our hands.

And, finally, if you want to get along with people, try to get a bright, rosy point of view on them instead of a dark, pessimistic one. Look for their virtues instead of their faults. As we think, so are our husbands and wives, our families, our friends, our neighbors.

A few compliments, a little appreciation, a kindness in time of trouble, a little jollying will keep you out of the divorce court, turn an enemy into a friend and get you a booster. But thinking hard thoughts of those about you and magnifying their defects will bring you nothing but grouchiness and darken your days with hatred. So cultivate the art of getting along with people. It is worth while.

GOODNIGHT STORY

By MAX TRELL

When Knarf and Hanid reached the house of their good Chinese friend Ting-a-Ling they found him looking happy.

"I've got a new pet," he told them.

"Oh, a little kitten?" said Hanid.

Ting-a-Ling shook his head. "Guess again," he said, with a smile.

"A puppy," said Knarf.

He shook his head again. "You have one more guess, but I don't think it will do you any good. It's not an ordinary every-day-in-the-week pet. I'm quite sure no one in the whole world has one like Boo-Hoo."

"Boo-Hoo!" the shadows exclaimed. "Is that its name?"

"It never gets enough to eat."

"I Call It That."

"I'm not positive that its name is Boo-Hoo. But its the name I've given it. Well, do you give up?"

Hanid wanted to give up, but Knarf said: "No—I'm going to try to guess what it is. Is it a small pet?"

"No, it's very big. It's tremendous. It stretches all over the garden."

"My goodness! It can't be an elephant. Elephants aren't that big."

"It's not an elephant. It's not a giraffe or a hippopotomus either. It's not an animal anyone has ever seen in a zoo. But lots of people have heard about it and everyone has read about it. It's in a great many story-books."

Knarf was really puzzled. Just then they heard a roar. It came from the garden. It sounded like: "Boo-hoo!....boo-hoo!"

"It's crying," Ting-a-Ling said. "It's always crying. That's because it's always hungry. It never gets enough to eat."

So Ting-a-Ling ran off to the kitchen and got some crackers and a saucer of milk and hurried out into the garden. The two shadows followed right behind him.

And what kind of a pet do you suppose Boo-Hoo was?

A dragon! A real Chinese dragon!

It had a green and yellow head, and a huge tail that wound up and down the garden paths, and around the trunks of the cherry trees, and finally disappeared over the garden wall.

"I was out walking in the woods the other day and it followed me home," Ting-a-Ling explained as he gave Boo-Hoo its crackers and milk. "Isn't it a lovely pet to have around the house?"

Now what do you think?

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, January 28.

Mixed influences hold sway on this day, inciting conflict and bafflement. There are indications of a definite and calamitous downfall, with disfavor in the eyes of superiors, employers or those in power, while at the same time there is presage of a sudden and surprising rise to prestige and good fortune, through an unlooked-for stroke of luck. Much is at stake, but sound judgment, right principles and the friendly intervention of influential persons are likely to turn the tide favorably.

Those whose birthday it is are on the threshold of a year in which there may be many conflicting forces at work, detrimental ones assaulting the stability of work, fortune, and social position. At the same time there is presage of the intervention of powerful interests, suddenly and quite unpredictable, turning the tides of favor and fortune by a surprising coup, and this should be captured by wisdom, integrity and sagacity rather than intrigue or collusion.

Kelly—Lloyd

Daffodils, narcissus and tulips were used to deck St. Paul's Church, Norwood, for the wedding on Saturday morning at 9 o'clock, January 21, of Miss Doris Marie Lloyd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lloyd, Stoney Lake, who was united in marriage to John Joseph Kelly, son of Mrs. Kelly and the late Hugh Kelly of Norwood. Father C. J. Carroll officiated during the ceremony. Wedding music was played by Mrs. Charles Coughlin, and Mrs. Douglas Brennan of Havelock was soloist.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, and wore a lovely model of blue silk velvet, black accessories, and a corsage of roses, ferns and narcissus. She was attended by Miss Irene Hogan of Peterborough, wearing a frock of midnight blue silk velvet with matching hat, and corsage of pink carnations and narcissus. Mr. Barnard Kelly attended his brother.

Immediately after the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the groom's mother in Norwood. Mrs. Kelly received in a black ensemble with flower corsage.

For travelling the bride chose a black coat with lamb trim, and black accessories. After a motor trip to Hamilton, Toronto, and other points, Mr. and Mrs. Kelly will live in Norwood.

Friends at Selwyn Honor Organist

(Examiner Correspondence.)

SELWYN, Jan. 27. — On Monday evening last about fifty of the congregation of Selwyn United Church paid a surprise visit to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hughes. Mrs. Hughes has acted as organist in the church for the past number of years, but no longer is able to hold the position, and in appreciation of her splendid work her many friends of the church presented her with a beautiful mantel clock. A short address read by Miss Edna Elliott, conveyed the regret that the people feel in losing such an efficient organist and also the heartfelt thanks for her services, and although she can not be entirely responsible for the organ every Sunday, she will act as assistant organist to Mrs. Gilbert McIlmoyl, who is taking her place.

The presentation was made by Melville Crapp. Although overcome with happiness and surprise, Mrs. Hughes graciously thanked one and all for their kindness.

The ladies then served delicious refreshments, after which a social time was spent in community singing.

North School

Messrs. Russell and Garfield Buchanan entertained a number of young people at a skating party at their place Friday evening. After a few hours of skating, they played games and cards and at midnight a dainty lunch was served by Mrs. Buchanan.

A car driven by Mr. Earl Vanvolkenburg left the road Thursday night on the highway, just east of Mr. George Hubble's. Mr. Vanvolkenburg with several hockey players from Trent River were returning from a match at Hastings when he lost control of his car and turned over in the ditch. The occupants of the car received a severe shaking up, but fortunately no one was seriously hurt.

Mr. and Mrs. Wellington Green of Campbellford were recent visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Ellis.

Miss Emma McLaughlin, nurse-in-training at the St. Joseph's Hospital, Peterborough, spent Sunday at her home here.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Duncan and Mrs. E. Sykes of Campbellford were Sunday visitors with Mr. and Mrs. William Cross and family.

J. Lytle has gone to North Bay where he is working with a construction company.

William Cross and son, Jack, are back on their wood lot, north of Havelock, where they are getting out posts and pulp.

Vegetarian Items

There seems to be a premium on main items for vegetable plates. Cheese rice rolls are a welcome discovery and are adaptable to some nice variations.

Cheese Rice Rolls

One cup grated cheese, 2 cups cooked rice, 1 egg, 1 teaspoon salt, dash of cayenne, 1 tablespoon milk or water, ¼ cup buttered crumbs. Mix first 6 ingredients, using just enough liquid to moisten. Shape, roll in buttered crumbs. (Individual rolls may be made if desired.) Bake on buttered pan at 375 deg. Fahr. for about 20 minutes. This is best served with Tomator Sauce. It may be baked in a casserole when more milk is needed.

To vary it add ½ cup chopped nuts, walnuts, peanuts or almonds.

Just because cheese balls are usually considered the private property of epicure's to eat with their pear or pineapple salad is no reason why we middling folk can't have them on our vegetable plates.

One cup bread crumbs, ¾ cup grated cheese, ¼ cup butter, ½ teaspoon cayenne, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 eggs well beaten. Put all but eggs into bowl and work them well together. This takes about 5 minutes. Add the beaten eggs and mix well. Make into balls the size of walnuts and fry in deep fat to a delicate brown, about 1½ to 2 minutes.

CANARIES WARN

LIVERPOOL, England — (CP). — Collapse of his two canaries warned Peter Westhead that gas was escaping and enabled him to rescue five of his family who were almost overcome.

IF YOU FEEL SUNK
Read this and cheer up

Are you so blue that life is no longer worth living? Do you cry easily? Do you feel low, mean, depressed—just absolutely SUNK?

Then here's good news for you in case you need a good general system tonic—Just take famous Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Let its wholesome herbs and roots help Nature build up more physical resistance and tone up your system, so that it can more easily throw off the "blues" and give more energy to enjoy life.

MILLIONS of women have depended upon this Compound and have passed the word along to friends and neighbors, and to their children.

Why not take Pinkham's Compound and go "smiling thru"?

Mrs. Widdifield Speaks To Liberal Women

Mrs C. R. Widdifield of Stratford, president of the Ontario Women's Liberal Association, in speaking Thursday to the Toronto Association in the King Edward Hotel, stressed the point that all women have a definite responsibility for the welfare of the country, but that only those qualified to do so should attempt the political arena, and that women should stand more solidly behind those of their sex whom they may choose to represent.

"The time has come when we must stop passing resolutions and writing letters and turn to study of national problems of finance, industry and economics, and the laws by which we are governed," she declared.

Women can, if they choose, be the warm, living public opinion that will vitalize the statues, Mrs. Widdifield said. Women should be on all boards relating to women and children, and if a woman wishes to serve in the political arena "she should first serve her apprenticeship on boards and municipal bodies, and in other ways prove her worth," said the speaker, who saw a healthy sign in the number of women elected as aldermen, etc., in recent municipal elections across the province.

In Canada, while the list of those successful is small, they have proved themselves worthy, she said, recalling some of these, including the two women senators, Hon. Cairine Wilson and Hon. Iva Fallis, the two Federal members, Miss Agnes Macphail and Mrs. George Black. Neither is Canada without its "first" women, she reminded, recalling Miss Helen Kinnear was "first woman King's counsel in the British Empire," an honor she now shares with Miss Margaret Hyndman.

Mrs. A. C. Macnaughton presided at the meeting, and a vote of thanks to Mrs. Widdifield was moved by Mrs. James Dow.

When you are building or remodelling a house, you should provide generously for future electrical needs? It is inexpensive to instal outlets at this time, but costly later. Furniture will be moved from time to time and new inventions will call for more outlets. Several should be provided in each room to take care of the lamps, refrigerator, sewing machine, curling iron, razor, electric pad, heater, ironer, washing machine, toaster, coffee, percolator, Christmas lights, the radio, the waffle iron and other conveniences. The up-to-date house is wire-bound.

BLACK MAGIC GLAMOR

By ALICE ALDEN

For sirenish appeal, nothing can beat a black velvet hat, especially when it casts becoming and mysterious shadows over the face. Joan Crawford knows this and so the model depicted is one of her pets. It features a high crown and wide brim. For an added touch of glamor it is worn over instead of under a veil misting her forehead. Schiaparelli started the vogue with her "mask" hats, introduced to accompany her harlequin costumes, particularly the "patched" cocktail tailleur.

in effect in these cities.

Particular to Telephone.

Earlier this year the Minister of Transport, Hon. C. D. Howe, speaking in the House of Commons made reference to this basis. "It is the only business I know of," he said, "where it does not follow that profits are greater with an increasing amount of business at each centre." In further explanation of this principle which is peculiar to telephone service, the Examiner found that it was due in part to the necessity of connecting, as required, every telephone with every other telephone in an exchange. This is a comparatively simple matter when there are only a few telephones, but it requires highly complex equipment and operating arrangements where the number of telephones runs into the thousands. In a small exchange of only 50 telephones, for example, there can be only 1,225 connections, but in an exchange of 5,000 telephones the number of possible connections grows to over 12,000,000, and every one of them has to be provided for. Moreover, when a subscriber can call 5,000 others instead of 50 he will naturally make more calls so that the company not only has to provide equipment to make possible the greater number of connections, it has also to actually handle more calls, more demand for connections.

"This makes clear," Mr. Shaver told the Examiner, "what is meant by the term 'value of service' which plays such an important part in the fixing of rates. The greater number of telephones to call, or to receive calls from, in the larger place makes every telephone more useful to our subscribers and it also increases the cost to us. That is why the 'value of service,' as indicated by the number of telephones in an exchange, was adopted as the basis for our whole schedule of rates which makes higher charges applicable in the larger places and lower charges in the little exchanges. It accounts for the additional investment of $500,000 which we are making in Peterborough to serve its growing telephone needs and it also accounts for the higher rates which will apply."

"In 1927, when the present rates were adopted," Mr. Shaver concluded, "there were under 5,000 telephones (making possible over 12,000,000 connections). Now there are about 6,000 telephone, making possible 18,000,000 connections. The number of calls handled daily at the exchange has increased by 5,000 in the same period. Subscribers are actually getting that much more service than they used to. My statement that it costs much more to provide the service has tangible proof in the new half-million dollar plant now under construction. We have every confidence in the fairness of Peterborough subscribers and in their willingness to appreciate these facts when the new rates go into effect."

month. It was suggested that the police committee should meet with both members of the force to arrange a definite schedule of hours so that the town would be policed at all times.

Reviewing the arrears of taxes, Councillor McColl advised the council he had gone over the list of arrears with the town treasurer and recommended that a tax sale should be held in 1939. He suggested that the moral effect of the pending sale would "bring in" about $1,800.00, while the actual sale of property itself should net the town another $2,000.00 A motion was placed authorizing that the sale be held.

During the discussion of the estimates chairman of the town property committee, James L. Dorie asked the appropriation for this department be raised from $200.00 in 1938 to $1,500.00. The councillor requested that this amount be tabled in order that the task of renovating the building owned by the town and now occupied by the Legion, could be commenced this year. He felt that the building should be used to house all town offices and that this would result in a vast saving in rent. Mr. Dorie was reminded by the Mayor of the standing offer made by the Water and Light Commission to purchase from the town the offices and land now occupied by them for the sum of $3,000.00. It was suggested that the councillors request should therefor be held in abeyance in order that the two proposals might be considered together.

Mayor Long urged that some appropriation should be made to provide for the holding of an old home week and at the suggestion of Councillor McColl an additional $500.00 was placed on the estimates. It was expected that the council would be prepared to arrive at their tax rate at the regular meeting in February.

ciency of the fire department had to be considered. "If you had been in the council as long as I have you would know how often we have put off buying a new piece of apparatus."

Alderman Stocker amplified the comment on past restrictions by saying, "I guess I have struck out that $7,000 for a bungalow substation seventeen times," but he said it was time a serious effort was made to buy the new pumper if it could be done this year.

Alderman Dutton suggested that the council's sub-committee appointed to bring in a report on new equipment proposed for the various departments this year should immediately obtain a price on the old apparatus that could be turned in, together with other information relating to the cost of a new pumper.

Alderman McCannan's contention was to the effect that the firemen have been doing good work with the equipment they have. "It seems to me a fire has got to get a good start before it becomes serious the way the department has been working, and besides we have the 2,000-gallon pumper giving good service."

Chief Gimblett asked for 1,000 feet of new hose. He has on hand 8,250 feet, but last year he had to discard 1,700 feet that had become outworn largely through its use by the Board of Works.

The deluge set he asked for comprises a 2½-inch nozzle with three streams flowing into it, instead of the ordinary 1⅛-inch nozzle on one 2½-inch hose. Its purpose is to be able to turn a heavy stream of water on a fire that should be fought with that volume. Chief Gimblett said that if the committee was in favor of buying this piece of equipment it could be first demonstrated here, and the members of the council would be able to appreciate its capabilities. He also said that the big pumper was bought in 1927 at a cost of $15,450, and during the intervening years it had naturally depreciated to a considerable extent.

The complete estimates as recommended last night were as follows:

Protest Changing Lord's Day Act

BAILIEBORO, Jan. 27.—The Woman's Association held its monthly meeting Thursday afternoon in the church, with the new president, Mrs. W. C. Jewison in the chair.

The meeting was then thrown open for suggestions, to replenish the treasury. Several projects were discussed and left over until later. A motion was carried to the purchasing of a new Bible for the pulpit, the president and Mrs. Fletcher being a committee to look after same, the same ladies to buy a cook stove for the hall. A resolution was passed protesting any change in the Lord's Day Act and it will be sent to Attorney General Conant.

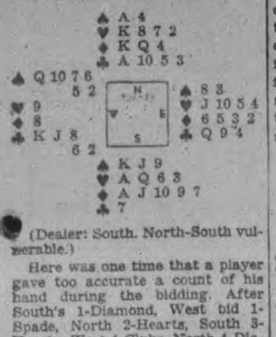
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER
By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

TAKE A DEEP FINESSE

FINESSES OF CARDS as low as sixes and eights are not necessarily fancy plays based on plenty of cheek or gall. In some situations they are marked as certain to succeed, through careful card-reading based on the bids and plays already made. Such finesses are nothing like as hazardous as an ordinary finesse of a queen from ace-queen when there is no indication regarding the location of the king.



(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

Here was one time that a player gave too accurate a count of his hand during the bidding. After South's 1-Diamond, West bid 1-Spade, North 2-Hearts, South 3-Hearts, West 4-Clubs, North 4-Diamonds and South now invited slam with the Blackwood convention bid of 4-No trump, asking his partner about aces. West cut in with 5-Clubs, but North managed to show his two aces with 5-Hearts, since 5-Diamonds would have shown one and a pass would have shown none.

South next bid 5-No trump to ask about kings. West interrupted this with 6-Spades, whereupon North revealed two kings with 7-Clubs as 6-No trump would have shown one and a pass none. South then chose 7-No trump as the contract.

The spade 6 lead was won by the 9. South then ran five diamonds and led to the heart K. West's bidding had indicated six spades and five clubs, and he had shown two singletons. East therefore held all the other hearts. So the heart 6 was finessed successfully when East failed to cover, and the contract was made, with four tricks in hearts, three in spades, five in diamonds and one in clubs.

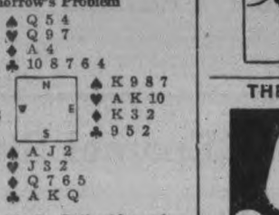
Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer: North. Both sides vulnerable.)

With the heart 4 led against South's 3-No trump contract, East winning with the K, what card should he lead to the second trick?

W. Sage Denies Story Told By The Police

Evidence of defence witnesses took up the whole Thursday afternoon session of police court in the trial of Joseph Johnston of Harvey township, charged with the theft of 100 pounds of flour and a carton of matches from the Dominion store.

When court re-opened after the noon interval W. J. Arthur Fair called William Sage to the witness box and he denied having told the Chief Constable or Sergeant Wigg on the night of the theft that he had heard some men planning a robbery and that he and Wilfrid Haslett had gone to the fish and chip shop to keep from getting involved. Sage said that he knew nothing about the flour, matches or sugar and stated that he had not seen Johnston put any of the stuff in the car.

Wilfrid Haslett, who said he was a son-in-law of Johnston's corroborated Sage's story of going over to the fish and chip store and of returning to the car on the market square before the police arrived on the scene. He testified that he had not bought the matches, sugar or flour and had not put them in the car nor had he at any time seen Johnston with those articles. He also swore that he did not see Chief Constable Newhall pass while witness and the others were standing near the car and that he did not see Johnston at all after he was taken to the police station.

Accompanied Accused

D. Pillen told of accompanying other members of the party to the market square after having had a few drinks in a beverage room and said that he had accompanied Johnston and Bocock into the Dominion Store while accused made some purchases there. On coming out of the rear entrance of the store, he said that Johnston put the groceries he bought into the car and then witness went with him to Mason's store where Johnston bought some other articles and they too were put in the car. The party stood there near the car talking for about five minutes when the police came along and then witness saw Officer Menzies pull a carton of matches out of the automobile.

Pillen said that he did not know how the matches, bags of sugar and the bag of flour got into the car. Asked about Chief Newhall the witness swore that while he and the rest were standing near the car he did not see the Chief crossing the market square.

Joseph Johnston, the accused, corroborated Pillen's evidence as to the purchases he had made in the Dominion Store and in Mason's, and as to putting those articles into the car. Incidentally it was disclosed for the first time in the accused's evidence that the automobile was not his, as had been taken for granted from the beginning but was the property of his son. Johnston testified that after he had bought his groceries and put them into the automobile he had stood five or ten feet away from it talking to the others for some five minutes when the police came along.

Did Not See Them

He swore that the first time he had seen any of the exhibits, that is the sugar, flour and matches was after the arrival of the officers when he saw Constable Menzies pull the carton of matches out.

"Did you buy any of these things?" asked Mr. Fair, pointing to the exhibits.

"I did not."

"Did you steal any of them?"

"I certainly did not."

Johnston testified that he had not seen Bolton after the latter had started to follow them across the market square until he saw him in car after the police arrived. He had heard Sage tell Bolton to get into car.

As for Chief Newhall he swore that he did not see that officer pass by when accused and the rest were standing near the automobile. He said that after he was taken to the station he was searched and locked up almost at once and was only a short time in the guard room.

Johnston was closely cross-examined by Crown Attorney McElderry as to whether or not he had seen the flour, sugar and matches in the car on the two occasions when he had put the groceries he said he bought from the Dominion store into the machine. He declared that he had not.

"Then if they were not there then, they must have been put there during the next five minutes when you say you and the others were standing close to the car," said the Crown Attorney. "Is that what you are asking the court to believe?"

Mr. Fair objected to the question.

"The case is taking a turn that my learned friend does not like," observed Mr. McElderry who went on to press Johnston as to the latter's opinion as to whether anyone could put two bags of sugar, a bag of flour and a carton of matches into the car while he and the other stood five or ten feet away from it without being seen.

Witness said that if the stuff were put in on the other side of the car it might not of been seen.

Magistrate's Inquiry.

"You mean that it might be possible but not very probable," commented Magistrate Langley.

Witness said he had seen Bolton in the car when he put his groceries in but did not see any of the stolen articles.

Johnston's evidence concluded the defence's case and Constable Archie Menzies was called in rebuttal. He swore that when he went over to the car on the market square in answer to a complaint from the Dominion Store he had seen the exhibits piled up in the back of the automobile before he opened the door. They were quite visible from outside.

To Mr. Fair he said that one of the bags of sugar was on the back seat and the other bag of sugar, the bag of flour and the carton of matches on the floor while Bolton was sprawled over the bags.

Arguments of counsel was deferred until this morning.

GROWING DEAF WITH HEAD NOISES? TRY THIS

If you are growing hard of hearing and fear Catarrhal Deafness or if you have roaring, rumbling, hissing noises in your ears go to your druggist and get 1 ounce Parmint (double strength), and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who is threatened with Catarrhal Deafness or who has head noises should give this prescription a trial.—(Advt.)

Belmont Family Is Burned Out

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, Jan. 27.—A Belmont family are homeless today as a result of a fire Wednesday morning, in sub-zero weather, which completely destroyed the home and nearly all the household effects of Robert Newell, farmer at South Lake settlement, some twenty miles north of here. Newell, his wife and small baby were taken in by a neighboring family.

The fire which occurred about 6 a.m. o'clock evidently was caused by overheated pipes. Newell had been absent from the house, doing his usual morning chores at the barn only a short time when his wife was aroused by the smoke, and grabbing the child rushed from the burning building.

While her husband tried in vain to fight the blaze Mrs. Newell, still in night atire, ran to the home of their nearest neighbor for assistance The fire however had gained too much headway and in a short while the frame building was reduced to a heap of embers.

This is the second bad fire in the township during the past week, the first at Cordova however with a tragic loss of life.

"IT WAS THE ONLY THING THAT HELPED ME," SAYS LONDON LADY

Was Worried About Her Health As Rheumatic Condition Followed Stomach Misery. Could Hardly Get Up and Down Stairs.

Also Praises Syntona For First Relief From Itching, Burning Eczema As General Health Improved.

Almost every day you can read in the papers about how local folks have been relieved of ailments of the stomach, liver, kidneys, and bowels, and the long train of distressing symptoms of faulty assimilation and elimination, by taking a treatment of Syntona Herbal Tonic. Here, for example, is the interesting experience of Mrs. Jean Compton:

"I was feeling rundown and miserable in so many ways that I was greatly worried about my health. My stomach started to give me trouble some years ago and then pains set into my limbs and back and my joints got so stiff and sore I could hardly get up and down stairs. My skin would itch and burn with eczema and it became very discouraging trying one remedy after another with little or no result.

"I don't know why I started taking Syntona when I did, because I was disappointed so many times, but I guess it was because I had read in the paper about how it had helped so many people right here in London whom I knew. Anyhow, I am surely glad I took Syntona, for it just seemed to go to the very root of my troubles. Now I have no trouble at all with stomach gas or indigestion. The rheumatic pains have left me and that terrible skin trouble has all cleared up. It has been such a wonderful relief to me that I feel I cannot praise Syntona highly enough."

MRS. JEAN COMPTON.

Come to Elliott's Drug Store, Peterborough, to-day and get yourself a treatment of this pure herbal compound. See how much better you, too, will be feeling in just a short time. It costs only a few cents a day to take Syntona.

Fascist Urges Colony Cry By Nazis

Grand Council Leader Hints It's Time Hitler Took Action

BERLIN, Jan. 28 — (AP). — An Italian Fascist Grand Council member's address linking German and Italian territorial demands was interpreted to-day as Premier Mussolini's signal to Chancellor Hitler to outline concrete Nazi colonial ambitions before the German Reichstag on Monday.

Roberto Farinacci, speaking in Munich last night, said: "International Jewry is preparing for a counter-attack," warned that Italy and Germany are "willing to take up the gauntlet for we are united and strong," and envisaged realization of German colonial aspirations as a consequence of the peace of Munich.

He lauded Mussolini as having prevented war because "he supported inalienable rights of Germany, Poland, and Hungary" (who were given parts of Czecho-slovakia by the Munich conference of September 29 and the Vienna conference of November 2).

Farinaci ridiculed assertions that former German colonies had no economic value and said the powers holding post-war mandates over them "were so saturated that they did not trouble to exploit the natural resources of their mandates."

A Sore Spot.

He maintained that Tunisia (French North African protectorate) menaced Italy and that "Djibouti under French rule is to Italy what Hamburg under foreign rule would be to Germany."

(Djibuti is the Gulf of Aden terminus of the railroad to Italian Ethiopia. Hamburg is a North German port.)

Propaganda Minister Paul Goebbels told Germans, meanwhile, to toast a "Germany arisen again" on Monday when the Nazis celebrate the sixth anniversary of their rise to power.

"This land, once plagued and lying humbled, has risen again to world power," he wrote in Hitler's mouthpiece, the newspaper Voelkischer Boebachter. "Germany in these six years has changed its face completely. It can hardly be recognized."

Another aspect of the international situation, which informed persons believed might influence Hitler's speech on Monday night, was the belief in responsible quarters that Poland has decline dto edtMRlall.. wagon to the Nazi star. This was said to be the main result of talks of Polish Foreign Minister Joseph Beck with Hitler at Berchtesgaden on January 5 and of German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop during a visit to Warsaw which ended yesterday.

U.S. Wants Peace Has Reservations

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.— (AP) — Peace—but with reservations—is the primary objective of the United States foreign policy, Sumner Welles Undersecretary of State, told the New York State Bar Association last night.

He identified these reservations as the "right to protest or, if need be, challenge the foreign policy of any other nation" threatening the security of the United States or violating its treaty rights and to condemn any country engaged in "cruel and inhuman treatment of human beings."

His speech summarized the United States' official position at this "gravely serious" and "disquieting moment in our civilization."

Holding that the "cardinal element in the policy of the United States should be to retain at all times complete liberty of action," Welles added that these "traditional tenets," however, "have never involved the right on the part of this government to condemn or to assail the form of government which other peoples may live."

The under-secretary urged that Congress, in considering amendments to the present neutraility law, observe President Roosevelt's recent warnings as to the dangers of existing legislation.

"Our existing neutraility legislation, which modified in certain particulars our traditional neutraility policy was enacted with the intention of minimizing the risk of the United States being involved in difficulties which would tend to draw our country into controversies not of its own making," he said.

Newest Dictator

With the Spanish loyalist capital of Barcelona captured by insurgent forces, it becomes increasingly apparent that Insurgent Generalissimo Franco is on the threshold of becoming Europe's newest dictator. Whether or not General Franco shown BELOW with his wife and daughter, will bring back the monarchy to stricken Spain is a matter of speculation.

Barcelona Food Lines Ruled By The Bayonet

BARCELONA, Jan. 28—(AP).—Insurgent troops sought to complete quickly their conquest of all Catalonia today by pushing beyond Mataro, north of Barcelona, as long lines of half-starved people besieged relief centres here.

Rings of soldiers armed with bayonets were necessary to keep order in breadlines so large and insistent that they threatened to storm the food supply centres.

Insurgent General Franco is attempting to push the civil war to an early conclusion while caring for the needy, and then begin the task of reconstruction.

Throughout the night a thousand truckloads of food from all parts of insurgent Spain entered this conquered city in an effort to end a pressing food shortage. They carried capacity loads of bread, milk, canned meat and other provisions.

Insurgents said they hoped the breadlines would disappear within a week. Many people were said to have lived for months on only lentils, water and a little bread.

18,000 Troops Keep Order

The job of maintaining order was turned over to a special corps of 18,000 armed men. A newly-formed municipal council was ordered to clean up Barcelona streets, littered with debris and tons of paper during the welcome to Franco's soldiers when they entered this former government capital without a struggle Thursday.

Some women knelt in prayer on the sidewalks after getting their rations. There were increasingly long lines of hungry persons who asked passing foreigners for bread.

Tens of thousands packed Barcelona's main thoroughfares last night to hear scores of speeches. The demonstrations seemed to increase near midnight, with thousands bringing newly-acquired food supplies to stay for hours and cheer Franco.

Insurgents estimated nearly 2,000,000 persons, or at least 500,000 more than Barcelona's narmal population, had been in want for months.

No Breakfast Shots

HALIFAX, Jan. 28—(CP).—Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett doesn't want photographers to make pictures of him eating breakfast. He made that clear to cameramen who boarded the liner Montclare today as she stopped over in Halifax before proceeding to England where the former Canadian prime minister will make his home.

Last Minute News Flashes

LONDON.—Defeated in its second straight English football league game, Derby County today had its leadership margin cut to one point over Everton. The County bowed 3-0 at Stoke and Everton brought its point-total to 24 with a 3-2 victory over Huddersfield Town.

Spending Seasonal Earnings Upon Luxuries To End Relief Hopes, Oshawa Warns

OSHAWA, Ont., Jan. 28 (CP)—Persons who received relief in 1938 have been warned by letter they will be ineligible for assistance in 1939 if they spend seasonal earnings on luxuries, Chairman A. W. S. Greer of the Oshawa Welfare Board said last night.

The letters were distributed, Mr. Greer said, as a part of the board's tightening-up of relief application in the city. He explained administration of direct aid was difficult in Oshawa because the automobile factories depended largely on seasonal labor.

Relief costs here last year reached an all-time high.

Staid Jewellers To Hear Quiet Chamberlain While Hitler Roars At Heiling Deputies

LONDON, Jan. 28 (AP)—The settings in which Prime Minister Chamberlain and Chancellor Hitler will make vital speeches this week-end are as much in contrast as the political creeds the two men represent.

The "business man" prime minister returns to his home city of Birmingham to address a dinner of jewelers attended by staid business men and their wives.

The German leader, in uniform, will shout into amplifiers before hundreds of his heiling deputies, also in uniform, when he addresses the Reichstag.

Port Hope Put In Arctic Circle By Commentator In Newsreel

Port Hope the cosy little lakeshore town, 28 miles south of Peterborough has been moved lock stock and barrel along with its 4,378 inhabitants up to the Arctic Circle, but the residents of the town did not know it until this week when they sat in the theatre listening to Lowell Thomas, describe the radium industry in a newsreel.

Commenting upon Port Hope he said it was away up in the "wilderness of the Arctic on the shores of Great Bear Lake". This statement has led many Port Hopers to write letters telling the ace news commentator Port Hope was "way down in South Ontario onthe shores of Lake Ontario, where the breezes are balmy and there are no polar bears".

The trouble is that the Eldorado Mine which produces the pitchblende ore is located 3000 miles north west of Port Hope on the shore of Great Bear Lake, but the refining of the product is done in the town of Port Hope.

The error certainly aroused the dander of the Port Hopers and it is certain Mr. Thomas will receive some choice letters for his scrap book from the indignant citizens.

It Must Be There.

The film was showing some of the processes in refining radium at the Port Hope plant of the company. Part of the audience tittered and a very few just sat and said to themselves, "Well if a smart newscaster like Lowell Thomas says Port Hope is within the Arctic circle it must be there so we'll buy another set of heavy underwear".

Mr. Thomas when queried over the telephone by a Toronto newspaper and told of the error is reported by the Toronto paper as saying, "Oh well, as long as they turn out millions of dollars worth of radium every year, what do they need to worry about whether they are at the North Pole or the South Pole.

War Paint Is On

But as it happens the Port Hopers have the war paint on.

J. A. Reynolds, secretary of the Port Hope Board of Trade said so last night.

"Hmmm, that's bad" said he, "That's not good publicity. It would be unfavorable for people to think Port Hope is way up in the Arctic. We will undoubtedly have to take some action toward having this impression corrected. This will have to be discussed immediately.

Mr. Thomas has promised Mr. Reynolds that the mistake will be corrected, and the little town will, we hope, be moved back to its original position at the foot of highway 28. They breed good hockey players down there and we could hardly travel 3,000 miles for a game with the Peterborough juniors, which would be necessary if the schedule is to be completed this Winter.

Judge Levies Fire By Telegraph —Awaits Cheque

Fairmont, Minn., Jan. 28 (AP) FORGOTTEN CATS have been fed and sweethearts soothed with flowers via telegraph but now its a traffic law violator—300 miles away—fined by wire. Charged with exceeding speed limits here, George Syverson, travelling salesman, telegraphed Justice H. M. Serle from Belleville, Kas., he would be unable to appear in court today and asked what the fine would be. Justice Serle wired (collect) the fine would be $15 and costs—a total of $18.50. The justice is awaiting a cheque.

Toboggan Hits Fence; Three Lads Injured

BRANTFORD, Ont., Jan. 28. — (CP).— Victim of a tobogganing mishap yesterday at the Brantford Golf and Country Club, John Watson, Brantford, was taken to the Brantford General Hospital with serious injuries.

Bud Hawkins was taken to hospital also with less serious injuries. Gordon Darby escaped with minor bruises.

The three youths, all about 17 years of age, were tobogganing on No. 10 Fairway.

Apparently unaware that there was a barbed wire fence across the fairway, they coasted down the hill and crashed into the fence.

Bud Hawkins, riding in front, "ducked" as soon as he saw the wire. He suffered face lacerations.

John Watson, behind him, had no chance to dodge the wire, and suffered the full force of the impact. He suffered a broken jawbone and was seriously cut around the throat and face.

Gordon Darby, riding third on the toboggan, had his head painfully bruised.

Famed Strategist Chatfield Given Defence Post In British Cabinet Struggle

Inskip And Agriculture Minister Shifted; Chamberlain To Warn Dictators As Hitler Expected To Shout For Colonies

LONDON, Jan. 28 (CP Cable).—Prime Minister Chamberlain today added to his Cabinet Great Britain's foremost naval strategist and one of the leaders of the country's agricultural industry.

In a general reshuffle of portfolios, Admiral of the Fleet Lord Chatfield, the man responsible for the present acknowledged efficiency of the Royal Navy, is made Minister for the co-ordination of defence, succeeding Sir Thomas Inskip.

Sir Reginald Dorman-Smith, former president of the National Farmers' Union, is appointed Minister of Agriculture, replacing W. S. Morrison.

A Stiffer Stand?

To-night Prime Minister Chamberlain in what may be his most important speech since the Munich settlement of last September, is expected to take a stiffer stand toward the land-demanding dictatorships but also to appeal once again for peace by negotiation.

Returning to his home town of Birmingham, the elderly Prime Minister will have an opportunity to "appeal to reason" in the rapidly deteriorating European situation before Chancellor Hitler addresses the Reichstag in Berlin Monday night.

It will be Mr. Chamberlain's first opportunity for a public statement on the apparent threat to the democracies by insurgent triumphs in Spain and the bitter Franco-Italian situation. But he may decide to reserve full comment for Tuesday when the House of Commons, reassembling after the year-end recess, plunges into debate on the Spanish and other foreign issues.

Mr. Chamberlain speaks about 9.30 p.m. (4.30 p.m., E.S.T.). His remarks will be broadcast.

Sir Thomas Inskip, who had been the target of unrelenting criticism in the key defence post, becomes secretary of state leaving Malcolm Macdonald, who now will devote his whole energy to Palestine and the other problems of the colonial office.

Morrison Is Shifted

Making way for Sir Reginal Dorman-Smith, Mr. Morrison will continue in the cabinet as chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, a sinecure post. He will assist Lord Chatfield in defence co-ordination and will answer for the admiral in the House of Commons.

Earl Winterton is dropped from the cabinet as Chancellor of the Duchess of Lancaster but will continue in the government as paymaster general, the most junior

Refugees Swamp French Border Guards

LE PERTHUS, France, Jan. 28 (AP) — Between 4,000 and 5,000 French troops were rushed to the Spanish border today as a tragic horde of refugees from governmental Catalonia poured into France.

The refugees, fleeing the Insurgent armies who rapidly drove northward from Barcelona, started crossing the border at 8 a.m. and within an hour 5,000 had jammed across the line, swamping French guards.

Raoul Didkowski, prefect of the border department, told nigher officials he was unable to carry out their orders to let only women, children and old men in unless troops were ordered to use their guns, if necessary, to keep out younger men.

Of the first 5,000 who came through Le Perthus pass when the refugee flood gates were opened only a few hundred, however, were men of fighting age.

Several hundred Senegalese troops of the 24th regiment in Perpignan were the first to reach Le Perthus. The prefect who came to take personal command of the frontier post sent these troops to keep order in the mile-long classification and vaccination.

French officers said about five battalions of other troops were dispatched to Cerbere, Le Perthus and Bourg-Madame, three gateways through the Pyrenees mountains.

All Send to Camps

The first train filled with refugees left within half an hour after the frontier was opened. All the refugees were routed to concentration camps outside the border departments.

They poured in both by land and sea. Scores of fishing boats, including several armed government trawlers, came into Port Vendres after dawn this morning. Aboard them was a mixture of refugees and deserters from Catalonian ports. Some left these ports before Barcelona fell, but arrived in France only this morning.

At Bourg-Madame, western gateway for Catalonia, the main worry was that several thousand troops in the Spanish government army at Seo De Urgel might come through Puigcerda and demand access to France. These troops have been almost cut off from their comrades for several days.

Killed Their Child?

ITHACA, N.Y., Jan. 28.—(CP). — Mr. and Mrs. James Kearny of the town of Danby were held in the Tompkins county jail to-day, charged with second degree manslaughter in the death of their five-year-old daughter, Martha.

Coroner W. L. Seil said the child died last Wednesday night from exposure suffered when she spent several hours scantily clad in a barn during near zero weather. There was a 2-inch brand mark on the girl's chest and many bruises on her body, he declared.

Stop At Brantford

BRANTFORD, Ont., Jan. 28 — (CP).—The royal train, bearing King George and Queen Elizabeth, will stop at the railway station here on June 7 for a period of 15 minutes, was the definite statement made by W. Ross Macdonald, K.C., M.P., for Brantford, on his return from Ottawa today.

An official from Ottawa will visit this city in connection with local arrangements sometime before the royal visit.

Want More Arms

Australia has thrown her hat into the rearmament race and A. M. Hughes, Australia's minister for foreign affairs, was in fine voice when he addressed a recruiting meeting in Sydney. Under the remarmament scheme the Anzacs plan to increase all branches of their armed forces.

Wedding Tangle Gets Bennett Some Confetti

HALIFAX, Jan. 28—(CP).—Preparations were completed here today in this city where Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett received his college education for a final Canadian farewell to the former Canadian prime minister.

Dalhousie University, his alma mater, and the Canadian club collaborated in a farewell luncheon aboard the liner Montclare, which will tke the distinguished Canadian to his new home in England.

The Montclare steamed out of Saint John yesterday bearing a slightly bewildered Mr. Bennett who got tangled up with a bridal party and was showered with confetti intended for them.

The luncheon today, presided over by J. McG. Stewart, chairman of the Dalhousie board of governors, will be a non-partisan affair. Among those at the head table will be Premier Angus L. Macdonald of Nova Scotia, Chief Justice Sir Joseph Chisholm, Mayor Walter Mitchell of Halifax and Dalhousie student leaders.

Plans called for Robert Armstrong, president of Dalhousie law society, to present a silver tray to Mr. Bennett from the law school from which he graduated 45 years ago. The tray bears a picture of the Dalhousie memorial library.

Later in the day, the Nova Scotia Conservative Association will announce a presentation to the former national party head. Not yet complete, it will be an oil painting of the Dalhousie law school.

It was not known definitely whether Mr. Bennett would come ashore. In the event he remains aboard ship, the captain would not be faced with the necessity of delaying the liner's departure as he was at Saint John.

King-Manion Duel Branded Drivel As Macphail Lashes Bickerings

By Frank Flaherty
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

OTTAWA, Jan. 28.—(CP).— Excessive partizanship, inter-provincial bickering and recriminataions among public men all came in for condemnation in the House of Commons yesterday. They were denounced by members in all major groups as a waste of time and as tending to prevent efficient administration and constructive action to right the country's economic ills.

Miss Agnes Macphail (U.F.O.-Labor, Grey-Bruce) was one of the most positive critics when she described the early-session verbal duel between Prime Minister Mackenzie King and Conservative Leader Manion as "drivel."

F. D. Mackenzie (Lib., Neepawa) was only a little less severe when he said Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs at times seemed more realistic than the debates in the House.

William Golding (Lib. Huron South) predicted a continuation of carping criticism between and against public men would result in revolution. Karl Homuth (Con. Waterloo South) pleaded for a cessation of Inter-Provincial hostility.

Joseph Bradette (Lib. Cochrane) though Miss Macphail's speech was more constructive than some rabid partizan utterances heard in the House.

Along with this self-criticism as debate on the Speech from the Throne proceeded came a variety of suggestions for improving conditions throughout the country, covering youth training, farm loans, reforestation and reduction in governmental expenditures.

Fine Start To Revolution

"I believe that constructive criticism is necessary and one of the finest things we have but if this carping and destructive personal criticism, this attempt to undermine and cast suspicion on our public men is continued on a whole-

Lights Fire Under Team Stuck With Load, Has To Kill Both Horses

Gananoque, Ont., Jan. 28 (CP)

JAMES STEACY, Bestard township, was served with a summons yesterday ordering him to appear in court Feb. 2 on charges of cruelty to animals.

Information was laid by Provincial Constable Morley Durnford, Gananoque, who alleged Steacy built a fire under a team of horses when they were unable to draw a heavy load in a muddy field.

One of the animals was said to have fallen in the fire and been so badly burned it had to be killed. The second was allegedly killed after an investigation.

France Plans Quick Mobilization

Considers Longer Training Term For Army

PARIS, Jan. 28. — (AP).— The French Cabinet to-day considered a new, quick mobilization system and a plan to add three months to France's two-year term of compulsory military service.

The military measures were discussed during a cabinet conference of more than two hours on developments in Spain and the threatening international situation.

Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet informed the ministers and President Albert Lebrun, who sat with them, of what he had described Thursday in the Chamber of Deputies as a situation which could become one "of force."

The discussion centred largely around what France should do in case Italian troops aiding the Spanish insurgents remain in Spain. (Premier Mussolini has said they will be withdrawn but only after an insurgent victory).

Premier Daladier told the cabinet France and Great Britain are keeping in close touch with the problem and will take jointly whatever steps are deemed necessary.

Robin Hood Act Costs 2 Years

WINDSOR, Jan. 28 — (CP). — Robert L. Wales, 61, was sentenced today to two years less one day and three months indeterminate in the Ontario Reformatory for stealing $7,229 from Mersea township during the last four years when he was township treasurer.

Wales ,who was described by his counsel as a "modern Robin Hood" who took township money to aid people to keep off relief, said nothing when sentence was passed.

Magistrate Arthur Hanrahan in county police court said he passed a sentence that took due regard of Wales' age and the fact that he had not used for himself at least part of the funds he took from the township.

Wales pleaded guilty last Wednesday and a statement was read to the court in which he gave instances of cancelling arrears of taxes so people would not lose their farms, of giving farmers the receipts from seized crops, and of outright cash donations to help farmers.

Settled Ford Strike Is Martin's Claim

DETROIT, Jan. 28 (AP).—Homer Martin, whose presidency of the United Automobile Workers has been repudiated by the Congress of Industrial Organizations, claimed today to have effected a settlement of a prolonged strike at the Ford Motor Company's Kansas City plant.

Martin said that as a result of his negotiations at the Ford headquarters here, 2,500 men soon would return to work at the plant, where a strike began 16 months ago, "wearing union buttons and holding their heads up as union men."

"Meanwhile," he added, "I'm called a company stooge."

Laflamme Sure Wolves Will Eat You

SUDBURY, Ont., Jan. 28.—(CP).—It lok as if Jim Curran, Sault Ste. Marie editor, and bearded Joe Laflamme, wolf tamer from Gogama in Northern Ontario, may have started an endless argument about the ferocity of wolves.

Joe, who grew a pointed beard especially for a trip to New York with his team of tamed wolves, dropped in by plane to Sudbury on his way to Broadway and started the argument.

"Wolves," he said, "I wouldn't take a chance on any wolf. I know something about the critters," he told newspaper men. "The biggest, toughest and most ferocious wolf I have now is kept muzzled all the time. I've been trying to tame him for two months. On many occasions my wolves have tried to attack me."

But newspaper men recalled Jim Curran's paper ,the Sault Ste. Marie Star, had offered $100 to anyone supplying proof of a wolf attacking a man. So they communicated with him. They sent him a wire and this is the answer:

"Joe Laflamme is a good fellow. Sorry he is wrong. United States' biological survey tells me it knows of no attack after long investigations. Sault Star's reward of $100 is still intact after 15 years. Hope nothing has happened to Joe lately. Regards."

But Joe still wouldn't "take a chance on any wolf," United States' biological survey or no.

But then Jack Fraser, of Sudbury, . veteran of the north woods, put in his word.

"Nothing is definite when it comes to wolves. I have known wolves to run around a camp fire yet never attack the men there, but I have also known cases where men were encamped without a fire and a wolf pack has attacked them."

Bushman Lost On 4-Hour Hike

BLIND RIVER, Ont, Jan. 28 (CP)—Herbert Hastings, formerly of Weston, has been missing in the bush in the Lake Matinenda area since Tuesday when he set out in a blizzard headed for the Neilson Lumber Co. camp. From Blind River to the camp is a four hour trip.

Dog team drivers, headed by Provincial Constable John Brown have been seeking him. The search parties started when Louis Causley, dog team courier arrived from the camp, 12 miles away and said that Hastings had not turned up.

During the time he has been absent temperatures have dropped to as low as 30 below.

Part of his route would take him through the bush but there were six miles over the ice on the lake, hazardous with cracks.

ministerial position which carries no salary.

Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal, a descendant of one of the builders of the Canadian Pacific Railway is replaced by the Earl of Munster as under-secretary at the war office, but it is understood another position will be found for him.

This switch amounts to a vote of confidence in War Secretary Leslie Hore-Belisha, who has been the target of criticism by Lord Strathcona and two other junior ministers, R. S. Hudson and the Marquess of Dufferin and Ava. It is tangible evidence of the prime minister's faith in Mr. Hore-Belisha.

Other Changes Coming

It is reported that other changes involving junior ministers will be announced next week. They will probably involve Mr. Hudson, who is secretary to the department of overseas trade.

Lord Winterton offered his resignation from the cabinet because when he entered it in March, 1938, it was on a temporary basis so Viscount Swinton, who was then secretary of state for air, might be represented in the House of Commons. That arrangement was made unnecessary when Sir Kingsley Wood was appointed to succeed Lord Swinton.

Lord Winterton, who is an Irish peer and sits in the Lower House, will continue as chairman of the inter-governmental committee on refugees.

The reason for Mr. Morrison's demotion is that there has been a steady stream of criticism over the government's agricultural policy. This has caused concern in view of the approaching general election, which if not held this year must come in 1940 when the present parliament finishes its constitutional five-year term.

Sir Reginald Dorman-Smith is considered to be a practical farmer, who is more likely to stem the tide of criticism against the administration. He jumps straight from the back benches of parliament to the treasury bench, where the cabinet ministers sit.

Eyes On Hitler

Reports reaching London that Hitler in his speech would renew his demands for colonies, possibly also referring to Italian and Polish desires for land, did nothing to brighten the international picture, already complicated by the belief held in some quarters that the Rome-Berlin axis, strengthened by the fall of Barcelona, are preparing to attempt a joint "squeeze play" against France and Great Britain.

The past two days have seen a burst of speeches by British cabinet ministers warning the world how powerful Britain is and that her rearmament is advancing at full speed.

Speeches to that effect have been delivered in various parts of the country by Sir John Simon, chancellor of the exchequer Sir Samuel Hoare, home secretary; Malcolm Macdonald, secretary for the dominions and the colonies and Sir Kingsley Wood, air secretary.

Eighteen prominent Englishmen, outside politics and representing fields of science, the arts, medicine and business-such figures as Montague Norman, Lord Derby, Lord Willingdon, John Masefield, Lord Horder and Lord Stamp—took the unusual step last night of sending a broadcast appeal for peace direct to the German people. They did so because of increasing tension tension in Europe.

In an effort to speed army recruiting, the war office announced the appointment of Major-General H. C. B. Wemyss to the newly-created post of director of mobilization. He had been assistant adjutant-general.

From various officials Britons got these assurances about rearmament:

That new ships for the navy, including many small ones, will be launched at the rate of more than one a week

The prediction aircraft production will be trebled this year

A report so many have joined the civil air guard — 36,000 — that no more applications will be accepted except from those with previous flying experience.

COURT BANDONED

WHITLAND, Wales—(CP).—January sitting of Whitland Police Court had to be abandoned for lack of magistrates after five were unable to appear for varying reasons.

Studying Up, On His Country's Heavy Armament

Some of Britain's defensive armament was on view at the Schoolboy's Own Exhibition held in Horticultural Hall, London, and here is one young Briton learning something about big guns. The lad, a Boy Scout, is studying a model of a giant 7.5 naval gun and an army officer is giving him some pointers on its construction and operation. Smaller types of armament were represented at the exhibition by actual guns, the larger weapons by models.

St. Andrew's Church Raised $14,500

The adjourned congregational meeting of St. Andrew's church was held Friday night, the pastor in the chair. The chief business was to receive the report of the board of managers regarding the finances of the church.

George Gillespie presented the report which showed $7,511.44 raised for church purposes during the year, which went a surplus of income over expenditure of $195.02. There was an overdraft from 1937 of $585.87. This is now reduced by almost $200.00. The total raised for the Missionary maintenance fund was $2,798.82, which is an increase on last year. Total for all purposes, $14,500.

Mr. Gillespie said that the church had had a good year in every way, and this is reflected in the favorable balance sheet. E. F. Reid (chairman) thanked Mr. Gillespie and Hugh Waddell for the fine services they had rendered during the year. The envelopes for local funds had increased 15 per cent for the year, for mission 10 per cent.

E. B. Fowler submitted the report of the trustees, and said that the account was in a good state.

The following were elected to the Board of Managers for 1939:

To three years—Dr. C. B. Waite, Ivan T. Lillico, R. M. Hardie, H. Keefer, J. R. Marshall, Paige Rowell.

For two years—E. Bruce Fowler.

For one year—E F Reid and Roy Lewis

Mrs. J. A. Dewart reported for the Elizabeth Bell Auxiliary, and spoke of the deep interest of the members, as shown in the varied activities of the year. $530.53 had been raised for the W.M.S. work at home and abroad. Miss E M. Richardson gave the financial report.

Harry Voss gave the report of the Young People's Union, in which real progress had been made throughout the year.

Refreshments were served to a large number by the Alpha Mission Circle with Miss Margaret Weir, Mrs. John Comstock, Jr., Misses Ruth Kenphott, Kay Lillico, Gertrude Robson, Mrs. J. Hefferman, Mrs. Fred McNeely, Mrs. D. Ketcheson and Mrs. E. W. Young in charge.

Western Canada Has Created Dairy Surplus

NORTH GOWER, Ont., Jan. 28.—(CP)—The development of the dairy industry in Western Canada is the cause of surplus butter in Canada, V. S. Milburn of Peterborough, Ont., secretary of the Canadian Dairy Farmers' Federation, told a meeting here last night under the auspices of the Ottawa Valley Milk Producers' Association.

"The western man is the one who has created your surplus of butter. He couldn't live producing wheat so he went into the production of butter. We have produced about five per cent more butter than we can use in Canada."

A New Attack

PERPIGNAN, France, Jan. 28.—(CP-Havas).—Insurgent troops were reported today to have landed from trawlers at the Spanish coastal village of Port Bou, in extreme northeastern Catalonia, just south of the French border.

French authorities here said they knew of no landing at that point. They stated, however, that there were rumors of insurgent troops landing at Las Rosas, about 13 miles south of the frontier. The landing at Port Bou was reported to have been made at 11 a.m.

St. Lawrence Frozen

WATERTOWN, N.Y., Jan. 28 — (AP).—Except for occasional patches of open water, the St. Lawrence River yesterday was frozen over from Lake Ontario to a point several miles below Ogdensburg for the first time this winter. The thickness of the ice, which varied from a few inches to more than three feet in spots, was too uncertain to permit passage of automobiles between the Canadian and American shores.

An Altered World

QUEBEC, January 28 — (CP). — Cloistered, some of them, for half a century, nuns of the Roman Catholic Church's Ursuline and Augustinian Orders will see a new and altered world next August when they participate in tercentenary celebrations of North America's oldest hospital—Hotel Dieu here.

Kept within convent confines by their own vows, the nuns will receive a special dispensation for the ancient institution's anniversary, to be observed from August 27 to September 3.

Wrong Impression?

EDMONTON, Jan. 28 — (CP). — Rev. E. Melville Aiken, chairman of Calgary meeting addressed on January 5 by Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, said yesterday he felt a wrong impression had been created in the minds of many people by Mr. Bennett's reference at that time to the failure of the church.

Canadian Legion Notes

A chields amang ye takin' notes, and, faith, he'll print them.—Burns.

We desire to give notice to our members and the ex-service men of the city that at the next monthly meeting of the branch we will have a very welcome visitor in the person of Captain Sidney Lambert of the Amputations Association. There will be a short business meeting at 7.30 after which the meeting will be thrown open to all ex-service men of the district. Amputation men will be especially welcome to hear Captain Lambert. The meeting will be on Monday, Feb. 19.

The cribbage tournament is slowly drawing to its weary end and the winners will be known by Monday night.

The Legion rooster paid a visit to the Orange Hall on Tuesday and a sorry looking bird he was when he came back, all his tail and wing feathers gone and nearly decapitated into the bargain. For a few days he was in a coma muttering something that sounded like "Bill Wilson did it." At present he is taking a little nourishment, but it is doubtful if he will ever recover his vivacity.

WEEKLY GRAIN REVIEW.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 28 — (C.P.). — Tension in European political circles and the apparent accumulation of emergency wheat reserves by the countries carrying on rearmament programs lifted wheat futures for gains of more than a cent in nervous trading on the Winnipeg market this week. While recession occurred at times, offerings were absorbed without much difficulty.

At the close on Friday, prices were 1⅛-1⅜ cents above the previous week's finish, with May at 63⅜, July 64¼-⅜, and October 64⅝ cents.

Trade at Winnipeg was more active than for some time as exporters and overseas houses came in to make fair purchases. Mills and Eastern interests offering spasmodic support. Most of the offerings encountered in the pit were credited to the Wheat Board, although some outside selling was mentioned on occasions.

Importers bought on a larger scale and sales of Canadian wheat and flour for export were placed in excess of 2,500,000 bushels, with the United Kingdom the best buyer.

Advices from Europe indicated Germany, Italy and other countries are building up their reserve stocks, with additional supplies being taken on a barter basis. Rumanian wheat was reported sold to Germany and Italy, but the quantities taken were not mentioned.

Go To Church First Then Ski Is Advise Of Dean

Montreal, Jan. 28 (CP)

THERE is nothing wrong with Sunday skiing but those indulging should go to church first, believes Very Rev. Arthur Carlisle, dean of the Anglican Christ Church Cathedral.

"When people ski all day, Sunday after Sunday ,or when they play golf the same way, over week-ends," he said today "then they are neglecting part of their duty. If they find they cannot worship God on Sunday, then they should take time out to worship him during the week."

Robbed Of $72

WINDSOR, Ont., Jan. 28 (CP).—A masked and armed bandit held up an all-night service station here during the night and escaped with $72 after firing a shot at the attendant, Mark MacKay, who attempted to follow the bandit.

The shot missed MacKay by a few inches. It was recovered and proved to be of .22 calibre. MacKay said the bandit was about 20.

Honeymoon Bridge Borings To Be Made

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Jan. 28 (CP).—Plans for replacement of the Falls View Bridge, the vantage point from which thousands of honeymooners viewed the wonders of Niagara Falls until it was destroyed by an ice-jam last winter, took definite shape today after a meeting of the International Bridge Commission.

It was announced after the meeting of the commission, composed of representatives of Ontario and New York State, that contracts for test borings on the site of a proposed governmental bridge had been awarded to Spray and Henwood, engineering firm with United States and Canadian branches. Value of the contracts was placed at between $4,000 and $5,000.

An announcement stated approval of the bridge plans has been given by Dominion Government authorities under the Navigable Waters Protection Act and that public notice of such will be given within 30 days. It was understood that when Canadian formalities are completed the United States Department of War will hold formal hearings to consider the proposals.

Last night's meeting of the commission was held on the first anniversary of the collapse of the bridge, owned by the International Railway Company of Buffalo, N.Y., that spanned the Niagara River Gorge for 39 years. The ice-jam, 60 feet high in places, also wrought hundreds of thousands of dollars damage to other property along the river.

Trial Delayed

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Jan. 28 (CP).—Trial of Richard Sair, 31, and Morris Ruby, 28, managing editor and publisher of the "National Tattler," Toronto, on charges of having in their motor car, on December 16, 1938, smuggled and prohibited magazines and publications, was delayed a couple of hours today when they were injured in a collision with a street car while motoring to court. Sair suffered a fracture of his nose and injuries to his right arm. Ruby, who was driving the car, escaped with minor injuries. Their counsel, Louis Herman, Toronto, suffered injuries to his left knee.

Robust Health For Young People

What a common sight it is to see a young person whose bloodless face and feeble frame are evidence of poor circulation and weakness where bounding health and rosy cheeks should reign.

Young people in such a condition are generally of an anaemic nature and require a preparation containing iron to help improve the blood content.

Milburn's Health and Nerve Pills meet this requirement, as they contain three concentrated forms of iron of an easily assimilated nature together with other valuable ingredients indicated for building up the system, strengthening the nerves, and adding to your physical attraction.

Biblical Thoughts For the Shut-Ins

By Rev. E. R. James, Toronto

THE GOSPEL OF ST. LUKE

Renan, that great unbeliever and master of literature, says that this is the most beautiful book ever written. Have you read it? It is written by a Gentile to Gentiles. It is his gift to his own people. He was physician St. Paul calls him "the good physician" But he was more. He had a gift for artistic writing. He writes with a delicacy and charm which has attracted literarymen throughout the ages. He never mentions himself. He is the personal friend and fellow-worker of the great St. Paul. He is very probably "the brother whose praise in the Gospel is throughout all the churches" 2 Cor. 8:18.

It is a Gospel written especially for cultured gentleman Theophilus by name He held very high office in the Roman government being addressed as "most excellent," a title reserved only for governors, and today for Ambassadors of the King. His introduction is in beautiful Greek, for the Good News is for the rich man also.

We know that St. Paul was a prisoner at Casarea for nearly two years and that St. Luke was there also, visiting him constantly. It was then he laid the foundation of this Gospel. He had opportunities of speaking with eye witnesses, men and women who had heard and seen the Lord Jesus in the days of His flesh. He may have met many of the Apostles. Above all, the Virgin Mother herself and heard from her lips these stories of the revelation to Zacharias, Her Annunciation, the visit to Elizabeth, the Presentation in the Temple and the Christ Boy's first visit to the Holy City.

Has it occured to you how much we owe to this Gospel. Or how much we would not know if it had not found a place in the New Testament. St. Luke gives us twenty-three parables, eighteen of which are not found elsewhere. The richness of the teaching of Our Lord in the parables of the Good Samaritan; the Rich Fool; Dives and Lazarus; and above all, the word picture of the love of the Father for the wayward son, who has gone into the far country and wasted his substance in riotous living—the Pearl of great price.

Here we have intimate mention of women—most unusual for a Gentile of that age—Our Lord's sympathy for them. His recognition of their worth in the Kingdom of God. Our Lord's healing of the women who could not stand upright; His compassion for the widow at Nain; His tender treatment of the woman who was a sinner; His words of comfort to the weeping women on His way to the Cross. His parable of the Pharisee and the Publican praying in the Temple; the clear cut word picture of the Publican who would not so much as lift up his eyes unto heaven. As a modern scholar points out: "This is the cream of the Gospel and only found in St. Luke's account." It is a Gospel revealing the tenderness and compassion of the Lord Jesus; His sympathy for the poor, the widow and the suffering.

These are gems of striking expressions in this Gospel. Are you engaged to be married, or married? Think of this marvellous offer of fellowship: "Jesus drew near and went with them."

The sentence which has rung down the centuries is the Evangel:

THIS MY SON WAS DEAD, and IS ALIVE AGAIN; HE WAS LOST AND IS FOUND.

Cathedral Musings

One sometimes thinks of the old dispute between the theologian and the philosopher. Said the theologian: "You philosophers remind me of a man in a dark cellar looking for a black cat that isn't there." "Maybe," replied the philosopher, "But if we cannot find the cat we know it, whereas you theologians, in like circumstance, would not admit the fact." This well illustrates the two viewpoints. The lover of wisdom desires to know the truth of things irrespective of his personal opinions, whereas the theologian is content to affirm that if he believes in a thing, that thing is necessarily true because of his belief. There would be no point in this illustration were it not for the fact that mere 'belief' has brought the world to the threshold of disaster which, if it is not averted by a return to first principles, will have no parallel in the world's history. Our material progress has so outweighed the spiritual factors that, in the latter respect, we have retrograded. Thinking men have stated that Christianity has failed. The churches retort that it has never been tried. This is not true, for from the first to the third century Christianity was a living thing and very different to what it is today. But even supposing it was true, is it not a sad admission of failure on the part of those who are supposed to be our spiritual guides? Today, there is too much of the attitude of the Pharisee, thanking God that we are not as other men and too little of the humility of the Publican who asked for mercy because he was a sinner. The hope of the world does not lie in any institutional religion, as such, for they are too much concerned with their own well-being and not enough with that of humanity. It lies in the hearts of those, who whether they are church-goers or not, seek to live a Christ-like life; that multitude, who scattered the world over, of all races and of all creeds, have love and sympathy and pity for their bretherh, and who, not overly concerned with matters of mere belief, yet realize within their hearts the love of God and seek to express it in their lives. This is the true invisible church of the Supreme Lover of men, on this earth at least there is no other. For he who DOETH the will of My Father, the same is my brother,

Highlights On Sunday School Lesson

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

PETER BREACHES AT PENTECOST

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Feb. 5 is Acts 2: 5-18, 36-41, the Golden Text being Zechariah 4:6: "Not by might, nor by power, but by my spirit, said the Lord of Hosts.)

TWO WEEKS AGO the lesson told how Simon Peter three times denied his Savior when the latter was arrested, and of his bitter grief over his unfaithfulness. It was related last week how he was forgiven and how he declared his love for the Risen Christ, who told him to preach the gospel—to "feed my lambs," as the account relates.

Peter was a strong man. Although he might make a grave mistake, he didn't let it wreck his life or spoil the good he still could do. He had denied his Savior, but his repentance was sincere, and now he was determined to do what was right, no matter what might befall him.

The Bible story tells how Jesus had said to His disciples that whereas many were baptized with water, they—the disciples—should be baptized of the Holy Ghost. They were gathered together for the Pentecost—or Jewish harvest festival—when 'suddenly there came a sound from heaven as of a rushing mighty wind, and it filled all the house where they were sitting.

"And there appeared unto them cloven tongues like as of fire, and it sat upon each of them.

"And they were all filled with the Holy Ghost, and began to speak with other tongues, as the Spirit gave them utterance."

This was at Jerusalem, and there were gathered in the city people of "every nation under heaven,' 'and when they heard the disciples talking in different languages, they thought they must be drunk with wine. But Peter stood up and said that it was not drink that made the disciples act thus, but that they were inspired of the Holy Ghost which was promised by the Man Jesus who had been crucified. He told them that they should repent of their sins and be baptized. So fearless and convincing were his words, that over three thousand souls were baptized that day.

Another sign that Peter was resolved to say and do what he considered right, no matter what happened to him, was occasioned by an accusation that he ate with Gentiles. Then Peter told of his dream He was in the city of Joppa, he said, and in a trance he beheld a vision A great sheet was let down from heaven by its four corners, and on the sheet was every manner of beast and fowl. Then he heard a voice tell him to arise, kill and eat. But Peter, whose people did not eat meat that was unblessed by the rabbis, said he could not eat what was unclean.. Then the voice said, "What God hast cleansed, that call not thou common." This was done three times said Peter, and so he felt it was right that not only should he eat with men not of his race, but that he should preach to and convert them.

It is interesting to see what effect this attitude of Peter's had on those who heard him. He was a man now sure of himself. He had taken his stand and would abide by it, despite the consequence. All this made him a powerful talker to whom people listened, and who could convince them he was in the right.

You know yourself what a difference there is in people who talk to crowds. Some can hardly hold your attention; others keep it no matter how uninterested at first the audience is in what they are saying.

To Peter, the simple fisherman who had obeyed Jesus' call to follow, had come this power to hold and convince people of the holiness and righteousness of his cause.

Rev. G. S. Maxwell New President Of Lindsay Winter School

(By Rev. H. C. Wolfraim)

"I believe that such a school as the Lindsay Winter School where young people meet together in worship, fellowship, instruction, recreation, learning the Jesus way of Life, is one of the best antidotes to Communism and Fascism, etc., that we possess." So stated Rev. John Roberts, Ukranian pastor, Church of All Nations, Toronto, one of the instructors at the above school, in conversation with the writer. "The Communsits and Fascists have their own schools in which their doctrines are propogated. It is very important that we have our church schools training our young people of Christian leadership." Mr. Roberts continued in his unsolicited statement.

The third Lindsay Winter School for Oshawa, Lindsay and Peterborough Presbyteries was held in Cambridge Street United church. Rev. Clarence H. Ferguson, B.A., of Bethany, was president for the third term and presided over the school with his characteristic energy and efficiency. Those who have been in attendance at the first three Lindsay Winter Schools claim these schools are growing better each year. This year the noon and evening meals were served in the two United churches of the town, Cambridge Street and Queen street—which gave the students longer periods of fellowship together. Billets for room and breakfast were provided by hospitable Lindsay homes. There was a registration of 75, including leaders.

Each day at the school began in the right way—with a worship period conducted by Rev. John McLachlan, of Seagrave. His expository messages were very thought-provoking and heart-searching, enabling the delegates to start the day on "a strong spring."

The Bible study and background courses were conducted by the following leaders: Rev. Harold Lackey, Enniskillen; Rev. Gordon Maxwell, Cambray; Rev. Merbin Bury, Janet-The instructors in the method ville; Rev. John Roberts, Toronto. courses were Rev. W. Clifford Smith of Courtice; Rev. George Kelly, Lakefield, and Rev. John McLachlan, Seagrave.

Song Leader

The indefatigable and vivacious song and recreation leader, Rev. George Kelly, was full of his subject. His enthusiasm was contagious. The secretary, Bruce Skitch, of Lindsay, and the registrars, Miss Fannie Oswald and Miss Ruth White also of Lindsay, revealed a splendid grasp of details which they possesses in the efficient work they always do for the school. The dean and business manager, Rev. Dewey S. Stinson, Oakwood, was far from being a "gloomy dean," and he was able, as business manager, to balance his budget too. Rev. Hamlet C. Wolfraim, Lindsay, as book Steward, sold over $40.00 worth of books, the publishers getting the profits. However, the purchasers will find in these books many helpful suggestions for leaders in Christian work. Rev. J. Johnston Black, pastor of the winter school church, was the soul of geniality, and made everybody feel "at home."

On Monday night, Rev. Roy Rickard, M.R.E., of Colborne, addressed the open session on the subject: "Today's Youth and Tomorrow's World." Tuesday night was dramatic night when the young people of Cambray presented for the fifteenth time their three-act comedy, "For Pete's Sake." On Wednesday night Mr. F. W. Moffatt, of Weston, who has been visiting some of our mission fields of the United Church missionary work in India and West Africa. On music night (Thursday) Rev. Gordon Maxwell and Prof. W. E. Fletcher, organist of Cambridge Street United church, were in charge. They were assisted by the following artists: Mrs. Fletcher, Loretta McDougall, Elsie Oke, Clarence H. Ferguson and Ellis D. Hughes. Fun night (Friday) was in charge of the recreation committee, who also conducted an impressive worship service at the close. The 1939 edition of the school paper, "Lin pet osha," was read. This year's editor was Miss Myrtle Webster, Oakwood. The young people of Cambridge and Queen Street United churches served refreshments.

The delegates appreciated the privileges of visiting the skating arena and the Allenbury plant.

They regret that they were compelled to accept the resignation of Rev. C. H. Ferguson, as president, who felt he could not act for the fourth term. However, he was congratulated on his election to the presidency of the Oak Lake summer school.

The following were elected as officers of the 1940 Lindsay winter school:

Vagaries Of God Sermon Subject

The minister's subject in St. Andrew's church on next Sunday night will be "The Vagaries of God."

In a group discussion of ministers some years ago when the topic was "how we may become more conscious of God" one of the men spoke with great wistfulness about the hunger of his heart. "How is it," he said, "that we often seem to be on the verge of a great re-discovery of God, and are frustrated. We are like explorers looking into a new rich territory but never cros sthe border. Around us are mighty spiritual forces which if we could but grasp them would transform our lives, but somehow we never lay hold upon them."

Another member of the group put the same idea in another form. "Why is it," he asked, "that great revivals of religion only come at periodic times, often after disgraceful lapses into indifference on the part of the church. These revivals make spiritual things vital and tremendously important, why does God delay in sending them?"

In other words is there true in the headline "The Vagaries of God"; is He capricious, and spasmodic in His relations with man?

To answer these questions one needs to probe deeply in the nature of God and man, and their mutual relations.

A National Message

By the Late Rev. W. Pascoe Goard, LL.D., F.R.G.S., F.R.E.S.

A LOST DOCUMENT FOUND—8

The new clause reads: "Then shall the Children of Judah and the Children of Israel be gathered together, and appoint themselves one head, and they shall come up out of the land: for great shall be the day of Jezreel."

This is important. It shews that at the end of the period of divorce the two epoples, Judah and Israel, shall be gathered together.

Mark this well, Statesmen and Rulers of the lands. Here is a movement of peoples which will shake the social order in the civilized world.

For a millenium past—100 years—Judah has been settled in its dispersion. Now in our day, since the war, that thousand-year-old settlement is being ruthlessly broken up by the dictators of Europe and their following. They are doing this as a matter of "good policy." But there is a deeper reason. They are doing it because the time has come when the remnant of Judah shall "come up out of the land"—that is to say, the land of their captivity In our eyes in these modern days they are in many lands. In the eyes of God they are still in the land of their captivity. They are coming up out of that land. Millions will be "on trek" hereafter in addition to the millions who have "trekked" already.

What their departure will mean to the lands they leave, it will take a generation to discover.

What their influx will mean to the lands to which they come will also take a generation to discover. But move they must, "for the mouth of the Lord hath spoken it."

Moreover, here is another item of vast import. The children of Israel, i.e., people of Israel stock who remain in Europe or Central or Western Asia, will aso "come up out of the land." This may mean in detail one of two things. There may be a "trek" consisting of the remnant of Israel on the Continent to the Anglo-Saxon lands, as multitudes have already trekked to the U.S.A. and the British Dominions. They have come bearing the various geographical names of their various lands will change their condition and will as nations enter the Celto-Saxon Commonwealth of nations without removal from their Domicile. For instance, Denmark, Norway, etc.

Either or both of these movements would fulfil the proviso.

So we see in the provision of the Bill of Divorcement, held by the Celto-Saxon people as Israel, the exact provision for unification set forth by Ezekiel in the parable of the "two sticks". (Ezekiel XXXVII)

Let our British and American statesmen be warned. These are movements which are not submitted for their opinion, nor are they subject to their control. They are movements which are even now well under way and they cannot be stopped, nor turned aside.

Furthermore, all these shall "appoint themselves one head."

These words of Hosea state the exact thing which Ezekiel refers to later on in the chapter when he even names the "Head," viz. "My servant David shall be king over them all."

Trees Blow Down In Bailieboro Gale

(Examiner Correspondence.)

BAILIEBORO, Jan. 28.—Sunday's storm wrought considerable damage in the community by blowing down several trees, one across the municipal telephone line in front of Mr. F. Paton's property, breaking the line and smashing a telephone pole down.

Shingles were blown from the buildings but owing to the crust which had formed over the surface of the snow there was very little loose snow left to blow and as a result township roads are still in good condition for motor traffic.

Peter Declares His Love — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON — By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—John 21:11-19.

After Jesus' death He appears to His disciples as they walk sadly along the road together, but they know Him not.

They asked Him to stay with them, and when they want food He tells them where to cast their nets, which are filled

After they have eaten the disciples know their Lord, who asks Peter if he loves Him, and tell him, "Feed my lambs."

A woman comes to Christ, anoints His feet with oil and dries them with her hair. (GOLDEN TEXT—John 14:15.)

Mr. Bennett's Decision

The last address given by Hon. R. B. Bennett before leaving for his new home in England contained the plain statement that Canada should have a strong central government and not nine sovereignties. One could only wish that Mr. Bennett had placed more emphasis on this during the days of his greatest influence in his home country because in his parting address he said something which needs a good deal of saying.

That saying is becoming almost threadbare—we have too much government. And yet it expresses a feeling the truth of which has never been successfully challenged.

The trouble is that our nine provincial governments possess a great deal of power, and they apparently are of the mind that they can keep on extending their own power until they are a law unto themselves. It is not possible to sue a government department without securing the consent of the government. All these governments have power to make or change or amend laws without reference to the people; they have power to assess the people by their own methods to secure taxation and they have almost unlimited power in the matter of compelling revenue. Also they have the power to regulate municipal government.

It is possible to bring into existence departments, fully staffed and equipped which duplicate the work being done by a similar department of the Federal government. Then in turn these nine governments are able to secure financial assistance through subsidies from the central government.

The system is complicated and it places too much power in too many hands and it gives us more machinery of government than we have the financial strength to operate or the practical need to prove useful.

Mr. Bennett's parting message is timely. Of all men he should have knowledge of the facts. He spent years in the public life of Canada and had opportunity to see how the machinery of government worked, and his decision is there is too much of it. We can only wish that Mr. Bennett had become actively engaged in promoting that idea a good many years ago.

Would More People Help?

Lord Rodney, described as an Alberta rancher, although his special line is raising pigs, was in Montreal recently, and stated to a reporter that Canada is not making use of its resources and there was a possibility that some other nation might like to do so. For that reason there should be more people living in Western Canada. Lord Rodney did not agree with those who held that because prices of farm produce were low people should not be settling on the land there in greater numbers.

His argument was that greater population would be a good thing for the railways as it would mean more business for them. That is in keeping with the theory that people of themselves create more business and more demand for various goods and services, but at best that theory is a doubtful one on which to start an immigration policy.

If there were 10,000 more people going into Alberta this spring it is right enough to ask just what they would do. If they went on the land they would do what other farmers are doing; they would grow the crops which experience had demonstrated could best be produced there, and they would undoubtedly put in a large number of acres to produce wheat. They would produce good wheat, too, but we fear they would find when coming to dispose of it they would have to take a price in which there would be no profit out of which they could make a living. They would be aiding in the production of something of which we already have too much. If we continue the policy of paying a fixed price for wheat then it might well be that all these new-comers would participate in such bonus and it would be the same as a tax on the rest of the people in the country.

For the moment we can get along better without an influx of more people. We do not need them in our cities and there is no reason to believe we need them in our rural sections.

Industries Not Run By Rogues

C. G. MacNeil, C.C.F. member of the House of Commons from North Vancouver, found the Bren machine gun report all he needed to talk about when 40 minutes were measured out for his address. It was plain enough the man from Vancouver did not like the method proposed for making the gun in Canada; he saw nothing in it but a scheme for making profits for political favorites. He did not say so but we take it that if there were any guns made and if they were made under such poor auspices as Mr. MacNeil says exist, then the guns would not shoot at all and if they did they would not shoot straight.

The cure is in having all such manufacturing done under government control or government auspices. In that way there would be no profits. What Mr. MacNeil has said is what a number of others have said, and more of them will say it in days to come. The theory is to turn the manufacturing business over to the government and all will be well. We do not know why it should work out that way at all. We have a government-owned railway and we have paid well for it, and if there was any way open to do such a thing we would be well off without it. We have another railway built and planned and paid for by the government and it is supposed to care for the traffic that was going to be shipped out via Hudson Bay. The only trouble there is that the traffic exists in such dribbles that it is not far removed from being an absentee quantity.

Manufacturing munitions of any kind is a specialized industry, and we have in this country industrial plants where such business could be handled on the same basis as anything else. The men who operate these industries are not rogues, neither are they grafters. They would handle government business on the same basis as they handle other orders. If they had not in their plants all the special equipment needed they could get it the same as the government would have to do if it went into the business. It would not be necessary to have to bring any new organization into existence. The government would know in advance exactly what it would have to pay for each gun or each shell or anything else, and it could satisfy itself the price was fair.

If the government started its own plants it would have to begin from scratch; it would have to make an investment which has already been made by many existing companies. When it was through completing the business on hand it would have no immediate use for its equipment which would deteriorate or possibly grow out-of-date. There would be no peace-time use to which such a plant could be turned and therefore all the people who had been employed there would have to be dismissed.

We admit to finding no special charm in the idea of applying government ownership to the providing of guns, munitions or any or all such things. We have a good many splendid industries in our country whose business has been built on square dealing and fine workmanship. Such places will do business on a fair basis; they have skilled staffs in existence and know well enough how to add to them in case of emergency. They are not waiting for a chance to gouge the government. The experience this country has had with government ownership is not such that it makes us anxious to see it generally applied to other sections of national activity.

Why Not Cure It?

The Lindsay Post discusses at some length the world problem of false teeth which whistle on the letter "s." A new amplifying system has been placed in Congress at Washington and some of the older members are complaining mildly that the effect is to make the whistling "s" of their speech even more pronounced. They cannot put a muffler on it at all nor have they been able to find a way by which they can patch up their false teeth so they will take an "s" like a well-rounded "o."

The Lindsay paper does not offer a solution. Rather it chuckles mildly over the folk who find themselves hissing like a steam radiator or a peanut roaster over such a word as "assessors." What they would do with a sentence such as "Sister Susie—she sells sea shells" we really do not know.

The Post of Lindsay has opportunity now to win its spurs. It is not sufficient to point to the defective teeth and their hissing s-s-s-s. It should touch its research department into action and seek assiduously for successful silencing of the hissing sensation. And there we are putting too many s-s-s-s in that last sentence!

A Farmer Explains

A gentleman who until three years ago was actively engaged in farming and who now resides in a near-by village, had something to say about farming as it was and is when he talked to the Examiner. He had noticed the subject had been discussed several times in these columns and he was certain conditions were different today. He did not believe the farmer had as good a chance as he had years ago.

"I can remember going to the mill with my father," said our informant, "and when he took along a bushel of wheat to be made into flour the custom was that he got in return 44 pounds of flour and eight pounds of bran. That left eight pounds of flour as the fee paid to the miller for doing the work and that was the general price in all the little mills around the country. The other day I purchased 100 pounds of flour and paid $2.75 for it. That would mean that if I took wheat to the miller and had it made into flour I would be getting back in flour from a bushel of wheat about 20 pounds and no bran. That is basing the figure on the prevailing price of wheat. The man at the elevator is not making any great money in buying wheat and I know the man in the store is not getting rich selling flour but some place in between the farmer and his wheat and the farmer and his bag of flour there is a great gap which did not exist in the old days of farming when the farmer went direct to the mill. There may be newer methods and a great deal of what we call service, but we are paying too much for it."

The next item reviewed was the binder. Our farmer visitor continued: "I remember the first binder father bought, and it was 45 years ago when they made them in Peterborough and the price was $105, and wheat was about one dollar per bushel. Some years after we got another binder and the price was $108 and wheat was about the same. Today a 7-foot binder with needed attachments is about $290 and wheat is around 55 cents, so instead of growing 105 or 108 bushels in order to pay for a binder it is necessary to produce about 500 bushels. So in that way things are loaded against the farmer."

"There is something else and it has a bearing on what the farmer faces when he goes to buy back something similar to that for which he has produced the raw material. I had a cow hide and took it to the village to sell and found that in only one place could I sell it at all, and I received for it one cent per pound or 60 cents in all. That same day I wanted to get a leather strap for a horse poke, and that strap was an inch and a-half wide and about two feet long and there was no buckle or sewing on it. When I got it from the harness maker I paid him 40 cents for it, as much as I had received for 40 pounds of cow hide. I think that shows how it is that the farmer cannot trade or deal on equal terms with the outside world today, and all these things put together are placing him in a tight and uncomfortable position."

This farmer was simply reciting things as he had found them from personal experience, and from that sound basis trying to show why there would have to be a change before farming conditions became better. His conclusion was there were too many "hidden men" as he called them in between the farmer and his produce and the things which the farmer had to buy back even if he had produced the raw material for them in the first place.

WEE ANGUS

(By A.R.K.)

¶ I sometimes wonder how it is Wee Angus eats so much each day, and how it be he takes such loads and seem to stow them all away.

¶ When he pulls up at breakfast time he seems as empty as can be, and he's the same again at noon and when he comes in for his tea.

¶ And when he comes in after four the pantry's where he's headed for, it never seems he gets filled up or looks as though he was quite through.

¶ Then when comes dinner time around he sets right in to do his chore, before I get a chance at all Wee Angus passes back for more.

¶ At times I talk unto the lad of hungry folk lined by the score, he listens in a patient way and then comes back his plate for more.

¶ He says he's hungry all the time and never had enough to eat, and yet there's not so much of him clean from his head down to his feet.

¶ And though I talk to him at times and say that eating much is sin, I often think I'd like to have an appetite the same as him.

Paying Tribute To Harry B. Muir

CANADIAN NEWSPAPERS have paid fitting tribute to the worth and memory of the late Harry B. Muir, for many years associated with W. Rupert Davies in the publication of the Kingston Whig-Standard and within more recent times as owners of the Peterborough Examiner, of which Mr. Muir was president. There are reproduced excerpts of newspaper tributes:

Toronto Globe and Mail: He was a public-spirited citizen and popular. His merit was recognized by his newspaper colleagues in his election as president of the Canadian Daily Newspapers Association and his death will be a loss to that organization as well as to the city of his home.

Belleville Ontario Intelligencer: Harry Muir had friends everywhere in Canada, not only in newspaper circles but in all lines of business, won by his kindly manner and outstanding business ability. To public matters he gave unsparingly of his time and energy. In fact in the mind of his close friends he was wont to sacrifice himself on the altar of public duty and so undermined his health to a degree which contributed materially to his early death. As a newspaper man his career is illumined with outstanding success.

Woodstock Sentinel-Review: The newspapers with which he was connected reflected his craftsmanship, and the Kingston and Peterborough dailies stand as a monument to his industry and ability. Many residents of the Ingersoll district where he spent his boyhood will mourn his loss as that of a personal friend. Harry Muir was a member of a highly esteemed family and his career brought credit to its members and to Oxford county. It seems hard that his sun should go down at mid-day.

Stratford Beacon-Herald: Fellow journalists will long remember Harry Muir for his splendid personal qualities.

Brantford Expositor: Mr. Muir who was of indomitable energy took time to take a leading part in all the worth while undertakings of his own community. With all the finer qualities of character and disposition and of a most attractive personality, Mr. Muir was highly esteemed by an exceedingly wide circle of friends who will deeply mourn his death.

St. Catharines Standard: The late Mr. Muir was at times a visitor to St. Catharines and the office of the Standard in particular. There was always a keen affinity of interests revealed on these visits and their mutuality. The St. Catharines Standard staff feels it has lost a very fine loyal friend in the passing of Mr. Muir.

Montreal Star: The late Harry B. Muir, whose death occurred Wednesday in Kingston, was, although no more than in middle age, widely experienced in Canadian journalism. He was still a young man when he first "owned his own paper." He had innumerable friends in the newspaper world of Canada who will be shocked and pained at his death.

Kitchener Record: Mr. Muir was an energetic worker, always eager and anxious to better conditions in Canadian Newspaperdom. Harry Muir was always willing to lend support to any movement that promoted public welfare. He possessed a pleasing personality that won him a host of friends not only in the journalistic field but outside as well.

St. Thomas Times-Journal: Canadian newspaperdom has lost one of its most brilliant business executives in the death of Harry B. Muir. Few men were more capable and few more popular with his fellow publishers and other colleagues sin the making of newspapers with the result that his services were frequently demanded and as readily given in the interests of the Fourth Estate....Kingston we know has great reason to grieve his passing.

TWO STORIES.

While the Japanese American Review is speaking eulogistically of Nippon's efforts to "rehabilitate" China and promote its prosperity a different sort of story is being told by Dr. S. M. Bates, vice president of the University of Nanking, who reports that approximately 200 stores and smoking dens for narcotics have been opened in Nanking under the sanction if not the direct sponsorship of the pupped government set up in that area by the Japanese.

For centuries the curse of China was opium. It has been only through the herculean efforts of enlightened modern Chinese rulers that the reign of narcotics in that country has been overthrown. But now the Nipponese invaders who claim they were forced by Chiang Kai-shek to make war upon the Chinese, apparently would build a "new China" by forcing back upon its people the enslaving opium habit, in order that the Japanese controlled government might obtain more revenue and the conquered subject might be made more docile and submissive to the yoke of the invader. Liberty it seems, is not the only name under which high crimes and misdemeanors are sometimes committed. — (Winston-Salem Journal)

DEATHS AFTER 90.

For 24 years, C. B. Gabb has been keeping a record of the death notices published daily in the London Times. During that period, reports Gabb, 9,871 persons passed 90 before dying—and most of the nonagenarians were married women. The year 1938, when 189 persons over 90 died, was typical of that total: 154 were men and 335 were women, 213 of them married.—(Sault Ste. Marie Star)

• Running Our Ship Of State

(From Parliamentary Debates)

Mr. STEVENS: The Prime Minister has nailed to his mast the law of competing standards and the law of supply and demand. I can see little Canada, with her ten million people, with the law of competing standards and the law of supply and demand nailed to the masthead of the ship of state about which the Prime Minister talks, and that ship sailing forth to meet the world armada in connection with trade, with my right hon. friend on the bridge, at the helm.

An hon. MEMBER: He will not leave it.

Mr. STEVENS: Someone says he will not leave it, that that is where his place is.

Mr. DUNNING: He will stay there.

Mr. STEVENS: My hon. friend says he will stay there, though the old ship of state be floundering; though the rats be swarming; though the cargo be shifting; though the crew be mutinying because of poor food or lack of clothing; though the officers of the ship, whom I see before me, be quarrelling among themselves. There may be a conspiracy—

Mr. SPEAKER: Order. The hon. member has exhausted his time.

Some hon. MEMBERS: Go on.

Mr. SPEAKER: The hon. gentleman may continue with the unanimous consent of the house.

Mr. MACKENZIE KING: Please do not stop at that point.

Mr. STEVENS: No; that would be too bad. I say the officers have discovered a conspiracy, but will the captain make an inspection? Oh, no; his place is at the helm. I want to say to the Prime Minister that his place is not at the helm. To carry out the simile, it is his place to go over his ship and see what are the conditions; to see whether the crew is being properly fed and cared for; to see whether his passengers are being reasonably looked after; to see whether his ship has sprung any leaks, because heaven knows there are some pretty serious leaks in the old ship just now.

Mr. FRASER: You should know. You scuttled one ship.

Some hon. MEMBERS: Oh, oh.

Mr. STEVENS: Unfortunately I did not catch that joke, but probably I will hear about it later.

I had intended to discuss the question of unemployment, but my time is up. I should like to conclude with just one or two words, and hon. gentlemen might do me the courtesy of allowing me to finish what I have to say.

Mr. SPEAKER: Order.

NICKELS BY THE TON.

IF DISTRICT ATTORNEY DEWEY is correct in his estimate of $1,500,000 as the amount stolen from the Independent Subway by conspiring maintenance men and station agents from turnstiles, 30,000,000 nickels were abstracted by the thieves.

The mint reckons that 4,000 newly struck nickels weigh 44 1-2 pounds and that 4,000 which have been in circulation a while weigh 43 1-2 pounds. Taking 44 pounds as the average, the thieves according to Mr. Dewey, got 320,000 pounds, or 165 tons, of nickels out of the turnstiles. They did it piecemeal; it is reported that they took about $20, or 400 nickels, from each turnstile at a theft.

If this was so the loot in each theft would weigh between four and five pounds, an easily transportable load.—New York Sun.

ON AN EVEN KEEL.

Reports are current in Montreal that a group of French-Canadian intellectuals recently sought to raise a fund for the financing of small industries in the Province of Quebec. Their objective is said to have been one million dollars. We learn that they saw many people, found few willing to subscribe. Their failure is a good, healthy sign, and we applaud it. There is enough money in the chartered banks and caises popularies in Quebec to finance all the sound, small French-Canadian industries we are likely to see in many years. Any projected industry which has more than a fifty-fifty chance of success, which is backed by persons who know what they are doing, cannot fail to find the capital it needs in these days when all those who have money are searching for safe places to earn reasonable returns. — (Le Jour, Montreal).

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

The Lord did not set his love upon you, nor choose you, because ye were more in number than any people: for ye were the fewest of all people: but because the Lord loved you, and because he would keep the oath which he had sworn unto your fathers, hath the Lord brought you out with a mighty hand, and redeemed you out of the house of bondmen, from the hand of Pharaoh king of Egypt.

Know therefore that the Lord thy God, he is God, the faithful God, which keepeth covenant and mercy with them that love him and keep his commandments to a thousand generations.—Deut. vii, 7-9.

To The Editor

MR. COWAN AND SINGLE TAX

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—Henry George's system of land taxation as distinct from putting taxes upon houses or other improvements upon the land and therefore called the Single Tax or one tax, that on land, was all the rage forty odd years ago and was even criticized by the Pope so much attention did it attract.

Part time and experience showed it had very serious objections to it such for example as the tendency to promote unnecessary building of houses for rent, the consequent tendency to lower rents and the still further tendency not to build but to rent since overbuilding made it cheaper to rent than to buy a piece of land (which would be taxed) and build upon it.

Then again, people who live on their money and are now reached by income tax would escape practically altogether. Their single tax rests on a fallacy. Improved land is worth more and therefore improvements are after all thus indirectly taxed.

The one apparent merit of single tax is that vacant lands are less likely to be held vacant for a rise when land alone is taxed. But people do not hold lands vacant for a rise nowadays. They would be glad to be rid of them. That land rise in value from growth of population is true enough, but choice lands are not held vacant. They are utilized. Hence that argument fails.

The value added by growth of population applies to improvements and yet only the land is to be taxed. Hence the landlord would escape after all. Furthermore, lands that now pay some taxes would become the property of the municipality and pay nothing and where the municipality owns land it does not tend to push street improvements which owners now help to pay for.

UP OR DOWN?

IT'S a minor mystery, of course—we don't think that the dictionaries pass on it — but do you speak of going "uptown" or "downtown"?

Some one in New Brunswick, "down East", recently started this controversy, and it came to our own backyard.

It appears that in England you generally speak of taking a jaunt "uptown" and in Canada it is commonly "downtown"

In the earlier days of Hamilton, if you lived in the East, you came "uptown", if you lived in the West you came "downtown".

Which does not solve another puzzle of whether you go "up" to Toronto or "down" to Toronto.—Hamilton Spectator.

I. W. Larmer Elected President Of Millbrook Fair Board

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Jan. 28. — Ex-Warden Percy Stinson, retiring president after a two-year term of office, occupied the chair for the annual meeting of the Millbrook Agricultural Society, which was held on Tuesday, with a fair number of diectors in attendance.

In his address, Mr. Stinson mentioned sincere appreciation of the help and co-operation whilh he had received during his presidency, this being particularly welcome "in view of the fact that I have no practical knowledge of agriculture. But I have enjoyed the friendly association with the other officers and directors, and am glad to tell you that we are likely to reduce the overdraft at the bank bringing it down to $625; a few years ago it was over sixteen hundred dollars. There is nothing the matter with our fair, we have reason to be proud of it; but it is too bad that we are not getting the attendance, and it is hard to see what can be done to improve this matter, which lowers our gate receipts and makes it difficult for us from the financial angle."

Financial Report

The financial report was presented by the secretary-treasurer, J. N. McGill, and included the fact that there is on hand a balance of $115.92, the items being:

Tap Your Way to Fun at Parties, Shows

Basic Steps Simple to Learn

Tappin' dem "blues"! Doris dances right into the limelight!

Who'd ever guess that a few months ago she was a timid wallflower? But Doris was smart enough to learn tap steps at home with simple diagrams and instructions.

And that's a stunt you can easily do! For, though that Rhythm Buck she's doing to a "Blues" tune looks complicated, it's really simple.

Even the slickest dance routines are just combinations of a few tap sounds you make by using the foot in four ways, like this:

BALL TAP. Strike ball of foot sharply against floor.

HEEL TAP. With weight on ball of foot, lower heel to floor.

TOE TAP. Extend leg backward, knee relaxed and strike floor with tip of toe.

FLAT TAP. Stamp on floor, using whole foot.

Lots of fun to combine these and other simple tap steps into smart dance routines.

Quickly tap your way to popularity. Our 32-page booklet gives diagrams and directions for all the basic steps, how to mix them in snappy routines. Buck and Rhythm Buck, Military, Waltz.

DEATH AT THE MANOR

By M. E. CORNE

READ THIS FIRST:

Elsie Ritter, a beauty shop operator, taking the place of a friend for a week in the private salon of Mrs. Horace Witherspoon, Sr. finds herself involved in a mystery when the eccentric old lady is found dead under one of the hair driers after Elsie had left the room for a few moments. She is further humiliated when she learns that one of the servants in the Manor's household suspects her of taking Mrs. Witherspoon's emeralds, Which are missing. Certain members of the Witherspoon family and some of the house guests strike Elsie as queer, and she is surprised when the old lady's son, Horace Witherspoon, advises her to say nothing of the missing jewels for fear of publicity and the police. The coroner arrives for his investigation.

(Nw Go On With The Story)

CHAPTER FOURTEEN

WHEN HAWKINS, his nose quite high in the air, had ushered Dr. Didmore from the library, Mr. Horace smiled at me and patted my arm.

"You were splendid, Miss Ritter. Splendid!"

"Thank you. Shall you want me to stay on at the Manor after today?"

"If you will be so kind. Some of the ladies may require your attention. Our guests, I 'nderstand, will remain in the house until after the funeral tomorrow."

"Very well," I said and made my way out of the room. On the whole I would have preferred to leave the Manor at once. I could not quite shake off an unpleasant feeling of foreboding that had gripped me since I had first set foot in the house two nights before.

However, I thought, shrugging my shoulders, I had promised Kitty to stay the week, and stay I would, if it killed me. And thinking of Kitty, it occurred to me to wonder what would happen to her wonderful job now that her employer was dead and gone.

I was so preoccupied with these thoughts that I failed to see the broad-shouldered young man coming toward me until he, with a sudden swoop, was upon me with his strong arms pinning mine helplessly to my sides.

A scream rose in my throat—I opened my mouth—I opened my eyes—to look at Phil Benson.

"For Pete's sake, Phil!" I exclaimed, struggling between feelings of anger and delight. "Why don't you scare a girl to death?"

"Mad at me, sweet?"

"Well—" I frowned, then smiled. I could not stay mad at Phil.

He grinned. "That's better. Surprised to see me?"

"Yes, I am. What in the world are you doing here wondering about in the corridor all by yourself?"

"Business, girl, business."

"And not me?"

His grin widened. "Since you mention it, brazen creature! maybe I did have an idea I might run across you."

"Silly! What are you doing here?"

"I'm after the old lady's obit."

"Obit?"

"Obituary to you, sweetheart. Your high and mighty butler gave me orders to wait at the door. I got tired waiting, so I thought I'd see what I could stir up for myself.".

I sighed. "This is the strangest Sunday. First the undertaker, then the coroner, and now you! Doesn't anyone in Lawnville ever take a holiday?"

"I'll take one tonight. We'll go to the movies. How about it?"

"All right," I agreed. "What are you trying to stir upout here? I don't understand."

"Nothing in particular. Mrs. Witherspoon, darling, was an important personage in our fair community. The Old Man wants a couple of sticks on her life and death. I thought I might as well get the story today and get it off my mind. When, by the way, is the funeral?"

"Tomorrow afternoon."

"Say! Kind of rushing things, aren't they?"

"Are they?"

"Well she only died last night, didn't she?"

"Phil! Did you know she died while I was in the pantry with you?"

"No kidding?" He whistled.

"No kidding! And what's more, in that half hour someone stole a few thousand dollars' worth of emeralds from the salon, and I'm suspected!"

"You!" He threw back his head and roared with laughter. "Don't tell me you're turning to crime at your age!"

"Honestly, Phil, it's no joke! Eliza, Mrs. Witherspoon's maid, told Mr. Horace that I stole them and hid them somewhere while I was downstairs with you."

"What does Horace think about it?"

"Well—he said not to worry. He thinks they've been mislaid. Anyway, he doesn't want to bother about them until after the funeral."

"Then take his advice, baby and don't worry. They'll turn up sooner or later. Say, how about giving me a look-see at the place where the old gal kicked off? Local color you know."

"You aren't very respectful," I rebuked him. "It isn't at all funny."

"Sorry," he apologized. "How about it? Can you sneak me upstairs?"

"I don't know." I hesitated, and was lost. "Come on, then!"

Upstairs I made him wait in the hall while I went to my room for the keys.

"Holy mackerel!" he exclaimed when at last we were safely inside the salon. "Some joint!"

"Mrs. Witherspoon died in here." I led the way to the anteroom. "She was sitting under the second drier. When I raised the hood, she fell into my arms."

"And what did you do?"

"I fainted," I said, and defied him to laugh. But he did not pay any attention to me. He walked about the oooth examining with apparent interest the equipment.

"Funny looking contraptions, those driers," he remarked. "What women won't go through for beauty's sake!"

"What me to tuck you in one?" I queried.

"Sure." He sat down in the second chair. "Give me the works, baby!"

"O. K.!" I lowered the helmet and tied the cloth strip into a bow at his Adam's apple. Then I threw the switch. He looked so comical with his trousers showing below the apron I had spread across his lap that I laughed until I was weak.

Presently his hand signaled that he had had enough. I untied him and turned off the current.

"Lordy!" he exclaimed, mopping his face. "No wonder the old lady passed out cooped under a thing like that!"

I was still laughing when he left the salon.

"I'd better locate Horace," he said as we went back down the stairs. "Where does he hang out, Elsie?"

"I left him in the library. I'll introduce you, if you like. He's been awfully nice to me.

"Fallen for you, eh?"

"Not at all!" I was indignant. "He isn't that sort."

"All right, sweet. I was only kidding."

The library door was closed. I rapped smartly.

"Nobody home," Phil said when we had waited a moment or two.

"Maybe he didn't hear me. These doors are so darned thick." I turned the knob handle and poked my head inside. At first glance the room appeared deserted, then I discovered the figures of a man and a woman standing by the windows. They were quite close together and in intimate conversation. The woman was Della Craig and the man, whose back was turned toward me, was some one I had not seen before.

"Guess Mr. Horace isn't here," I whispered over my shoulder, and was about to retreat when a masculine voice behind us spoke softly.

"May I be of any assistance, Miss Ritter?"

"Oh!" I whirled about to find Mr. Horace standing a few feet away.

Goodnight Story

By MAX TRELL

When Knarf and Hanid slipped into the room they found Katybelle sweeping and dusting. She always seemed to be doing the one or the other, or else baking pies or cooking dinner.

There was one little carpet on the floor. It was lying near the open window.

"Look! Knarf exclaimed suddenly to Hanid. "It's moving!"

Hanid said: "That's because the wind is blowing it."

"No—it's a magic carpet."

"A magic carpet," his sister repeated, smiling. "That's silly. It's just an ordinary little carpet. There's nothing magic about it at all."

Now—Let's See.

But Knarf insisted that it was the very same magic carpet he had read about in the story-book. "All we have to do is sit on it and we can go sailing out of the window to strange lands, just like the Little Lame Prince. I know what I'm talking about, Hanid."

He urged her to sit on it with him. She shook her head.

"Then I'm going to go sailing on it myself. You'll be sorry when you find out the places I've been to. I'll go sailing over the tree-tops and far, far away. I won't come back till the year after next. You'd better come with me."

When she still wouldn't go (for Hanid was a very sensible little shadow-girl and didn't think that there were any such things any more as magic carpets), Knarf went and sat in the middle of it himself.

Will It Work?

"Magic carpet!" he said in a loud voice, "take me to all the lands over the sea! Left yourself off the floor of this room and go sailing out of the window! Do it this minute—!"

And what do you think! At that very instant Katybelle came along lifted up the carpet and shook it out of the window. And instead of going to the lands over the sea, poor Knarf landed head over heels in the flower bed.

"Did you have a nice trip on your magic carpet?" Hanid couldn't help asking him as he got up and walked inside the house again. But he didn't answer her. And Hanid had to laugh.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, January 29.

Sunday's horoscope is one of major importance, judging by the powerful lunar and mutual operations. This might imply a drastic, revolutionary upheaval of life, with all its angles, urges and objectives undergoing a complete and surprising about-face. The emotional or romantic elements seem primarily involved, but the auguries are for high culminations in gratification or joy in the midst of bewildering circumstances.

Those whose birthday it is should be prepared for a year of radical and surprising change. Amidst confusion and bewilderment, this native may be completely "carried away" from his old traditions, environs and experiences, with the dramatic adventure spelling much gratification.

A child born on this day will have extraordinary talents, with creative insight and ability in novel or singular directions, which may take it to dramatic heights in adventure or public acclaim.

For Monday, January 30.

Monday's astrological forecast holds testimonies of adverse as well as benefic conditions, with much stirring to keep the day one of excitement and adventure. There may be difficulties arising from extravagance, self-indulgence, impetuosity and probable violence. This may lead to troublesome debts, quarrels, loss and litigation, with reactions on social and business standing.

Those whose birthday it is are likely to run into a year of much perturbation, tumult, strife, self-indulgence, and excessive expenditures, all of which may cause loss of social and business prestige, coupled with litigation. An exciting and drastic year with squandered forces unless control and restraint be exercised is forecast.

A child born on this day will be virile, talented, but impetuous, turbulent, indulgent, extravagant, and pleasure-loving, unless given early discipline and direction.

We Noticed

. . . Every Spring this reporter watches the shop windows blossom out in pastels so dainty and flower-like one can almost sniff their fragrance—and promptly wishes she were a blonde!

. . . Particularly enchanting are the violet shades—so flattering to the dainty skin and golden hair-tints of the fair maiden—for her are the purples, fuchsias, lilacs, wines, burgundy, and a deep, old-fashioned rose color which has made its first appearance this year. And by the way—did you happen to notice the trio of frocks in an upper George street window—all combining the mauve-violet-purple shades in the most delightful manner?

. . . The red-head, too, if she has hair of just the right shade, can score a success in purple. Becoming also are the rust and terra-cotta tints which may match her hair—to avoid a sameness, its best to break these shades up with a very pale lemon or lime green.

. . . For the brunette—if you're brown-eyed, match them with brown, but contract with lilac, rust, pale yellow (but beware, the sallow-skinned), a turquoise blue. Or use lilac with darker damson. You'd look well in the old-fashioned rose shade if you're careful to match your make-up and give an old-world, subdued look to your appearance.

Pepe—Marino

At a lovely wedding ceremony in the Church of the Sacred Heart on Wednesday morning, January 25, Miss Mary Carmela, daughter of Mrs. Angelina Marino and the late Frank Marino, became the bride of Mr. Anthony Maura Pepe, Rev. J. J. O'Brien officiating. Wedding music was played by Mr. John Armstrong, and Miss Loretta Giardino sang.

The bride wore a graceful gown of white silk chiffon fashioned with a full skirt and jacket top with wide epaulets on the long sleeves. Her shoulder veil of silk net fell softly from a coronet of pearls, and she carried a shower bouquet of rapture roses, white carnations, and lily of the valley. She was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Frank Marino.

Miss Matilda Pepe, niece of the groom, was bridesmaid, wearing a gown of pale pink silk net with bouffant skirt and short bolero jacket. Large ribbon bows of Suez rose trimmed the skirt and waistline, and she wore a doll hat and carried an arm bouquet of premier roses and stevia. Mr. Vincent Marino, brother of the bride, was best man.

A wedding dinner was served in Hooper's Palm Room. Among the guests were Rev. J. J. O'Brien, Rev. J. C. Maloney, and Dr. Grant. In the evening a reception was held at the Knights of Columbus Hall, where the bride and groom entertained for about three hundred guests. Music for dancing was played by Phillip Marrocco's Orchestra. Later Mr. and Mrs. Pepe left for a wedding trip to Ottawa. On their return they will live in Peterborough.

The groom's gift to the bride was a gold necklace set with pearls; to the bridesmaid bracelet and earrings set with amethysts, and to the best man a gold signet ring.

Toronto Musician Speaks To Art Club Members

Looking at pictures with the eyes of a musician, particularly when that musician is T. Campbell-McGinnes, and the pictures a series of vivid experiences recalled from a brilliant musical career in Great Britain, and later in Toronto, where he created a new and vital atmosphere in the musical life of the city, is indeed a fascinating business, and one in which members of the Women's Art Association were privileged to share yesterday afternoon, when the renowned British baritone spoke on the subject of "seeing with one's ears and hearing with one's eyes.""

"In my experience," he said, "I consider life as a series of pictures, either in song, or in sense, or in some form of imagery. You can't help making pictures. You can't say 'Hello, how are you?' without saying a tune—you are making pictures all the time." The painter, he explained, is doing it in terms of color; the musician in terms of tone, and the builder in terms of stone. They are the servants of true religion in its best self, and they keep open the windows of our minds to enable us to hear things; to see things, to admire things, and to love things.

The value of catching and absorbing the imagination of the child through music, art, building, or anything that disturbs the creative impulse, was stressed. "It is the natural desire of a child to itself," he remarked, "and it is wise to cultiate this sensitiveness which leads to original expression."

Stories, amusing and serious, impressions gathered throughout his career, included behind-the-scenes pictures of Queen Victoria, whom he described as not only a great Queen, but a great woman whose tiny figure stood out clearly against the royal pageantry and terrific splendor of her court because of its very simplicity. His remarks were concluded wit htwo poems through which he illustrated the pictures poets form through an artists use of every-day words and phrases.

Mr. J. Campbell-McInnes, who was introduced by Mrs. Frank Neal, vice-president of the Art Association, is Professor of Reading and Public Speaking at Tycliffe College, Toronto, and Extension Lecturer in English Diction and Speech, University of Toronto.

DOROTHY DIX

If Girls Would Be Just As Practical As They Are Romantic During The Courtship Days, There Would Be Fewer Marriages Ending On The Rocks.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a girl of 18. Have been going with a boy 20 years old for nearly two years, and while we have allowed our love to overrule our better judgment we do not regret it. We plan to be married as soon as he is able to support me. However, during my close association with him I have discovered that he is very jealous and hard-headed. He object if I even smile in speaking to another boy. I cannot be polite to one without his taking offense and making some sarcastic remark about the way I am falling all over the boy's neck. I do not date other boys, yet he continually nags me about those that I used to know before I knew him. He never ceases finding fault with everything I do. If I object to the way he flirts with some other girl he goes into a rage and is sulky for days. I intend to marry this boy, but if our married life is as stormy and he makes me as unhappy as he does now I don't think I will be able to stand it. Can you suggest a remedy?

DISGUSTED.

ANSWER:

This boy has shown you exactly the sort of a husband he would make and how mean and selfish and tyrannical he would be to you, and so if you marry him your fate will be on your own head and you will deserve what you get.

Most men during their courtship are chivalrous, tender and flattering, and spend their time telling their sweethearts how beautiful and wonderful and perfect they are. And, as it is human for us to find it easy to believe what we want to believe, the credulous girls marry them thinking they are getting Fairy Princes for husbands and that marriage will be a grand, sweet love song for them. Only too often, however, the sweet talk was only a line, the romance a camouflage and the vows of devotion lies. No sooner was the honeymoon over than the great lover turned into a great brute who made a slave of his wife and vented on her all the ill temper and abuse he dared not show any one else.

Those women have the excuse of having been deceived by the men they married, but you have no such alibi. The man you say you intend to marry has lit all of the red lights of warning before your eyes. You will certainly qualify as a mental defective if you let yourself in for what you know must be a life of misery.

What happiness can you promise yourself if you marry a man who has so little faith in you that he is suspicious of your even speaking to another boy? Don't think marriage cures jealousy. It only adds fuel to the flames, because the sense of possession a man has of his wife makes him feel that he has a right to monopolize even her very thoughts. What peace can there be in your home if your husband nags you all the time about not only what you are doing in the present, but what you did years ago? How are you going to like it when he finds fault with everything you do and leave undone? How are you going to stand the selfishness of a husband who feels that he has a right to flirt with other girls but you must not even speak to a boy?

For a girl of 18 you have certainly made a mess of your life. But if you are wise you will not add to it. You will mop it up and make a fresh start.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX — For twenty-two years I have been married and during fifteen years of that time I have been employed in an office. I have reared two children. The girl is married and has a baby 1½ years old. Now every Sunday my daughter, her husband the baby come to our house for dinner and generally stay for supper. I like for them to visit me, but on Sunday after I get the noon meal over I would like to relax and listen to my favorite radio program without having to jump up every few minutes to keep the baby out of something. I don't want to make them angry, but I would like to know how to tell them kindly that on Sunday I would like to have a little peace and privacy and rest after putting in a hectic week at the office. Can you advise me?—A TIRED MOTHER.

ANSWER:

I don't know how you can convey the bad news that Mother would like a little peace and rest on Sunday and not to have to spend it in cooking and baby-tending unless you send daughter a marked copy of this paper. Children are so accustomed to thinking of Mother as just something providence invented for their comfort and convenience that they never stop to think that the poor old machine is getting worn out and needs to be laid up for repairs at least one day in the week.

When a woman has raised her own family, goodness knows, she has done a full day's work, and it does seem as if when her children marry and set up homes of their own they should shoulder their own burdens. But they don't.

Half the time Mother has to pinch-hit for Sally and take care of the children when she and her husband want to take a trip. Or Mary bundles up little Tom, who has been sick, and sends him to Grandma's to convalesce. Or daughter-in-law parks the baby on Mother on her bridge afternoons. And the whole tribe, with their in-laws and broods, foregather every Sunday at Mother's for dinner, where they have a grand time visiting each other, while Mother stews over the kitchen range.

Now, Mother loves her children and she likes them to visit her, and she adores her grandchildren, but all that doesn't keep her from being worn out with baby-tending and exhausted by getting up special meals. Nor does it keep her from wanting peace in her house and a chance to rest and invite her soul. And this is something that her children should appreciate.

They should consider Mother and wait to be invited before descending on her an dthey should avoid forming the pernicious habit of the set weekly visitation which is always inconvenient to everybody concerned.

DEAR MISS DIX—I would not marry just for money, but don't you think that under existing economic conditions it is wise for a man to keep a weather eye open on what the girl will get from home?—PUZZLED.

ANSWER:

Doubtless it is wise, but unfortunately love is never wise and the heart is an unruly member that you cannot control. A wife's dowry always comes in handy, but the thing for a man to keep his eye on when picking out a wife is a girls intelligence, her character, her amiability, and not her pocketbook.

Branch Notes

ST. JOHN'S, LAKEFIELD.

A short business meeting preceded the mock trial on Monday evening. The members decided to enter the "stunt" contest to be held in All Saints' Parish Hall.

The program called for a skating party on that date, but it was postponed until later in February.

Mrs. Howden's committee had charge of the mock trial and games. The members were informed that their president, Miss 'Pat' Earnshaw, was sueing Clifford Hurl for breach of promise.

Rev. H. R. Howden, as the plaintiff's counsel, produced some rather convincing evidence, but the jury of twelve, loyal A. Y. P. A. members, found the defendant, Clifford Hurl, not guilty. The judge, George Loosemore, dismissed court after announcing that he, himself, and not the defendant, would marry plaintiff.

When court sessions were over, refreshments were served by the committee.

ST. GEORGE'S A.Y.P.A.

The Worship committee was in charge of the program on Wednesday evening. It opened with a hymn and prayers with the Rev. T. Alcock presiding.

Some of the members were asked to act on the program in connection with the stunt night. It was also decided that the members would attend Corporate Communion on Sunday, Feb. 5th.

In the absence of the Worship convener, T. Alcock took charge of the program. Clarence Porter read the Scripture lesson. A debate between was an item of interest. Captain for the negative side was Ernest Gibson, the affirmative Clarence Porter. The subject, 'Resolved, that economic depressions are benecial to the itnerests of religion throughout the world.' Some fine points were expressed by the members of both teams. After a few remarks from Rev. Floyd, who acted as judge for the debate, the negatives was given the decision.

Rev. Floyd then closed the meeting with prayer.

ST. JOHN'S BRANCH

On Wednesday night the branch enjoyed a sleigh drive even though the temperature was 10 degrees below. Everyone was dressed for an Arctic expedition and made good use of the extra warmth. About 45 in two sleighs drove down to Downer's Corners and back up the River Road. Returning to the parish hall a hot supper was served by Grace Marshall and her team followed by dancing. Those who were afraid of the cold came to the hall in time for food and entertainment. This should go down in history as the best sleigh drive—perhaps because it was the first in 3 years. Next Wednesday Rev. E. R. James, former curate of St. John's, will address the branch and we trust that everyone will turn out to welcome him.

ST. LUKE'S BRANCH

The regular meeting of St. Luke's branch was held on Thursday evening with Mrs. Curtis and her group in charge. There was a short business meeting held at the first when full information about the stunt the branch is entering in the district stunt night on February 6 was given by the committee after which crokinole was played by all with the prizes being drawn for. The following were prize winners: Miss Mary Kingsbury, Mrs. Floyd Curtis, George Northcott and W. Hepburn.

Next week's meeting will be held on Tuesday instead of Thursday as the hall is in use Thursday evening. This meeting will be in charge of Miss Jessie Bell and will take the form of a box social.

The regular monthly corporate communion will be on Sunday, January 29 at 8.30 a.m. Let us try and make this 100 per cent attendance.

Splendid Cough Remedy Easily Mixed at Home

It's So Easy! Makes a Big Saving. No Cooking.

To get quick relief from a distressing cough, mix your own remedy at home. Once tried, you'll say it's your favorite cough medicine, and it's so simple and easy.

First, make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. A child could do it. No cooking needed.

Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. This is a compound containing Norway Pine in concentrated form, well known for its prompt action on throat membranes.

Put the Pinex into a 16 ounce bottle, and add your syrup. Thus you make 16 ounces of very efficient remedy, and you get four times as much cough medicine for your money. It tastes fine and never spoils.

And for quick, blessed relief, it is splendid. You can feel it penetrating the air passages in a way that means business. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and eases the soreness. Thus it makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep.

Just try it, and if not pleased, your money will be refunded.

Numerous complaints have reached this office from truckers, farmers and travellers complaining that No. 7 highway from No. 28 west to Port Perry was impassable for two days before a highway snow plow went through and opened the road. One farmer who uses the road daily said he intended to carry his grievance to Toronto.

WORK SLOWED UP

A scarcity of jack hammer experts is slowing up work on the Bobcaygeon-Buckhorn highway. To date only six workers skilled at that trade have been found and placed at work, while more than a dozen are required Applicants should register at the Employment Service of Canada, King street. Until the jack hammer men have broken up the roadway little unskilled labor can be used., few are being hired.

Jack Gemmell, one of the Ashburnham residents who crosses the bridge on foot winter and summer was noticed Thursday night headed for home with his scarf carefully arranged so that it covered his ears. VISITORS FROM DURHAM.

Thirty-five young people from Durham county along with others from Stirling, all of whom are taking the Short Course at either Stirling or Blackstock, were visitors at the Examiner office Friday, and were taken through the plant. The Department of Agriculture representatives from the respective counties were on hand to supervise the groups. They also visited several factories in the city.

MANY VISITORS

Twenty-five girls and twenty-five boys attending the Short Course at Keene visited the Examiner Friday and were taken through the plant and offices by members of the staff who explained the various operations. The Creed Printer which brings in upwards of 28,000 words of news daily interested all of them, and the intricacies of the modern Linotype machines held their attention. Miss Jean M. Scott, resident instructor was in charge of this group.

DANGEROUS CURVE

That sheer curve on the south side of the C.N.R. where it crosses the Keene road, the sixth line, lured a victim who might have fared worse than he did the other afternoon. Driving north to No. 7 highway a yeast company's truck somehow swung too far to the right and shot over the edge and down a rather high bank where it landed with all four wheels facing the sky. A year or more ago there was some talk of a bridge being built over the railway to eliminate one of the most dangerous traffic traps in the county.

The artificial lake at the Park has never been effectively exploited until the Winter Sports Committee decided to use it as a community skating centre, and the response of the public has been a surprising reaction. Men and women who had hung up their skates years ago, or given them away, took to the ice again, and after an evening or two of muscular protest found that they had been passing up wholesome exercise and considerable fun, and the zest of youth.

Old Time Concert Is Given At St. James Church

Old Time, in costume themes and songs was the splendid concert presented by members of the The King's Own Bible Class of St. James' United Sunday School to a crowded house last night. Rev. F. W. Craik, pastor of the church acted as chairman and introduced the unusually fine numbers of the well-arranged program, planned by the efficient committee including Mesdames E. Kitney, Craik and Frost.

Lovely old time costumes and the realistic setting added to the attractiveness of the entertainment, given entirely by members of the class. Most of the numbers provoked gales of laughter and were marked by clever acting.

The first offering was a short play entitled "The Country Cousin", a delightful comedy enacted by Mesdames N. Dunbar, E. Frost, K. Sloane, W. Prest, J. Arnold and J. Freeman. A lovely picture was presented in the "Old Spinning wheel" when Mrs. Craik posed as the graceful spinner with Mrs. E. Kitney taking the solo.

A real touch of hilarity was brought in the playlet "Grandma's Old Album". The dialogue parts were taken by Mrs. George Rowe, as Grandma, Mabel Robinson as Miss Sturgis and Mrs. Breadman as Mrs. Dusenberry, while the pictures were represented by Mesdames Rutherford, Downer, Heard, Woodcock, Prophet, Friedly, Meeks, Morrison, C. Wilson, W. Deyell, R. Allen, Johnson, Bullied, Pearson and Bristow and the two little girls, Mary Morrison and Joan Meeks.

"When Lights Are Low" was the charming duet sung by Mrs. Frost and Mrs. Kitney in their white wigs and beautiful old time costumes. A clever pantomime "The Statuettes" brought down the house, with the following ladies doing some fine acting. Mesdames Arnold Pearson, Way, Hanlon, Stanbury and L. Briston.

Another amusing skit was "That Little Rogue Next Door" in which specially fine acting was done by Mesdames P. VanNest, Rosborough, R. Allen, A. Davis and Clark. The last presentation, a full chorus by the class was enojyed, not only for its beloved old songs, "Love's Old Sweet Song" and "Seeing Nellie Home", but for the fitting picture, which brought to a happy and successful conclusion one of the best concerts of the season.

Mrs. H. F. Doig was the gracious accompanist throughout the entire program.

Train Misses Car By Inches So Driver Asks Engineer Why Didn't Blow Whistle

When C. B. Shaver, district manager of the Bell Telephone Company, motoring down the Aylmer street hill that cold morning this week, missed by inches being struck by a southbound C.N.R. train from Lakefield near the corner of Dublin street, he said to the engineer, perhaps sharply: "Why didn't you blow your whistle?" And the trainman's reply was: "It's against the city by-law."

That the story as it was relayed to the Examiner. Mr. Shaver was accompanied by his wife who chance to see the oncoming train. In the next moment he made the decision to step on the gas as the only escape from crashing into the side of the engine or some other part of the train. And as a further means to elude the danger that was upon him, Mr. Shaver steered his car diagonally across the tracks and fetched up against a house on the west side of Aylmer street. In that experience he escaped with some damage to his automobile from the imminent peril of death or at least serious injury as the car seemed about to be struck on the railway crossing.

Mrs. F. M. de la Fosse Re-elected Head Of Anson House Board

Mrs. F. M. DelaFosse was re-elected president of the board of Anson House at the 77th annual meeting this week. All other officers of last year were returned to office as well. They were Mrs. Robert Neill, honorary president, Mrs. Duncan Walker, first vice-president, Miss M. Archer, second vice-president, Mrs. F. M. Somerville, secretary. Members of the board are: Miss L. Davidson, Mrs. C. L. Suckling, Mrs. Harvey, Mrs. R. R. Hall, Mrs. W. H. Hill, Mrs. F. L. Robinson, E. F. Mason, Mayor James Hamilton, W. C. Ackerman.

Mrs. Somerville, in her report on the year's activities, stressed "great smoothness in the administration of affairs," as a chief characteristic. "Steady progress has been made in maintaining a high standard of excellence. The changes which have been effected are chiefly those which concern the comfort of the residents, namely the beautification of the interior and exterior of the structure which means home when so many aged people are finding rest and the peace of eventide."

House Filled to Capacity.

The institution was filled to capacity at all times during the year, 77 persons having been lodged during the twelve months, 64 women and 13 men. Mrs. Somerville reported that some former residents have expressed a desire to return to the home as soon as a vacancy occurs.

The women's ward has been changed into two very useful rooms with a hall leading to the balcony, an arrangement much superior to the old, she said. Mattresses have all been re-made, and printed copies of the rules and regulations placed in each room. Obedience to these rules is insisted upon. The back porch or women's gallery has been repaired and a new fence placed on the west side of the grounds. New curtains and over-drapes have been placed in the board room. "One could not ascend the hill this past summer without being struck by the beautifully arranged garden, the soil of which must have received the most careful fertilization in order to produce such fine specimens of vegetables," her report stated. "Every year we congratulate Mr. Northey, farm superintendent, but this year seems to be a banner year." She also paid tribute to Miss Robinson, superintendent, who "continues to supervise all departments in an able manner, having the gift of maintaining the co-operation of her staff. To her belongs the credit for the continuous display of flowers during the summer months.

"The board would like to express its sincere thanks to the clergy of the city, the physicians, the visitors, all clubs and organization, the members of the press and all others who have provided enjoyment during the year for the residents of this House."

The balance sheet showed assets totalling $78,130.62, of which bonds were $38,100, land $1,000, buildings $34,564.28. The House showed an operating profit of $792.78 before depreciation on buildings was subtracted, leaving a net loss for the year of $137.22.

The Rambling REPORTERS

CHARGED WITH VAGRANCY

"This man was using strong language to people who refused to buy from him," Chief Constable Newhall explained to Magistrate Langley, K.C., in police court this morning after William Witherspoon had pleaded guilty to a charge of vagrancy.

Witherspoon told the court his home was in Toronto.

"What were you doing here?" asked the Magistrate. "Did you think there was more money in Peterborough?"

Witherspoon said he had been visiting Ottawa and was on his way back.

"So you were just making a stop-over here" said His Worship.

At the request of the police the accused was remanded until Wednesday so that his record may be investigated.—C.

FREE HAIR-CUT

A six-year-old boy, poorly clothed and cold walked into a local barber shop Friday and asked for a hair cut. When the job was done, and the barber had wrapped the youngster up as warmly as the clothing would permit, he asked the boy for the money. "Oh, I haven't any money, I thought people on relief got hair cuts for nothing." The barber passed it off with a grin and sent the youngster on his way. That however was not the end of the story, because within an hour the first customer was back and he had exactly seven other small boys with him." This fellow wants a hair cut too" was his greeting, but the barber quietly and firmly ushered the small army out the door and his final remark was: "Hair cuts cost money in this shop, whether you are on relief or not." The youngsters have evidently transferred their patronage to another shop because they haven't returned.—McG.

ALMOST HEAD-ON.

When a Utilities truck driven by Erven Detlor, 267 Bethune Street, and an automobile driven by Irving Moldaver, 568 Homewood Avenue, collided almost head-on on Stewart Street near Charlotte Street, on Friday evening, both machines were considerably damaged. Moldaver's machine had the radiator grill, bumper, and fog-light damaged.

Goodwill Supplanting Friction Suggests World Along Peterboro' Frontier Better

Several evidences of goodwill supplanting old frictions that came close to antipathies suggest that the world along this frontier of it is definitely getting better.

Exhibit "A" is a gracious letter from Bert L. McLean of Lindsay, president of the Lindsay Exhibition, to Tom Brown, President of the Peterborough Exhibition, acknowledging an invitation to attend the Peterborough Board's dinner last week, and expressing regret that another engagement prevented him from accepting it. However, three other members of the Lindsay Board come down for the evening, and Mr McLean conveyed to Mr. Brown their appreciation of Peterborough's hospitality and also of the pleasant evening at the Empress dinner. The letter was cordial in every line of it, and wound up with good wishes for the future of Peterborough's Exhibition. Times have certainly changed in recent years and the sentiment that is being fostered by Lindsay and Peterborough Exhibition boards is likely to become a definite asset for both of them in future.

Exhibit "B" was the warm support Alderman Stocker expressed Thursday night for the proposal emanating from Alderman McIntyre, chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, and Fire Chief George Gimblett for the purchase of a 600-gallon pumper. Memory recalls some harsh things Alderman Stocker said a few years ago when he was keeping an eagle eye on everything that went on at the fire hall. Thursday night he was decidedly in favor of buying the new machine if the cost of it wouldn't throw the 1939 tax rate out of joint. So if the world is rapidly creating centrifugal hatreds there is some little compensation in these centripetal "appeasements."

Synthetic Yarn Used To Make Silk Stockings

Canadian chemists have wheedled another secret out of Mother Nature and now are able to produce a synthetic silk yarn known as "nylon" which means silk stockings and fabrics, formerly made from raw silk imported from Japan will now be manufactured from Canadian products in Canada by Canadians, bringing new wealth to the country which formerly went to the Nipponese. This unusual bit of information was one of the highlights in an educational and interesting talk given to the Friday Night Supper Club last night by B. W. Keightley, of Montreal.

"Mother Nature left plenty of gifts on and in the earth for the benefit of man but with a queer sense of humor neglected to label them. She challenged man to sort out the jigsaw puzzle and find the many uses to which the various elements may be put. Today the industrial chemists, the men who are never satisfied but are always probing for new products have reached a point where synthetic preparations are creating new wealth beyond the wildest dreams of man."

Mr. Keightley was introduced by H. L. Garner, chairman of the Friday Night Supper Club, who described him as a man of commerce, and one who was advertising manager for one of the oustanding industrial and research organizations on the continent.

Evolution of Manufacture

The speaker traced the evolution of manufacture from earliest times when man used the skins of the wild beasts to fashion clothing down to the present day, when cellophane, neoprene, a synthetic rubber, nylon, a synthetic silk and many other products are in existence and perfected. All of these, he said, have been derived from the natural products by the industrial chemists.

"In the 19th century it was discovered that the salt beds of Western Ontario produced not only salt but by processing the natural product, it was possible to make muriatic acid, caustice soda and chlorine, and the great newsprint industry of today owes its life to the discovery of these three products."

"This is the era of the industrial chemist, the man who changes the essential nature of the natural product into something else. For many years chemistry was held back because of the belief that this art was black magic and superstition blocked much of the progress. In recent years however man's mind has taken a more practical turn with the startling results that we see all around us. The cellophane in particular that is now used so extensively is made mostly from the spruce growing in the forest."

Hard On Japan

Touching on a few of the recent discoveries in the field of industrial chemistry the speaker explained that bristles in tooth brushes are now synthetic and are not made from the bristles off the backs of Siberian hogs. This he said is another bump to Japan and cuts off another product which she used to ship to this country annually and which cost a tremendous sum of money. He mentioned among the perfected products, fast dyes, sanforized shirts which will not shrink, raincoat fabrics that repel the rain and still allow the wearer to remain comfortable because they are not too warm. One of the innovations is the application of this principle to flags thus keeping them from getting soaking wet in a rain storm.

Diverging from his discussion of the new products, he expressed the opinion that life today is not so complex as we believe, nor is it as bewildering as the life of the pioneer who cleared the land by hard labor, fought the Indians at the same time, and then had the war of 1812 with the United States on his hands as well.

"We are spending too much time feeling sorry for ourselves. I admit that the dictators of Europe are thorns in the side of every democratic nation but we should remember there is nothing new in this, England has always faced threats from the time of the Spanish Armada down to the present day. The faces may change but the threats remain, and England is just as competent to handle the 1939 threat as she has been in the past. One need only look in the history books for reassurance. I believe that to have liberty and freedom we must be prepared to fight at different times."

Britain Will Remain Impregnable

"World affairs should not cause us too much concern, the 'Little Island' has been buffeted by storms before and if the different parts of the Empire continue to stand by her she will remain impregnable."

The speaker expounded a new theory when he said mass production demands mass markets and he believes although Italy and Germany are trying to build separate empires, they are merely doing the groundwork for the formation of one great county, the United States of Europe. He added that the little countries with their rabid nationalism will be absorbed in he great countries and new markets will be available for the products now coming into existence. The crushing burden of armament costs in the dictator countries which is keeping the masses of the people in poverty and want, will eventually break down the systems, he declared.

Days Ahead Full of Drama

"I envy any man in his early twenties today. He is on the first rung of the ladder, and is starting in a race in life that will undoubtedly be packed with drama, color and interest. You should not be discouraged, but should awake to opportunities and live with the ideal ever in mind that we must leave this country when we die in as good if not better condition that it was handed to us by our illustrious forbears."

Alex Runnett, a member of the club, in a brief, and highly pointed short talk extended the thanks of the club to Mr. Keightley for his fine address, and Mr. Garner in tendering the thanks, extended an invitation to return and speak again at a later date.

Earlier in the program Eric Vincent, gave a three-minute talk which was a biographic sketch of Walter Winchell, world famous radio commentator and newspaper columnist of New York.

Frosted Wire Causes Serious Injury To Young Man's Eye

Oric R. Pollock, 174 Rubidge street received a painful injury to his right eye in a freak accident this week at his home.

He was repairing his car in the back yard when he ran against a wire clothesline in the dark, and the wire was frosted. The frost caused the wire to stick to the eyeball and as Pollock jerked back from the wire, a small piece of the eye-ball adhered to the cold wire, the piece being lifted right out of the eye. He was given treatment by an eye specialist who said the sight of the eye is not interfered with and it is expected he will be able to return to work in a few days.

Opening Second Nepheline Syenite Quarry

Opening of a second nepheline syenite quarry in Methuen township and construction of a reducing mill in the same area of the county is an expectad development which may be announced any day, according to intimations that have come to Alex L. Elliott, M.P.P.

The Canadian Flint and Spar Company, Limited, are reported to be ready to begin operations as soon as they can get the necessary lumber for a plant delivered to their property. The impression gained by Mr. Elliott that this second nepheline projection in the eastern section of the county is likely to be under way in the near future. It is known to be an M. J. O'Brien subsidiary with ample financial support. The other nepheline quarry is that of the Canadian Nepheline Company, Limited.

CITY HALL MEETINGS.

Meetings of the Board of Works, Manufacturers' and Relief committees are booked for Monday night as the council is preparing its own departmental estimates a month earlier than usual. At the city hall it is thought the committees will all be ready to report to the Finance committee some time during the week.

LOCAL MONARCHS DROP A 4-1 JUNIOR DECISION TO COBOURG

Donegal Shutout In 6-0 Tilt By Indian River

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, Jan. 28. — With but a single loss so far this season, in the East Peterborough Rural League, the Indian River squad continued their bid for leadership in top form at Norwood Arena last night, whitewashing the Donegal team 6-0. Brown of the winners was going great guns, sinking home four of their goals and assisting in another. Doherty earned the shutout, playing a smart game of hockey in the nets.

Indian River pressed hard from the very first although half the period had passed before their first tally was mode. Brown collected this on a pass from M. Tedford. Making a solo dash the length of the ice Brown followed this up with his second counter, and three minutes later gave R. Tedford a pass for another. This ended the scoring for the initial stanza with the Indian River Boys holding a three-goal lead.

Great net-minding by O'Brien in the Donegal goal kept Indian River from counting in the second, the session ending with both teams scoreless during that twenty minutes. Donegal made their greatest bid for goals during this period, coming close time after time.

Jim Clark started the scoring for the winners in the third stanza, notching one unassisted, and Brown added two more before the final bell, the first unassisted and the second on a combination play with M. Tedford and R. Tedford.

Play was fast and decidedly clean, only two minors being given during the game, one to each team. Brown stole the spotlight from his teammates with his scoring spree. Pearce, E. Stevenson, Thompson, and O'Brien were most effective for the losers.

The teams:

Indian River — Goal, Doherty; defence, Holmes, J. Clark; centre, N. Clark; wings, Jim Cavanaugh, Green; alternates, H. Walsh, G. Hogan, John Cavanaugh, R. Walsh, Brown, M. Tedford, R. Tedford.

Cecil Hart Is Relieved Of Managerial Job Following Day Long Fight With Savard

MONTREAL, Jan. 28—(CP,.—An enforced dismissal put Cecil Hart on the sidelines today as Montreal Canadiens left for Chicago and a National Hockey League game there tomorrow night under the new and dual leadership of secretary Jules Dugal and defenceman Albert (Babe) Seibert.

Hart was let out as manager of the last-place club yesterday. His dismissal served almost only as an anti-climax to the fireworks produced by a heated day-long exchange of words between president Ernest Savard and the team leader. The situation finally ended at a showdown in Savard's offices where Hart was asked to resign, refused and was given a "leave of absence."

The term, however, carried no literal significance but meant only a measure whereby Canadiens could replace the fiery manager without paying in one lump sum for a contract which does not expire until the end of the 1939-40 schedule. Hart was reputed to be drawng a $5,000 yearly salary from the Flying Frenchmen.

Dugal takes over bench managership of the team temporarily while Siebert, placed on The Canadian

CECIL HART

Press all-star team for the past two years, will act as ice-captain. A somewhat similar arrangement exists at Chicago, where Bill Stewart drew walkng papers recently and was supplanted by players Paul Thompson and Carl Voss.

Madoc-Marmora Mic-Macs Defeat Trent Outfit In Fast Game

MADOC, Jan. 28.—The Madoc-Marmora Micmacs stepped into the fast Trenton Courier team to take their first game by a score of 10-3, boosting Madoc ahead again into the leadership of the Trent Valley League.

Although the Madoc team was the better of the teams, being the more finished in every department, the score is no indication of the play. While the Madoc gang clicked all through the night on their plays, the Couriers seemed dogged with hard luck right from the first.

Throughout the first period, the teams battled on fairly even terms, Madoc having slightly the better of the play.

With two minutes to go before the end of the first frame, Hall broke the ice, scoring for Madoc, assisted by Loveless and Leonard. Thirty seconds later Alexander counted again for Madoc on Kellar's pass.

The remainder of the period was played around the Trenton net as Steenburg made some sensational saves. Period ended 2-0 for Madoc.

One minute after the face-off in the second period, Leonard scored on a solo play, scoring on a shot from just inside the blue line. Three minutes later Kellar scored on Alexander's pass-out from the corner, taken in front of the net. The operation was repeated seconds later when Alexander scored on Akey's assist, Akey carrying the puck into the goal mouth, being pushed aside by the defence and Alexander flicking the light with the loose puck.

Trenton's first count came from Johnston's stick on Cain's pass. A minute later Alexander coasted in on the Couriers, drew the defence, flipped a pass to Akey, who picked the lower corner. Trenton missed several tries and Madoc tallied again when Kellar counted on a beautiful play, Akey and Alexander getting the assist. Period ended 7-1 for Madoc.

In the third period, shortly after the face-off, Trenton got their second count when Lemoire stick-handled through the entire Madoc team. Trenton counted again when Hood scored on Sager's pass-out from the corner. Madoc retaliated by scoring on Alexander's lone rush, scoring from just inside the blue line. Leonard counted on the rebound of Reynold's shot as Steenburg flopped to cover up. Akey scored again to end the game—Madoc 10, Trenton 3.

O'Malley of Trenton and Watson of Madoc handled the game.

There were no penalties.

The teams:

Trenton— Goal, Steenburg; defence, L. Lemoire, Hood; centre, Lotte; wings, Johntson, Cain; alternates, Sager, Drake, Ellis and Wannamaker.

Madoc—Goal, Hollingsworth; defence, C. O'Neill, Hall; centre, Leonard; wings, Loveless, Reynolds. Alternates, Akey, Alexander, Kellar, Heyworth and Hailstone.

Inside Sportin' Dope

by A. WISE CRACKER

Mister Sporting Editor:

Well Mac, they has been a couple surprises in the sportin' scene this week 1 being the quick manner in which Mister Joe Louis popped off Mister John Henry Lewis and the other was the trimming the Belleville red shirts give the Fliers.

Nobody of course expected Mister Lewis to have a chance against the champ in the fisticuffs exhibition. Mister Louis was 10 to 1 favorite and it could about as easy been made 100 to 1 for his opponent was almost 20 pounds heavier and the Lewis chap hadn't looked at his prime in his last few fights. They was some folks, and I admit I was 1 who thought the challenger would prove fast and shifty enough to keep out the way of the cordite in Mister Louis' arm for a few rounds anyway. Other clever boxers, some of them not rated so high scientifically as the light-heavy title-holder, had done that and some of them had made the heavyweight tops man look kinda bad.

Led With His Chin

From what we heard and read of the fight, if you have the nerve to call it that, Mister Lewis musta left his speed and science in the dressing room along with his street clothes. Anyway he just seemed to walk out there, stick up his chin and invite Mister Louis to take a swing at it, which same he did and right pronto and with considerable abandon. The challenger crumpled up before Announcer McCarthy had stopped for his first breath and the patrons went sadly out into the night, feeling a "Welcome Sucker" sign should oughta been hung up outside the gardens and looking for a nite spot to drown their sorrows.

She was a sad fiasco but after all the real victims was the guys what had to lay it on the line plenty to see a championship bout that lasted just about long enough to let a bird get his hat parked under his seat.

As for the rest of us we mighta been disappointed a bit but after all it was too cold to go out that night anyway.

He Musta Used Mirrors

As for the hockey upset I aint figgered that out yet. A week or so ago the Flyers bumped Belleville off 11 to 3 and then took a fall outa the Petes in Belleville. Mister Buckland's lads goes to the Quinte city and smears the doubtful Thomases 5 to 0 and then Belleville turns around and wallops the airmen. The whole thing don't make no sense.

The N. H. L. race, outside the fact the Boston Bruins is making it a one-team parade for the 1st berth, is beginning to get a bit interesting mainly through the fact that the New York Jumble sale outfit, the Americans is making a real bid for the 2nd berth against the classier but no stronger Rangers, and Mister Jack Adam's Detroit Red Wings is took on a new lease of life and is overhauling the Leaves after lapping the Black Hawks. As we always had a soft spot in our hearts, —no, not heads, wise guy—for Mister Adams ever since the days he patrolled right wing for the 247th team here, this spurt on the part of the Detroiters aint making us a bit down-hearted.

Well, the end seems to have hobbedup so adoo, old timer.

Sportfully Yours
A. Wise Cracker.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

There is a swimming event in the Y.M. pool tonight, starting at eight chimes of the timepiece hanging in the front hall. Toronto West End "Y" aquatic aces are paying a return visit to the locals and bringing half a dozen noted Canuck swimmers and divers. The best of the local wave-splitters will compete with 'em. Al Marshall, who has a good chance of earning a trip to Hawaii next summer, will be up against Jim Prentice—the dude he has to beat out for the trip. Marshall ought to make Prentice bust his own Canadian 440-yard mark here to beat him. Gord Minty, "Y" swim coach, says Al will be mighty hard to beat in two more months. He came within three seconds of the Canadian record for the quarter-mile breast stroke the other day, doing it in 6.32 2-5—and that is moving in the water, mes amis.

* * * * * *

While the Petes are playing Fliers in Belleville on Monday, the C.G.E. Social and Athletic Association is staging a skating party and moccasin dance at the Brock. With a challenge broomball game between the S. & A. executive and Hockey Club ossifers. It's quite a game, too. Ferdinand-the-bull will be on ice, also, and it ought to be quite a gala evening, from all accounts.

* * * * * *

And Such An Hour

A bit after midnight last e'en, we wiped the sweat off the wrinkled brow and ankled out of Brock St. rink. After seeing the Petes put a clamp on a playoff berth in their senior "B" group by nudging out Belleville Redmen 5-4 in overtime. And what we mean, overtime! They didn't start till a quarter to 10—and this is bad business for the players, fans, rink and the sport. There ought to be a fine cracked down on a club that rolls around so late—especially as it happens frequently with the Redmen. They said they had a car break-down and, of course, that can't be helped —but it's mighty tough on fans who pay their shekels shortly after eight and then wait around half frozen till nearly 10 o'clock. At that, over a thousand folks stuck it out to witness the fray.

* * * * * *

It was a good game, despite the fact that the Petes played disorganized hockey at times and there were no fights or four-star episodes. Belleville took a 3-1 lead in the first and it looked like curtains for the Petes. But the Buckland boys are hard to keep down, and they don't stop fighting. They came on to tie it up in the second and seemed to have the game won in the third, till they got careless. And had to work overtime for the win. Had it by two goals but for a split-second "bong" of the timer's bell. The Petes earned it and yet the Redmen—shy two subs—just about held their own. Those boys from Greater Belleville are battlers, and all credit to them. They made it a tossup on the play shown, with Watts, St. Louis, Storms and C. Jackson earning a bit extra from Skipper Thomas on their performance. It is a relief that we don't have to play those dudes again!

Crowe And Creighton

We liked the hard work of Don Crowe and Red Creighton—as well as the brilliant goalminding of Ray Harding. While Coughlin, Starr and Tompkins proved pretty effective in the scoring summary. But the Petes appeared sloppy at times, and we trust they snap out of that right away quick. Their ganging attack was pretty, but not too effective. On account of they got so intrigued passing the puck around, they forgot to fire the odd one toward the goal. Or maybe we're over-critical. The boys played a fine game—Weir got a three-stitch cut across the ear and head, as well as a penalty—and we are glad they won before one a.m.!

Our junior Monarchs didn't do so well down the line, taking the lemon-flavored side of a 4-1 decision in Cobourg last gloaming. They fought hard and tore in there till the sweat was running out their sleeves, but couldn't park the rubber cookie in the cage more than once. And the Lakeshore lads did that little thing four times, and quite neatly, too. It seems like the youn gMonarchs are putting up some swell scraps, playing flashy hockey but losing by narrow scores—and the payoff is in the result. The local lads will have to hustle hard from here on in to make a playoff berth. They have to finish their schedule within two weeks and ahead of Cobourg and Port Hope. They are slated to play in Port Hope on Tuesday.

Legionnaires Win

Up in Lakefield last eve, the Legionnaires went to work in earnest and won by a 9-4 score over Oakwood. It plastered the Lakefield crew tightly into third place, close behind Sutton, and dropped Oakwood back in the fifth slot, half a game behind Lindsay. Mucker Legros' gang did their puck*shopping early to run in a raft in the first chukker. A good game, after that. First line, Whitton and the goalie looked good for the victors, who can play neat O.H.A. intermediate hockey when they want to—or so it seems. Dunno when or where they play next week, but should get the dope over the week-end. Whitby 14-0'd Beaverton and Sutton took a 3-1 edge over Lindsay in other group games last night.

Gal cagers of the Ladies' City Basketball League opened their schedule with a double-header at P.C.I. gym last night—a third tilt being postponed. Westclox yanked out an 8-7 verdict, tougher than pulling teeth, over Quaker Maids; while St. John's walloped the Y.W. lasses to the tune of 20-7. Though the latter number was tight the first half. Lots of action as the season started. Westclox and Y.W. gals (known at times as the "Y" Gym team) tangle Tuesday at 6.30 in P.C.I. gym, with Quaker Maids meeting C.G.E. there that time Wednesday and Quaker Debs and St. John's doing a ditto Thursday. While the hammers keep pounding away on the enlarged Y.W.C.A. gymnasium.

Joe Louis Is Ready To Meet Tony Galento; Galento Clamors For Bout With Champion

CHICAGO, Jan. 28 — (AP). — Heavyweight champion Joe Louis is willing to meet Tony Galento any time his handlers say the word, but that doesnt change his opinion of the verbose, beer-drinking fighter of Orange, N.J.

The Negro scourge of the heavyweights stopped here yesterday en route to Detroit only long enough to berate the fighting ability of Galento, recognized by the National Boxing Association as the No. 1 challenger for the title.

"Galento is only a third-rate fighter who happens to possess a good punch," said Louis. "He's a great fighter if he can hit you, but he won't hit me if we meet.

"Hes a good four-round fighter, and that's all; after four rounds he's through. His stamina and endurance are not so good, especially since his siege of pneumonia. I'll be glad to meet him anytime promoter Mike Jacobs says."

Galento has been clamoring for a match with Louis for several months and still insisted he could defeat the Negro after watching Louis belt John Henry Lewis into submission in less than one round last Wednesday night.

"Joe Louis has a weakness," spake Galento after that massacre.

"I won't tell you what it is, but I can beat him. In a few punches I can beat him. If they'll only give me Louis I'll be the world's champ."

Westwood And Havelock Albions Whip Trent River, Hastings

HAVELOCK, Jan. 28.—A lively double-header was on the hockey bill at the Havelock rink last evening, when four teams in the East Peterborough Rural League met in combat. The Westwood crew, grabbing off a big lead in the first period took the Trent River squad into camp by a 7 to 4 score. The Havelock "Albions" with their team back to full strength, edged out a close 3-2 win over the Hastings crowd, in a hard-fought battle.

The first game between Hastings and Havelock was the best tussle of the two, with both teams nearly matched in strength, the verdict being in doubt until the final whistle had blown. There was no scoring in the first session, both squads doing plenty of skating but had few chances at the goal. Commencing to mix it up in the second, four penalties were handed out, two to each team, and it was while Scriver of the visitors was warming the bench, that Hagerman notched Havelock's initial counter, scoring on Hamilton's rebound, after the latter had made a fine rush into Hastings territory and banged one at Kelly from close in. This ended the scoring for the period and the Albions went into the final stanza with this narrow margin.

The visitors pressed hard at the opening of the third, their efforts being rewarded shortly with McKee's goal. The score now tied Havelock kept up the offensive, Hamilton putting them once more on top when he tallied unassisted just a minute later. McKee and Varty went off for a little pushing match, just prior to this, and on his return Varty again engaged in a shoving duel this time with Crate, and these two got the gate. Hastings sewed it up once more with the teams back at full strength, Crate scoring to make the count 2-all. Both teams striving hard for the winning counter, the Albions finally got the break, Hagerman collecting his second goal of the evening, this time Pollock being credited with the assist.

Hill again did great work in the Havelock net, while Hagerman and Hamilton were starry performers for the winners. McKee, Scriver and Crate went best for the Hastings team. during the night's play.

Westwood-Trent Battle.

Westwood went into an early lead in the second game of the evening, placing the rubber behind Alley thrice in the first stanza, the Trent River boys counting only once, Jim Brown scoring on F. McLaughlin's pass. Ross accounted for two of Westwood's goals, the other being scored by B. Mortlock.

Trent River went into the second with plenty of fight, Jim Brown notching another, this time A. Brown assisting. Westwood came right back a minute later with their fourth of the game by B. Graham. The scoring ended thus at the finish of this session, the count being 4-2.

Going into the last period with a two-goal lead, Westwood kept up their persistent attack, notching three more goals in the first 10 minutes, all three by Bert Mortlock, bringing his sniping total to four for the game. Far behind but still fighting gamely Trent River kept driving in, and finally Jim Brown scored his third goal of the night, at the halfway mark. Parcells sank their last counter of the game five minutes later, the session coming to an end with Westwood still three goals to the good.

B. Mortlock starred for his team, with B. Graham and Ross also turning in a fine game. Jim Brown, Parcells, F. McLaughlin and Chaplin were most effective for the losers.

The teams:

Havelock—Goal, Hill; defence, Lade, Hamilton; centre, H. Gordon; wings, F. Ellis, E. Ellis; alternates, Williams, Pollock, Hagerman, Green, E. Gordon, Wrightly, Varty.

Sandy McKechnie Captures Junior Title In Great Exhibition Of Figure Skating

TORONTO, Jan. 28—(CP).—The seniors took over the Canadian figure skating championships today but the talk at the Toronto Skating Club still centred around Sandy McKechnie and his brilliant performance to win the junior men's championship.

A home club entry, McKechnie was awarded the title unanimously by five judges last night after a free-skating exhibition that spectators said was the equal or better than anything by a junior or senior here in several years. He won easily from a small field vieing for the crown Jack Vigeon of Toronto, who will skate with the seniors, won in 1938.

Three championships were decided. Thirteen-year-old Therese McCarthy succeeded her sister Norah, also among the seniors now, as junior women's champion and Kathleen Lopdell and Peter Chance of Ottawa's Minto Club won the junior pairs.

The Ottawa pair, skating a difficult routine with faultless rhythm and precision, were placed first by the five judges while Miss McCarthy was picked on top by three.

But it was McKechnie who stole the show. Slightly in front of clubmate Donald Ichrist after the compulsory figures in the afternoon, he left no doubt of his ability after a performance that included such jumps and turns as the axel paulson, double salchew, birkle, lutz and double loop, a repertoire even a seasoned senior would hesitate over.

His execution matched the content of his performance and even Gilchrist all but conceded him the title before taking his turn. Only Gilchrist had a chance to offset the advantage McKechnie gained in the compulsory figures, Richard Salter of Wascana Club Regina, and Pierre Benoit of Quebec Skating Club, who were well behind, finishing third and fourth respectively.

Shy On Polish Around Goal In Tight Tilt

Cobourg collected a 4-1 O. H. A. junior win at home last night at the expense of the Peterborough Monarchs. A fair-sized crowd of Lakeshore fans whooped it up as the Cobourgites grabbed a 1-0 lead in the first frame and made it 2-0 going into the third. The Monarchs fought back but were outscored 2-1 in the wind-up stanza.

The victory pulled the winners up next to Lindsay and Bowmanville in the standing — giving them a fair chance for a play-off berth — and made the Monarchs' predicament serious, as the schedule draws toward a finish. The game last night was speedy, close and quite exciting most of the distance, with only a few penalties drawn as the boys dished up a clean brand of the game.

Lack Finish.

Monarchs lacked finish around the net, missing a lot of swell chances when in scoring position through poor shooting. Both goaltenders turned in an effective chore in the twine. Rochetta, Beggs and Connelly were best for Peterborough, with Gallagher, Talbot and Coogan outstanding for the home outfit. The rest of the boys all worked hard, too.

The only score of the first came about the halfway mark when Gallagher counted on Talbot's pass as they ganged on a face-off. Coogan scored right at the start of the second on Gallagher's assist. Giardino drew a penalty and Clarke was carried off, after getting a butt-end in the ribs. Conelly got the Petes' counter early in the third on a fine play with Rochetta, but Talbot took one from Coogan to sink another Cobourg goal, and Coogan rapped home the fourth on Gallagher's pass. Cain, Winter and Vitarelli drew penalties, Clarke returned to play in the third.

The teams:

Monarchs—Goal, Morrison; defence, Begs and Giardino; centre, Rochetta; wings, Connelly and Vitarelli; alternates, DeCarlo, Cauley, Nicholls, Mortimer and Clarke.

Cobourg—Goal, Bolderstone; defence, Wilkins and Blastorah; centre, Gallagher; wings, Coogan and Zealand; alternates, Winter, Cane, Talbot, Bambridge and Haines.

Referee—G. Rowen of Port Hope.

Summary:

First Period—
Cobourg—Gallagher (Talbot) ..11.00
No penalties.
Second Period—
Cobourg—Coogan (Gallagher) ...30
Penalty—Giardino.
Third Period—
Monarchs—Connelly (Rochetta) 1.30
Cobourg—Talbot (Coogan) 5.00
Cobourg—Coogan (Gallagher) .6.00
Penalties— Cain, Winter, Vitarelli.

Curling Notes

George Robertson's rink is the one that will get the boost for to-day. This is a rink that was made up at the last minute to take the place of another rink that had dropped out and also to make up an equal number of rinks in each group.

This rink is probably one of the youngest—in years of curling—that has ever been iced. George himself being a product of the old Junior club. As this is his first year as a registered skip in senior company. So far he has guided his rink to win seven straight schedule games and right now look to be headed for the group honors. His vice, S. Valentine is also a young curler; we believe this is his fourth year, and is putting up a brand of curling that has many an old timer looking on with amazement. J. A. Gibbs is an old Peterborough boy who has just returned home from 15 years Western Canada. He learned the game out West, and is certainly fitting into the combination. He is holding up his part by playing second. Andy Buck, as a second year curler is setting a real fast pace as a lead. It is very seldom Andy has not given his skip 75 per cent support on the front end. The quartette is really clicking and seems to be going places. And incidently has played all seven games without a sub.

PETES CLINCH SENIOR GROUP PLAYOFF BERTH WITH 5 TO 4 WIN

Locals Beat Belleville Out In Hot Overtime Battle That Finished At Midnight

Working overtime at the Brock St. rink last night, the Petes clinched an O.H.A. senior "B" group playoff berth with a 5-4 nod over the Belleville Redmen. They tallied the winning marker in the extra neat. The contest was an hour and a quarter late in starting, due to a car breakdown by the Redmen.

A crowd of over a thousand fans roared approval as the locals came from behind and tied it up, taking a lead in the last period, but being forced into the extra inning to grab the decision. It was an exciting, spotty scrap with good and bad hockey, and the issue always in doubt. The teams at times appeared disorganized, but they kept up a fast even clip most of the route.

The score was 3-1 for the short-handed Belleville bunch in the initial canto, but tied at 3-all going into the third. Each got one in the third, and the Petes the deciding one in overtime. Starr got another just as the timekeeper's gong ended the game, but it was not counted. The game was quite clean throughout, though two players were injured—C. Jackson losing a tooth and Weir getting a three-stitch cut across the ear.

Harding Stars

Ray Harding was dominant in the winners' cage, looking particularly good late in the fray as the Redmen pressed dangerously. While all the Petes worked hard, the palm for good playing and a consistent effort must go to Red Creighton and Don Crowe, with Starr, Tompkins and Coughlin (as well as Creighton) figuring in on two goals apiece. C. Jackson, Storms, St. Louis and Watt were the pick of the losers, Watt making a flock of fine saves for the Belleville bunch.

C. Jackson was gated early for tripping and the Petes got a quick goal. Coughlin banging home Creighton's rebound off the boards. Tompkins and Kingdon came close and then Belleville began to outplay the Petes with a battling, fast-skating attack that netted them three goals. C. Jackson tallied in a scramble, after Crowe went off for hooking, and later Storms went around the net to counter on a pass from Ellesbury. A bit later, W. Jackson made it 3-1 on C Jackson's assist in close. The latter got the air for tripping and the Petes ganged up neatly with checker-board passes but failed to fire many at the net. St. Louis went off for tripping just before Jackson got back and the latter was hurt on his return, getting an accidental stick in the mouth.

Tie It Up

Watt robbed Kingdon to open the second and then Crowe's sizzling shot as he round defence made it 3-2. Ellesbury was chased for tripping and the Petes pressed hotly. Later, McCreary was waved away for tripping and Starr counted at close range with a hot drive on Tompkin's neat pass. The Petes had an edge on play most of this period but could not break the tie, Watt thefting them of several. Play was speedy but a lot of passes were missed on both sides. Storms pulled a swell rush, which Harding blocked and Gratton and McDougall made a lovely play near the finish.

The Petes took command early in the third, playing their best hockey. Crowe scored, but the bell had rung. Starr took Tompkins' pass and blazed it into the hemp as the fans cheered. Weir got a trip off for tripping, also being hurt on the play. Five Redmen made it hot for Harding, C. Jackson almost fooling him. Kingdon broke away but his shot was blocked, McCreary finally counted at point-blank range, and it was hot and even then with the count 4-all at the end McNulty pulling a sweet try just before the last whistle.

The Winner

Storms almost got through for one to open the overtime chukker, and then Creighton rapped in a million-dollar tally on a nifty fast return pass from Coughlin at close range, Red carrying the puck up. Crowe was chased for tripping and the Petes were hard-pressed to hold off a ganging Belleville swarm. Harding had to be tops to keep the rubber turned aside from his cord cage. St. Louis scored, but it was after the bell, and the Petes kept their slim lead. Watt robbed Kingdon on a breakaway, and then Starr tallied on a breakaway, but the timer's bell thefted him of the score.

The teams:

Belleville: Goal, Watt; defence, McCreary and St. Louis; centre, C. Jackson; wings, W. Jackson and Robertson; alternates, Storms, McElrath and Ellesbury.

Petes: Goal, Harding; defence, McNulty and Crowe; centre Kingdon; wings, Tompkins and Starr, alternates, Weir, Creighton, Coughlin, Gratton and McDougall.

Girls' League Opens Season

Westclox took a hard-fought 8-7 win from Quaker Maids, and St. John's, last year's champions, overwhelmed "Y" Gym 20-7, in last night's Ladies' City Basketball openers before a fair crowd in the Collegiate gym. A third scheduled game between Quaker Aces and C.G.E. was postponed till a later date.

Westclox and Quaker Maids fought on even terms through the first half with scoring even at 4-all, both teams having numerous scoring chances but shooting poorly in close. Checking was close with 11 fouls being called on the two teams through the initial period. Mary Sullivan making two field goals fo rthe Maids and C. Metcalfe and M. Hawthorne sank free throws for the winners to account for the scoring. N. Pammett and C. Whatman made field goals for the winners to give them their margin of one point over the Maids, a field goal by M. Snowden and free throw by D. Frost. M. Pammett and M. Allison for the winners and M. Sullivan for the Maids looked the pick of the two teams. The teams:—

Westclox.—M. Pammett, A. Flynn, J. Crowe, C. Metcalfe, M. Allison, C. Whatman, M. MacFayden, M. Hawthorne, M. Goldie.

Quaker Maids.—M. Sullivan, E. O'Leary, V. Wood, E. Alexander, A. Frost, D. Frost, I. Young, M. Snowden, E. Harte-Maxwell.

Referee.—H. Smith.

Saints Win.

"Y" Gym managed to stay with St John's in the first half, trailing only by one point at the half, 6-5, but in the closing minutes the church team led by A. Bowler and E. Clark ran it up, finally winning going away 20-7. It was a close, hard contest all the way with the winners earning their victory but not by as big a margin as the score would indicate. Both teams were guilty of 8 founds. "Y" Gym making three free throws and St. John's two. A. Bowler with 8 points and E. Clark with 9 were the winner's stars, while S. Zakos and L. Ellis shone for the losers. The teams:

St. John's.—A. Bowler, E. Clark, T. Laws, J. Castle, G. Galley, J. Sargison, E. Foster, D. Groombridge.

'Y" Gym.—S. Zacks, M. O'Brien, D. Pearson, V. Sullivan, J. Sullivan, S. Florence, S. Zakos, L. Ellis.

Bailey suffered a fractured skull in collision with Shore at Boston and has not played since. After Bailey's recovery 14,000 fans at Toronto cheered as the two clasped hands in friendship.

Goodyear Held Scoreless Draw By Falls Team

TORONTO, Jan. 28.—Jovial Jawn Adams, manager of Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League, sat in a box seat at Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens" last night to witness Johnny Mowers guard the nets for Niagara Falls Brights of the Senior 'A" division of the Ontario Hockey Association. Mowers showed the interest was warranted by holding the undefeated Toronto Goodyears to a scoreless draw.

It was the second time this month Mowers and the Falls have battled Goodyears to a goalless overtime tie. Critics said the great display ensured Mowers of a tryout with Detroit next season and possibly a job with Pittsburgh Hornets, Detroit farm team.

Brights' "moral victory" against a team that has averaged better than five goals a game this season, shot them into a third-place tie with Port Colborne Sailors—each with 17 points. Goodyears, with 31 points, can't be ousted from first place before the regular schedule ends Feb. 7.

Oshawa Beaten 4-3.

At St. Catharines, the home-town Chiefs, fighting for a playoff place, edged out the strong Oshawa club 4-3 in a minor surprise. Only Tuesday, Goodyears whipped the Chiefs 9-1. Victory left St. Kitts in fifth place, three points behind Niagara Falls—and the last playoff berth.

The first four finishers in the six-team league will participate in the playoffs beginning February 10. Oshawa, with 21 points and two games to play, seem certain to finish in the second slot.

Sensational work of Mowers this season was first brought to the attention of Adam. by Carson Cooper, former Red Wing and now a Detroit scout. Adams, here for a Toronto-Detroit game tonight, decided to see for himself. He said that Mowers played a great game.

Toronto's Fifth Tie.

Herbie Mortimer in the Toronto twine also gave a great display in holding out the persistent Falls' snipers. Although Goodyears had the best of the play in the first two periods, the pawerful Brights grabbed their share in the third. It was Toronto's fifth tie this season—two against the Falls and three with Oshawa.

Persistent checking of St. Catharines had much to do with their win over the fleet Oshawa forces. The winners were widely outplayed at times.

Oshawa took a three-goal lead before St. Catharines unleashed their goal-scoring sticks in the third period. Joe Desson, with two, Eddie Lister and Sammy Phillips, were the homesters' scorers. Cliff Maundrell, Doc Rowden and Bill Morrison tallied for Oshawa.

Port Colborne Beaten.

Meanwhile, down at Atlantic City, N.J., Port Colborne were absorbing their third defeat in as many nights from Eastern United States amateur league teams.

Atlantic City Seagulls beat the Sailors 3-2 last night. Previously the Tars lost 5-3 to Baltimore Orioles and 6-4 to Hershey Cubs. Old Goney McGowan and Jack Hinchcliffe were the Canadian scorers. Points count for their opponents in the Eastern League standings.

THE SPORTS ROUND-UP

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—(AP)—The Vines-Perry-Budge tennis troupe will tour England after the harvest here . . . Then, Vines says, he'll quit regardless of the outcome of the Budge series . . . In Miami the slogan is, "Don't bet on form—bet on Meade." . . . From Boston comes word the Bees are cooking up a deal which will make them a first division threat . . .

In seven days the super Nova, or exploding star, more than trebled in brightness . . . but Dr. Walter Baade, who knows about such things says its light is "beginning to waver," indicating it is beginning a long period of decline" . . . Does that mean the super Nova we know as Lou will get a bout wih Joe Louis soon and thereafter hit the well known skids? . . . Anyway, twinkle, twinkle super star; may you shine both long and far . . . but watch your step if you can, stop flirting with that Louis man . . . (ouch!'

Them as can get . . . opening quotations from Louisville indicate you can get a room in the leading inns for $20 per day during the Kentucky Derby period (May 4-6).

Sports cocktail: Enrico Caruso is playing basketball for oFrdham . . . Pepper Martin has added an Oklahoma Injun to his fight stable . . . The Pomonok Golf Club at Flushing, hard by the world's fair grounds, has bid $15,000 plus a percentage for this year's United States Professional Golfing Association Championship . . . The traffic jam at the right is occasioned by the 115 applicants for the football coaching job at University of Arizona . . . Mike Castell, assistant coach at Michigan State; Harry Gamage, head coach at South Dakota, and Melvin Taube, backfield coach at Purdue, are on the inside track.

One way to solve the swat situation might be to toss Joe Louis into the Yankee Stadium and let the Yanks go to work with their bats . . . The Yanks might overpower Joe in the end, but we'll guarantee they wouldn't have enough guys left to put a team on the field.

Dixie sports writers keep pouring it to Tennessee by calling its football card the 'breath of heaven" schedule . . . apparently John Henry Lewis hasn't come to yet, for here he is demanding a return bout with his old pal, Joe . . . Temple's basketball team which averaged 45 points a game last year, hasn't been able to ring up as many as 40 points in any of its nineg ames so far . . . The signing of Lou Gehrig has got would-be Yankee holdouts thinking . . . They figure they've got one strike on them already.

Tiger Jack Fox has the rigth idea. . . . He said: "If I ever meet Joe Louis I'll come out punching . . . If Louis hits me, it probably will be good night . . . If I hit Louis, I know it will be good night."

Norwood High Trounces Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 28.—Norwood High school defeated Campbellford 5-4 in their first interscholastic match here on Friday.

Although the locals opened the scoring early in the first period, Norwood outplayed them during the latter stages and were soon out in front 4 to 2. It was not until the final frame that the losers warmed up to the game and did some of their most effective attacking, led by Farrell, Kelly and Johnson.

Donan, tricky defence player for Campbellford, showed amazing speed at all times and was a constant threa' to the Norwood net, with Puffer the only man on the ice who could catch him. Campbellford worked hard all during the last twenty minutes, missing several lovely chances and managing to keep the play well in Norwood territory.

Petticrew, Puffer and Stevenson counted for the visitors in the opener with Gill getting the fourth to end the period 4 to 2.

Two minutes before the final gong in the third two members of the Norwood squad got the air and Campbellford players turned in a sizzling game in an attempt to get the equalizer, but all they were able to do was keep the visitors bottled up in their own territory. Referee Skinny Innes handed out seven penalties during the contest.

Health Association Appeal For Funds

The Peterborough Health Association, in appealing for financial assistance from the public, this year has issued a statement of its budget requirement, which shows that the association finished 1938 in debt to the extent of $185.00.

The estimated yearly expenditure for the salary of the association's nurse, examination of patients, for eggs, milk and drugs is $2,211.20 and it is expected that $616.00 in subscriptions from the public will be required to keep the organization out of the red during the current year.

The sources of revenue available to the association, outside of these public subscriptions are the city council which makes a grant, and money received from beneficiaries to the extent of $486.00.

J. J. Turner is president of the Health Association at the present time, with Dr. G. S. Cameron, secretary, and F. S. Potter treasurer.

Club Left Without Guest Speaker

Bill Derry was a man doubly chagrined when the Kiwanis club held its weekly luncheon Friday. Chairman of the program committe for the day, he decided to make absolutely certain a suitable speaker would be on hand and so he invited two of them—John Turner and Jack Marshall. Neither of them could attend and the club was left without a speaker.

Chagrined, too, was John I. Allen, who was to have moved a vote of thanks, and who said "I had all sorts of nice things ready to say about both of them." However, he and Cliff Hall did a good job of pinch-hitting and the club members were left completely satisfied.

Cliff Hall recited Dr. Drummond's "The Habitant" and encores, surprised club members with his facile French-Canadian dialect. Mr. Allen reminded members of the forthcoming 25th anniversary of the founding of Kiwanis, told of the value the club has been in raising the standard of living in this country and the United States, and urged a larger membership and increased activities for 1939.

If one would stop to review the work done by the Kiwanis club in this city and multiply that activity by the number of clubs scattered throughout the two countries, he would be amazed at the amount of good done, he said. He told of visiting various clubs in the United States recently, and of the spirit of friendship and goodwill that he found. Dr. J. J. Craig moved a vote of thanks to both men.

Out In Front

For the first time since the National League scoring statistics were first issued this year, Johnand Mr.s John Feeley, to Wilfred Hawks left wing star, was replaced as leader when Tommy Anderson who looks after the same position for Red Dutton's perking Amerks, snared the only goal his team could score in beating Rangers, 1-0, and moved a point ahead of gyrating Johnny.

Lakefield Defeats Oakwood Team

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 28—Staging a strong first-period drive in their O.H.A. intermediate "B" fixture here last night before a good crowd, the Lakefield Legionnaires copped a 9-4 verdict over Oakwood. It was a serious setback for Oakwood's playoff berth hopes, and cemented the Lakefield grip on third place in the standing firmly, being their fifth win in eight starts.

The Lakefield "putsch" in the first period netted them a 6-1 margin and clinched the contest right there. Oakwood came to life in the middle heat and took a 2-1 scoring edge on the inning, and the teams battled away on even terms in a ding-dong windup canto. The O's looked bad at the start of the struggle but made it a neat tussle the last half, though they never came close to overcoming the early lead.

Fairly Clean

The game was speedy and fairly clean, with the Legionnaires clicking in good style with smart hockey, especially the first part. They all played a nifty game with Junkin, Blewett, Jewell and Whitton outstanding, and the rest close behind. Heatlie, Johnston and Kearns looked the pick of the visiting crew, the rest working hard near the end.

The teams:

Oakwood: Goal, Fletcher; defence, Wickett and Johnston; centre, Rich; wings, Eaver and Heatlie; alternates, Kearns, Hood, Anderson and Miller.

Lakefield: Goal, Junkin; defence, Whitton and Burton; centre, Chittick; wings, Jewell and Blewett; alternates, Deeth, Chappel, Morin, Creighton and O'Leary.

Referee Lou LeBarr.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

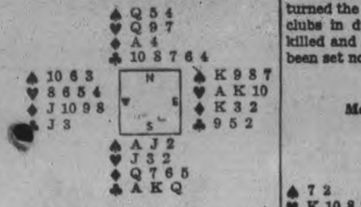
WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

PUSSY-FOOTING FUTILE

VIGOROUS MEASURES are necessary when the fate of a deal depends upon some one factor. Making a mild gesture in the general direction of what you are trying to accomplish may be as unproductive as no effort at all. If you decide in your own mind that a certain line of activity is absolutely essential, that you must attain a certain objective before the enemy can attain a particular one of his own, do the job up right, by calling your best forces into play.



(Dealer: North. Both sides vulnerable.)

East inaugurated the bidding of this deal with 1-Spade. South made the very strong vulnerable bid of 1-No trump, though he probably should have doubled. West passed and North bid 2-Clubs, South 2-Diamonds, and North 3-No trump. Both opponents having bid No trump and so having indicated some spade strength, West decided to lead the unbid heart suit, the 4, which East won with the K.

Having so much strength himself and South having bid so strongly, East felt that his partner's hand was probably devoid of entries and that the heart suit therefore would be hopeless. It seemed to him that the crux of the hand depended on removing the diamond entry from the dummy before the clubs were set up. So he returned the diamond 3. Declarer then made his contract easily, taking in the diamond Q, three high clubs, the diamond A, two more clubs and two spades.

If instead of the 3 East had returned the diamond K, the two long clubs in dummy would have been killed and the contract would have been set no matter what South did.

Try it. Then—see your doctor. He probably will tell you to continue with "Aspirin" because it acts so fast to relieve discomforts of a cold. And to reduce fever.

This simple way, backed by scientific authority, has largely supplanted the use of strong medicines in easing cold symptoms. Perhaps the easiest, most effective way yet discovered.

sale scale it will eventually lead to revolution of one kind or another," said Mr. Golding.

Politicans were partly but not entirely to blame for the heavy public debt which placed an intolerable load on the taxpeyers, said Mr Golding. They were continually subject to demands for increased services. All members should support Finance Minister Dunning in his efforts to effect economies.

Mr. Golding's suggestions were: Drastic reduction in expenses; elimination of all overlapping services, federal and provincial; gradual reduction in tariffs and other taxes on consumer goods; every possible endeavor to extend trade and a firm control over relief expenditures.

Looking Over The Trouble

The government was working on a long range program, said Mr Homuth, making his maiden speech. It was so busy looking at the horizon for the sun of prosperity it was unable to see the poverty and destitution at its feet. It was seeking foreign markets for dairy products when there were children in Canada without enough milk and for livestock when some Canadian families could not eat meat twice a week.

"If we will forget this interprovincial disunity and the hostility of the provincial governments to the federal government," said Mr Homuth, "if we will forget our political bickering and get together and deal with this matter from the standpoint that there is no east and no west in Canada, no Quebec and no Ontario but just one nation, willing to give and take, to give more and take less, if we do that there is no reason why we cannot cure many of the ills that afflict us today without interfering with sacredness of provincial rights."

Taken Too Literally

Miss MacPhail said the sad thing about the sharp exchanges between Mr. King and Dr. Manion and between Mr. King and Premier Mitchell Hepburn were that the people believed what each man said about the other.

"I think we can say everybody in this House wants to save and perfect the Democratic system but we cannot do that until we solve the economic problems of the people," Miss MacPhail said. "We must change from a Liberal democracy to a social democracy.

"If we do not do that a harassed, bewildered and disillusioned people will turn from the Democratic system to another they believe will bring them relief.

"We must now forsake artificial differences between members of this House. In a democratic system there must be free expression of real differences but we have come to a place where we should not look for personal or party rewards. We should vote for good policies regardless of who advances them.

"When that terrible row was on between Mr. Mackenzie King and Mr. Hepburn and I believe it is still on—I heard people saying they were hearing the truth at last. That is the trouble—the people believe the bitter things we say about each other in this House.

"It is time we stopped political scrapping and settled down to work as an earnest people should."

Miss MacPhail referred to speeches of the leaders at the opening of the debate. "When I heard those speeches I wondered if it could be possible we must hear all this drivel again. While people are starving they come here and use their fine abilities for verbal battles."

Farmers Waking Up

Farmers were now rousing themselves from a long sleep, she said. They were talking about production for a known market after the fashion of other industries, of surveying the market and producing just as much as the market could absorb at a fair price.

"Farmers of Ontario and of all Canada are trying to get together in a great organization," she said, "and will soon be coming to the minister of agriculture and the prime minister and demanding marketing legislation which will give authority to the majority of a commodity group to bring the minority into line with their wishes and they will demand a price which is equal to the cost of production, including wages to the farmer.

"It sounds revolutionary but it is coming and it is almost here and it will be followed by control of production."

Madrigal Singers Plan Concert Tuesday, April 18

"The Madrigal Singers," conducted by Dorothy Allan Park, will give their annual Peterborough concert on Tuesday evening, April 18, in the Collegiate Auditorium.

The choir will be assisted by the noted New World Chamber Orchestra, which scored such a decided success with the "Singers" two years ago. This group of seven players has won a very high rating in Canadian musical circles, and Peterborough's famous choir of women's voices is to be congratulated upon securing this outstanding ensemble for another concert.

"The Madrigal Singers" have always memorized every one of the hundreds of numbers in their repertoire, and this year will display an even nigher degree of concentration by singing eleven of the difficult and charming Gipsy Songs by Brahms, without score.

The choir will also sing a group of "request" part-songs including the magnificent "Omnipotence," by Schubert, accompanied by the orchestra.

Peterborough has been advertised by "The Madrigal Singers" from coast to coast, through broadcasts, concerts, and reviews that have lavished praise on "the most exquisite choral organization in Canada."

It is hoped that local citizens will continue to make it possible for this choir to exist, and to bring notable Canadian artists to Peterborough, by being present at the one yearly concert given in the home city.

Italian Threats Unite France

PARIS, Jan. 28 — (CP-Havas) — From extreme left to extreme right the French press today reflected unanimous popular support for the government in its determination to resist Italian demands and to protect the integrity of the French empire.

Last night in the chamber of deputies, although there was a division on the question of intervention in Spain, Premier Edouard Daladier's firm declaration that France stands ready to guard its imperial frontiers was given unanimous backing. The vote was taken on a motion which declared the chamber "confident in the government's vigilance the integrity of the French empire and the security of its imperial routes."

Then a general vote of confidence, including maintenance of the non-intervention policy, was adopted by 374 to 228, with the socialists and communists on the dissenting side.

Premier Daladier told the chamber that French-Italian differences were "racing toward a climax." His declaration followed a disclosure that France and Great Britain had agreed on "the necessary measures" to counter any Italian refusal to withdraw from Spanish territory at the end of the civil war, and an assertion by foreign minister Georges Bonnet that Mediterranean issues might soon become "a question of force."

Daladier's speech came as Italian crowds celebrating the fall of Barcelona renewed clamor for French territorial concessions.

"France has listened calmly to threatening words from Italy," Daladier said. "It is not everybody who can insult France.

Residents Of Harwood Do Honor To Two Families Leaving Area

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HARWOOD, Jan. 28. — A large number of young and old gathered in the hall here on Thursday evening to honor two families who are leaving the community — Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Downs and family and Mr. and Mrs. William Harvie and family. Mr. and Mrs. Downs moved to the village a little over three years ago from Burnley and carried on a successful business in the general store here. A short time ago Mr. Downs sold his stock to J. R. Hall & Sons of Janetville, and has purchased a store in Wellington, Prince Edward County. William Harvie has been employed by Mr. Downs since he started in business here and he has purchased a store at Hilton.

Both families have made many friends in this community. The evening was spent in dancing, with music supplied by Minifie's Orchestra. Sandwiches, cake and coffee were served about midnight, after which Mr. and Mrs. Downs were called to the platform and Miss Dora O'Connel read an address. Both couples were presented with walnut desks.

Little Miss Merla Kelly read a short address to little Betty Downs, on behalf of her schoolmates, and presented her with a suitable gift.

The entire community join in wishing these two families prosperity in their new homes.

See Hope Of Saving Spruce Forests From Growing Sawfly Menace

MONTREOL, Jan. 28—(CP). — A reasonable hope now appears of saving the spruce forests from destruction by the European spruce sawfly, the woodlands section of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association was told to-day at its convention here.

Since it was first discovered in 1930 the insect has damaged thousands of square miles of spruce forest in Eastern Canada each year. Three papers prepared by entomological experts who detailed the damage done and efforts to combat the sawfly were read to convention delegates.

"The only hope of a permanent check to the outbreak still seems to lie in the establishment of effective parasites," said R. E. Blach of the Dominion Entomological Laboratory at Fredericton. Several parasites have shown ability to combat the sawfly but studies must be made for several years before reliable information is gained to their ability, he said.

"The situation is much more encouraging than it was two years ago," said A. B. Baird of the Dominion Parasite Laboratory at Belleville, Ont., who told of parasitic work done in Canada, Britain, United States and Europe. "With the continued co-operation of all interested parties there appears reasonable hope of saving the spruce forests from destruction by this insect."

J. J. de Gryse and A. W. A. Brown of the entomology division of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa, said constant co-operative surveys throughout Canada of forest insects had proved valuable. They said the fact that the serious outbreak of spruce sawfly in the Gaspe Peninsula in 1931 had not been detected until an area of 2,000 square miles had been seriously damaged, emphasized the urgent necessity of such surveys.

Even In Arctic Circle

Infestation of the spruce sawfly has been most noticeable even well within the Arctic circle, Mr. Baird said. From this area 22,000 cocoons had been collected in the last few months and forwarded to the Belleville laboratory for study.

"The supply of parasites has not been nearly sufficient to cover the heavily infested areas," said Mr. Baird, who showed maps indicating Quebec and New Brunswick were most affected by the sawfly. He said the natural spread of the species so far found most efficient, microplectron fuscipennis, is slow.

Units of 10,000 of these parasites are released at each point. "Colonies of 10,000 are not too large in heavily infested areas as several million most cocoons would, in many cases, occur within a radius of a few hundred feet," he said.

The sawfly does not kill a tree at once, but continued eating of foliage and new shoots prevents growth and kills the tree over a period of a few years, Mr. Balch told the delegates.

The insect is found in considerable numbers between Lake Ontario and Georgian Bay, in small numbers in the area north of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Cape Breton Island, and in the Gatineau district at the Quebec-Ontario border. The heaviest infestation and damage have been in the Gaspe district and New Brunswick. In United States the insect has spread throughout the northeastern section

Famed Goudy Plant And Designs Are Lost In Flames

Marlboro, N.Y., Jan. 28 (CP) THE VILLAGE PRESS, workshop of Frederic William Goudy, at Marlboro, N.Y., was destroyed by fire yesterday. The plant contained not only the machinery of printing but the drawings and patterns of 20 of the finest type faces which Mr. Goudy, foremost living designer of type, has produced during his career of 40 years.

The physical loss was estimated at between $40,000 and $50,000, but no price can be put on the designs which are forever lost to the art of printing.

Study Course In Democracy Recommended

Establishment of a course of studies in all public and high schools in which students would be taught the benefits and aims of democracy, was urged by John I. Allen at the Kiwanis club's weekly luncheon meeting in the Empress hotel on Friday.

Mr. Allen told of having talked recently with Czecho-Slovakian and Jewish refugees, and of their delight with the democratic system of government in this land. People who live here little realize the value of free speech, free press, free association, that is enjoyed in Canada, he said. He said there is apparently a surprising growth of Communism in Toronto and other Canadian cities, and that it should be checked by an educational program that would enlighten the youth of the land on the merit of both systems of government. He urged that the Dominion and Provincial governments take immediate steps to institute such a program of education.

Jas. S. Douglas Renounces U.S.

JEROME, Ariz., Jan. 28—(AP).—James S. Douglas, long a leading figure as "Rawhide Jimmy" in western mining affairs, has renounced his United States citizenship to return to the scenes of his boyhood near Megantic, Que.

He is the father of Lewis W. Douglas, former director of the United States budget. "I was born in Canada." He has liquidated his extensive mining properties here.

Douglas has expressed abhorrence of recent trends in the American government by both Republicans and Democrats. In the latter respect, he is even more emphatic than his son who left President Roosevelt's official family because of his strong economic convictions.

The son, in a telephone conversation from Montreal where he is principal of McGill University, expressed "deep shock" at his father's action.

"I can never and will never renounce my American citizenship," Lewis said.

The elder Douglas was active in the mining, financial and railroading activities of the southwest in the early days. His brother Walter is president of the Southern Pacific Railway of Mexico.

Nationalist Retains Seat In Norfolk

NORWICH, England, Jan. 28 (CP) —The National Government to-day retained East Norfolk in a by-election fought mainly on questions of foreign and agricultural policy.

Returned by a reduced majority, Frank Medlicott, National Liberal, polled 18,257 votes against 10,785 for his Labor opponent, Norman Tillett. In the 1935 general election Viscount Elmley, whose succession to the peerage created the vacancy in the House of Commons, polled 23,108 votes against 10,461 for Mr. Tillett.

Only 53 per cent. of the electorate voted owing to the floods and bad weather.

Mr. Medlicott said the fact the seat was held for the Government is "a decisive indication that public opinion still is on the side of Neville Chamberlain and his National Government, not only with regard to foreign policy, but in those internal matters which readily received prominence during the campaign."

THE Canadian Spanish contingent, hungrily swallowing breakfast, paused and gulped today when asked if they had their mascot.

Major E. Cecil-Smith, commandant of the contingent, grimly volunteered. "Yes, we had a mascot. He was a nice dog named Jim. We haven't got him now. The boys ate him one day."

Walters To Sue For His $6,000

HALIFAX, aJn. 28—(CP).—Captain Angus Walters spilled the 1938 international schooner racing series between his Lunenburg, N.S., Banker Bluenose and Gloucester's Gertrude L. Thebaud back into the limelight today with the declaration he was "taking this matter of the $6,000 they (the race committee) still owe me to the courts"

As peppery as ever, Capt. Walters stopped long enough on his way to Lunenburg where he is to confer with other directors of the Bluenose Schooner Company,, to explain the financial arrangements for the race and berate the committee.

"We granted everything they asked for, stood off when they wanted more time to raise the money and we didn't think we would have to come down to this but it's gone far enough.

"When I was in Boston little more than a month ago they told me I'd get the money in a very short time. I haven't got it yet. We played fair and now all that's left is to open her up and let the courts decide.

"This race was an international event. You'd think they'd pay up as they should and on the night of the last race too as always was done in Halifax. But no. I get the run-around and I'm sick of it."

Lodge Observes Wildey Night At Havelock

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, Jan. 28. — Visitors from Norwood and Peterborough attended the "Wildey Night" program at the local Oddfellows' Hall, Wednesday evening. A social evening of cards and dancing in honor of Thomas Wildey, founder of the I.O.O.F., was enjoyed, after the regular meeting, which was conducted by Noble Grand Bro. Harry Ferguson.

Twelve tables of euchre were played, including members of the home lodge, the Rebekahs, and guests. Prizes were won by Miss T. Hicks, ladies' first; Mrs. S. McQuiggs, ladies' consolation; men's first, R. Jack; men's consolation, F. Chase. A sumptuous lunch was served at the conclusion of the cards by the members of the Rebekah lodge.

An interesting sketch of Wildey's life was given by D.D.G.M. Bro. A. Sage of Otonabee Lodge, Peterborough, and P.D.D.G.M. Bro. William Constable of Peterborough Lodge, also addressed the large gathering.

Community singing followed, and the remainder of the evening spent in dancing to music provided by Messrs. D. O. Ferguson, Dick Ferguson, Bert Ferguson of Norwood, and Mr. H. Ferguson of town calling for the square dances.

The local membership has been greatly increased during the past year, a re-instatement being made at the previous meeting as well as conferring of the initiatory degree upon one candidate. Bro. Harvey Gordon acted as degree captain for the ceremony. Visiting brethren were present from Campbellford, and refreshments were served at the conclusion of the meeting.

HITLER WARNS OFF WESTERN POWERS

Campbell's Brother, Sister Brand As Lie, Charge He Paid Constable $350

Blamed Howard For Arrest—Just Getting Even; Convict's Prison Statement Says Officer Owed Him Nearly $1,000

TORONTO, Jan. 30 (CP).—A brother and a sister of Melville Campbell, Toronto gangster-bank robber, today branded as lies his charges that he paid, through his brother, Howard, $350 to Provincial Constable Alexander Wilson after Campbell was arrested for the robbery of the Royal Bank branch at Mount Brydges, Ont.

Evidence of Miss Olive Campbell and Howard Campbell was to the effect that Melville felt Howard had caused his arrest by visiting him at Windsor and that he was angry with Wilson because he wasn't doing enough for him.

The 79-page report of the examination of Melville Campbell at Kingston Penitentiary, permission having been refused to bring him here, was put into the evidence as Major-General Victor Williams, commissioner of Provincial Police, opened his public inquiry into Campbell's charge against Wilson, who has been suspended pending the inquiry's outcome.

The statements said that not only did Melville give his brother $350 to give to Wilson but that over a period the officer had become indebted to the criminal for nearly $1,000.

Wilson will take the stand later today and it is possible the inquiry will be concluded by tonight.

Howard's Story.

Howard Campbell said he went to Windsor October 13, the day after the bank at Mount Brydges, Ont., was robbed. He met Melville the next day in a Windsor apartment. Harold Moore and Kathleen Burns were in the apartment with Melville Campbell.

After supper, Melville and Moore left the partment. Moore was gone only 20 minutes. Later Melville came back and gave his brother $25 in one dollar bills. Howard made two trips to buy whiskey during the afternoon.

Howard said he left for Toronto at midnight Oct. 14. The $25 he received was a gift and "for money he owed me." Witness denied there were any other money transactions.

Here Mr. Hope revealed Melville's charge Howard came to him and asked for $350 for Constable Wilson.

"He's telling an untruth," said Howard.

Melville asked Howard to call at a Toronto address for two guns that had been paid for.

Howard Campbell said he had not talked to Wilson since Melville made his charges. Witness wrote Wilson offering to help disprove Malcolm's charge.

Read into the evidence was a letter from Howard Campbell to his sister saying she "could tell that fellow not to worry about anything." By "that fellow" he meant Wilson.

Borrowed From Wilson.

Howard Campbell said he borrowed $5 from Wilson a day or two before he (Campbell) was married October 29. He had also at various

Blizzard Buries Chicago, Lashes Ontario

CHICAGO, Jan. 30 — (AP). — A paralyzing blizzard whipped across the southern Great Lakes states and the Ohio Valley to-day, burying Chicago under one of the heaviest snowfalls on record.

Forecaster C. A. Donnell said that if the storm continued all day at the severity prevalent in mid-morning the second largest city in the country might have snow totalling more than the existing record of 19.2 inches in March, 1931.

The storm was heaviest in Northern and Central Illinois, Northern Indiana, and Southern Michigan, but spread rapidly north-eastward into Pennsylvania and New York State.

In Chicago all public and parochial schools were ordered closed. Thousands of commuters were late to work when suburban railroad and elevated trains, street cars and buses were delayed.

Motor traffic was paralyzed. Sections of the lakefront outer drives were closed. Mounted policemen were ordered to keep their horses in the stables.

Western Areas Bear Brunt.

TORONTO, Jan. 30.—(CP). —A driving blizzard from the east, one of the worst of the winter, piled snow deep over Ontario to-day, all but paralyzing highway traffic in many districts. Street car service in Hamilton was halted and the gale's velocity along the Niagara peninsula rose at times to 50 miles an hour.

More than six inches of snow fell on Canada's sun parlor, Essex county, during an eight-hour period to-day, making roads throughout the county impassable, tying up city traffic and reducing attendance at city schools by more than half.

Weather bureau officials said a record fall was in prospect.

Automobiles were stranded on highways after a 30-mile-an-hour wind piled the snow into high drifts. The forecast called for more snow.

Mercury Falls Fast.

The storm struck after a week-end of mild weather and general thaw that left slush inches deep on rural highways and city streets throughout the province. Temperatures dropped during the night from well above freezing to nearly zero in places and the forecast for to-morrow was for continued "east to north-east gales; snow or part sleet."

The storm at Hamilton was described as one of the worst in years. So strong was the gale, driving clouds of fine snow before it, that many persons were forced to remain at home from work. Many school children were absent from school.

Bus schedules out of Hamilton were cancelled as drifts piled up over district highways faster than the snow ploughs could clear them. At 9:30 a.m. street railway service was halted after a losing fight to keep lines open. At one time three street cars, end to end, were employed in an inffectual effort to maintain a schedule.

The gale's force appeared to be concentrated on Western Ontario, though from districts east of Toronto came reports of snow. At Kingston, light snow fell during the week-end and to-day a chill north wind caused residents to shiver. Ottawa was clear with temperatures 10 above zero.

Sleet and rain were reported from parts of Northern Ontario.

Floods Isolating Over 1,000 Homes

LONDON, Jan. 30—(CP Cable).—More than 1,000 were stil lisolated in the Thames valley today as flood waters continued to rise there despite gradual subsidence of streams elsewhere in the country.

At many points the water level was eight feet above normal and banks of the winding river were traceable only by a line of partly submerged bungalows at Maidenhead. Many houses were isolated with their occupants shivering miserably in the upper storeys.

Hundreds of residents of Ipswich still were homeless and were being boarded by relatives and friends. The mayor of the town received o telegram from Ipswich, Mass. citizens offering financial assistance to sufferers.

An Ipswich relief worker estimated more than 3,000 families were affected there and "hundreds of people will never be able to live in their homes again."

Suspect Firebug In Havelock Box Car Fire

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, Jan. 30.—More serious consequences were narrowly averted here on Saturday evening, by the early discovery of a blazing freight car, at the west end of the Canadian Pacific Railway yards, where about 250 other cars and coaches are stored. But for the timely alarm given by James Squire, local merchant, who first noticed the flames about 10.30 p.m., it is feared that everything might have been destroyed. As it was however the only loss suffered was the partial destruction of the one car.

Evidence points strongly to the deliberate setting of the fire, and investigations are being carried out to fully ascertain its origin. Bits of greasy waste were found at the scene of the fire, which had been started just inside the door-way on the south side of the car, and on further investigation local C.P.R. employees found that all the grease and waste had been removed from two of the axle boxes on the car. This material is quite inflammable and would be an easy method of setting the fire.

This is the second occasion that fire has broken out among the cars stored in the Havelock yards. The first time was in October 1937, when nine freight cars were demolished by the blaze. Origin of that fire was never fully determined.

Much of the credit for subduing the blaze on Saturday night is due George Watson, county constable and William Copp, both of town who among the first to arrive at the scene of the fire, got the flames partially under control by throwing snow inside the car.

William Hill, night operator, on duty at the station when the alarm was given, at once ordered out an emergency train crew, who were dispatched with the yard engine to switch the remainder of the cars out of danger. Later the smouldering car itself was brought down to a point opposite the station where the hose was played upon it and then left under observation for the rest of the night. It was well past midnight before the C.P.R. employees under the direction of station superintendent H. W. Roche and locomotive foreman R. A. Miller, who had been summoned shortly after the alarm was given, were able to return to their homes.

C.P.R. officials from Toronto arrived in Havelock yesterday afternoon to inspect the damaged car, and commence investigations.

Three Escape Drowning At Mt. Julian

Car Breaks Through Ice In Channel Near Hell's Gate

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MOUNT JULIAN, Jan. 30—Three people had a miraculous escape from death by drowning near here yesterday when their car plunged through the ice in the channel near Hell's Gate.

Mr. and Mrs. W .L. Elmsley of Port Hope escaped with only a cold drenching, while Miss Doris Chesher of Port Hope suffered a dislocated shoulder. The three walked nearly three miles to the Mount Julian hotel after they had climbed from the water. Dr. Carr-Harris of Apsley, 14 miles away and the nearest doctor, was called. He placed Miss Chesher under an anaesthetic and treated the others for chill.

Taking Trip Around Lake

The trio had motored Saturday morning to a newly-purchased cottage at Young's Bay, Stoney Lake, and were taking a trip around the lake in their car Sunday, when the accident occurred. While the ice is 15 to 20 inches thick on the lake proper, it is never safe in some of the narrow channels, where the current prevents freezing. Near Hell's Gate, five miles from their own place the car struck one of those danger spots and crashed through.

All were riding in the front seat, Mrs. Elmsley said yesterday. Water was gradually filling the car and they forced open the right-hand door and climed out into the water, and in so doing Miss Chesher, who was riding on the right hand side dislocated her shoulder. Mr. Elmsley was the last to leave the car, and by the time he was out the front seat and most of the back was completely under water. They struggled in the water for several minutes, attempting to climb to the ice, Mrs. Elmsley said.

The jagged ice broke several times and it was not until Mr. Elmsley reached them and pushed them up that they were able to climb to safety. Then they were forced to walk two and a half miles to Mount Julian. Only witnesses to the accident were a group of youngsters who were skating nearby.

"I never thought we would get out alive," Mr. Elmsley said to the Examiner. "From the time we went in until we climbed out of the car and got to the top was probably not more than a minute but it seemed a lot longer tha nthat. We were completely under the surface before I got out."

The car sank to the bottom in 17 feet of water and arrangements were being made today to have it salvaged.

Muir, at his funeral on Saturday afternoon in Kingston. The late Mr. Muir was managing director of the Kingston Whig-Standard and president of the Peterborough Examiner and he died last Wednesday. Prior to a public service at Chalmers United Church in Kingston, a private funeral service had been held at the family residence and conducted by the Rev. Dr. George A. Self-Determination Is Curbed On Colonies Lauds Franco's Victory

By Louis Lochner
(Associated Press Foreign Staff.)

BERLIN, Jan. 30 (AP). — Chancellor Hitler, addressing the German Reichstag on the sixth anniversary of his rise to power, today warned the Western powers against interfering "in matters concerning us alone with the purpose of preventing natural and sensible solutions."

He declared that Germany in establishing the right of self-determination in Austria and Czecho-Slovakia had "only defended itself against the attempts of interfering third parties" and said:—

"I need not assure you that in future also we shall tolerate no attempts at interference in matters concerning us alone with the purpose of preventing natural and sensible solutions."

Hitler started speaking promptly at 8:03 p.m. (2:03 p.m. EST) in an address to the Greater German Reichstag.

"With Mussolini the salvation of Europe began at one end," Hitler said. "National socialism continued this work of salvation at the other end and in these days we are witnessing in another country the same spectacle: the valiant defeat of the newest universal attempt to destroy the European cultured world."

Refernce To Spain

This was a reference to Spain.

"On Jan. 30, 1933, I entered the Wilhelmstrasse filled with the deepest anxiety about the future of my country," he continued

"Today, six years later, I am able to speak to the first Reichstag of Greater Germany.

"Indeed, we—more perhaps than another generation—may gauge the devotional sense of pronouncement—'what a change by God's dispensation'—six years to fulfil the dream of centuries, one year to give our people the joy of that unity which many generations longed for in vain..."

Hitler, standing as usual in the front seat of his car, drove at moderate speed between cheering thousands standing behind the Nazi Party formations to the Kroll Opera House where the Reichstag met.

Goering Is President

Brown shirt storm troopers and black shirt elite guardsmen lined his way. He arrived promptly at 7:55 p.m. (1:55 p.m. EST) and began speaking eight minutes later. The intervening time sufficed for Field Marshal Goering to be elected president of the Reichstag.

Hitler then began reviewing his momentous foreign successes of last year which brought Austria and the Sudetenland of Czecho-Slovakia into greater Germany and thus increased the size of this Reichstag.

Referring to Woodrow Wilson's 14 points, Hitler said, "among them was the elementary sentence about the self-determination of nations.

Return of Colonies.

"As a matter of fact the Allies of that time (the Great War) during the period which followed applied this principle when it could be taken advantage of for their egoistic purposes.

"Thus the return of her colonial possessions is denied to Germany on the assertion that one cannot simply return the natives there—about whom, of course, nobody had cared in 1918—to Germany against their will.

"However, while thus posing as protectors of primitive Negro tribes in the name of self-determination, the highly cultivated German people in 1918 were denied the general human right solemnly promised to them.

The clause on revision in the League of Nations constitution assumed only a platonic meaning."

Father Of 14 Is Shot, Dies Of Wound, Brother Held Facing Murder

NEW MARKET, Ont., Jan. 30 (CP)—Held in Don jail at Toronto, 58-year-old William Foster will be brought to Newmarket Tuesday to face a charge of murdering his brother, Alex, 51, in the darkness of a woodshed behind their home near here.

No one was with them in the tiny building early Sunday when a shotgun charge ripped into the younger brother's abdomen. He died less than than five hours later after making a statement to police which they said had revealed little of the circumstances of the shooting.

The men's father and mother with whom they lived, Mr and Mrs. Albert Foster, insisted they believed the shooting accidental.

Neighbors had been visiting at the Foster home, among them Mr. and Mrs. Chesley Sweet of Holland Landing, to whose home William Foster had been invited for the night. William, the parents explained, planned to walk home from Holland Landing on Sunday, visiting his trap-lines. Hoping to shoot a rabbit on the way, he had gone to the woodshed to get his shotgun before accompanying the Sweets.

The party heard a gun discharge and when a lamp was brought to the shed door both men were lying on the floor. Mrs. Foster related. She quoted the elder son as crying to his father: "Oh dad. I don't know what happened."

The arrest was made by County Constables J. E. Jardine of nearby Queensville and Robert Watt of Newmarket.

The brothers had lived with their parents since the deaths of their wives several years ago. Alex had two adult daughters and William has 14 children, all of whom are married or working on farms. The parents have been married 59 years.

Vicar Leads Squad To Tie Tongues Of Village Gossips

IPSWICH, England, Jan. 39 (CP) — A crusade against scandal-mongering has been launched by Rev. W. Grainge White, vicar of Haughley, near here.

Following public denunciation of the village gossip, Mr. White has now organized an "anti-gossip squad," of volunteers who will undertake to "hound" the offenders by making them prove their words or to withdraw them.

"Warnings from the pulpit are not enough for they do not always reach the guilty," the vicar said.

U.S. Fighting Plane Plant Almost At War Capacity

BUFFALO, N.Y., Jan. 30 (AP)—Production in this military pursuit airplane building centre reached its highest level today since the Great War when thousands of "Jennies" and Bristol fighters were produced here.

Army orders from the United States as well as other countries during the past few weeks sent production skyrocketing toward a "wartime" basis with nearly 4,500 designers, engineers and skilled workmen being employed in two huge, closely guarded plants.

Curtiss aeroplane division of the Curtiss Wright Corporation, recipient of two large orders from France and a major builder of pursuit ships for the United States army and navy, is producing four new types of planes simultaneously. More than 3,500 men were employed.

Approximately 930 Bell aircraft employees are working on 13 Airacudas, a heavily-armed fighting-bombing plane.

Besides the Airacuda, Bell aircraft has entered the Curtiss-Seversky dominated pursuit field by submitting a radically designed pursuit ship to the army for approval.

Unfit For Trial

Britain Assures Russia Fullest Cooperation On World Affairs, To Block German Move

LONDON, Jan. 30 (CP Cable) — The British Government has given Soviet Russia fresh assurances of its willingness to co-operate in international affairs.

When presenting his credentials as His Majesty's new ambassador at Moscow, Sir William Seeds assured Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinoff of the readiness of the British Government "to exchange views on all international problems."

In view of the present European situation and charges made in this country by the left-wing parties that Russia was "cold shouldered" at Munich, this assurance has been interpreted as extremely significant.

The assurance took on added importance in view of the pending trade talks between Germany and Russia.

It is believed in some quarters that Sir William Seeds' overture was an attempt to block any move by Germany to talk Russia into neutrality in the event of any western pentration by Germany this year.

Campbell's Brother, Sister Brand As Lie, Charge He Paid Constable $350

Blamed Howard For Arrest—Just Getting Even; Convict's Prison Statement Says Officer Owed Him Nearly $1,000

TORONTO, Jan. 30 (CP).—A brother and a sister of Melville Campbell, Toronto gangster-bank robber, today branded as lies his charges that he paid, through his brother, Howard, $350 to Provincial Constable Alexander Wilson after Campbell was arrested for the robbery of the Royal Bank branch at Mount Brydges, Ont.

Evidence of Miss Olive Campbell and Howard Campbell was to the effect that Melville felt Howard had caused his arrest by visiting him at Windsor and that he was angry with Wilson because he wasn't doing enough for him.

The 79-page report of the examination of Melville Campbell at Kingston Penitentiary, permission having been refused to bring him here, was put into the evidence as Major-General Victor Williams, commissioner of Provincial Police, opened his public inquiry into Campbell's charge against Wilson, who has been suspended pending the inquiry's outcome.

The statements said that not only did Melville give his brother $350 to give to Wilson but that over a period the officer had become indebted to the criminal for nearly $1,000.

Wilson will take the stand later today and it is possible the inquiry will be concluded by tonight.

Howard's Story.

Howard Campbell said he went to Windsor October 13, the day after the bank at Mount Brydges, Ont., was robbed. He met Melville the next day in a Windsor apartment. Harold Moore and Kathleen Burns were in the apartment with Melville Campbell.

After supper, Melville and Moore left the partment. Moore was gone only 20 minutes. Later Melville came back and gave his brother $25 in one dollar bills. Howard made two trips to buy whiskey during the afternoon.

Howard said he left for Toronto at midnight Oct. 14. The $25 he received was a gift and "for money he owed me." Witness denied there were any other money transactions.

Here Mr. Hope revealed Melville's charge Howard came to him and asked for $350 for Constable Wilson. "He's telling an untruth," said Howard.

Melville asked Howard to call at a Toronto address for two guns that had been paid for.

Howard Campbell said he had not talked to Wilson since Melville made his charges. Witness wrote Wilson offering to help disprove Malcolm's charge.

Read into the evidence was a letter from Howard Campbell to his sister saying she "could tell that fellow not to worry about anything." By "that fellow" he meant Wilson.

Borrowed From Wilson.

Howard Campbell said he borrowed $5 from Wilson a day or two before he (Campbell) was married October 29. He had also at various

Blizzard Buries Chicago, Lashes Ontario

CHICAGO, Jan. 30 — (AP). — A paralyzing blizzard whipped across the southern Great Lakes states and the Ohio Valley to-day, burying Chicago under one of the heaviest snowfalls on record.

Forecaster C. A. Donnell said that if the storm continued all day at the severity prevalent in mid-morning the second largest city in the country might have snow totalling more than the existing record of 19.2 inches in March, 1931.

The storm was heaviest in Northern and Central Illinois, Northern Indiana, and Southern Michigan, but spread rapidly north-eastward into Pennsylvania and New York State.

In Chicago all public and parochial schools were ordered closed. Thousands of commuters were late to work when suburban railroad and elevated trains, street cars and buses were delayed.

Motor traffic was paralyzed. Sections of the lakefront outer drives were closed. Mounted policemen were ordered to keep their horses in the stables.

Western Areas Bear Brunt.

TORONTO, Jan. 30.—(CP). —A driving blizzard from the east, one of the worst of the winter, piled snow deep over Ontario to-day, all but paralyzing highway traffic in many districts. Street car service in Hamilton was halted and the gale's velocity along the Niagara peninsula rose at times to 50 miles an hour.

More than six inches of snow fell on Canada's sun parlor, Essex county, during an eight-hour period to-day, making roads throughout the county impassable, tying up city traffic and reducing attendance at city schools by more than half.

Weather bureau officials said a record fall was in prospect.

Automobiles were stranded on highways after a 30-mile-an-hour wind piled the snow into high drifts. The forecast called for more snow.

Mercury Falls Fast.

The storm struck after a weekend of mild weather and general thaw that left slush inches deep on rural highways and city streets throughout the province. Temperatures dropped during the night from well above freezing to nearly zero in places and the forecast for tomorrow was for continued "east to north-east gales; snow or part sleet."

The storm at Hamilton was described as one of the worst in years. So strong was the gale, driving clouds of fine snow before it, that many persons were forced to remain at home from work. Many school children were absent from school.

Bus schedules out of Hamilton were cancelled as drifts piled up over district highways faster than the snow ploughs could clear them. At 9:30 a.m. street railway service was halted after a losing fight to keep lines open. At one time three street cars, end to end, were employed in an inffectual effort to maintain a schedule.

The gale's force appeared to be concentrated on Western Ontario, though from districts east of Toronto came reports of snow. At Kingston, light snow fell during the weekend and to-day a chill north wind caused residents to shiver. Ottawa was clear with temperatures 10 above zero.

Sleet and rain were reported from parts of Northern Ontario.

Suspect Firebug In Havelock Box Car Fire

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, Jan. 30.—More serious consequences were narrowly averted here on Saturday evening, by the early discovery of a blazing freight car, at the west end of the Canadian Pacific Railway yards, where about 250 other cars and coaches are stored. But for the timely alarm given by James Squire, local merchant, who first noticed the flames about 10.30 p.m., it is feared that everything might have been destroyed. As it was however the only loss suffered was the partial destruction of the one car.

Evidence points strongly to the deliberate setting of the fire, and investigations are being carried out to fully ascertain its origin. Bits of greasy waste were found at the scene of the fire, which had been started just inside the door-way on the south side of the car, and on further investigation local C.P.R. employees found that all the grease and waste had been removed from two of the axle boxes on the car. This material is quite inflammable and would be an easy method of setting the fire.

This is the second occasion that fire has broken out among the cars stored in the Havelock yards. The first time was in October 1937, when nine freight cars were demolished by the blaze. Origin of that fire was never fully determined.

Much of the credit for subduing the blaze on Saturday night is due George Watson, county constable and William Copp, both of town who among the first to arrive at the scene of the fire, got the flames partially under control by throwing snow inside the car.

William Hill, night operator, on duty at the station when the alarm was given, at once ordered out an emergency train crew, who were dispatched with the yard engine to switch the remainder of the cars out of danger.
